MEMOIRS

OF.

ZEHĪR-ED-DĪN MUHAMMED BĀBUR

MEMOIRS OF ZEHĪR-ED-DĪN MUHAMMED BĀBUR

EMPEROR OF HINDUSTAN

WRITTEN BY HIMSELF, IN THE CHAGHATÁI TÜRKI

AND TRANSLATED BY

JOHN LEYDEN, Esq, MD

AND

WILLIAM ERSKINE, Esq

ANNOTATED AND REVISED BY

SIR LUCAS KING, CSI, LL.D, FSA

PROFESSOR OF ARABIC AND PERSIAN, AND LECTURER IN INDIAN HISTORY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF DUBLIN, LATE OF THE INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE

IN TWO VOLUMES

VOLUME II

HUMPHREY MILFORD OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

LONDON EDINBURGH GLABGOW COPENHAGEN NEW YORK TORONTO MELBOURNE CAPE TOWN BOMBAY CALCUTTA MADRAL SHANGHAI PEKING

CONTENTS TO VOL II

THE MEMOIRS OF BABUR, A H 912-937	PAGE 1-432
APPENDICES
A. An Account of Bābur's deliverance from imminent danger at Kirmän	433
B Hındal's adoption	435
C A plain account of the battle of Kānwāha	436
D An account of Humāyūn's illness and of Bābur's	3
self-devotion	440
E Biographies of Erskine and Leyden	448
INDEX	449
MAP	at end

THE

MEMOIRS OF BÂBUR

EVENTS OF THE YEAR A H 912

In the month of Muharrem 1 I set out for Khorasan, in Babur order to oppose the invasion of the Uzbeks, and advanced marches for by way of Ghürbend and Shibertu As Jehängir Mirza had taken some disgust and fled from the country of Ghazni, I judged it proper, for the purpose of reducing the Aimaks to order, and to prevent the disaffected from rising in revolt, a to separate from our baggage and camp-followers ın Ushter-sheher,2 (leaving Walı Khazın 3 and Doulet Kadam to guard and bring them on,) and to push forward with the great body of the army, in light array, with all practicable speed That same day we reached the fort of Zahāk Having proceeded thence by the kotal or hill pass of Gumbazek, and descended by Saekān,4 we surmounted the Dandan-shiken 5 pass, and encamped in the valley of I sent on Sultan Muhammed Duldai, and Syed Kahmerd Afzal Khāb-bīn,6 with a letter to Sultan Hussain Mirza, to inform him of my approach from Kābul

Khorasan

Jehängir Mırza havıng lagged behind his men, when he came opposite to Bāmiān, went to see it, accompanied by twenty-three b attendants On approaching the place he a as I was afraid, that if he drew the Aimāks to himself, the fomenters of trouble might seize the opportunity to promote disorder, b twenty or thirty

¹ Muharrem, A. H. 912, begins on May 24, 1506, the year in which the Khanate of Kipchak ceased, and the country was divided. The conquests of the Uzbeks in Maweralnaher and Khorasan probably derived great support from the wandering tribes, driven on that occasion from their own settlements, just as the influx of barbarians into the Roman empire, in its decline, arose from a similar cause.

² This place hes to the west of Kābul. ' [Treasurer]

⁴ Or Saeghan. These places are between Bamian and Kahmerd

Teeth breaker • The Dreamer

body too, many were made prisoners, many were slain by arrows and the sword, and others perished in the river Perhaps a thousand or fifteen hundred Uzbeks fell was a good exploit of Nasir Mirza One of his men brought us the news when we were in the valley of Kahmard

While we continued in that neighbourhood, my troops Babur adwent out to forage, and collected grain from Ghuri and vances by Dehanch In this same valley of Kahmard, I received Gurzewan letters from Syed Afzal and Sultan Muhammed Duldai, whom I had sent into Khorasan, containing intelligence of the death of Sultan Hussain Mirza Nevertheless, I continued to advance to Khorasan, from a regard to the reputation of our family, though I had also other motives for advancing Having passed through the valley of Tüb 1 and Mandaghan, and by the hill-passes2 of Balkh-ab, we ascended the hill-country of Safa Here, having learned that the Uzbeks were plundering Sin and Churyak,3 I dispatched Kāsim Beg with a body of troops to chastise the marauders He fell in with them, gave them a complete defeat, and brought back a number of their heads

As some of our men had been sent out to get information of Jehängir Mırza and the Aimäks, I remained for some days in the Ilagh 4 of the hill of Saf, waiting for their In this neighbourhood there are numbers of deer I hunted once In a few days all the Aimaks came out and ncknowledged me Though Jehängir Mirza had sent different persons to the Aimaks, and on one occasion had deputed Imad ed din Masaud to work upon them they could not be induced to go over to him, but joined me, so that at length the Mirza was compelled, from sheer necessity to leave the mountain of Sif and b to come down a I crossed the Ajar valley, came down by Tub, Mandagin, and Balkh ib, and ascended the hill of Saf

h when I left the hill of Sif,

¹ Tub hes between Ajer and the Balkh ab, or Dehash river

¹ These passes he rather more than a degree west of Kahmard. on the Balkh river

^{*} Probably Chirck on the road from the Palkh ib passes to Herit, about two degrees west from the former among the hills

^{*} Probably the same as ailal summer quarters to the valley of Pai, to meet me and make his submission As I was occupied with the troubles of Khorasān, I did not see a the Mirza, and did not care about the Aimāks Having passed by Gurzewān, Almār, Kysār, and Chichiktū, and proceeded by Ulūm Fakhr ed dīn, we reached a place called the valley of Bām in the dependence of Badghīs As the world was all in disorder, every one pillaging and usurping from another, my people took some plunder from the cultivated country, as well as from the Ils and Ulūses We imposed a contribution on the Tūrks and Aimāks of that quarter, and levied part of it—In the course of a month or two, we perhaps levied three hundred hepkin tumāns 4

The Mirzas of Khorasan unite

A few days before my arrival, a plundering detachment of the Uzbeks had been attacked in Pandeh and Maruchāk,⁵ by a light armed force sent from Khorasān by Zūlnūn Beg,⁶ and completely routed A number of the Uzbeks were slain Badīa-ez-zemān Mirza, Muzaffer Hussain Mirza, Muhammed Berendūk Birlās, and Zūlnūn Arghūn, with Shah Beg, Zūlnūn's son, having at length come to the resolution of marching against Sheibāni Khan, who was besieging Sultan Kalenjāk in Balkh, dispatched messengers to invite all the sons of Sultan Hussain Mirza to join them, and marched out of Heri in prosecution of a pay attention to

b As this country was in disorder, and its inhabitants exposed to the depredations of any one with the long arm, we thought ourselves entitled to impose

c some light cavalry from Khorasan, and Zulnun Beg's men,

¹ Gurzewan lies among the hills, at the sources of the Murghab river Almar and Chichekta lie north of the hills on the road from Balkh to Herat. The Kysar river flows about twenty miles to the east of the Murghab, and is passed on the same line of road

² [P de C has yoloum, which he translates 'pass']

² Badghīs lies to the west of north from Herūt [its capital being Baun Bāmiān, two villages adjacent to each other]

^{* [}Kepk: is a copper coin and tuman = 10,000 The tax would thus amount to three millions of copper coins]

^{&#}x27; Probably Panjdeh and Maruchak which he on the Murghab, the former on the left bank, the other on the right bank of that river, nearly a degree and a half north of Herat.

this enterprise By the time they reached Badghis, Abul Muhsin Mirza advanced from Merv, and joined them at Ibn Hussain Mirza, too, soon after Chihil-dukhteran joined them from Tun, and Kaen 1 Kupek Mirza, who was in Meshhad, though they sent to invite him, returned an unwise answer, and in a cowardly way declined coming He bore hostility to Muzaffer Mirza, and alleged, that to join him as King would be an acknowledgement of his sovereignty a Having made up his mind, he persisted in indulging this ill-timed grudge, and would not come even at this period, when all the brothers, great and small, had united, and were marching in concert, and sparing no efforts to oppose an enemy so formidable as Sheibani This refusal of his to join the confederacy, though he himself chose to put it on the footing of private pique, every one else will ascribe to cowardice Indeed, as the memory of such proceedings remains in the world, how can any man of understanding pursue such a line of conduct as, after his death, must stain his fair fame? How much better is it for every man, who has the common feeling of his nature, to push forward in a career that, when closed, may conduct him to renown and glory! The wise have well called fame a second existence. Ambassadors came also to invite me, and soon after Muhammed Berendük Birlas himself arrived. What was to hinder me from joining them? I had marched two hundred farsangs 2 for that very purpose I therefore went on along with Muhammed Beg By this time the Mirzas had advanced as far as the Murghab, where they were now encamped Monday, the 8th of the latter Jumāda, I waited on them Abul Muhsin Mirza came out half a kos to receive me When we came near each other, I on the one side dismounted, as he did on the other, after which, we advanced and embraced, and then both mounted again When we had gone on a little, and were come near the camp, Muzaffer

Nov 6, 1506 Băbur meets the Mırzas

² Eight hundred miles.

^a When Muzaffar Mırza was acknowledged as king, he said he did not see how he could present himself before him

¹ Tûn and Kāen he south west of Herr, near the lake of Sīstān

Mirza and Ibn Huss in Mirza met me. They were younger than Abul Muhsin Mirza, and ought therefore to have come out further than he did to receive me Probably their delay was owing to their last night's excess in wine, rither than to pride, and arose from the effects of their over indulgence in dissipation and pleasure, and not from any intentional slight. Muraffer Mirza having complimented me, we embraced and saluted each other on horseback I then saluted Ibn Hussain Mirza in the same way, after which, we proceeded to Badia-cz-zemān Mirza's Hall of Audience, where we alighted Here there was an excessive crowd and gathering of people. There was such i press that many persons were lifted off their feet for three or four paces together, and many who were anxious to get out on account of business or duty, were carried four or five paces in, without being able to help themselves At length, however, we reached Badia-c/-yeman Mirza's Hall of State It had been settled, that immediately on entering, I was to bow, whereupon Badia-ez-zemān Mirza was to risc up, and come forward to the extremity of the clevated platform on which he sat, where we were to embrace As soon as I entered the Hall of State I bowed, ind then without stopping, advanced to meet Badia exzemān Mirza, who rose up rather tardily to come to meet Kāsim Beg, who was keenly alive to my honour, and regarded my consequence as his own, laid hold of my girdle, and give men tug, I instantly understood him, and advancing more deliberately, we embraced on the spot that had been arranged. In this large state-tent, carpets were spread in four places. In the state tents? of Badia-er zemán Mirza, on one side of the ball, there was a porch or recess, in which the Mirza always sat A carpet was spread in it on which he sat along with Muzaffer Huss on Mirza Another carpet was spread on the right of the porch in a kind of paydion, 2 Abul Muhsin

Is introduced to Badia-ez zemăn Mirza. Mırza and myself sat on it Lower than Badīa-ez-zemān's carpet, on the left, was another carpet, on which Kāsım Sultan Uzbek, one of the Shābān Sultans, who was the Mirza's son-in-law, and father of Kāsim Hussain Sultan, sat along with Ibn Hussain Mirza On my right, but lower down than the carpet which they had spread for me, another carpet was spread, on which Jehangir Mirza and Abdal Razāk Mırza 1 were seated Muhammed Berendük Beg, Zülnün Beg, and Kāsım Beg sat on the right, a little lower than Kāsim Sultan and Ibn Hussain Mirza An entertainment was given Although it was not a Public entertain. drinking party, wine was put down along with the meat. ment. Drinking goblets of silver and gold were placed beside the food My forefathers and family had always sacredly observed the rules of Chingiz In their parties, their courts, their festivals, and their entertainments, in their sitting down and rising up, they never acted contrary to the institutions of Chingiz 2 The institutions of Chingiz certainly possessed no divine authority, so that any one should be obliged to conform to them, every man who has a good rule of conduct ought to observe it If the father has done what is wrong, the son ought to change it for what is right After dining we mounted our horses, and alighted where we had pitched our camp a shiraa kos between my army and that of the Mirzas

The second time that I came, Badia-ez-zemān Mirza Bābur ofwas not so respectful as he had been the first time I there- fended with fore sent for Muhammed Berendük Beg, and Zülnün Beg, zemän. and told them to let the Mirza know, that, though but young, yet I was of high extraction—that I had twice by force gained my paternal kingdom, Samarkand, and seated myself on its throne—and that when a prince had done what I had, in the service of our family, by opposing the foreign invader from whom all these wars and troubles arose, to show me any want of respect was certainly not quite commendable After this message was delivered to him, as he was sensible of his error, he altered his conduct,

Badia-ez-

¹ Abdal Razāk Mırza, it will be recollected, was the son of Ulugh Beg Mirza, the late king of Kābul

² Türeh c Chingiz. They are also called the Yasa Chingiz.

and showed me every mark of regard and estimation, with great good will

Enterlain ments of the Mirzes

On another occasion, when I went to Badia-ez-zemän Mirza's after noon-tide prayers, there was a drinking party The entertainment was At that time I drank no wine wonderfully elegant On their trays there was every sort of delicacy There were hababs of fowl, and of goose, and indeed dishes of every kind Badia-ez-zeman's entertainments were highly celebrated, and certainly this party was free, easy, and unconstrained During the time I remained on the banks of the Murghab, I twice or thrice was present at the Mirza's drinking parties, when it was known that I drank no wine, they did not trouble me by pressing I likewise once went to an entertainment of Muzaffer Mırza's Hassan Alı Jalair, and Mir Bader, who were in his service, were of the party When the wine began to take effect, Mir Bader began to dance, and he danced excessively well The dance was one of his own invention

Balkh sur-

Character of the Muzas

The Mirzas had wasted three or four months in marching from Heri, in uniting their troops, and assembling their strength, before they reached the Murghab Sultan Kulenjāk, meanwhile, being reduced to great distress, surrendered the fort of Balkh to the Uzbeks, who, having heard of the coalition against them, after taking Balkh, returned towards Samarkand The Mirzas, although very accomplished at the social board, or in the arrangements for a party of pleasure, and although they had a pleasing talent for conversation and society, yet possessed no knowledge whatever of the conduct of a campaign, or of warlike operations, and were perfect strangers to the arrangements for a battle, and the dangers and spirit of a soldier's life While we remained on the Murghab, news came that Hak Nazīr Chāpa, with four or five hundred men, had advanced, and was plundering the territory of Chichiktū 1 All the Mirzas met, but with all their exertions they could not contrive to detach a light party to cut up the plunderers The road between Murghab and Chichiktu

Ω

is ten farsings. I asked permission to manage the matter, but being afraid of their own reputation, they would not suffer me to move. When Sheibani Khan retreated, the year was at the close. It was therefore agreed that the Mirzas should each winter in some suitable place, and, before the beginning of the warm season assemble again in order to meet the enemy. They strongly urged me also Bibur to winter in the territory of Khorisan. But as Kabul and winter in Ghazni were places much exposed to external violence and khorasin internal confusion and as bodies of Turks, Moghuls, Aimāks, Wandering Tribes,1 Afghans, Hazāras, Ils, and Uluses, were scattered over their territory in different directions, and is the nearest road between Khorasan and Kabul, which is that by the hills, is a month's journey, even if it should not happen to be rendered impassable by snow, or any other obsticle, while the low road is forty or fifty days' murch, and as, besides all this, my newlyacquired dominions were still far from being in a settled state, it did not seem very prudent or idvisable for me to winter so far off, for the purpose of serving or obliging anybody I therefore excused myself to the Mirzas this they renewed their solicitations still more carnestly than before At last, Badia ez-zemān Mirza and Abul Muhsin Mirza, with Muzaffer Mirza, came on horseback to my quarters, and urgently besought me to stay out the winter with them I could not say No, in the face of the Mirzas, and consented to remain One reason that influenced me was, that so many kings had come to urge my stay, a second, that, in the whole habitable world, there was not such another city as Heri, and during the reign of Sultan Hussain Mirza, its beauty and elegance had been increased tenfold, nay, twentyfold, by his patronage and munificence, so that I had a very strong desire to I was therefore prevailed upon to stay Abul Muhsin Mirza went to his government of Merv Ibn Hussain Mirza also set out for Tun and Kaen, while Badīa-ez-zemān Mırza and Muzaffer Mırza returned to Heri Two or three days after, I set out for the same city

 $B\bar{u}bur$ Visita Horat Visits Lis aunts

Parties of pleasure

MEMOIRS OF BABUR by way of Chihil-dukhteran and Tash-Rabat 1 The whole of the Begums, Payandeh Sultan Begum, my father's sister, Khudijeh Begum, Apāk Begum, and the other daughters of Sultan Abūsaīd Mirza, my paternal aunts, were at this time met in the college of Sultan Hussain Mirza When I went to see them, they were all in the Mirza's mausoleum I first saluted Payandeh Sultan Begum, and embraced her, I next saluted and embraced Apāk Begum, I then went and saluted Khadijeh Begum, and embraced her I sat some time, while the readers were rending the Koran, and then rose and went to the Southern College, where Khadijeh Begum dwelt They spread repast for me After the repost, I went to Payandeh Sultan Begum's house, where I spent the night They at first pitched upon the New Garden for my residence, and accordingly I next morning went and took up my quarters m it, and stayed there one night, after which, as I did not like the place, they gave me Alı Sher Beg's house, where I stayed till I left Heri Every two or three days I went to the Bügh-c-Jehün-ürü, am order to perform the hormsh to Badia-ez-zemān Mırza

A few days after, I had an invitation from Muzaffer Mirza, who lived in the White Garden Khadijeh Begum, after the dinner was removed, carried Muzaffer Mirza and myself to a palace which Bābur Mirza had built, called Tarebkhāna in the Tarebkhāna there was a drinking party The Tarchkhana stands in the midst of a garden It is a small building of two stories, but a very delightful

- Thus is a Pass over the Tian Shan mountains, north of the Chāder Kul lake.]
- Sho was a widow of Sultan Hussain Mirza's. The salute was by bowing, literally, striking the knee, or kneeding, perhaps the old
- The Musulmans employ a set of readers, who succeed each other in reading the Koran at the tombs of their men of eminence. This reading is in some instances continued night and day. The readers
- are paid by the rent of lands, or other funds assigned for the purpose
- The world adorning garden.

 The kornish is performed to the supreme emperor alone, by making a cortain number of bows, or inclinations. Badia-ez zeman, on his father's death, was regarded as the chief prince of the house of The Pleasure house little edifice They have bestowed most pains on the upper story In the four corners of it are four apartments, and between them, and enclosed by them, is one great hall Within the four apartments are four shahneshins, or royal balconies a Every part of this hall is covered with paintings Though Bābur Mırza 1 built this palace, the paintings were executed by orders of Sultan Abūsaīd Mırza, and represent his battles and wars. In the north end of the northern balcony, two carpets 2 were placed facing each other one of them Muzaffer Mirza and I sat, on the other sat Sultan Masaüd Mırza and Jehängīr Mırza As we were guests at Muzaffer Mırza's house, Muzaffer Mırza placed me above himself, and having filled up a glass of welcome, the cupbearers in waiting began to supply all who were of the party with pure wine, which they quaffed as if it had been the water of life The party waxed warm, and the spirit mounted up to their heads. They took a fancy to make me drink too, and bring me into the same circle with Although, till that time, I had never been themselves guilty of drinking wine,3 and from never having fallen into the practice, was ignorant of the sensations it produced, yet I had a strong lurking inclination to wander in this desert,4 b and my heart was much disposed to pass the stream In my boyhood I had no wish for it, and did not know its pleasures or pains. When my father at any time asked me to drink wine, I excused myself, and abstained After my father's death, by the guardian care of Khwajeh Kazi, I remained pure and undefiled I abstained even from forbidden foods, how then was I likely to indulge in wine? Afterwards when, from the force of youthful imagination and constitutional impulse, I got a The intervening area consists of a hell provided with four balconies corresponding with the four spaces left between each of the apartments

Bābur's wish to drink wine

b to taste it in my turn,

¹ The grandson of Shahrokh, and nephew of Ulugh Beg Mirza, the King of Samarkand. Abūsaīd Mirza held Khorasān for some time after the death of the first Bābur Mirza.

^{* [}Or cushions (tūshak)]

It need hardly be remarked, that the drinking of wine is contrary to the Muhammedan law

⁴ That is, I had a great inclination to offend in this respect

a desire for wine, I had nobody about my person to myite me to gratify my wishes, may, there was not one who even suspected my secret longing for it. Though I had the appetite, therefore, it was difficult for me unsolicited as I was, to indulge such unlawful desires a It now came into my head, that as they urged me so much, and as, besides, I had come into a refined city like Heri, in which every means of heightening pleasure and gaiety was possessed in perfection, in which all the incentives and apparatus of enjoyment were combined with an invitation to indulgence, if I did not scize the present moment, I never could expect such another I therefore resolved to drink wine But it struck me, that as Badia er-reman Mirza was the eldest brother, and as I had declined receiving it from his hand, and in his house, he might now take offence b I therefore mentioned this difficulty which had occurred to me My excuse was approved of, and I was not pressed any more, at this party, to drink It was settled, however, that the next time we met at Badinez-zemān Mirza's, I should drink when pressed by the two Mirzas At this party, among the musicians, was Hafiz Han, Jalal-ed-din Mahmud, the flute-player, was also there, and the younger brother of Ghulam Shadı, Shadı Bacheh, who played on the harp 1 Hafiz Haji sung well The people of Heri sing in a low, delicate, and equable style 2 There was a singer of Jehängir Mirza's present, by name Mir Jan, a native of Samarkand, who always sang in a loud, harsh voice, and out of tune Jehängir Mirza, who was far gone, proposed that he should sing He sang accordingly, but in a dreadfully loud, rough, disagreeable tone The people of Khorasan value themselves on their politeness, many, however, turned away their ears, others knit their brows,0 but, out of respect to the Mirza, nobody ventured to stop him After the time

n it was difficult for me on my own initiative to do what I had never done before

b Add if I took it now from his younger brother's hand and in his house

c some stopped their ears, others made wry faces,

¹ Chang 2 [1. e. in tune.]

of evening prayers we went from the Tarebkhana to the new Winter-palace, which Muzaffer Mirza had built the time we reached it, Yusef Ali Gokultash, being extremely drunk, rose and dinced. He was a musical man, and danced well. After reaching this palace, the party got very merry and friendly Muzaffer Mirza gave me a sword and belt, a corslet, and a whitish Tipchak horse palace Jānak sang a Tūrki song Muzaffer Mirza had two slaves, called Kittermäh and Küchekmäh During the party, and while the company was hot with wine, they performed some indecent, scurvy tricks The party was kept up late, and did not separate till an untimely hour I remained that night in the palace where I was

Kāsım Beg, on hearing what had passed as to urging me Badia-ezto take wine, sent to remonstrate on the subject with zemān's en Zūlnūn Beg, who took the Mirzas to task, and reprimanded ment them most severely, so that they wholly laid aside any idea of urging me further to drink Badia-ez-zemān Mirza, having heard of Muzasser's entertainment to me, made a party in the Bagh-e-jehan-ara, in the Makauvi-khanch,1 and invited me Many of my young nobles and retinue were likewise invited My courtiers could not drink wine, out of respect to me If they were desirous of indulging at any time, perhaps once in a month, or forty days, they used to shut their doors, and sit down to drink, in the greatest alarm, lest they should be discovered Such were the men who were now invited On the present occasion, when by any chance they found me not attending, they would hide their goblet with their hands, and take a draught in great dread, although such precautions were altogether unnecessary, as, at a party, I allowed my people to follow the common usages, and this party I regarded as one given by my father, or elder brother They brought in branching willow trees b I do not know if they were in the natural state of the tree, or if the branches were formed artificially, but they had small twigs cut the length of the ears of a bow, and inserted between them, so that they had a very

a Add lined with lambskin.

b They made some huts

^{1 [}Magauvi Lhanah = House of Comfort.]

fanciful appearance. In the course of the party, a roast goose was put down before me. As I was ignorant of the mode of cutting it up, or carving it, I let it alone, and did not touch it. Badia-ez-zemān Mirza asked me if I did not like it. I told him frankly that I did not know how to carve it. The Mirza immediately cut up the goose, and, dividing it into small bits, placed it again before me. Badia-ez-zemān Mirza was unequalled in such kind of attentions. Towards the close of the party, he presented me with a rich enamelled dagger, a charhob, or kerchief of cloth of gold, and a Tipchāk horse.

During the twenty days that I stayed in Heri, I every day rode out to visit some new place that I had not seen before My guide and provider in these visits was Yüsef Alı Gokultüsh, who always got ready a sort of collation, in some suitable place where we stopped. In the course of these twenty days, I saw perhaps everything worthy of notice, except the Khanekah (or monastery) of Sultan Hussam Mirza I saw the Bleaching-ground,2 the garden of Alı Sher Beg, the Paper-mills, the Takht-Astanch (or Royal Throne) 3, the bridge of Gah, the Kah-dastan, the Bagh-e-nazer-gah 4, the Niamet-abad 5, the Khiaban, or public pleasure-walks at the Bleaching-ground, the Khatīrat of Sultan Ahmed Mirza, the Takht-e-safer (or Safer Palace), the Takht-e-nawai, the Takht-e-barkir, the Takht-e-Han Beg, and the Takhts of Sheikh Beha ed din Umer, and Sheikh Zein ed din, the mausoleum and tomb of Moulana Abdal Rahman Jami, the Namazgali-ea They looked very pretty

The Orientals generally have their meat dressed and brought to table, ready cut up into small pieces Gāzergāh. [The tomb of the saint Abdullah Ansārī, creeted by Gazergah. [The tomb of the saint Abdullah Ansarī, erected by Shāhrukh Mirza, contains exquisite specimens of sculpture in the best style of Oriental art. The locality, which is enlivened by gardens and running streams, is named Gazergah, and is held in high veneration by all classes.—Encyc. Brit]

³ Probably the name of a palace, though the term takht is sometimes applied to the shrine of a religious man

^{4 [}Bellevue.]

^{* 5 [}Abode of pleasure]

Mukhtār¹, the Fish-pond, the Sāk-e-Sulemān², Bulūri,³ which was originally called Abul Walīd, the Imām Fakhr⁴, the Bāgh-e-khiābān, the Colleges and Tombs of the Mirza, the College of Gauher-shād-begum,⁵ her Tomb, and her Grand Mosque, the Bāgh-e-zāghān (or Raven-Garden), the Bāgh-e-nou (or New Garden), the Bāgh-e-Zobeideh, or Zobeideh's Garden, the Akserai (or White Palace), built by Sultan Abūsaīd Mirza, which is situated close by ⁶ the Irāk-Gate, Pūrān and Suffah-e-sarendāzān (the Warrior's Seat), Chirgh Alāg ⁶ and Mīr Wāhid, the Bridge of Mālān ⁶, the Khwājeh-tāk (Khwājeh's Porch), and Bāgh-e-sefīd (White Garden), the Tareb-khāneh (Pleasure-House), the Bīgh-e-jehān-ārā ¹o, the Kūshk¹¹ and Makauvi-khāneh (or Mansion of Enjoyment), the Sūsani-khāneh (or Lily Palace), the Dwāzdeh-burj, or Twelve Towers, the Great Reservoir, on the north of the

¹ [elect chapel] ² [Solomon's column.]

² [Crystal (Palace)]

4 [Miān Fakhr ud din Muhammed Rāzi, a celebrated philosopher and theologian (1150-1210) —Beale's Biog Dict]

[Wife of Sultan Shāhrukh Mirza.]
 [Or outside, according to P de C]

⁷ I know not what is meant by Pūrān, unless it be the residence of Sheikh Pūrān, a holy man of great celebrity in Herāt

* [Hawk meadow]

• Pul 1 Mālān, or Mālān bridge, is the name of the river that passes Herāt, coming from the east There was probably some fine bridge over it, to which Bābur alludes, and whence it perhaps had its name [Mālān is another name for the Heri Rūd river, which flows past Herāt. Three miles to the south of the city this river is spanned by the Pul: Mālān, a bridge of grand proportions, but now in a state of grievous disrepair—Encyc. Brit]

10 [World adorning garden.]

"These Küshks, so frequently spoken of by Bābur, are our own Kiosks, which we have borrowed from the Chinese. Della Valle gives a correct account of them. 'Les Perses et les Turcs appellent Kusol ou Kioscl certains batimens elevez dans un jardin, ou dans quelque heu eminent, dont l'aspect est agreable, non comme une salle, ou une chambre pour y faire sa demeure et prendre son repos, mais comme une galerie pour s'y promener et diverter durant quel ques heures du jour Quoiqu'à proprement parler ce ne soient pas aussi des galeries qui doivent etre plus longues que larges, au heu que ces edifices sont de figure ronde ou quarrée, ou à plusieurs faces dans une egale proportion.'—Voyages, tome V, p 304, French translation.

Jehān-ārā, the four edifices on its four sides, the five gates of the town walls, the King's Gate, the Irāk Gite, the Firozābād Gite, the Khush ¹ Gate, and the Kipehāk Gate, the King's bizar, the Chārsū (or great Public Market), the College of Sheikh-ul-Islām, the Grand Mosque of the Kings, the Būgh-c-shaher (or City Garden), the College of Badīa-ez-zemān Mirza, which is built on the banks of the river Anjīl, Ali Sher Beg's dwelling-house, which they call Unsīa (or the Palace of Ease), his Tomb and Great Mosque, which they call Kudasīa (or the Holy), his College and Khūnekah (or monastery), which they call Khalūsīa and Akhlūsīa (or the Pure), his Baths and Hospital, which they call Safaīa and Shafaīa (the Purifying and Healthy), all these I saw in the short space that I had to spare

Rābur engaged to Maasūmeh Sultan Begum Some time before, while the country was in confusion, the younger daughter of Sultan Ahmed Mirza,² Mansūmeh Sultan Begum, had been brought into Khorasīn by her mother Habībeh Sultan Begum. One day that I went to see my Aka,³ the young princess called along with her mother and saw me. She no sooner saw me than she conceived a strong attachment, and employed persons secretly to communicate her feelings to my Aka and my Yanki I called Payandeh Sultan Begum, Akām, and Habībeh Sultan Begum, Yankāmi. After some conversation, it was agreedethat my Yanka should follow me with her daughter, and come to Kūbul

Leaves Khorasin Muhammed Berendük and Zülnün Beg had used every kind of entreaty, and exerted all their endeavours, to prevail on me to winter in Khorasan, but did not provide me with either proper quarters or suitable conveniences to enable me to do so. The winter was come, and the snow began to fall in the mountains that separated me from my dominions. I still felt considerable alarm as to the situation of things in Kābul, and yet they neither gave me a place in

- 1 [the Gate beautiful.]
- One of Băbur's paternal uncles.
- ² Payandeh Sultan Begum, the widow of Sultan Hussain Mirza.
- ' [According to P de C Aka means mother and Yanka sister in law, both words being used here as terms of endearment.]

which I could construct winter quarters for myself, nor one ready fitted up for that purpose At length, compelled by necessity, and unable to explain my real motives, I left Heri on the 8th of Shābān, under pretence of going into winter-I marched to the neighbourhood of Badghis,1 halting a day or two at every station, and then resuming my route, in order that such of my men as had gone to collect money, or who had dispersed on any other business or employment over the country, might have time to return and join me We lingered and tarried so long, that, in our second or third march after passing Langer-Mīr-Ghiās, we saw the moon of Ramzān 2 Many of those who had gone out on business or with other objects, had now come back and joined me, many did not return for twenty days or a month afterwards, when they came to me at Kābul, several stayed behind altogether, and entered into the Mirzas' service Of this last number was Sīdīm Ali Darbān,3 who remained behind, and took service with Badia-ez-zeman I had shown none of Khosrou Shah's servants such attention as him When Jehängir Mirza went off and abandoned Ghazni, I had given it to Sidim Ali, who had left his wife's brother, Dost Angū Sheikh, behind in that city, while he himself accompanied the army In truth, among all the servants of Khosrou Shah, there were no better men than Sidim Alı Darban and Muhibb Alı Korchi Sidim had an excellent temper and manners He was a man of valour in war, and was never without a party or entertainment at his house Though extremely liberal, he was careful to confine his expenses within his income, yet he always had everything necessary He had a polished manner and address, and his style of conversation and of telling a story was peculiarly agreeable He was lively, witty, and humorous His great fault was that he was addicted to pederasty He was rather heterodox in his religious opinions, and was accused of being somewhat of a double dealer Many of the charges brought against him on that

Bādghīs, or Bādkīs, 1s north east from Herāt
 This must have been about January 15 or 16, 1507 [Langar =

² [Gate keeper or concierge]

^{4 [}Armourer

head, however, were really owing to his ironical manner, vet no doubt there was some truth in the charge Badia-cz-zeman surrendered Herr to the enemy, and went to Shah Beg, Sidim Ah, in consequence of some double dealing of his between Shah Beg and the Mirza, was put to death and thrown into the river Helmand. Mulubb Ali will be mentioned bereafter

Advances by the hill country

Leaving Langer-Mir-Gluas and passing the villages on the borders of Gharjestan,2 we reached Chakheheran the time we left Langer till we came into the vicinity of Chakhcheran, at snowed meessantly The farther we advanced, the deeper was the snow. At Chakheheran the snow reached above the horses' knees Chakhcheran belonged to Zülnün Beg, Mîrak Jan Irdi was his manager there I took and paid for all Zülnün Beg's grain Two or three days after we had passed Chakhcheran, the snow became excessively deep, it reached up above the stirrups many places the horses' feet did not reach the ground, and the snow still continued to fall. When we passed Chiraghdan, the snow not only continued deep, but we did not know the road When at Langer-Mir-Ghuis, we had consulted what was the best road to return to Kabul I and some others proposed that, as it was winter, we should go by the route of Kandahar, because, though rather the longer road, it might be travelled without risk or trouble, while the hillroad was difficult and dangerous Kasım Beg, saying that that road was far about and this direct behaved very perversely, and in the end we resolved on attempting the Dangers of short road One Sultan Pashai was our guide I do not know whether it was from old age, or from his heart failing him, or from the unusual depth of the snow, but having his troops from the snow

a the road had completely disappeared

¹ [In 1507]

² [This country, according to P de C., was bounded on the west by Horat, on the east by Ghor, on the north by Merv, and on the south by Ghazni]

Babur, in returning to Kabul, pursued a route through the country of the Aimaks and Hazaras, considerably to the south of that by which he had advanced to Herät Chakheheran lies about N lat. 34° 12', and E long 66° 8'

once lost the road, he never could find it again, so as to point out the way As we had given the preference to this road, in consequence of the earnestness expressed by Kāsım Beg, he and his sons, anxious to preserve their reputation, dismounted, and, after beating down the snow, discovered a road, by which we advanced Next a day, as there was much snow, and the road was not to be found with all our exertions, we were brought to a complete stand Seeing no remedy left, we returned back to a place where there was abundance of firewood, and dispatched sixty or seventy chosen men, to return by the road we had come, and, retracing our footsteps, to find, under the higher grounds, any Hazāras or other people who might be wintering there, and to bring a guide who was able to point out the way We halted at this spot for three or four days, waiting the return of the men whom we had sent out They did indeed come back, but without having been able to find a proper guide Placing our reliance on God, therefore, and sending on Sultan Pashāi before us, we again advanced by that very road in which formerly we had been stopped and forced to return In the few days that followed, many were the difficulties and hardships that we endured, indeed, such hardships and sufferings as I have scarcely undergone at any other period of my life. It was at this time that I composed the following verses

 $(T\bar{u}rIr)$ —There is no violence or injury of fortune that I have not experienced,

This broken heart has endured them all. Alas! is there one left that I have not encountered b?

For about a week, we continued pressing down the snow, without being able to advance more than a kos or a kos and a half I myself assisted in depressing the snow Accompanied by ten or fifteen of my household, and by Kāsim Beg, his two sons Tengri Berdi and Kamber Ali, and two or three of his servants, we all dismounted, and worked in beating down the snow Every step we sank up to the middle or the breast, but we still went on c trampling it a One

b is there a grief or pain my wounded heart has not endured?

c Add for seven or eight yards down As the vigour of the person who went first was generally expended after he had advanced a few paces, he stood still, while another advanced and took his place The ten, fifteen, or twenty people who worked in trampling down the snow, next succeeded in dragging on a horse without a rider The first horse sank up to the stirrups and girths, and after advancing ten or fifteen paces, was worn out Drawing this horse aside, we brought on another, and in this way ten, fifteen, or twenty of us trampled down the snow, and contrived to bring forward the horses of all our number The rest of the troops, even our best men, and many that bore the title of Beg, without dismounting, advanced along the road that had been beaten for them, hanging down their heads. This was no time for plaguing them or employing authority Every man who possesses spirit or emulation hastens to such works of himself Continuing to advance by a track which we had beaten in the snow in this manner, we proceeded by a place named Anjukan, and in three or four days reached a khawal, or cave, called Khawāl-kūti, at the foot of the Zirrīn 1 pass That day the storm of wind was dreadful. The snow fell in such quantities," that we all expected to meet death together The men of that hill country call their caves and hollows khawal When we reached this hhawal, the storm was terribly violent. We halted at the mouth of it The snow was deep, and the path narrow, so that only one person could pass at a time. The horses too advanced with difficulty over the road that had been beaten and trampled down, and the days were at the shortest. The first of the troops reached this hawal while it was yet daylight About evening and night prayers, the troops ceased coming in, after which every man was obliged to dismount and halt where he happened to be Many men waited for morning on horseback. The hhaval seemed to be small I took a hoe, and having swept away and cleared off the snow, made for myself, at the mouth of the cave, a resting-

Reaches a cave

a That day there was such a blizzard,

¹ The Zirrin pass seems to have lain between Yake auleng and Chalheboran.

place about the size of a prayer-curpet 1. I dug down in the snow as deep as my breast, and yet did not reach the ground. This hole ifforded me some shelter from the wind. and I sat down in it. Some desired me to go into the cavern but I would not go I felt, that for me to be in a warm dwelling and in comfort while my men were in the midst of snow and drift-for me to be within, enjoying sleep and case while my followers were in trouble and distress would be inconsistent with what I owed them. and a deviation from that society in suffering that was their due. It was right, that whatever their sufferings and difficulties were, and whitever they might be obliged to undergo, I should be a sharer with them. There is a Persian proverb, that 'Death in the company of friends is a feast' I continued, therefore, to sit in the drift, in the sort of hole which I had eleared and dug out for myself, till bed-time privers, when the snow fell so fist that, as I had remained all the while sitting crouching down on my feet, I now found that four inches of snow had settled on my head, hips," and cars. That night I chight a cold in my car. About bed-time privers a party, after having surveyed the cave, reported that the I heard was very extensive, and was sufficiently large to receive all our people. As soon as I learned this, I shook off the snow that was on my head and free, and went into the cave. I sent to call in all such of the people as were at hand. A comfortable place was found within for lifty or sixty persons, such is had my citables, stewed meat, preserved flesh, or anything else in readiness produced them, and thus we escaped from the terrible cold, and snow, and drift, into a wonderfully safe, warm, and comfortable place, where we could refresh ourselves

Next morning the snow and tempest ceased. Moving Arrives at early, we trampled down the snow in the old way, and made a road We reached the Bala dabin 2 As the usual road, which is called the Zirrin kotal, or hill-pass, leads by a back.

the Zirrin

¹ The Musulmans, particularly travellers, when about to pray, spread out a small carpet, on which they make their prostrations ² Upper pass. Perhaps the top of the pass an excessively steep ascent, we did not attempt it, but proceeded by the lower valley road. Before we reached the Payan daban,1 the day closed on us. We halted in the defiles a of the valley. The cold was dreadful, and we passed that night in great distress and misery Many lost their hands and feet from the frost Kupek lost his feet, Sig unduk Turkoman his hands, and Akli his feet, from the cold of that night Is only next morning we moved down the glen-Although we knew that this was not the usual road, yet, placing our trust in God, we advanced down the valley, and descended by difficult and precipitous places. It was evening prayer before we extricated ourselves from the mouth of the valley b It was not in the memory of the oldest man, that this pass had ever been descended, when there was so much snow on the ground, nay, it was never known that anybody even conceived the idea of passing it at such a season Although for some days we endured much from the depth of the snow, yet, in the issue, it was this very circumstance which brought us to our journey's end. For, if the snow had not been so deep, how was it possible to have gone, is we did, where there was no road, marching over precipices and rayines? Had it not been for the extreme depth of the snow, the whole of our horses and camels must have sunk into the first gulf that we met with (Persian)-Livery good and evil that exists, If you mark it well, is for a blessing

Reaches lake-au leng

It was bed-time prayers when we reached Yake-auleng, The people of Yake-auleng,2 who had heard of us as we descended, carried us to their warm houses, brought out fat sheep for us, a superfluity of hay and gram for our horses, with abundance of wood and dried dung to kindle us fires To pass from the cold and snow into such a village and its warm houses, on escaping from want and suffering, to find such plenty of good bread and fat sheep as we did, is an enjoyment that can be conceived only a entrance

b reached the other end of the valley

Lower pass, or, probably the bottom of the pass.
 Yake-auleng lies about thirty miles south west from Bāmiān.

by such as have suffered similar hardships, or endured such heavy distress 1 We stayed one day at Yake-auleng to refresh and recruit the spirits and strength of our men a. after which we marched on two farsangs, and halted Next morning was the Id2 of the Ramzan We passed through Bāmiān, descended by the hotal, or hill-pass of Shibertu, and halted before reaching Jangelik The Turko- Plunders mān Hazāras had taken up their winter-quarters in the Hazīras line of my march, with their families and property, and had not the smallest intimation of my approach morning, on our march, we came among their huts, close by b their sheep-folds, two or three of which we plundered, whereupon the whole of the Hazāras, taking the alarm, abandoned their huts and property, and fled away to the hills with their children Soon afterwards information was brought from the van, that a body of them, having posted themselves right in our line of march, had stopped our people in a narrow defile, were assailing them with arrows, and effectually prevented their advance mediately on learning this I hurried forward On coming up, I found that there really was, properly speaking, no strait, but that some Hazāras had posted themselves on a projecting eminence, where they had gathered together their effects, c had taken up a position, and were making discharges of arrows on our men

 $(T\bar{u}rki)$ —They marked the distant blackening of the foe, And stood panic struck and confounded, I came up and hastened to the spot. And pressing on, exclaiming, Stand! Stand! d My aim was to make my troops alert, To fall briskly upon the foe. Having brought on my men, I placed myself behind,0 When not a man minded my orders, I had neither my coat of mail, nor horse mail, nor arms. Except only my bow f and arrows.

the fast of Ramzan

a tranquil in mind and easy at heart. b and c Omit this clause, d Forward! e in front. f quiver

¹ [This may be regarded as the fifth occasion of Bābur's deliver ance from a dangerous situation. (See vol 1, p 158, note 1)]

² About February 14, 1507 The festival on the termination of

When I stood still, all my men stood still also,
As if the fee had alain them all
'He who hims a servant, hires him for his need
That he may one day be useful in time of danger,
Not that he should stand still while his lord advance;
That he should stand at ease while his lord bears the burden of the

He who is a servant should serve in due season.

Not loiter in thy service so as not even to be seasoning to thy

At length I spurred on my horse and advanced, And driving the for before me, ascended the hill, My men, on seeing me advance, advanced also, Leaving their terror behind Pushing forward, we quickly climbed the hill, We went on without heeding their arrows, Sometimes dismounting sometimes on horseback Lirst of all came on the boldest warriors b The chemy showered down arrows from above. But marking our resolution gave way and fled We gained the top of the hill, and drove the Hazārus before us, We skipped cover the heights and hollows like deer, We cut the heads of the slain d like deer. We plundered them, we divided their property and sheep, We slew the Turkoman Hazaras. And made captives of their men and women. Those who were far off too we followed and made prisoners . We took their waves and their children

The purport of these verses is, that when the Hazāras stopped the van, on its route, our men were all rather perplexed, and halted. In this situation I came up singly II wing called out to the men who were fleeing, 'Stand' Stand!' I attempted to encourage them. Not one of them listened to me, or advanced upon the enemy, but they stood

A What is the good of such a servant ? He is no use to you. He is worth nothing

b We advanced boldly

c chased them
d We shot them with arrows

o Their notables we made prisoners

¹ That is, if the master furnish the principal part of the entertainment by being the meat, the servant ought, at least, to be the seasoning, or sauce. If the master bears the brunt of the day, the servant should lond some assistance.

scattered about in different places Although I had not put on my helmet, my horse's mail, or my armour, and had only my bow and quiver, I called out that servants were kept that they might be serviceable, and, in time of need, prove their loyalty to their master, not for the purpose of looking on while their master marched up against the after which I spurred on my horse When my men saw me making for the enemy, they followed On reaching the hill which the Hazāras occupied, our troops instantly climbed it, and, without minding the arrows which poured down on them, made their way up, partly on horseback, partly on foot As soon as the enemy saw that our men were in real earnest, they did not venture to stand their ground, but took to flight Our people pursued them up the hills, hunting them like deer or game Such property or effects as our troops could lay hold of, they brought in with them, and made the families and children of the enemy prisoners 1 We also gathered in some of their sheep, which we gave in charge to Yarek Taghai, while we proceeded forward We traversed the heights and eminences a of the hill-country, driving off the horses and sheep of the Hazāras, and brought them to Langer-Taimur-Beg, where we encamped Fourteen or fifteen of the most noted insurgents and robber chiefs of the Hazāras had fallen into our hands It was my intention to have put them to death with torture at our halting-ground, as an example and terror to all rebels and robbers, but Kasım Beg happening to meet them, was filled with unseasonable commiseration, and let them go

> To do good to the bad is the same thing As to do evil to the good Salt ground does not produce spikenard,— Do not throw away good seed on it.-

a valleys

From the Gulistan of Sadi [chapter 1, story 4]

^{&#}x27; [The text from The purport' to 'enemy prisoners' is omitted in P de C's translation This passage is merely a summary of the verses.]

The same pity was extended to the other prisoners, who were all set at liberty

Defection of Mu hammed
Hussain Mirza,
Khan Mirza proclaimed king

Bābur's plan for surprising the rebels in Kābul

While we were plundering the Turkoman Hazaras, information reached us that Muhammed Hussain Mirza Dughlet, and Sultan Sanjer Birläs, having drawn over to their interests the body of Moghuls who had stayed behind ın Kābul, had declared Khan Mırza kıng.1 were now besieging Kābul, and had spread a 1cport that Bidiā-ez-zemān Mirza and Muzaffer Mirza had seized the king, and carried him away to the fort of Ikhtiyar-ed-din at Heri, which is now known by the name of Aleh-kurghan 2 The chief persons in the fort of Kābul were Mulla Bābā Peshāgheri, Khalifeh, Muhibb Alı Körchi, Ahmed Yüsef, and Ahmed These officers had all conducted themselves well, had put the fort into a strong state of defence, and done everything to guard it At Langer-Taimur-Beg I wrote an intimation of my having arrived in this quarter, and sent it to the nobles who were in Kābul, by Muhammed Andejāni, one of Käsim Beg's servants a I arranged with them that I was to descend by the straits of Ghurbend, and to march on and take the enemy by surprise The signal of my coming was to be, that I was to kindle a blazing fire after passing Minar hill, and I enjoined them, on their side, to make a large fire in the Citadel, on the top of the Old Kiosk, which is now the Treasury, in order that we might be sure that they were aware of our approach, and while we assailed the enemy from without, they were to sally out from within, and to leave nothing undone to rout the Such were the instructions b which I dispatched Muhammed Andejāni to communicate

an ensign in Käsim Beg's service

b Add in writing

¹ Khan Mirza was Sultan Weis Mirza, the youngest son of Bābur's uncle, Sultan Mahmūd Mirza of Hissār, by a half sister of Bābur's mother, and consequently his cousin. Muhammed Hussain Mirza Dughlet had married another sister of Bābur's mother, and had been governor of Uratippa, whence he had been expelled by Sheibāni Khan.

² Eagle Castle. It was an extremely strong castle on the north of Herāt, and much used as a state prison. It is pretended that Shahrokh Mirza employed no less than seven hundred thousand men in rebuilding it.

Next morning we left Langer, and halted opposite to Ushter-sheher Mounting again before day, we descended the Pass of Ghurbend towards night, and halted near Sir-e-pul 1 Having refreshed our horses, and bathed them, we left Sir-e-pul at noon-day prayers Till we reached Tütkäwel 2 there was no snow After passing that place, the farther we went the snow was deeper Between the village of Nüh 3 and Minar the cold was so excessive, that, in the whole course of my life, I have seldom experienced I sent Ahmedi Yasawel, along with Kara Ahmed Yürchi, to the Begs in Kābul, to let them know that we had come according to our engagement, and to require them to be on the alert, and bold After surmounting the hill of Minar, we descended to the skirts of the hill, and, being rendered quite powerless from the frost, kindled fires and warmed ourselves This was not the place where we were to kindle our fires, but, being unable to stand the cold, we were obliged to kindle them to warm ourselves morning was near when we set out from the skirts of the hill of Minar Between Kabul and Minar the snow reached up to the horses' thighs Every place was covered with snow,a so that such of our people as deviated from the road were exposed to mischief b This whole distance we passed, sinking and rising again in the snow . In this way we reached Käbul undiscovered, by the appointed time Before we arrived at Bībi Māh-rūī, we saw a fire blazing in the Citadel We then knew that they were prepared When we came to Syed Kāsım's Bridge, I sent Shīrīm Taghāi, with the right wing, towards Mulla Bāba's Bridge With the centre and left wing, I advanced by way of Baba Luli, at that time, where the Bagh-e-Khalifeh now is, there was a small garden and house, which Ulugh Beg Mirza had made to a The snow reached the horses' knees and was very hard,

b found great difficulty in extricating themselves

c one after the other in single file

¹ Bridge head, a common name in these countries.

² [According to P de C this word signifies 'toll', and hence toll house.]

² [P de C has Zameh Yakhshi.]

[[]Messenger]

them

Khan Mirza

escapes

serve as a langer 1 Although its trees and wood were gone, He attacks yet its enclosure was still left. Khan Mirza had his quarters Hussam Mirza was in the Bagh-e-behisht,2 which had been made by Ulugh Beg Mirza We had got to the burying-ground near a Mulla Baba's garden, when they brought back to me, wounded and unhorsed, a party that had pushed on in advance This party, which had preceded us and had entered Khan Mirza's house, was four in number, Syed Käsım Ishık-agha, Kamber Alı Beg, Sher Kulı Karāwel Moghul, and Sultan Ahmed Moghul, who was one of Sher Kuli Moghul's followers, these four persons, as soon as they came up, without halting, entered the palace where Mirza Khan lived All was instantly in uproar and alarm Mirza mounted on horseback, galloped off, and escaped Muhammed Hussain Korbegi's younger brother, also in the service of Khan Mirza, attacked Sher Kuli Moghul, one of the four, sword in hand, and threw him down, but Sher Kuli contrived to escape while his opponent was endeavouring to cut off his head These four persons, still smarting from their sabre and arrow wounds, were brought to me as I have mentioned The alley was narrow, and our horsemen crowded into it, so that a confusion and bustle ensued Some of the enemy also collected, and though much crowded, made a stand b Our people could not get forward, and could not get back I desired some men who were near me to dismount and push on Dost Näsir, Khwajeh Muhammed Alı Kıtābdār,3 Bāba Sherzād, Shah Mahmūd, and a few others, having accordingly dismounted, advanced and assailed the enemy with their arrows The enemy were shaken and took to flight We waited a long time for the coming of our people from the fort, but they did not arrive in time for action After the enemy were defeated, they a 4dd the lane of

b Omit this sentence

¹ A langer 18 a house, in which kalenders, or the religious devotees of the Muhammedans, live in a sort of collegiate state. A caravanserai is generally connected with it, and is often the only part remaining of the establishment. [As alms are generally distributed to the poor by the monks of the langer, it often connotes an alms house.

² Garden of Heaven

³ [Librarian.]

began to drop in by ones and twos. Before we reached the Char-bagh, in which Khan Mirza's quarters had been Ahmed Yüsef and Sved Yüsef joined me from the fort, and we entered the garden that he had left. On finding that Khan Mirza had escaped, we instantly left it Yüsef was belind me when at the gate of the Char-bagh, as I was coming out Dost Sirpuli Piadeh,1 a man to whom I had shown particular marks of favour in Kabul, on account of his valour and whom I had left in the office of hotical.2 advanced with a naked sword in his hand, and made at me I had on my stuffed waisteo it a but had not put on my platemail I had also omitted to put on my helmet. Although I called out to him 'Ho, Dost 'Ho Dost !' and spoke to him, and though Ahmed Yüsef also called out, whether it was that the cold and snow had affected him or whether he was hurried away by a confusion of ideas arising from the bustle of fight, he did not know me, and without stopping let fall a blow on my bare arm. The grace of God was conspicuous, it did not hurt a single hair

Babur in danger

However the sword of man may strike, b It injures not a single vein, without the will of God

I had repeated a prayer, by virtue of which it was that Almights God averted my danger, and removed from me the risk to which I was exposed It was as follows (Arabic)-'O my God! Thou art my Creator, except Thee there is no His prayer God On Thee do I repose my trust, Thou art the Lord of the mighty throne. What God wills comes to pass, and what He does not will, comes not to pass, and there is no power nor strength but through the High and Exalted God, and of a truth, in all things God is Almighty, and verily He comprehends all things by His knowledge, and has taken account of everything O my Creator ! as I sincerely trust in Thee, do Thou seize by the forelock all evil proceeding a rendered me unrecognizable,

h Although a sword may convulse the world.

^{1 [}Foot soldier]

² The kotwāl 18 a Superintendent of Police

The jibch is a sort of waistcoat quilted with cotton The gharbichch, or plate mail, are four plates of iron or other metal, made to cover the back front and sides.

from within myself, and all evil coming from without, and all evil proceeding from every man who can be the occasion of evil, and all such evil as can proceed from any living thing, and remove them far from me, since, of a truth, thou art the Lord of the evalted throne "

He at tempts to scizê Mu hammed Hussain Mirza

Proceeding thence, I went to the Bagh-e-behisht, where Muhammed Hussain Mirza resided, but he had fled, and had escaped and hid himself. In a breach in the wall of the Bägheheh (or Little Garden), in which Muhammed Hussain Mirza had resided, seven or eight archers kept their post I galloped and spurred my horse at them, they durst not stand, but ran off I came up with one of them, and cut him down He went spinning off in such a way, that I imagined his head had been severed from his body, and passed on The person whom I had hit was Tülik Gokultüsh, the foster brother of Khan Mirza. I struck him on the arm a Just as I had reached the door of Muhammed Hussain Mirza's house, there was a Moghul sitting on the terrace, who had been in my service, and I recognized him fitted an arrow to his bow, and aimed at me b A cry rose on all sides, 'That is the King!' he turned from his aim, discharged the arrow, and ran off As the time for shooting was gone by, and as the Mirza and his officers had fled away or were prisoners, what purpose was to be answered by his shooting? While I was at this palace, Sultan Sanjer Birlas, whom I had distinguished by favours, and to whom I had given the Tuman of Nangenhar, but who had nevertheless engaged in this rebellion, was taken, and dragged before me with a rope round his neck Being in great agitation he called out, 'What fault have I done?' 'Is there a greater crime than for a man of note like you to associate and conspire with insurgents and rebels?' As Shah Begum, the mother of my maternal uncle the Khan, was his sister's daughter c b Add full at my face from a very short distance c As he was the son of the sister of Shah Begum, the mother of the Khan, my grandfather,

¹ Shah Begum was one of the wives of Yunis Khan, the maternal grandfather of Babur, and was the mother of Sultan Nigar Khanum, who was Khan Mirza's mother

I ordered them not to drop him in this shaneful was along the ground, but spored he life, and did him no more harm

Leiving this place I directed Ahmed Kismi Kalibur who was one of the charls that had been in the fort, to music Klein Mirza with a body of froms. Close by the Bigh ebehisht, Shah Bernin and the Ish minn "dwelt in palaces which they had themselves erected. On leaving the palme ? I went to visit Shah Begun and the Isleman - The town speople and the rabble of the place had taken to their club. and were making a rick. They were enter to Liv hold of men in corners to plunder property and profit by the confurion. I therefore engineed parties in different place, to classise and disperse them and to drive them away. Shah Begun and the Khamm were sitting together in the same house. I alighted where I had always done and went up and siluted them with the same respect and form as I had been accustomed to use. Shah Begum and the Khanum were out of all measure darmed confounded dismaxed and ashamed. They could neither stammer out an excuse nor in it is the inquiries which politeness required. It was not my wish that they should feel unersy. Not the faction which had been guilty of such excesses was composed of persons who beyond all doubt were not disposed to neglect the suggestions of the Begum and the Khanum Mirza was the grandson of Shah Begum, and night and day with the Begums. If he did not pursue their advice at was in their power to have prevented his leaving them, and they could have kept him near them under their own eye several occasions too, when Iron adverse circumstances and ill fortune. I was separated from my country my throne my servints and dependants, I had fled to them a And it was there that

Palar visits the I-critics

b Booldes I hardly exted to receive their excuses and inquiries

¹ Garden of Paradis

^{*} The Khanum, or princes here mentioned must be either Meher Nipār Khanum the eldest sister of Bābur s mother and one of the widows of Sultan Ahmed Mira, or perhaps her youngest sister of the full blood. Khāb Nigār Khanum the wife of Muhammed Hussam Mirza. Khan Mirza was the youngest son of their sister of the half blood, Sultan Nigār Khanum, the widow soltan Mahmād Mirza.

for refuge and shelter, and my mother had also gone to them, but we experienced no sort of kindness or support Khan Mirza, my younger brother, and his mother Sultan Nigar Khanum, at that time possessed valuable and populous countries, while I and my mother had not even a single village, nor a few fowls My mother was a daughter of Yunis Khan, and I was his grandson But whether I was or not every one of that connexion who happened to come in my way was sure to benefit by it, and was treated as a relation or cousin When Shah Begum came to live with me, I bestowed on her Pamghan which is one of the most desirable places in Kābul Indeed, I never failed in my duty or service towards any of them a Sultan Said Khan, the Khan of Käshghar,2 came to me with five or six naked followers on foot. I received them like my own brothers, and gave him the Tuman of Mandrawar one of the districts of Lamghan When Shah Ismael overthrew and slew Sheibam Khan in Mery, and I passed over into Kunduz, the men of Andejan began to turn their eves towards me Several of them displaced their Daroghas, while others held their towns on my account, and sent to give me notice of their proceedings I dispatched Sultan Said Khan, with my Baburi servants and an additional reinforcement, to hold the government of my own native country of Andeign, and raised him to the rank of Khan, and, down to this moment. I have always continued to treat every man of that family, who places himself under my protection, with as much kindness as my own paternal relations, as, for example, Chin Taimür Sultan, İsan Taimür Sultan, Tukhteh Bügha Sultan, and Bāba Sultan, are at this instant with me, and I have received and treated them with more distinction and favour than my own paternal cousins. I have no intention by what I have written to reflect on any one,

a her

¹ Cousins are often familiarly called brothers in castern countries. The meaning is, Khan Mirza, whom I regarded as my younger brother, &c all that I have said is only the plain truth—and I have not mentioned it with the least design to praise myself. I have only spoken of things as they happened—In all that I have written, down to the present moment, I have in every word most serupulously followed the truth—I have spoken of occurrences precisely as they really passed. I have consequently described every good or bad act, were it of my father or elder brother just as it occurred, and have set forth the merit or demerit of every man whether friend or stranger, with the most perfect impartiality—I et the reader therefore excuse me and let not the hearer judge with too much sevents.

^{*} He also was a near relation of Yunis Khan. He married a daughter of one of Babur saunts.

^{* [}In 1510 / B, p. 303]

Leaving their palace I went to the Chār-būgh which had been occupied by Khan Mirza. On reaching it I wrote letters to different parts of the country as well as to the Aimāks and wandering tribes, announcing my victory. I then mounted my horse and entered the citadel

Muliammed Hussain Mirza after making his escape, had in his fright taken refuge in the Khanum's wardrobe, and hid himself among the carpets b Mīrini Diwāneh and some others were sent from the fort, to search the house and bring him out . On coning to the Khanum's palacegate, they made use of rough, and not very polite language They, however, discovered Muhammed Hussain Mirza hid among the carpets, and conveyed him into the citadel I behaved to him with my wonted respect, rose on his coming in, and showed no symptoms of harshness in my manner Muhammed Hussain Mirza had conducted himself in such a criminal and guilty way, and had been actively engaged in such mutinous and rebellious proceedings, that, had he been cut in pieces, or put to a painful death, he would only have met with his deserts As we were in some degree of relationship to each other, he having sons and daughters by my mother's sister, Khub Nigar Khanum, I took that circumstance into consideration, and gave him his liberty, allowing him to set out for Khorasan Yet this ungrateful, thankless man, this coward, who had been treated by me

Muhammed Hus sam Mirza taken prisoner

[&]quot; retainers.

b in some bedding

e search the houses of the Princesses, find the fugitive, and bring him to me.

with such lenity, and whose life I had spared, entirely forgetful of this benefit, abused me and se indalized my conduct to Sheib in Khan It was but a short time, however, before Sheibāni Khan put him to death, and thus sufficiently avenged me

Deliver over him who injures you to I ate. I or I ate is a servant that will avenge your quarrel

Khan Mir za also taken

Ahmed Käsim Kohbur, and the party who were sent in pursuit of Khan Mirza, overtook him among the hillocks of Kurgh-e-valuk He was unable to flee, and had neither strength nor courage enough to fight. They took him prisoner, and brought him before me. I was sitting in the old Diwänkhänch 1 (or Hall of Audience), in a portico on its north-east side, when he was brought in I said, 'Come and embrace me. From the agitation in which he was he fell twice before he could come up and make his obeisance After we had saluted I seated him at my side and spoke encouragingly to him. They brought in sherbet. I myself drank of it first, in order to reassure him, and then handed it to him. As I was still uncertain of the fidelity of a considerable part of the soldiers, the country people, the Moghuls, and Chaghatai who were yet unsettled, I sent Khan Mirza into custody at large in the house of his sisters,2 with orders to him not to leave it a, but, as the commotions and sedition of the Ils and Uluses a still continued, and as the Khan's stay in Käbul did not seem advisable, I allowed him, in the course of a few days, to proceed to Khorasan

Bābur V15118 Bārān, &c

After he had taken leave, I set out on a circuit through Bārān, Chāstūbeh, and the low grounds b of Gulbehār 4 In the spring, the country about Baran, the plain of Chastabeh and the low country of Gulbehar, is excessively

a Omit this clause

b lower slopes

c the plateau of

¹ The Albarnameh says that the voung prince was brought to Babur by the Khanum, his mother, and gives the address which she made him on the occasion. The account of this affair there given is, in several respects, inconsistent with that of Babur His mother does not appear to have been at Kābul. She had marned Uzbek Khan.

These places lie to the north of Kābul, among the hills.

pleasant. Its verdure is much superior to that of any place m Kabul It abounds with tulips of various species I once desired the different kinds to be counted and they brought me in thirty-four sorts. I wrote some verses in praise of the district

(Türli)-Its ventum and flowers mader babul, in spring a heaven Put above all, the spring of Borin and of Gulbehar, is enchanting

In this same tour I finished the ghazel which begins thus (Turly)-My heart in his a rose baid spirited with House Were there a hundred thou and prings the rose bud of my heart can never blow a

In truth, few places can be compared to these in the spring either for beauty of prospect or for the unusement of hawking this has been more particularly noticed in the summary account I have given of Kabul and Ghazur

This same year the Amirs of Bulakhshan, such as New Mir Muhammed Korchi Mubarck Shah Zobeir and Jehängir, being offended with the conduct and proceedings of Nasir Mirza, and some of his fixourites rose in insurrection. united and formed an army. After collecting their horse and foot in the plan which lies on the river Rokelich? towards Yaftel and Ragh, they advinced by way of the broken hillock grounds 2 near Khamehan 4 Nasir Mirza and those who were about him being inexperienced young men of no consideration or foresight marched towards the billocks to give the insurgents buttle, and engaged them The ground is a mixture of hill and plain. The enemy had a numerous infantry. Though several times charged by enalty they stood fast, and in their turn attacked so

rarapelled from Ba dallishin

² My poor heart, lile a resolud, is folded in ensanguined layers Can it ever become full blown at the breath of a thousand springs? b Add or for shooting birds,

^{1 [}This was Bibur's younger brother, who had been acknowledged as King of Badaklishan, and governed that country for two or three years -F B , p 229 1

² The river on which Paizābād stands, it joins the Amu from the south, rising in Kaleristan It is one of the two chief branches of the Oxus

^{1 [}Le foot hills.]

These places he south east from Kunduz spiritedly, that the Mirza's horse were unable to keep their ground, and fled The Badakhshänians having routed Nāsır Mırza, pillaged and plundered all who were connected with or dependent on him Nasir Mirza, with his routed and plundered adherents, fled by way of Ishkamish and Narīn¹ to Kila-kāi, and, going up the Surkh-āb, proceeded on to Abdareh, whence, descending by the hill-pass of Shibertū, he reached Kābul with seventy or eighty plundered and worn-out servants and followers, naked and hungry It was a striking dispensation of Providence Two or three years before, Nasır Mırza had instigated all the Ils and Ulūses to rise up and march off with him in rebellion from Kābul, had proceeded to Badakhshan put the forts in a state of defence, guarded the valleys, and indulged in the most ambitious views now he returned, ashamed and distressed at his former doings, and afflicted and distracted at his former defection. I did not show him the least symptom of displeasure, but asked him a number of questions conversed with him, and showed him marks of regard, in order to dissipate his uneasiness and embarrassment

EVENTS OF THE YEAR 9182

Bābur's fo-

I SET out from Kābul for the purpose of plundering and ray against beating up the quarters of the Ghiljis 3. By the time we the Ghiljis

¹ [Narm lies north of Ishkamish on an affluent of the Surkhab]

² This year commenced on May 13, 1507

* [The Ghilzais are a very numerous and important tribe, nomadic and pastoral in their habits, which are mostly settled in the neigh bourhood of Kalat 1 Ghilzai and Ghazni, and northwards to within ten miles of Kabul Certain sections of the tribe (known as Powin dahs), such as the Suleiman Kheyls, Kharotis, and Tarakis, move eastwards in the beginning of the cold weather through the Gumal, Tochi, and other passes, and settle on our borders (chiefly in the Derah Ismail Khan District) for the winter months. They bring their families with them as well as their camels and flocks, and to ensure their safety in passing through the country of the Border tribes, they move in large well armed bodies under the orders of a chief appointed for the purpose They import into British territory various articles of merchandise, the produce of Persia, Bokhara, Samarkand, and Afghanistan, which they dispose of to native dealers often at high prices. Raverty gives an interesting account of these Powindalis in his Notes, pp 495 et seg]

halted at Sardch, they brought me notice that a large body of Mahmands,1 quite unaware of our approach, were lying at Masht and Sihkaneh, which are about a farsang from Sardeh The Amirs, and men who accompanied me, were eager to be allowed to fall upon these Mahmands I answered, 'Would it be right, while the object of the expedition on which we were bent is still unaccomplished, to turn out of our way to chastise and injure our own subjects? cannot be ' Leaving Sardeh, we crossed the dasht of Kuttehwaz by night The night was dark, and the ground uneven a We could see neither hill nor hillock, nor any trace of a road or passage Nobody was able to guide us At last I myself led the way I had passed once or twice before through this ground, and, trusting to my recollection of it, I advanced, keeping the pole star on my right hand Almighty God was propitious, and we came right on Kiaktū, and the stream of Ulābātū, towards the place where the Ghiljis were lying, called Khwajeh Ismacl Sirītī The road passes over the stream, we halted in the hollow in which the stream flows, rested and refreshed ourselves and our horses for an hour, and having slept b and taken breath, towards morning we set out again. The sun was up before we emerged from these hills and knolls,c and reached the dasht From thence, a good farsang from the Ghilu camp, we observed a blackness, which was either owing to the Ghiljis being in motion, or to smoke The young and inexperienced men of the army a all set forward full speed, I a a level plain stretched in front of us.

b Omit for an hour and after slept add a little

o mountain slopes and foot-hills,

d The soldiers, whether from sheer wilfulness or the ardour of youth,

¹ [According to Raverty (Notes, pp 121-2) the Mahmands are one of the five Afghan tribes constituting the Ghwārī sept They are divided into two sections—the Eastern, which dwell on the borders of the Peshawar District, and the Western, whose territory lies on the north of the Kabul river, and extends from the Khaibar to the Kunar boundary]

Sihkāneh lies south east of Shorkach, and near Kharbīn. Sardeh is about twenty five or thirty miles south of Ghazni.

² The dasht [or plain] of Kattehwaz is to the south of Ghazni.

followed them for two kos, shooting arrows at their horses, a and at length checked their speed. When five or six thousand men set out on a pillaging party, it is extremely difficult to maintain discipline The Almighty directed everything favourably Our people stopped When we had got about a shiraa kos from the enemy, we saw the blackness occasioned by the encampment of the Afghans, and sent on the pillagers In this foray we took a number of sheep. I had never seen so many taken at any other time While we were dismounted, and employed in collecting the property and spoil,b the enemy gathered in troops all around, descended into the plain, and provoked us to fight Some of the Begs and men c having gone out, surrounded and took one body of them whole and entire, and put every man of them to the Näsir Mirza attacked another body of them, and entirely cut them to pieces A minarct of skulls was erected of the heads of these Afghans Dost Prādeh, the hotwal, whose name has been already noticed, was wounded in the leg by an arrow, and died by the time we reached Kābul

Marching back from Khwājeh Ismāel, we halted at Ulābātū Here some of my Begs and officers were directed to go and separate the fifth of the spoil ¹ Kāsim Beg, and some others, as a mark of favour, had not the fifth taken from them. The fifth so taken was returned at sixteen thousand sheep, so that the spoil amounted to eighty thousand, and, making allowance for losses and for the fifths not demanded, must have amounted to a hundred thousand sheep.

Forms the hunting ring

Marching from this ground next morning, I directed the large hunting-ring to be formed by the troops in the plain of Kattehwāz,² for the purpose of the chase. The deer and gorkhars³ of this plain are always very fat, and in great plenty. A number of deer and gorkhars were enclosed in ^a Add and men, ^b sending away the cattle from our camp,

c the officers of my household

¹ [The King's perquisite]

² [The plain of Kattāwāz extends from Gwashta to within twenty miles of Ghazni.]

^{*} The gorkhar is the wild ass.

our circle and many of them were killed. During the hunt I pursued a gorkhar, and, on coming near, discharged first one arrow at it and then another, but the wounds were not such as to bring it down. Yet, in consequence of these two wounds, it ran slower than before. Spurring on my horse and getting nearer it, I bit it such a blow with my sword on the back part of the head behind its two cars. that its windpipe was cut and it fell tumbling over, its hind legs striking my stirrups. My sword cut excessively well, and it was a wonderfully fat gorkhar. Its rib might be somewhat less than a gaz in length Shirim Taghai, and some others who had seen the deer of Moghulistan, were surprised, and deel tred that, even in Moghulistan, deer so fat and large were very rarely to be met with. I killed also another gorkhar, and the deer and gorkhars in general that were killed in this hunt were very fit, but none equalled in Size the gorkhar which I have mentioned

When this forty was over I returned to Kābul and encamped. In the end of last year, Sheibim Khan had set out from Samarkand with his army, for the purpose of conquering Khorisān. Shah Mansūr Bakhshi a traitor, who held Andekhūd, sent persons to Sheibim Khan, inviting him to hasten his approach. When he came near Andekhūd, this wretch, relying on his having invited the Uzbeks, dressed himself very fine, put a plume on his head, and taking along with him a peshkesh ind a present of his choicest curiosities, issued forth. On his approach, the Uzbeks, who had no officer of rank with them, flocked round him on every side. In the twinkling of an eye they fell upon the procession, pulled away and plundered his effeminate attire, his peshkesh and his rarities, and stripped and robbed him and all his people a

Badīa-ez-zemān Mirza, Muzasser Mirza, Muhammed Berendūk Birlās, and Zūlnūn Arghūn, all lay in the vicinity of Bība Khāki³ with the army which they had collected

Irresolution of the Princes

Affairs of

Khorasan

a and scattered his followers.

Spring of 1507 Andekhûd may be about twenty five miles west of Shaberghan, and hes near the Desert

^{* [}A place east of Herāt]

They had neither made up their minds to fight, nor had they agreed to put the fort 1 in a defensible state. They had nothing in order, and had come to no final resolution, but continued lying there panie-struck, ill informed, and Muhammed Berendűk Birlűs, who was a man of sense and talent, proposed that Muzaffer Mirza and he should fortify themselves in Heri, while Badia-ez-zeman Mırza and Zülnün Beg should proceed to the hill-country in the adjoining territory, should call in to their assistance Sultan Alı Arghün from Sistän, and Shah Beg and Mukim, with their armies, from Kandahar and Zamin-dawer, so as to strengthen themselves by a junction with these chieftains, that when the troops of the Hazaras and Nukderis were once in the field, and in motion, it would be difficult for the enemy to advance into the hill-country, a and that, as they would then be harassed, and kept on the alarm by the army without, it would be quite impossible for them to act with effect against the town His advice was most judicious, and was founded on deep consideration and foresight Zülnün Arghün, though a man of courage, yet was mean, avaricious, and of very slender judgement He was a flighty, crack-brained man During the time that the brothers were joint-kings in Heri, he was Badia-ez-/cman Mirza's prime-minister and chief adviser, as has been mentioned His avarice made him unwilling that Muhammed Berendük should remain in the city He was anxious that he hunself should be left there, but this he could not accomplish A more striking proof of his wrong-headedness and derangement is, that he suffered himself to be grossly deluded and cheated, by trusting to needy flatterers and The incident occurred when he was prime minister, and in the highest trust at Heri, at which time a body of Sheikhs and Mullas came and told him, that they had discovered by their communications with the Spheres, that he was to have the appellation of Hizaber-ullah (the n that at the same time they should gather round them as many Hazāras and Nukderis as possible, and hold themselves in readiness to meet any emergency in the mountains, where it would be difficult for the enemy to advance,

Anecdote of Zülnün Beg

^{1 [1} c. Herat]

Lion of God) and was to defeat the Uzbeks Relying on this assurance and hanging this prediction? about his neck he returned thanks to God and hence it was that he paid no attention to the wise suggestions of Muhammed Berendük. did not put the fort in a defensible state, did not prepare ammunition and wirlike arms did not appoint either in idvance or pickets to get notice of the enemy's approach. nor even exercise his army or accustom it to discipline or battle-array, so as to be prepared and able to fight with readiness when the enemy came

Sheib'im Khan having passed the Murghab in the month of Muharrem 1 the first notice they had of his approach was the news of his arrival in the vicinity of Surkar. Being filled with consternation, they were unable to do any one thing that was requisite. They could neither assemble their men, nor draw up their army in battle array, every man went off to shift for himself Zülnün Arghün, infatuated by absurd flattery, as has been mentioned kept his ground at Kira Rabit igainst fifty thousand Uzbeks with a hundred or a hundred and lifty men. A great body of the enemy coming up, took him in an instant and swept on b They cut off his head as soon as he was taken

The mother, sister a haram,4 and treasures of the Mirzas Herit were in the eastle of Ikhtiyar-ed-din, which commonly goes by the name of Alch Kürghan. The Marzas reached the city late in the exeming—they slept till midnight to refresh At dawn they abandoned the place, without their horses even having thought of putting the fort in a state of defence During this interval of leisure, they took no means for carrying off their mother, sister, wives, or children, but ran away, leaving them prisoners in the hands of the Uzbeks 6 Payandch Sultan Begum, Khadiich Begum, with the a a silk kerchief

Sheib an Khan s irruption mto Khorasin

Death of Zulnūn Ber

b surrounded his force and took him without his being able to strike a blow in defence

¹ May and June 1507

^{*} Perhaps Sarakhs

² [P de C has 'clder and younger sisters'] '[1 e wives]
⁵ This strong castle lies, as has been mentioned, close to Herat on the north

⁶ It may only be necessary to add, that Badia ez zemân Mirza took refuge with Shah Ismael Safavi, who gave him Tabriz. When wives and women of Sultan Hussain Mirza, of Badīa-ezzemän Mırza, and Muzaffer Mırza, their children, infants, and whatever treasure and effects the Mirzas possessed, were all in Aleh Kürghan They had not put the fort in a sufficient posture of defence, and the troops that had been appointed to garrison it had not arrived Ashik Muham med Arghūn, the younger brother of Mazīd Beg, having fled on foot from the army, arrived at Heri and entered the eastle Alı Khan, the son of Amīr Umer Beg, Sheikh Abdallah Bekāwal, Mirza Beg Kai-Khosravi, and Mīraki Kūr Diwān, also threw themselves into the eastle On Sheibani Khan's arrival, after two or three days, the Sheikh-ūl-Islam and the chief men of the city, having made a capitulation, took the keys of the walled town, went out to meet him and surrendered the place Ashik Muhammed, however, I cld out the castle for sixteen or seventeen days longer, but a mine being run from without, near the horse-market, and fired, a tower was demolished On this the people in the castle, thinking that all was over with them, gave up all thoughts of holding out, and surrendered

Sheibāni's barsh conduct After the taking of Heri, Sheibām Khan behaved extremely ill to the children and wives of the kings, nor to them alone, he conducted himself towards everybody in a rude, unseemly, and unworthy manner, forfeiting his good name and glory for a little wretched earthly pelf. The first of Sheibām Khan's misdeeds in Heri was, that for the sake of some worldly dirt, he ordered Khadījeh Begum to be given up to Shah Mansūr Bakhshi, the catamite, to be plundered and treated as one of his meanest female slaves a Again, he gave the reverend and respected saint, Sheikh Purān, to the Moghul Abdul Wahāb to be plundered, each of his sons he gave to a different person for the same purpose. He gave the poets and authors to Mulla Banāi to be squeezed

a to be given up to the vile wretch, Shah Mansur Bakhshi, to be ill treated in various ways in order to gratify his despicable avarice

the Turkish Emperor Sclim took that place in a ii. 920 (a p 1514), he was taken prisoner and carried to Constantinople, where he died a ii. 923 (a p 1517) Muhammed Zemän Mirza, who is often mentioned in the course of Babur's transactions in Hindustan, was his son

Among the jour desprit on this subject, one tetrastich is often repeated in Khorasan

Except only Abdallah Kirkhar, to-day, There is not a poet can show the colour of money, Banai is inflamed with hopes of getting hold of the poet s cash, But he will only get hold of a kirl har ?

There was a Khan's daughter called Khanum, one of Muzaffer Mirza's haram * Sheibim Khan married her immediately on taking Heri-without being restrained by her being in an impure state. In spite of his supreme ignorance, he had the vanity to deliver lectures in explanation of the Koran to Kazi Ikhtiyar and Muhammed Mir Yüsef, who were among the most celebrated Mullas in Khorasin and Heri He also took a pen and corrected the writing and drawings of Mulla Sultan Ah, and Behzad the painter. When it any time he happened to have composed one of his dull couplets, he read it from the pulpit, hung it up in the Charsa (or Public Mirket), and levied a benevolence from the townspeople on the joyful occasion. He did know something of reading the Koran, but he was guilty of a number of stupid, absurd presumptuous, infidel words and deeds, such as I have mentioned

Ten or fifteen days after the taking of Heri, he advanced Death of from Kahdastan to the bridge of Salar, and sent his whole army, under the command of Taimur Sultan and Abid Kupek Sultan, ag unst Abul Hassin Mirza and Küpek Mirza, who were lying in Meshhad,4 quite off their guard. At one time they thought of defending Kalits, at mother time, on

Abul Has san and

There is a Persian phrase, when a man is engaged in an unprofitablo undertaking, Fir e khar khāhad girift (asini nerrum deprehendet)

a One of Muzaffer Mirza's wives was Khan zādeli Khanum.

b Add rose early, and never neglected his live Prayers,

¹ Kirkhar (asini nervus) seems to have been the nickname of some poet who was plundered

The add, or unlawful times of a woman, according to the Muhammedan law, are chiefly three,-while she is mourning the death of her husband, when menstruous, and for a certain period after her divorce.

A celebrated city of Khorasan, west from Herat.

^{*} The birth place of Nadir Shah, north of Meshhad. It stands on very strong ground.

hearing of the approach of this army, they had thoughts of giving it the slip, and of pushing on by forced marches by another road, and so falling on Sheibani Khan by surprise This was a wonderfully good idea, they could not, however, come to any resolution, and were still lying in their old quarters, when Taimur Sultan and Abid Sultan came in sight with their army, after a series of rapid marches The Mirzas, on their side, but their army in array, and marched out Abul Hassan Mirza was speedily routed Kupek Mirza, with a few men, fell on the enemy who had engaged his brother They routed him also Both of them were made prisoners. When the two brothers met they embraced, kissed each other, and took a last farewell Abul Hassan Mirza showed some dejection, a but no difference could be marked in Küpek Mirza The heads of the two Mırzas were sent to Sheibāni Khan while he was at the Bridge of Sālār

Bābur marches to Kandahār

At this time Shah Beg, and his younger brother Muhammed Mukim,1 bcmg alarmed at the progress of Sheibani Khan, sent me several ambassadors in succession, with submissive letters, to convey professions of their attachment and fidelity Mukim himself, in a letter to me, explicitly called upon me to come to his succour At a season like this, when the Uzbeks had entirely occupied the country, it did not appear to me becoming to remain idly looking on, and, after so many ambassadors and letters had been sent to invite me, I did not think it necessary to stand on the ceremony of waiting till these noblemen came b personally to pay me their compliments Having consulted with all my Amirs and best-informed counsellors, it was arranged that we should march to their assistance with our army, and that, after forming a junction with the Arghun Amirs, we might consult together, and either a signs of fear,

b there seemed to be hardly any doubt that they would come

¹ These two noblemen were the sons of Zūlnūn Beg, and, after their father's death, were in possession of Kandahār, Zamīn dāwer, and part of the hill country to the south. The former, who was a brave warner, afterwards founded an independent sovereignty (that of the Arghūns) in Sind.

march against Khorasan or follow some other course that might appear more expedient. With these intentions we set out for Kandahar At Ghazni I met Habibeh Sultan Begum, whom, as has been mentioned. I called my Yanka 1 und who had brought her daughter Maisumeh Sultan Begum, as had been settled between us at Here Khosrou Gokultāsh Sult in Kuli Chanāk and Gadai Balāl had fled from Herr to Ibn Hussam Mirza, and had afterwards left him also and gone to Abul Hassan Mirza. Finding it equally impossible to remain with him they came for the purpose of joining me and accompanied the ladies

> Passes Kalit

When we reached Kalat the merchants of Hindustan who had come to Kalat to traffic had not time to escape, as our soldiers came upon them quite unexpectedly general opinion was that at a period of confusion like the present, it was fair to plunder all such as came from a foreign I would not acquiesce in this I asked 'What offence have these merchants committed? If for the love of God we suffer these trifling things to escape, God will one day give us great and important benefits in return, as happened to us not very long ago when we were on our expedition against the Ghillis, the Mahmands with their flocks, their whole effects wives and families were within a single farsang of the army. Many urged us to fall upon them. From the same considerations that influence me now I combated that proposal, and the very next morning Almighty God from the property of the refractory Afghans the Ghilus bestowed on the army so much spoil as had never perhaps been taken in any other inroad? We encamped after passing Kalat, and merely levied something from each merchant by way of peshkesh 3

After passing Kalat, I was joined by Khan Mirza whom Is met by I had suffered to retire into Khorasan after his revolt in Kābul, and by Abdal Razāk Mirza 4 who had stayed behind

Ishan Mir

¹ [Sister in law, which includes an uncle 8 wife]

This is Kalat e Ghilu on the Tarnek, about a degree east from Kandahār in e toll or tribute]

4 Khan Mirza, it will be recollected, was the youngest son of Sultan Mahmud Mirza, one of Babur's uncles, and King of Hissar, afterwards of Samarkand, and Abdal Razāk Mirza was the son of another of them, Ulugh Beg Mirza, late King of Kābul in Khorisan when I left it. They had just escaped from The mother of the Pir Muhammed Mirza, who Kandahär was the grandson of Bahar Mirza, and the son of Jehangir Mirza, accompanied these Mirzas, and waited on me

Shah Beg refuse to surrender Kandahar

I now sent letters to Shah Beg and Mukim, informing and Mukim them that I had advanced thus far in compliance with their wishes, that, as a foreign enemy like the Uzbeks had occupied Khorasan, it was necessary, in conjunction with them, to concert such measures as might seem most advis-Immediately able and expedient for the general safety upon this, they not only desisted from writing and sending to invite me, but even a returned rude and uneivil answers One instance of their rudeness was, that in the letter which they wrote me, they b impressed the seal on the back of the letter,e in the place in which one Amir writes to another, nay, where an Amir of some rank sets his seal in writing to an inferior Amir 1 Had they not been guilty of such insolence, and returned such insulting answers, things never would have come to such an issue, as it has been said

> (Persian)—An altereation has sometimes gone so far as to overthrow an ancient family (dynasty)

> The result of their passionate and insolent conduct was, that their family, and the accumulated wealth and honours of thirty or forty years, were given to the wind

> In Shaher 1 Safa,2 one day, there was a false alarm in the I was busy all the soldiers armed and mounted bathing and purifying myself The Amirs were in great When ready I mounted, but, as the alarm was a false one, everything was soon quieted

Bābur arrives before Kandahar

Proceeding thence by successive marches, we encamped at Guzer 3 There too, in spite of all my attempts to come

- a Forgetting the letters they had written to me, and the pressing appeals for assistance they had sent me, they
 - b Shah Beg wrote me.
 - c Add and in the middle of the sheet of paper,

¹ The Persians pay great attention, in their correspondence, not only to the style, but to the kind of paper on which a letter is written, the place of signature, the place of the seal, and the situation of the address. Chardin gives some curious information on this subject

² Shaher 1 Safī lies about forty miles east of Kandahār

² The ford. This village probably stands at the passage over a river hunger and want. On coming to Khalishak most of them had gone out in various directions, some up the country and others down, to collect bullocks, sheep, and other necessaries, and were now much scattered wasting time in attempting to gather in the stragglers, we mounted for action My whole force might amount to about two thousand. but when we halted on our ground, from the numbers that had gone off in different directions on foraging parties, as has been mentioned, and who had not had time to rejoin us before the battle, when the enemy appeared I had only about a thousand men with me Though my men were few in number, yet I had been at great pains to train and exercise them in the best manner Perhaps on no other occasion had I my troops in such perfect discipline. All my household dependants 1 who could be serviceable were divided into bodies of tens and fifties, and I had appointed proper officers for each body, and had assigned to each its proper station on the right or left, so that they were all trained and perfectly informed of what they were to do, and had orders to be on the alert and active, during the fight. The right and left wings, the right and left divisions, the right and left flanks, were to charge on horseback, and were drawn up and instructed to act of themselves, without the necessity of directions from the tawaches,2 and in general the whole troops knew their proper stations, and were trained to attack those to whom they were opposed Although the terms Baranghar Ung-kūl, Ungyān, and Ung have all the same meaning, yet for the sake of distinctness, I gave the different words different senses As the right and left are called Baranghar Jawanghar (Maimench and Maisarch), and are not included in the centre, which they call Ghul, the right and left do not belong to the Ghul, in this instance, therefore, I called these separate bodies by the distinctive names of Baranghar and Jawanghar Again, as the Ghul or centre is a distinct

His order of battle

¹ The Tabineh Lhäseh are the troops that belong immediately to the prince, and who are not the retainers or dependants of any of the Begs or Chiefs.

² The tawachs were a sort of adjutants, who attended to the order of the troops, and carried orders from the general

The battle

by the name of Shah Beg, and shall hereafter be called Shah Beg, the other by his younger brother Mukim From the appearance of the Arghuns, they looked about six or seven thousand in number. There is no dispute that there were four or five thousand men in armour with them. He himself was opposed to my right wing and centre, while Mukim was opposed to the left wing. Mukim's division was much smaller than his elder brother's He made a violent attack on my left wing, where Kasim Beg was stationed with his division. During the fight, two or three messages came to me from Kasun Beg to ask succour but as the enemy opposed to me were also in great force. I was unable to detach any men to his assistance. We advanced without loss of time towards the enemy. When within bowshot they suddenly charged put my advance into confusion and forced them to fall back on the main body which having ceased shooting marched on to meet them, they on their part also gave over shooting, halted and stood still a while A person who was over against me after calling out to his men, dismounted and deliberately aimed an arrow at me I galloped up instantly to meet him, when I came ne ir him however he did not venture to stand, but mounted his horse and returned back. This man who had so dismounted was Shah Beg himself During the battle Pīri Beg Turkom'in with four or five of his brothers taking their turbins in their hands,1 left the enemy and came over to us This Piri Beg was one of those Turkomans who, when Shah Ismael vanquished the Bayander Sultans, and conquered the kıngdoms of Irak, had accompanied Abdal Bakı Mirza, Murad Beg Bayander, and the Turkoman Begs, in their flight My right wing continued to advance towards the enemy a Its farther extremity made its way forward with difficulty, sinking in the soft ground close by the place where I have since made a garden My left wing proceeded a good deal lower down than Baba Hassan Abdal, by the larger river and its streams and channels Mukim, with his dependants and adherents, was opposed to my left wing, a driving the enemy before it.

This was equivalent to an offer of submission to regain the fort of Kandahar in their flight, the former

Kandahār surrenders went off for Shal and Mastang,1 and the latter for Zamindawer, without leaving anybody in the castle able to hold it out The brothers of Ahmed Alı Terkhan, Kulı Beg Arghun,a and a number of others, with whose attachment and regard to me I was well acquainted, were in the fort A verbal communication taking place, they asked the life of their brothers, and out of favourable consideration towards them, I granted their request They opened the Mashur-gate of From a dread of the excesses which might be committed by our troops, the others were not opened Shirim Beg and Yarek Beg were appointed to guard the gate that was thrown open I myself entered with a few of my personal attendants, and ordered one or two marauders whom I met to be put to death by the athu and takeh 2 I first went to Mukim's treasury, it was in the walled town Abdal Razāk Mirza had reached it before me and alighted I gave Abdal Razāk Mırza a present from the valuables in the treasury, placed Dost Näsır Beg and Kül Bäyezid Bekäwul in charge of it, and appointed Muhammed Bakhshi as paymaster b Proceeding thence, I went to the citadel, where I placed Khwajeh Muhammed Alı and Shah Mahmüd in charge of Shah Beg's treasury I appointed Taghai Shah to be paymaster o I sent Mīram Nāsır and Maksūd Sūchi to the house of Mir Jan, who was Zülnün Beg's Diwan (or chief minister of revenue), Nasır Mırza had the squeezing Sheikh Abūsaīd Terkhān was given to Mirza Khan of him a Ahmed Ah Terkhan, a younger brother of Kuli Beg Arghun,

b and appointed Dost Nāsir Beg, Kūl Bāyazīd Bekāwul, and Muhammed Bakshi, one of the secretaries, in charge of it

c Omit this sentence and add and Taghāi Shah Bakhshi after Shah Mahmūd in the previous sentence

¹ Shāl and Mastāng he upwards of two degrees south of Kandahār, on the borders of Belūchistān Zamīn dāwer hies west of the Hel mand, below the Hazāra hills [Mastāng is the modern Quetta]

In this punishment the head of the criminal is fixed between two pieces of wood, and a very heavy log or plank of several hundred weight, raised by placing a weight on one end of it. This weight being removed, the heavy end falls down and dashes out the criminal's brains. [P de C has 'I attacked the marauders and put one or two to death' and omits 'by the atkū and tikch'] up the garrison that was in Kalat, who were servants of Mukim, and commanded by Küch Arghün and Täj-ed-din Mahmud, together with all their property and effects Kasım Beg, who was a man of judgement and foresight strongly urged me not to prolong my stay in the territory of Kandahar, and it was his urgency that made me commence my murch bick Kandahur, as has been said, I bestowed on Nasir Mirza, and, on his taking leave of mc, I set out for Kabul While we stayed in the Kand thar territory, we had not time to divide the treisure. On reaching Karabagh, we found leisure to make the division. It being difficult to count the money, we used so des to weigh and divide it. The Begs, officers, servants and household earned off on their animals whole kharwars 1 and bags of silver money, with which they loaded them as with forage a, and we reached Kabul with much wealth and plunder, and great reputation

Bībur marries Maasūmeh On my arrival at this period, I married Maasumch Sultan Begum, the daughter of Sultan Ahmed Mirza, whom I had myited from Khorasan

Sheibāni Khan be sieges Kandahār

Six or seven days afterwards, I k irried by Nisir Mirza's servants, that Sheibāni Khan had arrived, ind was blockading Kandahār. It has already been mentioned, that Mukīm had fled towards Zamīn-dāwer. He went thence, and waited on Sheibāni Khan. Shah Beg had also sent persons one after another, to invite him to their assistance, and Sheibāni Khan had in consequence advinced from Heri by the hill-country, in hopes of taking me by surprise in Kandahār, and had posted on the whole way by forced marches for that purpose. It was a foresight of the possibility of this very occurrence, that had induced Kāsim Beg, who was a man of judgement, to urge with so much carnestness my departure from Kandahār.

(Persian)—What the young man sees in a mirror, The sage can discern in a baked brick.

Bābur is

On his arrival he besieged Nāsir Mirza in Kandahār When this intelligence reached me, I sent for my Begs,

a Omit this clause.

¹ The kharwār [ass-load] is nearly seven hundred pounds weight, being a hundred Tabrīz mans and held a council. It was observed, that foreign bands and old enemics, as were the Uzbeks and Sheibim Khan, had occupied the countries so long under the dominion of the family of Taunur Beg. that of the Türks and Chighatar, who were still left on various sides, and in different quarters. some from attachment, and others from dread, had joined the Uzbeks, that I was left alone in Kabul, that the enemy was very powerful and I very weak, that I had neither the me ins of making peace, nor ability to maintain the war with them, that, in these difficult circumstances at was necessary for us to think of some place in which we might be secure, and, is matters stood, the more remote from so powerful an chemy the better. that it was advisable to make an attempt cither on the side of Badakhshan, or of Hindustan, one of which two places must be pitched upon as the object of our expedition Käsim Beg and Shirim Beg with their adherents. were for our proceeding against Badakhshān. At that time, the chief persons who still held up their heads in Badakhshan in inv force were Mubirck Shah, Zobeir, Jehängir Turkoman, and Muhammed Korchi, who had driven Nasir Mirza out of that country had never been reduced to submission by the Uzbeks and were likewise in some force b. I and a number of my chief Amus, and firmest adherents, on the other hand having preferred the plan of attacking Hindustan, Isct out in that direction, and advanced by way of Lamghan After the conquest of Kandah ir, I had bestowed Ivalit, and the country of Turnek,1 on Abdul Razāk Muza, who had accordingly been left in Kalat When the Uzbeks came and besieged Kindihar, Abdil Razak Mirza, anot finding himself in a situation to maintain Kalat, abandoned it, and rejoined He irrived just when I was setting out from Kābul, and I left him in that place 3

Hesitates which way to match

As there was no king, and none of roy il blood in B idakli-a in corners and remote parts,

b Omit this clause.

¹ The country of Tarnek lies on the river of that name [an affluent of the Helmand], which runs from Mukur towards Kandahār

² [Son of Ulugh Beg Mirza, King of Kābul]

³ [i. e. as governor]

Khan Mazzents out for Bilakh sh ar

shan, Khan Mirza, at the in tigation of Shale II gum 2 or in consequence of an understanding with her, showed a desire to try his fortune in that quarter. Taccordingly give him leave. Shift Herum accompanied Khan Mirza, ins. mother's sister, Meher Nwar Rhamum, also took a fancs to po into Badakhshān - It would have been hetter and more becoming, for her to have remained with me. I was her nearest relation. But however much I dissipled her, she continued obstinate, and also ret out for Buight han

Häbur in in her against Sept 1507

In the month of the first Jum'ela we marched from Kibul against Hindustan. We proceeded on our route by way of Bindust in Little-Kabul, on reaching Surkh Rab'it we passed Kurûl. sur by the full pass. The Afghans who inhabit between Kabul and Laughan are robbers and plunderers even in peace the times. They fervently pray to God for such times of confusion as now prevailed, but rarely do they get them. When they understood that I had ubindoned Kabul and was marching for Hindustan, their former insolence was increased tenfold. Liven the best among them were then bent on mischief, and things came to such lengths that on the morning when we marched from Jagdalik, the Afghans, through whose country we were to march such as the Khizer-khail, the Shimu khail, the Khizilehi and the Khugiani, formed the plan of obstructing our march through the Lotal or hill-pass of Jagdalik, and drew up on the hill and in consequence of his relationship to her.

Is opposed by Alphan tribes

b making a great show

1 [Khān Mirza was the son of Sultan Mahmud and grandson of Shah Begum He was acknowledged king in Badakhshan (1505) -LB, p 282] which lies to the north, beiting their drums, brandishing their swords, and raising terrific shouts by As soon as we

2 She was the eldest sister of Babur's mother, and widow of

Sultan Ahmed Mirza of Samarkand

4 The Pass of the Dry Ravine 1

² Shah Begum was the daughter of Shah Sultan Muhammed, king of Badakhshan, and the widow of Yunis Khan. Babur s maternal grandfather She was the mother of Sultan Aigar Khanum, whose son, Khan Mirza, was by Sultan Mahmud Mirza of Hissar Shah Begum was therefore the young prince's grandmother, and he probably relied for success on the interest of her family in Badakhshan had mounted, I ordered the troops to ascend the hill and attick the enemy, each in the direction nearest to him Our troops accordingly advanced, and making their way through different valleys, and by every approach that they could discover, got near them, upon which the Afghans, after standing an instant, took to flight without even shooting an arrow. After driving off the Afghans, we reached the top of the ascent One Afghan who was fleeing down the hill below me, on one side, I wounded in the arm with an irrow He and a few others were tiken and brought Some of them were impaled by way of example

We halted in the Tuman of Nangenhar, before the fort of Adinapur Till our arrival here, we had not availed ourselves of our foresight, nor fixed upon any places for our stations We had neither arranged a plan for our march, nor appointed ground for halting. We now separated the army into four divisions, who were to move about, some up the country, and others down, the we received an intelligence. It was the end of autumn. In the plants, Plandering expedition to Alishem who were thoroughly acquainted with every part of the country informed us, that up the river of the Tuman of Alisheng, the Kafers sow great quantities of rice, and that probably the troops might there be able to lay in their winter's corn Leaving the dale of Nangenhar, therefore, and pushing speedily forward, we passed Saigal, and advanced up the valley of Birain 1 The troops seized a great quantity The rice-fields were at the bottom of the hills inhabitants in general fled and escaped, but a few Kafers were killed They had posted some men in a breastwork on a commanding eminence in the valley of Birain When the Kafers fled, this party descended b rapidly from the hill, and began to annoy us with arrows Having wounded Puran, the son-in-law of Kasım Beg, they were on the point of coming up with him, and of making him prisoner, when the rest of his party made a push, put the enemy to flight, and a We b When these were coming back, the Kafers descended

¹ [This may be the Pārūn Valley in Kaferistān referred to in Raverty's Notes, p 134.1

extinated and rescued him We stayed one night in the Kufers' rice-fields, where we took a great quantity of grain, and then returned back to the camp

At this same time, Mukim's daughter, Māli-chūchak, who is now the wife of Shah Hassan, was married to Kāsim Gokultāsh, in the territory of the Tumān of Mandrāwar

As we did not find it expedient to proceed in our expedition against Hindustän, I sent back Mulla Bāba Peshāgheri with a few troops towards Kābul Marching from Mandrāwar, I proceeded by Ater and Shāwah, and continued for some days in that neighbourhood, from Ater I went on by Kuner and Nūrgil, and extimined the country From Kuner I came in a jalch (or 1aft) to the camp Before this time I had not sailed in a jalch, but I found that sort of conveyance very pleasant, and from this time forward I frequently made use of it

Shorbani Khan re tires from Isandahar, which is abandoned by Nisir Mirza

At this time Mulla Mir ik Farketi arrived from Näsir Mirza He brought the detailed news of Sheibim Khan's having taken the walled town of Kandahar, and of his retiring without having taken the citadel he also brought information, that after Sheibani Khan's retreat, Nasir Mirza had abandoned Kandahār on several accounts, and retired to Ghazni A few days after my departure, Sherbani Khan had unexpectedly appeared before Kandahar, and, as our people were not in sufficient strength to maintain the walled town, they abandoned it The enemy ran mines in various ducctions about the citadel, and made several assaults Näsir Mirza was wounded by an arrow in the neck, and the citadel was on the point of being taken. In this extremity, Muhammed Amin, Khwajeh Dost Khiwend, and Muhammed Alı Pıādeh, the cup-bearer, giving up all for lost, let themselves down over the walls, and escaped from the fort At the very moment when the place must inevitably have fallen, Sheibani Khan made some proposals for an accommodation, and hastily raised the siege The reason of his retreat was, that, when he came against Kandahār, he had sent his haram to Nirchtu 3 Some persons having revolted

¹ [Shīwah is a village in the Mīr Valley]

² These places, it will be recollected, lie on the Cheghanserai river

A strong fort to the east of Horat

m Nirchtu had taken the fort. This induced him hurriedly to patch up a sort of peace and retire

I few days afterwards though it was the middle of Baburn winter Tarrived in K7bul by way of Badir Above Badir I directed the date of the passage to be engrised on a stone a Willy Mirch wrote the inscription | Ust'id Shah Muh immed performed the stone cutter's part. I som haste it is not willout

I bestowed Glazm on Nasir Mirza - to Abdul Razāk Mirza I gave the Tum'in of Nangenhar Mandrawar, the valley of Nür Kuner and Nurgil

Till this time the family of Taimur Beg, even although on the throne had never assumed any other title than that of Mirza. At this period. I ordered that they should style me Pådshäh *

1 um s the title of Lishih

In the end of this year, on Tuesday the fourth day of the month of Zilk adeh. when the sun was in Aquarius, Humaiûn Humaiun Mouling Meshade the poet, discovered the was born 5 date of his birth in the words Sultan Humaian Khan One of the minor poets of Kābul found it in Shāh e firoz kadr 4 A few days after I give him the name of Humanun Humfifin's birth, I went for five or six days to the Charbigh, and eclebrated the festival of his nativity. Those who were Begs, and those who were not, great and small brought their offerings. Bags of silver money were he iped up. I never before saw so much white money in one place. It was every splendid feast

Hath of

^{* 4}dd in the cit idel of Kabul

¹ Abul Larl, in the short account of Bibur's reign prefixed to the Albarnameli, says, that this inscription was still to be seen in his

² The title of Padshah corresponds with that of emperor It is often used, however, merely to rignify king. It is to be observed, that Babur applies it to himself before this time and indeed in the very opening of his Memoirs, 'I became Padshah of Lerghana He probably did not use that style in his Chancers.

2 March 6, 1508

EVENTS OF THE YEAR 9141

Descriton of several officers

In the spring I surprised and plundered a body of Mahmand Afghans, in the neighbourhood of Maaber 2 A few days after we had returned from the expedition, and resumed our quarters, Küch Beg, Fakir Alı, Kerimdäd, and Baba Chihreh, formed a plan for deserting from me On discovering their intentions, I dispatched a party, who seized them below Isterghach,3 and brought them back During the life-time of Jchangir Mirza,4 too, they had frequently indulged in most improper conduct. I ordered that they should all be delivered over to punishment in the market-place They had been carried to the Gate, and the ropes were being put round their necks, for the purpose of hanging them, when Kasim Beg sent Khalifeh to me, carnestly to entreat forgiveness for their offences gratify the Beg, I gave up the capital part of their punishment, and ordered them to be cust into prison

Royolt of the Hissä ris and Moghuls The Hissäris and Kunduzis, and the Moghuls of superior rank, who had been in Khosrou Shah's service, among whom were Chilmeh Ali, Syed Shekmeh, Sher Kuli, Ikū Sālim, and others, who had been promoted and patronized by him, certain of the Chaghatāi, such as a Sultan Ali Chilmeh, Khuda Bakhsh, with their dependants, some of the Siyūndūk Turkomāns, Shah Nazer, with his adherents, amounting in all to two or three thousand good soldiers, at this very time, having consulted and conspired together, had come to a resolution to revolt. Those whom I have mentioned lay near Khwājeh Rīwāj, stretching from the valley of Sūng-Kurghān to the valley of Chālāk ⁵ Abdal a such of the Chaghatia as Khusru Shah had treated with distinction, of whom the leaders were two or tures mines south of Vaon

¹ The year of the Hijira 914 commenced on May 2, 1508

^{* [}Or 'Makar', according to P de C According to Raverty this place is near the source of the Tarnak.]

³ North of Kābul

⁴ This is the first notice taken of Jehängīr's death. He seems to have died soon after the expedition into Khorasān, Khāfi Khan says of a dysentery, or, according to Ferishta, of hard drinking.

⁵ These places he close by Kābul Khwājoh Rawāsh is in Būtkhāk, two or three miles south of Kābul

Razāk Mirza having come from Nangenhār took up his quarters in Deh-Afghan Muliibb Ali Korchi had once or twice communicated to Khalifeh and Mulla Baba some intimations of this conspiracy and assembling, myself had received some hints of its existence. I had reckoned the surmises not entitled to credit, and paid them no kind of attention. I was sitting one night at the Char-bagh in the presence-chamber after bed-time pravers. when Musa Khwaich and another person came hurriedly close up to me and whispered me that the Moghuls had beyond a doubt, formed treacherous designs. I could not be prevailed upon to believe that they had drawn Abdal Razāk Mirza into their projects and still less could I credit that their treasonable intentions were to be executed that very night. I therefore did not give that attention to the information that I ought and a moment after I set out for the haram. At that time the females of my family were in the Bägh-e-khilwat and in the Bägh-e-tür-tuhfeh When I came near the haram, all my followers of every rank and description, and even my night-guards 1 went away After their departure I went on to the city, attended only by my own people and the royal slaves. I had reached the Ditch at the Iron Gate when Khwajeh Muhammed Ali, who had just come that way from the market-place, met me, and a When I approached the haram, the pages and night guards had gone off in another direction. After their departure the commander of the guard and I proceeded towards the city. Walking along the Ditch I reached the Iron Gate, when Muhammed Alsuddenly met me, coming from the direction of the market. As for me, from the vaulted gate of the Baths.

[The events of this year conclude abruptly in the same manner in all the copies]

¹ The natish are the persons who watch by night at the prince's door

SUPPLEMENT

CONTAINING

AN ABRIDGED ACCOUNT OF BABUR'S TRANS-ACTIONS FROM THE BEGINNING OF A H 914 TO THE BEGINNING OF A H 9251

Revolt of the Moghuls

Titr Memoirs of Bäbur are once more interrupted at a very important crisis, and we are again left to glean, from various quarters, an imperfect account of the transactions It is probable that Khwajeh Muhammed Ali, that ensued who had just passed through the market-place, informed Babur that he had seen a gathering of Moghuls, and that measures were taken to seize his person. This at least is certain, that Babur escaped the impending danger, and regained his camp. The Moghuls who had been in Khosrou Shah's service were the most active agents in this conspiracy They do not appear ever to have co operated heartily with Babur, who always speaks of them and their race with strong marks of dislike and resentment? They had combined with the other men of influence mentioned in the Memoirs, and had agreed not only to raise Abdal Razāk Mirza to the throne of Kābul and Ghazni, which had been held by his father, Ulugh Beg Mirza, Bābur's uncle, but also to put him in possession of Badaklishan, Kunduz, and Khutlan, and all the territories which had formerly been held by Khosrou Shah Such were the effects produced in Babur's army by this sudden defection of so many men of eminence of different nations and tribes, that next morning he could not muster in his whole camp more than Great numbers of his followers and five hundred borse soldiers had hastily retired to Kābul, under pretence of taking care of their families 1

¹ From A. D 1508 to the beginning of January A D 1519

² Under these circumstances, it may seem one of the strangest caprices of fortune, that the empire which he founded in India should have been called, both in the country and by foreigners, the empire of the Moghuls, thus taking its name from a race that he detested. This arose not so much from his being a descendant of Chingiz Khan, as from his being a foreigner from the north, and from the age of Chingiz Khan downwards, all Tartars and Persians, in the loose colloquial language of India, seem to have been denominated Moghuls

General defection of Babur's troops

the field with a He small force

Bibur, enraged at these events, instead of retiring into the He keeps hill-country, or shutting himself up in a fortress, appears to have kept the field with his few faithful followers made several furious assaults on the army of the rebels whom he intimidated by the bravery which he displayed Bibur computes the original number of the rebels at two or three thousand men, but Ferishta relates that their number rose to twelve thousand. In this reduced state of his fortunes, he appears, for a while to have assumed the courage of despair, and to have given to the adventurous gallantry of the soldier and the champion, the place which he generally allowed the cool valour of the prince and the general to hold. He exposed himself in every rencounter, hills five and attacked the insurgents wherever they could be found On one occasion he is said to have advanced before the line, combat and challenged Abdal Razākto single combat The challenge, we are told, was declined by the prince, but five champions of the rebels having advanced in succession, and accepted it in his room, they all fell, one after another, under the sword of Babur Their names, which have been transmitted to us by Ferishta and Khāfi Khan, indicate that they were of different races They were Ali Beg Shabkur,2 Muhammed Alı Sheibūni,3 Nazer Bahader Uzbek, Yakub Beg Baburjeng, and Abdallah Safshiken His military skill, his personal strength, and his invincible spirit, scattered dismay among the bands of the enemy, who equally admired and dreaded him, and perhaps, while he seemed to be acting as an inconsiderate young soldier, he really performed the part of warriors in

¹ See the Tarīkh e Khāfi Khan, being a history of the house of Taimūr in Hindustān, vol 11, MS, and Dow's translation of Ferishta, vol. u, p 188

² [Night blind.]

² Perhaps rather Sīstānī, as in Ferishta

Recovers his donn mons Khan Mirza re duces Ba dallish in a suggestion peneral and of a hero. His enemies beging gradually to drop off, one defect succeeded to another, Abdal Razāl found death at the close of his hort reign and Bābursaw himself once more the undisputed sovereign of Kābul and Ghazai.\(^1\)

When Khosrou Shah's territories fell into the hands of Sheibing Khan, the inhabitants of Budal lishing a brave and hardy race, who inhabited a country everywhere mount in ous and in many places almost maccessible di liking the Uzbek government had flown to arms in every quarter, and a number of petty chieftains in different districts had set up for independent princes. Of all these the most powerful was Zobeir a man of no family but who by his conduct and valour, succeeded in reducing under subjection to him the greater number of the other insurgents. Ishin Mirza Babur's cousin I had ero sed from Kabul v it 913 in order to try his fortune in that quarter as B7bur has him self mentioned. His grandmother Shah Begum was the daughter of Shah Sultan Muhammed the King of Badal hshan so that the Mirza had probably some hereditary connexions in the country. His outset was not prosperous. His grandmother and Meher Nigar Khanum his nunt who followed in the rear of his army were carried off by Mirza Ababeker and Khan Mirza himself was defeated and obliged to surrender to Zobeir, who detained him in custody Finally however Yusef Ali, who had formerly been in the Mirza's service, formed a conspiracy against Zobeir, whom he assessinated, when Khan Mirza was reised to the undisputed possession of the throne of Badakhshan which he held till his death a

¹ [In the year y D 1500 two yisitors appeared at Bibur's court and claimed his protection namely, Sultan Sa id Klian, a son of the younger Khan and Mirza Haidar Dughlat. Their honourable testimony to Bābur's amiable disposition and kindly hospitality is on record, and it is interesting to note that 'the youth and bow whom he thus patronized and cherished became two of the ablest and most accomplished Princes of their age.—I'B p 205].

² Khan Mirza was, as has been mentioned the son of Sultan

 Khan Mirza was, as has been mentioned the son of Sultan Mahmüd Mirza, the king of Hissār, Khutlān and Badakhshān, and of Sultan Nigār Khanum a sister of Bābur's mother. He was consequently Bābur's cousin both by the father and mother's side His proper name was Sultan Weis Mirza.

 [In 1520]

A D 1500

In the year 916 of the Hijira, an event occurred which

Babur had no influence in producing, but which promised the most fay ourable change on his fortunes. Sheib ini Khan. after the defeat of Badia-ez-zeman and the sons of Sultan Hussain Mirza, had overrun Khorasān with a large army Some parties of his troops, in the course of their incursions, had entered and committed devastations on territories claimed by Shah Ismael, who at that time filled the Persian throne, and he had even sent an army to invade Kirman 1 Shah Ismäel, having subdued the Turkomäns in Azarbanan. had reduced under one government the various provinces of Persia to the west of the desert, which for so long a series of years had been divided into petty principalities receiving information of these aggressions, he immediately sent to Sheibām Khan ambassadors, who carried letters, remonstrating, but with great courtesy, against the aggressions which had occurred within the boundaries of his The Uzbek prince, rendered haughty by long success, returned for answer, that he did not comprehend Shah Ismāel's meaning, that, for his own part, he was a prince who held dominions by hereditary descent, but that, as for Shah Ismael, if he had suffered any diminution of his paternal possessions, it was a very easy matter to restore them entire to him, and he at the same time sent him the staff and wooden begging-dish 2 of a mendicant He added. however, that it was his intention one day to go the pilgrimage of Mekka, and that he would make a point of seeing him by the way Shah Ismael, who was descended of a celebrated dervish, and who prided himself on his descent from the holy Syed, affected to receive the taunt with patient humility He returned for answer, that if glory or shame, here or hereafter, was to be estimated by the worth or demerit of ancestors, he would never think of degrading his forefathers by any comparison with those of Sheibani Khan, that if the right of succession to a throne was decided by hereditary descent only, it was to him incomprehensible how the empire had descended through the various

A D 1510 Quarrel of Sheibāni Ahan and Shah Is māel

Their correspond-

¹ See the Tārīkh : ālam ārāī Abbās: [1616] of Mırza Sıkander, vol. 1, MS

The kachkūl is a sort of dish or ladle which mendicants hold out for receiving alms dynasties of Peshdudians, Kaiunians, and the family of Chingir, to Sheibani himself That he too intended making a pilgrimage, but it was to the tomb of the holy Imam Reza 2 at Meshhad, which might afford him an opportunity of meeting Sheibani Khan He sent him a spindle and reel. with some cotton, giving him to understand that words were a woman's weapons, that it would become him either to sit quietly in his corner, busied in some occupation that besitted him, or to come boldly into the field to meet his enemy in arms, and listen to a few words from the twotongued Zulfikar 3 'Let us then fairly try', concluded Shah Ismael, 'to which of the two the superiority belongs You will at least learn that you have not now to deal with an inexperienced boy '4

Ism tel ากรวิก Sheibāni retires to Mery.

Without losing a moment, or giving the enemy time to Shah in-vades kho- prepare for meeting him, Shah Ismael put his army in motion, and advanced through Khorasan as far as Meshhad detachments of the Uzbek army all fell back and retired to Herāt Sheibāni Khan who had just returned from an expedition into the country of the Hazaras, on hearing of Shah Ismael's arrival at Meshhad, perceiving that he was too weak to meet his enemy in the field, left Jan Wafa Mirza in Herāt, and set off with such of his troops as he could collect, to Mery Shahjehan, a station where he could receive reinforcements from his northern dominions, or from which, if necessary, he could retire across the Amu Jān Wafa was not long able to maintain himself in Herat

¹ These were different dynasties that had governed Persia and

² It is the duty of all Muhammedans to visit Mekka The Shias alone visit the shrine of Imam Reza, which is at Meshhad, in Khora san, in the territory then belonging to Sheibani Khan.

² Zulfikär was the celebrated two-bladed sword of Alı, from whom Shah Ismāel boasted his descent

In the account of this correspondence I follow Khafi Khan, corrected by Mirza Sikander, the author of the Alam-arai Abbasi Khāfi Khan and Ferishta mention the presents, which are not alluded to by the Persian writer, who probably did not choose to record incidents, the remembrance of which the reigning family, having shaken off the dervish, were not proud to recall. He men tions the pilgrimages of Mekka and Meshhad, a subject more agreeable found it necessary, very speedily, to follow Sheibani Khan Shah Ismael himself now advanced towards Mery, and sent on Dinch Muhammed with a large force to clear the way That officer was met by Jan Wafa Mirza near Takerabad a desperate action ensued, in which the Persian general fell, but Jan Wafa was defeated Sheibani Khan, unable to oppose the Persians in the field, retired into the fort of Mery He sent messengers to call all his generals in which and chieftains from beyond the Anni, most of them having hors be retired with their troops to their various governments, after the conquest of Khorisan Many desperate actions took place under the walls of Mery Shahjehan. Shah Ismael, seeing that the siege was likely to extend to great length, which would have exposed him to an attack from the whole force of Turkestan and Maweralnaher, pretended to be under the necessity of raising it. He sent to tell Sheibani Khan that he had been rather more punctual to his engagements than that prince had been, that he had performed the pilgrimage of Meshhad as he had promised while Sheibani Khan had failed to keep his appointment, that he was now under the necessity of returning home to his own dominions, but would still be extremely happy to meet him on the road. whenever he set out on his intended pilgrimage to Mckkn He then retired with all his forces from before Merv, and appeared to be measuring back his way to Irak The feint succeeded Sheibani Khan followed him with twenty-five Decisive thousand men, but had scarcely passed a river about battle ten miles from Merv, when Shah Ismael, who threw a body of horse into his rear, broke down the bridge, and fell upon him with seventeen thousand eavalry regulated valour of the Kızılbashes, or red-bonnets, the name given to the Persian soldiers, speedily prevailed Sheibani Khan was defeated, and his retreat cut off was forced to fly, attended by about five hundred men, defeated, chiefly the sons of Sultans, the heads of tribes, and men of rank, into an enclosure which had been erected for accommodating the cattle of travellers, and of the neighbouring peasants They were closely pursued, and hard pressed The enclosure had only one issue, which was that attacked 1 The author of the Alam-āraī Abbāsı says thirty thou

and slain

by the pursuers. The Khan leaped his horse over the wall of the enclosure, towards the river, but fell, and was soon overlaid, and smothered by the numbers who followed him After the battle his dead body was sought for, and was disentangled from the heap of slain by which it was covered His head was cut off, and presented to Shah Ismael, who ordered his body to be dismembered, and his limbs to be sent to different kingdoms. The skin of the head was stripped off, stuffed with hay, and sent to Sultan Bayazīd,1 the son of Sultan Muhammed Ghazi, the Turkish Emperor of Constantinople His skull, set in gold, the king used as a drinking-cup, and was proud of displaying it at great entertainments. An anecdote, illustrative of the barbarous manners of the Persians, is recorded by Mirza Sikander The Prince of Mazenderan who still held out against Shah Ismacl, had been accustomed often to repeat, that he was wholly in the interests of Sheibani Khan, and, using an idiomatic expression, that his hand was on the skirts of the Khan's garment, meaning, that he clung to him for assistance and protection A messenger from Shah Ismael, advancing into the presence of the prince while sitting in state in his court, addressed him, and said, that he never had been so fortunate as literally to have placed his hand on the hem of Sheibani Khan's garment, but that now Sheibani's hand was indeed on his, and, with these words, dashed the rigid hand of Sheibani Khan on the hem of the prince's robe, and rushing through the midst of the astonished courtiers, mounted and escaped uninjured About a thousand : Uzbeks, with a number of women of rank, and children, fell into the hands of the Persians 3

Shah Ismāel, immediately after the battle, marched to

¹ Called Bajazet by European writers

In the account of the transactions of Sheibāni Khan, and Shah Ismāel, in Khorasān, and of the subsequent battle, I follow Mirza Sikander as the most intelligent guide. Some circumstances are borrowed from Khāfi Khan, who follows Mirza Haider, the author of the Tārīlh i Rashīdi, a contemporary and well informed historian. Ferishta, whose information is here very defective, gives Sheibāni Khan an army of a hundred thousand men in the battle.

³ [The battle of Merv was fought on December 2, 1510 - EB, p. 306]

Herāt, the gates of which were opened to him He commanded the divine service in the Mosques to be celebrated according to the Shīa rites, which he had introduced into Persia, but met with great opposition from the principal men of the place Enraged at this, he put to death the chief preacher of the Great Mosque, the Sheikh-ul-Islam, who was the chief Musulman doctor and judge, with several of the most eminent divines, as a punishment for the obstinacy and contumacy with which they adhered to the old doctrines and ceremonies, and in the end found that it was a far easier matter to conquer a kingdom than to change the most insignificant religious opinions or usages of its inhabitants

Shah Ismāel occupies Kho-รักรภิท

Subsequent events

The transactions of the Uzbeks for some time after the death of Sheibāni Khan are not very distinctly detailed. Jani Beg 1 appears to have succeeded to the immediate command of the Uzbek army, and, with him, Shah Ismael soon after concluded an agreement, by which it was stipulated that the Uzbeks should all retire beyond the Amu, which was to form the boundary between them and the Persians Abdallah Khan appears to have held Bokhāra, while Taimur Khan,2 the son of Sheibani Khan, reigned in Samarkand

The defeat and death of Babur's most inveterate foe, from whom all his misfortunes had originated, and by whom he had been driven from the dominions of his forefathers, now opened to him the fairest hopes of recovering the kingdoms of his father and uncles Khan Mirza, his cousin, immediately on hearing of the death of Sheibani Khan, wrote to congratulate him on the event, and invited him into Badakhshan, and Babur having, without delay, crossed the mountains from Kābul, united his forces with A H 916 those of the Mirza 3 He was in hopes that he might have Jan 1511 carried the important fort of Hissar by a sudden attack, and for that purpose advanced across the Amu up to the walls marches against

Shawal, Jan A D

¹ [The son of Shaibāni Khan's uncle, Khwaja Muhammed Sultan -EB, p 136]

² See the Alam-ārāī Abbāsı Khāfi Khan speaks of him as descended of the great Taimur Beg

³ [Bābur's route, according to Erskme's Bābur (p 306), lay across the Abdareh Pass, and he spent the Id at Bāmiān, reaching Kunduz early in January, A D 1511]

of the place But the Uzbeks had already had leisure to recover from the first effects of the consternation into which they had been thrown by their defeat, and the Governor of Hissär, aware that it was likely to be one of the first objects of attack, had collected a body of men, and put the town in a posture of defence. Though the loss of the Uzbeks in the battle had been great, their power was by no means broken. There was no force left in Mäweralnaher from which they had anything to apprehend. It is probable that they were speedily joined by numbers of volunteers, and by some wandering tribes from the deserts beyond the Sirr. The provinces between that river and the Amu were too rich a prey to be easily abandoned by brave and needy Tartars, But fails in so that Bābur, after advancing into the vicinity of Hissär, the enterprise

so that Bābur, after advancing into the vicinity of Hissar, finding that his strength was not adequate to the attempt, was compelled to abandon the enterprise, to re-cross the Amu, and retire towards Kunduz

Shah Ismäel sends back Bi bur's sister

About this time Shah Ismāel, who appears to have been disposed to cultivate the friendship of Babur, sent back, with an honourable retinue, that prince's sister, Khanzādeli Begum, who had fallen into his hands along with the other prisoners, after the defeat of Sheibani Khan at Mcrv Begum had been left behind in Samarkand, when Babur, about ten years before, had been forced to abandon the town after defending it for five months She had been conveyed into the haram 2 of Sheibani Khan, who had by her one son, to whom he gave the kingdom of Badakhshan, but who died young, two years after this time Sheibani Khan afterwards gave her in marriage to a man of no family, and much below her station 3 She was now sent back by Shah Ismael with a conciliatory message, and Babur, who had been preparing to send an embassy of congratulation to that prince, embraced this opportunity of dispatching Khan Mirza with

¹ The Khanship of Kipchäk had terminated, the country falling under the power of Russia in 1500, only four years before, and several of the tribes had probably shifted their ground in consequence of the change

He is not said by Babur to have married her, but Khan affirms, on the authority of the Tarīkh i Rushīdi, that he did, and that he afterwards divorced her

^{* [}Savvid Hadi -- F B , p 308]

rich presents, to thank him for this proof of his friendship, to congratulate him on his victory, and, at the same time, to dispose him to lend him some support in recovering his former dominions 1

Bābur soon after made a second march towards Hissār,² Bībut, on hearing that the Uzbeks had collected a large army, the prudently retreated, his force not being adequate to sar meet them in the field, or to attempt the siege of Hissār ³ For some time he withdrew with his force into the rugged and mountainous parts of the surrounding country, whence, having watched the favourable moment of attack, he at length issued forth, defeated a body of the enemy with great slaughter, and released Sultan Mirza and Mahdi Mirza Sultan, his maternal cousins,⁴ who had fallen into their hands

Bibur again attacks His-

The embissy of Khan Mirza to Shah Ismāel had been so successful that he now returned accompanied by a detachment of Persian auxiliaries, sent by the King to the assistance of Bābur, under the command of Ahmed Sultan Safavi, a relation of the Persian monarch, of Ali Khan Istijlu, and of Shahrokh Sultan, his scal-bearer, an Afshār, by whose co-operation Bābur defeated and slew Jamshād

Bibur receives assistance from Shah Ismāel

- ¹ Ferishta, Khāfi Khan, and Bībur himself, in his Memoirs [According to EB, pp 310-11, while Bābur was awaiting the result of his application for aid, he received information that Fer ghāna had been recovered for him by Sayvid Muhammed Mirza. Shortly after this Bābur was exposed to a new danger through the treachery of the Moghul chiefs, led by Shīrīm Taghāi and Ayūb Begehik, who waited on Sultan Sa'īd Khan, son of the younger Khan, and offered him the crown—The Khan declined the offer and was nominated to the government of Ferghāna and sent to Andejān in 1511]
- ² Ferishta says towards Khozār, but that he retired on finding the Uzbeks strongly posted at Nakhsheb or Karshi.
- ¹ [According to the TR, p 243, the two armies lay encamped facing each other at Pul i sangin for a month before Babur found it prudent to retreat towards Abdarch.]
- ⁴ Tārīlh-1 Khāft Khan, but the transactions of this period are very uncertain, and, from Bābur's Memoirs, it is rather probable that he defeated Mahdi Sultan [According to the TR, quoted by Erskine (Bābur, p. 315), Hamzah Sultan and Mahdi Khan were defeated in the battle, after which they were made prisoners and executed by Bābur, who occupied Hissār A. p. 1511]
 - The Afshars are a Türki tribe celebrated in the history of Persia

Reduces Hissär, Khutlan

Sultan, and Mahmud Sultan, who had the chief authority in the country of Hissar, and gained possession of Hissar as well as of Kunduz, Khutlan, and Khozar, and so rapidly did his situation improve, that, if we may believe Ferishta, Khozar, &c. whose authority is supported by that of Khafi Khan, he now saw himself at the head of an army of sixty thousand horse

Rokhüra and Samarkand

Encouraged by this prosperous state of his affairs, he resolved to attempt the conquest of Bokhara, which, since the death of Sheibani Khan, had been held by Obeidullah Khan and his Uzbeks 1 On his approach, they abandoned the country and retired to Turkistan 2 Babur advanced up the river from Bokhara, and was soon in possession of Samarkand, as well as of the districts dependent on it, he entered it about the beginning of October 1511, as a conqueror, and the khutbeh,3 or prayer for the sovereign, was read, and the coin struck in his name

Middle of Rajeb, 🕶 a ii 917

> Having thus, for the third time, taken possession of Samarkand, he committed the government of Kābul to Näsir Mirza, and dismissed the generals of Shah Ismāel, after having amply rewarded them for their services 4

1 Obeidullah Khan, the chief of Bokhara, had fortified himself in Karshi. Babur, however, marched past it and encamped, when his scouts reported that Obeidullah had quitted Karshi, and was in full march on Bokhara. Babur accordingly pushed on by forced marches to Bokhara, driving the Uzbegs before him into the deserts of Turkistan -E B, pp 315-16]

2 Turkistan, in its extensive sense, is applied to the whole country inhabited by the Türki tribes It is, in a more limited sense, applied to the countries north of the Sirr below Tashkend, where there is also a town of the name of Turkistan. In the details of the events of this period, the author of the Alam arai Abbasi is more consistent than Forishta or Khūfi Khan

² See Ferishta and Khāfi Khan, the Indian authorities. Sikander, the Persian atthority, says that the khulbeh was read in the name of Shah Ismāel, and some circumstances render this not improbable, but it is difficult to disentangle the truths of history from the maze of Persian and Indian flattery [Sikander Munshi, in his Tarīkh : ālam ārāī Abbāsi (1616), adds that coins were also struck in Shah Ismail's name, and Sheikh Muhammed 'Ali Hazin, in his Memoirs (1741), states that Babur courted the support of this powerful monarch by giving currency to his khutbah and coin in Samarkand.—EB. p 3221

In the TR, p 246, it is stated that the Persian auxiliaries were dismissed at Bokhara 1

Bābur had now spent eight months of the succeeding winter and spring in all the enjoyments of Samarkand, when he was alarmed by the unwelcome news that an army of Uzbeks, more in number, says the historian, than ants or locusts, had collected, and were on their march for Bokhāra, under the command of Muhammed Taimur Sultan, the son of Sheibāni Khan, who, as has been already mentioned, after his father's death, had been raised by the Uzbeks to the rank of Sultan of Samarkand 2 Babur, without delay, and with very inferior force, sought them out, and falling in with them near Bokhāra, engaged them in a bloody battle,3 in which, from the inferiority of his numbers, he met with a complete defeat, and was obliged to fly back to Samarkand He soon discovered, however, that he had no chance of being able to defend himself in that capital He therefore withdrew to Hissar, whither he was followed by the Uzbek chiefs and closely blockaded In this exigency he retired into the town and suburbs, blocked up the entrance of the streets, and threw up strong defences He at the same time dispatched messengers to Balkh, to Bairam Khan Karamanlu, who was then in that neighbourhood with an army of Persians Bairam Khan instantly sent a detachment to his relief, and at their approach the Uzbeks raised the AD 1512 siege and retreated

Shah Ismael, on hearing of these events, being probably apprehensive of a new Uzbek invasion, sent Najm Sani Isfahāni, one of his principal officers, with a large force, for the protection of Khorasan This general, without orders from his sovereign,4 was wrought upon to march to the assistance of Babur, with whom having formed a junction, he enabled him to reduce first Khozār and next

Bābur joined by Najm Sānī, advances towards Bokhāra.

¹ Khāfi Khan.

Bokhāra invaded by the Uzbeks а. н 917-18, from October 1511 to the beginning of June 1512

Bābur defeated Safer A H 918 April or May 1512 Abandons Samarkand. Is besieged ın Hıssar

Siege raised

² [The Uzbegs advanced in two bodies, one under Muhammed Timur marching to attack Tashkend, while another under Obeidullah proceeded against Bokhara -E B, p 322]

³ [The battle of Kul Malek in which Obeidullah defeated Babur According to the TR, Babur's forces consisted of 40,000 men against Obeidullah's 30,000 men.]

^{4 [}According to some authorities the Shah gave Najm Sam orders to assist Bābur Naım Sanı was the Shah's Minister of Finance, and had been entrusted with the settlement of Khurasan.—EB, p 323]

Karshi A D 1513. or begin ning of 1514

Karshi, which last place was carried by storm, and Sheikhim Mirza Uzbek, with fifteen thousand men, including Uzbeks The circumstances of Massacre of and inhabitants, put to the sword this massacre disgusted Bābur, who found that he was condemned to play a subordinate part in the army that was professedly acting under his authority ardently desired to save the inhabitants of the place, who were Chaghatai Türks of his own race, and urgently besought Amir Namm to comply with his entreaties, but the unrelenting Persian was deaf to his wishes Banai the poet, one of the most eminent men of his time. who happened to be in the town, was slain during the confusion and tumult, with many Syeds and holy men, 'And from this time,' says Mirza Sikander, 'Amir Naim prospered in none of his undertakings ' After these successes the army advanced to subdue the other countries still occupied by the Uzbeks, and laid siege to Ghaidewan, which lies not far west of Bokhara, on the borders of the desert This fort was bravely defended, for four months, by Muhammed Tamur Sultan and Abusaid Sultan, who had thrown themselves into it The Uzbeks well saw that Babur's further progress would be fatal to their hopes of retaining possession of Maweralnaher, and their other rich conquests. All the Princes and Chieftains in their alliance were therefore summoned, collected their forces, formed a nunction, and marched from Bokhara, under the command of Obeidullah Khan and Jani Beg Sultan, against the invaders Muhammed Taimur Sultan, having issued from Ghajdewan, joined them in The battle, which was fought on Sunday, the field October 22, 1514,1 was long and desperate, but it was perfectly decisive. The Uzbeks gained a great victory Bairam Khan, who was the ablest general of the Kizilbashes, being wounded with an arrow and unhorsed, his fall occasioned the rout of the army. The Uzbeks by a resolute charge broke their centre The Persian Chiefs. disgusted with the haughty deportment and harsh inflexibility of Amir Naim, are said not to have afforded him

Siege of Ghaidewän

Great. battle 3nl Ramzān

No year is mentioned, but the date, Sunday the 3rd of Ramzan, can only correspond with the year 920 proper support. He fell into the hands of the Uzbeks, who put him to death. Many of the Persian officers, Defeat of flying from the field of battle,1 escaped across the Amu by the passage of Kirki and returned into Khorisan Shah Ismael, who was much dissatisfied with their conduct, commanded some of them to be served and put to death Babur is represented as having had little share in the action, and he was probably not much consulted by the haughty Persian general He saw himself once again compelled to retire to Hissar-Shadman as a fugitive, and with scarce a hope left of recovering his hereditary dominions

> Revolt of the Mochuls m

B dur.

But his misfortunes did not terminate here Some Moghul tribes had long possessed considerable power in the country about Hissar, and they had joined his party, Hissar and supported him during the former siege Babur had given them any cause of disgust, or whether the rum of his fortunes, alone had inspired their leaders with ambitious hopes of independence, does not appear?, but, at this time, a serious conspiracy was formed among them, for the purpose of destroying the remains of his army The chief leiders were Yadgar Mirza, Niver Mirza, Mir Ayūb, and Mir Muhammed, who fell upon Bābur by night, slughtered such of his followers as came in their way, and plundered and carried off whatever booty they could So unexpected was the attack, that Bibur himself Bibur with difficulty escaped into the citadel of Hiss ir in his with diffi night-clothes, not having even had time to put on his culty shoes, and so desperate had the situation of his affairs now become, that he had not a hope left of being able to revenge

1 [The Persians are said to have ascribed their defeat to the treachery of Babur, who is accused of drawing off his troops during the battle, and Humavan, when a refugee in Persia, was often taunted with the perfidy of his father In the Tarilh : Badaunt the following couplet is quoted (in Persian), which Babur is reported to have written and shot into the town tied to an arrow, to intimate his hatred of his allies

We have sacrificed the Shah for the sake of the Uzbegs, If we have done wrong (before) we have (now at any rate) cleared the road. -E B , p 326 1

[I erishta states that he gave the Moghul leaders offence by reproaching them with misconduct in the late expedition]

the affront. The power and influence of the Uzbeks daily increased, till they regained the undisputed possession of all Maweralnaher, including the country of Hissar. A famine and pestilence were added to the calamities of war, and Babur, who was shut up within the citadel of Hissar, was reduced to the last extremes of misery.

Disaffee tion to his govern ment

What diminished his ultimate chance of success was a marked disaffection to his government, which had manifested itself from Hissar to Rokharo When he first entered the country on the defeat of Sheibani Khan, the news of his approach was received with the strongest demonstrations of joy, both in the territories of Hissar and of Samarkand, and he was hailed as a deliverer But causes of mutual disgust speedily arose. As he relied much on the assistance of Shah Ismael, the King of Persia, for reconquering his dominions, in order to gratify that prince, he is said to have dressed himself and his troops in the Persian fashion, and to have issued an order that all his troops should wear a red cloth in their caps like Kizilbashes. The principal men of Samarkand and Bokhara were highly offended at this order, which, with the general distinction shown to the Persian auxiliaries, and perhaps some acts of Babur implying a dependence on the Persian king, appeared like a preparation for their becoming subjects of Persia hostility to the Persians was now increased by difference of religion. Shah Ismäel being a warm and zealous apostle of the Shia faith, while Maweralnaher, from the earliest ages of the Islam, was always famous for the orthodoxy of its doctors and inhabitants The detestation which the orthodox Sunnis of Maweralnaher then bore to the heretical Shias of Persia was certainly increased by the persecutions at Herāt. and it continues undiminished at the present hour, particularly among the Uzbeks, one of whom seldom willingly enters the territories of Persia 2 except as an

 $^{^1}$ [Bābur, shortly after this, finding it impossible to keep the field with his remaining force, left some trusty Amirs to defend Hissār and retired to Kunduz. In the same year (1514) Sultan Sa'īd Khan, who had governed Ferghana since 1511, abandoned it to Siyūnjak Sultan, the Uzbeg chief, and retired to Kāshgar, which, after the expulsion of the tyrant Abā Bakr, he ruled for many years with honour —EB, pp. 328 and 332]

² I happened to meet with a singular instance of this, while

The nobles and religious men of Samarkand and Bakhira had expressed great indignation that their soldiers should be disguised as Kirilli'shes. The usual weapons of redicule and abuse were plentifully layished on the king and his army to expose these mnovations to decision? The massiere at Karshi though it occurred in spite of Bibur's efforts to prevent it probably produced its initimal consequences. Such an execution mexitably generates alienation and hatred and unless supported by an overwhelming force, so as to keep alive feelings of terror as sure to be fat il by the detestation it produces. The contempt and hatred excited against the invaders spread in all directions and finally extended to the king and all his measures. Bibur, in the end seeing all hope of recovering. Bibur in Hissar and Samarkand totally vanished once more recrossed the Handa kash mountains attended by a few Kibal futhful followers who still adhered to his fortunes and ig imparrised in the city of Kabul." I rom this time he seems to have abundance all views? on the country of Mawerilnaher and he was 'led by divine inspirition' says the courtly Abulfarl writing in the reign of his grandson to turn his mind to the conquest of Hindustan'

despair rcturns to

But his arms were previously employed for several years. Biblies at in attempting a conquest nearer to his capital. When kanddor maling some inquiries regarding the geography of I abel Turl esting An Uzbel Mulla whom I consulted had just made the pilgrimage of McLla. On inquiring if he had passed through Persia he expressed great horror. I found that to avoid touching the soil of Persia he had kone from Bokhara to Kolan, thence to Kashkhar thence to Astrollian, whence by Krim Tartary he had mached Constantinople. He went by sea to Egypt, and joined the carman of Cairo. I saw him at Bombay, whither he had come from Jedda, after making the hay, or pilgrimage. He was preparing to return home by Delhi Lahore, and Pethaner, to avoid coming in contact with the Persian Shine

1 They insulted the ling and his troops, asling how they came to cover their heads nerves asiminis, as they decidingly called the red piece of cloth that hangs from the top of the Persian cap -See khāfi khan, vol. i. 315

* [Nier Mirza, Bibur's younger brother, who was ruler of Kübul at the time, received him with every mark of respect and welcome and resigned to him the government -L B, p 334]

His hopes were revived for a moment near the close of his life

A H. 913 A D 1507

Sheibani Khan was obliged to raise the siege of the citadel of Kandahar, to return to the rescue of his family in Nirehtu,1 Näsır Mırza, Bäbur's youngest brother, who defended the place, had been reduced to great difficulties The departure of Sheibani Khan did not much improve his situation, for Shah Beg and Mukim remained in the neighbourhood, and, in a short time, so much straitened the young prince, who, from the first, was but ill prepared for a siege, that he soon found it necessary to abandon the citadel of Kandahar, and return to the court of his brother bestowed on him the government of Ghazni, an incident mentioned among the events of the year 913 The year ın which Babur came back from Kunduz to Kabul.2 I have not discovered, but his return was probably in the course of 921 3 Of the transactions of the three following years our accounts are very imperfect. There is reason to believe that they were chiefly spent in an annual invasion of the territory of Kandahar, the forts of which were defended by Shah Beg, though he did not venture to oppose the invaders in the field

A D 1515

The fragment of Bābur's Memoirs which follows describes his first invasion of India, and also what Khāfi Khan and Ferishta regard as the second. It includes a period of only one year and a month. The Memoirs here assume the form of a journal

 1 [This was a strong fort near Herāt in the District of Badghis.— $E\ B$, p 282]

² [Ghazni was bestowed on Näsir Mirza in 1507, and later in the same year Kandahār was assigned to him. In 1508 he gave up Kandahār to Sheibānī Khan and retired to Ghazni, the government of which was made over to him by Bābur In 1511-12 Kābul was added to his charge, and this he held till Bābur's return in 1514, when he again retired to Ghazni, where he died of intemperance in the following year (1515) After his death a revolt of the Moghal chiefs occurred at Ghazni, led by Shīrīm Taghāi, and other nobles of Bābur's court. It was quelled after a pitched battle in which Kambar Ali, who had come up with reinforcements from Kunduz, took a leading part.—E B, pp 270, 282, 319, and 335]

² [Bābur appears to have returned to Kābul in 1514 In 1518, Shah Beg's son, Shah Hasan, fled to Kābul, and was courtcously received by Bābur In 1520 Bābur commenced the siege of Kan dahār, and in the following year turned it into a blockade In 1522 it was surrendered to him.—EB, pp. 354-5]

THE

MEMOIRS OF BĀBUR

EVENTS OF THE YEAR 925 1

On Monday,2 the first day of the month of Muharrem, there was a violent earthquake in the lower part of the valley, or julga of Chandul,3 which lasted nearly half an astronomical hour Next morning I marched from this stage, for the purpose of attacking the fort of Bajour Having encamped near it, I sent a trusty man of the Dilazāk Afghans to Bajour, to require the Sultan of Bajour and his people to submit, and deliver up the fort stupid and ill-fated set refused to do as they were advised, and sent back an absurd answer I therefore ordered the army to prepare their besieging implements, scaling-ladders, and engines for attacking fortresses For this purpose we halted one day in our camp

AD 1519 January 3 Bābur marches to attack Bajour

On Thursday, the fourth of Muharrem, I ordered the troops January 6 to put on their armour, to prepare their weapons, and to mount in readiness for action The left wing I ordered to proceed higher up than the fort of Bajour, to cross the river at the ford, and to take their ground to the north of the fort, I ordered the centre not to cross the river, but to station themselves in the broken and high grounds to the north-west The right wing was directed to halt to the west of the lower gate When Dost Beg and the Begs of the

- ¹ Dr Leyden's translation here begins again.
- ² The whole of the year 925 of the Hijira is included in A D 1519
- ² This valley is now called Jondol, or Jandol. It is about a day's journey from Bajour, to the north or north east. The name of Chandul, however, is still known. [According to Raverty (Notes, pp 115-17) the country of Bajaur consists of eight valleys, of which one is Chandawal, or Jandol, and another Rud, in which was situated the Khahr or Shahr (city) This was the principal town of Bajaur, and the residence of its chiefs. About two miles to the west of it on the south bank of the river was the strong fort of Lashora, which may have been the place stormed by Babur]

left wing were halting after crossing the river, a hundred or a hundred and fifty foot sallied from the fort, and assailed them by discharges of arrows. The Begs, on their side, received the attack, and returned the discharge, chased back the enemy to the fort, and drove them under the ram-Mulla Abdal Malük of Khost madly pushed on his horse, and rode close up to the foot of the wall senling-ladders and tura I had been ready, and the day not so nearly spent, we should have taken the eastle at that very Mulla Türk Alı, and a servant of Tengri Berdi, having each engaged in single combat with an enemy, took their antagonists, cut off their heads, and brought them back Both of them were ordered to receive honorary presents As the people of Bajour had never seen any matchlocks, they at first were not in the least apprehensive of them, so that when they heard the report of the matchlocks, they stood opposite to them, mocking and making many unseemly and improper gestures That same day, Ustad Ali Kuli brought down five men with his matchlock, and Wali Khūzm also killed two The rest of the matchlock-men likewise showed great courage, and behaved finely Quitting their shields, their mail, and their cowheads,2 they plied their shot so well, that before evening, seven, eight, or ten Bajouris were brought down by them, after which, the men of the fort were so alarmed, that, for fear of the matchlocks, not one of them would venture to show his head As it was now evening, orders were given that the troops should be drawn off for the present, but should prepare the proper implements and engines for assaulting the fortress in the morning twilight

January 7

On Friday, the fifth day of Muharrem, at the first dawn of light, orders were given to sound the kettle-drum for action. The troops all moved forward according to the stations assigned them, and invested the place. The left wing and centre having brought at once an entire tura from their trenches, applied the scaling-ladders, and began to

 $^{^1}$ The $t\bar{u}ra$, as has already been observed, were probably broad testudos, under cover of which the besiegers advanced to the storm

¹ The cowheads were probably a kind of awning, covered with cow hides, to admit of the matchlock men loading in safety

Khalifeh Shah Hassan Arghün and Ahmed mount Yusef with their followers were ordered from the left of the centre to reinforce the left wing. Dost Beg's men reached the foot of a tower on the north east of the fort and began undermining and destroying the walls. Ustad Ali Kuli was also there and that day too he managed his matchlock to good purpose the feringla piece was twice discharged. Wali Khāzin also brought down a man with his matchlock. On the left of the centre, Malik Kutub Alia having mounted the walls by a scaling ladder was for some time engaged hand to hand with the enemy. At the lines of them am body. Muh ammed Ali Jeng-Jeng and his younger brother Souroz mounted by a scaling ladder and fought brasely with spear and sword. Baba Yasawel mounting by another seiling lidder, busied himself in demolishing with an axe the purspet of the fort. Many of our people brively climbed up kept plying the enemy with their arrows, and would not suffer them to raise their heads above the works some others of our people in spite of all the exertions and annovance of the enemy and not minding their bows and arrows, employed themselves in breaking through the walls, and demolishing the defences. It was luncheon-time? The fort when the tower to the north-east which Dost Beg's men were undermining, was breached immediately on which the assailants drove the enemy before them, and entered breached. and taken

Malik Alı Kujini

¹ Much has been written concerning the early use of gunpowder in the East. There is however, no well authenticated fact to prove the existence of anything like artillers there till it was introduced from Furope Babur here, and in other places, calls his larger ordnance ferings, a proof that they were then regarded as owing their origin to Furone The Turks, in consequence of their constant intercourse with the nations of the West have always excelled all the other Orientals in the use of artillery and, when heavy cannon were first used in India, Europeans or Turks were engaged to serve them In this connexion the name of Rumi Khan, a Turk of Constantinople may be mentioned. This officer commanded the artillery of Bahadur Shah of Gujerat in his battle with Humayun at Mundesor (A D 1532), and afterwards entered the service of Humavan, on whose behalf he conducted the siege of Chun'ir (A D 1538)]

^{2 [}Chāsht rather means breakfast]

MEMOIRS OF BABUR the tower The men of the main body and the same time also mounted by their scaling-ladders, and entered the fort By the favour and kindness of God, in the course of two or three hours, we took this strong eastle. All ranks A D 1510 displayed the greatest courage and energy, and justified their right to the character and fime of valour As the men of Bajour were rebels, rebels to the followers of Islām and as, beside their rebellion and hostility, they followed the customs and usages of the infidels, while even the name of Islam was extirpated from among them, they were all Put to the sword, and their wives and families made prisoners Perlinps upwards of three thousand men were killed the eastern side of the fortress was not attacked, a small number made their escape by that quarter After taking the fortress, I went round and surveyed it, and found an immense number of dead hodies lying about on the terraced roofs, within the houses, and in the streets, insomuch, that persons coming and going to and fro, were obliged to trend on and pass over them On my return from surveying the place, I took my sent in the palace of the Sultans, and bestowed the country of Bajour on Khwājeh Kalān, i and having given him a number of my best men to support him, returned to the camp about evening pravers

J_{inuuri} 8, Next morning I pursued my march, and halted in the Warth s to vale of Bajour at the fountain of Baba Kara 2 At the Riba Kara intercession of Khwājeh Kalān, I pardoned a few prisoners who were still left, and suffered them to depart with their wives and families Several of the sultans and arch-rebels, who had fallen into our hands, were put to death I sent the heads of the sultans, with some other heads, to Kābul. nlong with the dispatches announcing this victors conveying accounts of the victory were also sent, together with some heads, to Badakhshan Kunduz and Balkh

Khw jeh Kalin was the son of Mouling Muhammed Sader, who was on of the chief men of Omer Shrikh Mirza & court ex britlers, all or whom spent their lives in Behne's service, to who a they were distantly related if we may believe Abulfarl The valle of Paha Kara is seven for north of the town of Papert, on the tord to Jan Isl

Shah Mansur Yusefzai, who had come on a mission from the Yusefzais, was present at this victory and massacre Having invested him with a dress of honour, and written threatening letters to the Yūsefzais, I gave him leave to depart

The expedition against Bajour being thus terminated to January: my entire satisfaction, on Tuesday, the 9th of Muharrem. I moved on, and halted a kos farther down, in the same vale of Bajour, where I gave orders for the erection of a pillar of skulls on a rising ground

On Wednesday, the 10th of Muharrem, I mounted and January rode to the eastle of Bajour, where we had a drinking party 2 in Khwaieh Kalan's house The Kafers in the neighbourhood of Bajour had brought down wine in a number of skins The wines and fruits of Bajour are wholly from that part of Kaferistan which lies about Bajour I stayed there all night, and next morning surveyed the towers and ramparts of the fort, after which I mounted and rode back to the camp

The morning after, I marched on, and encamped on the January 1 banks of the river of Khwajeh Khizer 3 Marching thence, January 1 I halted on the banks of the river Chandul Orders were here issued that all such persons as had been named for the defence of the fort of Bajour should, without exception. repair to that place

On Sunday, the 14th of Muharrem, having given Khwajeh January 1 Kalan a tugh 4 (or banner), I sent him back to the fort of

¹ [This powerful Afghan tribe occupy the valleys of Pani kora, Dir, Bashkar, Swat, and Buner -Raverty's Notes, pp

^a Babur has now got over his scruples about drinking wine, and seems henceforward to have indulged in it to excess, till near the

³ There does not appear to be any river between Bajaur and Jandol, except that of Baba Kara, which may also, perhaps, have been called Khwajeh Khizer Mr Elphinstone informs me that it joins the river of Panjkora a march or two above the junction of that river with the river of Swat (or Sawad), while the Jandol river joins the river of Bajaur a march from the town of Bajaur

The tugh is a banner of the kitas or mountain cow's [yak] tail, which belongs only to noblemen of the first class,

Bajour A day or two after his departure, I composed the following lines, which I wrote and sent him

Such was not the agreement and promise between my friend and me,--

Separation has stung me and made me wretched at last, What can be done against the freal s of Loriune Which teams by force friend from friend at last!

January 19

On Wednesday, the 17th of Muharrem, Sultan Aläud din Sawādi arrived as an envoy on the part of Sultan Weis Sawādi, and waited on me to offer his submission

Innuary 20

On Thursday the 18th of Muharrem, I hunted on a hili that has between Bajour and the Chandul. The bison and gavazen of this hill are black except the tail which is of a different colour. Below this the bullocks and deer of Hindustün are wholly dark coloured. The same day we eaught a sarik hird, but its body was black, as were its eyes. This day, too, Burkhut took a deer. As there was a scarcity of grain in the army, we went to the valley of Kahrüj, where we seized a quantity of corn, and then proceeded towards Sawūd, on an expedition against the Yūsefzai Afghans.

January 21

On Friday, we marched, and encamped between the Panjkora and the junction of the Chandul and Bajour rivers. Shah Mansur Yūsefzai had brought some very pleasant but highly inebriating kamāl. I cut a kamāl into

¹ The turn of these verses is on the word Bajour, so that the last line signifies either Bajour has separated friend from friend, or friend is separated from friend by force

Sultan Weis or Oweis was King of Swat (or Sawad) His possessions extended from the river of Swat to Baramula, at the entrance of Kashmir He was expelled by the Yusefzais.

⁵ Or rather perhaps the mountain bull. [This animal could not have been the Yak, which is only found close to the snow line. The Indian Bison (Gavacus gaurus) may be referred to, as this animal used to have a very wide range, though at present confined to southern and eastern India.]

IThese terms evidently refer to the animals named above]

³ [Sārīk means starling, but P de C translates it Golden Oriole (Oriolus galbula)]

⁶ Burkhut is probably the name of a favourite hawk [Burkhut signifies the golden eagle (Aquila chrysaetos)]

7 It has already been remarked that the Jandol and Bajour rivers join before they fall into the Panjkora.

8 A sort of intoxicating confection three parts, and ate one part myself, giving another to Gadār Taghār, and the third to Abdullah Kitābdār affected me strangely, and with such a degree of intoxication, that, when the Begs met in council about evening prayers, I was unable to make my appearance, which is the more surprising, as now I may eat a whole hamal of that kind, without being in the slightest degree affected, though, on that occasion, less than the half of one produced incbriety a

Marching thence, we halted near the mouth of the valley of Kahrij and of Peshgram,1 before Pinjkorn. While we stayed here, it snowed in these places b. It rarely does kahaaj snow there, and the inhabitants were surprised at the circumstance. By the advice of Sultan Weis Sawadi, I demanded a contribution of four thousand kharitars 2 of rice for the use of the army from the inhabitants of Kahraj, A D 1519 and sent Sult in Weis himself for the purpose of collecting it These rude mountaineers and persants, on whom such a contribution had never before been imposed, were unable to discharge it, and were reduced to great distress

contribu

On Tuesday, the 23rd of Muharrem, I sent the army, under the command of Hindu Beg in order to plunder in Pinjkora Panjkora lies a little above the middle of the slope of the hill On account of the steepness of the ascent, it is necessary; for nearly a kos, to climb up, laying hold of the ground . Before they reached Panjkora, the inhabitants had fled. They brought back some of their slicep, mares, bullocks, and grain

Plunders Panjkora January 25

Next morning, I dispatched the army, under Küch Beg, January 26 on a plundering party, and on Thursday, the 25th of January 27

- a If I should now consume a whole piece of this kind of con fection, it would not produce the same degree of intoxication that half the quantity did on that occasion
 - b snow fell above our ankles in depth
- the steep slopes of which we had to climb for nearly a kes (two miles) before reaching the villages

¹ Peshgrām hes north of Mahyar Kahrāj I have not found, but it may be part of the same valley

² [A kharwar (ass load) weighs a hundred mans at four seers a man Four seers, or the weight of four rupees copper change to a man, weighs about seven pounds, which makes the kharwār about seven hundred pounds weight 1

Muharrem, in order to seeme a supply of grain, the army moved, and encamped in the midst of the valley of Kahrāj, in the district of Mandīsh

This year several children were born to me younger than Humāiūn, but none of them lived—Hindāl was not yet born—While we remained here, I received a letter from Māham, in which she said, 'Whether the expected child be a son or daughter, I shall take my chance, I will regard the January 28 child as mine, and educate it as my own.' On the 26th, in this same camp, I gave up Hindāl to Māham, and, writing an answer to her letter, sent it to Kabul by Yūsef Ali Rikābdār. Hindāl was not yet born—At this same encampment, in the district of Mandīsh, in the heart of the valley, on a lising ground, I creeted a large suffeh, or terrace of stone, of such extent, that it could contain my large set of tents with the smaller set usually sent in advance—The stones of this work were wholly brought by my officers and the soldiers

Malik Shah Mansür, the son of Malik Suleiman Shah, had come from the Yüsefzai Afghans with professions of submission and of attachment to my interests. In order to conclude the Yüsefzais, I had asked his daughter in marriage At this encampment we learned that the daughter 4 of Shah Mansür was coming with the tribute of the Yüsefzais

[&]quot; After Humāyūn I had several children by his mother,

b make it over to me,

¹ [Māham was Bābur's prıncıpal wıfe and mother of Humāyūn Dıldār was Hındāl's mother] ² [Stırrup holder]

^{*} Pīshkhānch Bābur means that the terrace could hold the state tent, and also one of the sets of tents which is sent in advance each stage in travelling

^{&#}x27;[The lady's name was Mubārikeh] The Afghan histories make the chief, to whose daughter Bābur was married, Mahk Ahmed, nephew of Mahk Suleimān. Mahk Suleimān had been treacherously murdered at a banquet by Ulugh Beg Mirza. It may be worth while to give the history of this marriage, as related by the Afghans. It will at least serve to show at how early a period history is corrupted by tradition

They tell us, that after Ulugh Beg Mirza, the king of Kübul, had expelled the Yüsefzais from their old abodes, he died of an ulcer in the thigh, and Bübur got possession of the conquered country. The Yüsefzais also submitted to him, and sent Malik Ahmed, and some other Maliks, with presents to Bübur. Ahmed went from Sana through Swät to Bajour, and so to Laghman, whence he pro-

We had a drinking party about evening prayers I invited Sultan Alā ud dīn 1 to the party, made him sit down, and gave him one of my own dresses as a dress of honour

On Sunday the 28th we marched from the valley of January 3 Kahrāj, and encamped Tauskhan Yusefzai, the younger brother of Shah Mansur, brought his niece, who has been mentioned, to this encampment. As the people of Besud 2 are connected with those of Bajour, I sent Yusef Alı Bekāwel from this station to collect them, and remove them to Bajour I sent orders to the troops that had been left in Kābul to join me without delay ceeded to Kābul. The King received him well, but was offended at heart, having received complaints from the Dilazāks, who were his favourite subjects, and who had bribed his ministers to procure the death of Ahmed. The Gagianis, who had been enemies of Malik Ahmed, but were now reconciled to him, gave him notice of the King's evil intentions. He sent away the other Maliks, and stayed himself. The King took his bow to shoot him Malik Ahmed bared his breast, that the King's arrow might not be impeded. Babur was so pleased that he forgave him.

Next year, Bābur sent for Ahmed, who sent his brother in his stead. The King was civil, but Ahmed, from comparing circum stances, surmised that he would attack them the year following He retired, therefore, with his tribe, to the Mahoreh hills, which they strengthened, shutting up all the passes.

The King accordingly set out for Swat. On his way he besieged a Gebri fort, which was held by Malik Haider Ali Gebri. Having taken it, he moved on to Manglor

Babur, after searching in vain by his spies for a pass into the Mahoreh hills, went himself in the disguise of a kalender, and was present at one of their feasts. The daughter of Malik Ahmed, observing the stranger, sent him some provisions. Babur, captivated with her appearance and manners, fell in love with her, and, on his return back, sent to ask her in marriage. Ahmed consented, and, accompanied by all his Maliks, waited on the King The lady, whose name was Bibi Mubārikeh, so charmed Bābur by her grace and conversation, that he remitted the revenue of her tribe, and returned to Kābul. The Yūsefzais, we are told, then rose into great power, and Babur raised to a very distinguished rank her brother, Mîr Jamāl, who accompanied him and her into Hindustān. The brother and sister both died in Akber's time.

¹ The Yüsefzaı ambassador

² Behsüt.—Leyden [Besüd is marked on the Imperial Gazetteer of India map as lying on the left bank of the Kabul river, opposite Jelalabad, at the mouth of the Kunar Valley The Besud plain opens out a mile distant from the Behar Rabat ferry]

On Friday, the 3rd of the month of Safer, we encamped Lebruary 1 at the junction of the Bajour and Panjkora rivers

On Sunday the 5th, I went from this station to Bajour, and Lebruary 0 had a drinking party at Khwajeh Kalan's house

Lxpedition against the Afchans 1 chruary 8

On Tuesday the 7th, I sent for the Begs and the Dilazak Afghans, at and held a council, in which it was agreed, that, as it was the close of the year, only a day or two of Aquarius remaining, and as all the grain had been carried off from the level country, should we enter Sawad now, the army would suffer greatly from want of provisions, that it was therefore better to proceed by way of Ambahir and Pani-Mah, and crossing the river of Sawad above Hashnaghar,2 to advance our troops with all possible expedition opposite to the sanger (or hill-fort) of Mamura, belonging to the Yüsefzais, and to make an incursion upon the Afghans inhabiting the open country and plain, who are composed of the Yusefzais and Muhammedzais, to beat up their quarters, and plunder them b, and that, by coming next year earlier, while the grain was on the ground, we should find effectual means of reducing them Having come to this determination, next morning, being Wednesday, I 1 ebruary 9 bestowed horses and dresses of honour on Sultan Weis and Sultan Alā ud dīn, and dismissed them with every assurance of protection and assistance, and then, continuing our march, we halted opposite to Bajour I left the daughter of Shah Mansur in the fort of Bajour, till the return of the n the notables of the Dılazāk Afghans, river with the river of Kabul

b and fall suddenly on the Yusafzai and Muhammedzai Afghans, -who are settled in the plain opposite the Yusafzai sangar (fortified hill) of Mahūra,

¹ [The Dilazāks are a tribe of Karlārni Afghans When the Khāslu Afghans, who included the Yūsafzais, Gagiānis and other tribes, were driven from the neighbourhood of Kabul by Ulugh Beg Mirza, Babur's uncle, the Dilazaks were in possession of Peshawar, the Duabah, Kalah Parni, half of Bajaur, Tirah, and a great part of Ningrahar The Dilazaks assigned the Duabah to the Khashis to settle in. Some time after this, in Babur's time, the Dilazaks were turned out of their ancestral territories by the Khāshis, and compelled to retire to the east bank of the Indus, when they settled in Hazāra and the tracts north of Atak.—Raverty's Noles, pp. 35-6]

* Hashnaghar stands not far above the junction of the Sawad

army Next morning, proceeding in our course, and passing Telinory Khwajch Khizer we halted Khwajch Kalan here took leave of me on his return. The heavy baggage was sent on towards Lamghan, by way of Kuner Next morning we again marched and I gave the heavy baggage and camels to the charge of Kliwajch Mir Miran, and sent him on by the road of Khur ghatu, Darwazch, and the pass of Kirikübeh, while I myself with a light armed and unencumbered force of expility proceeded on our expedition Having surmounted the pass of Ambahir, and likewise mother pass, we reached Pani Mah before afternoon privers I sent forward Aughan Berdi with a small party, ep. 1519 in order to get information. As there was but a short interval between us and the Afghans, we did not march early. It was about function-time when Aughan Berdi Lebruary returned having taken an Afghan and cut off his head, which he lost on his way back—but he did not succeed in procuring any satisfactory intelligence. It was mid-day when we marched, and we halted a little before afternoon prayers, after crossing the river of Sawad About bed-time Tel may prayers we again mounted, and proceeding with speed, about sunrise when the sun was a spear-length high, Rustam Turkoman, who had been sent forward on the look out, rejoined us with information that the Afghans, having had notice of our approach, were in confusion on all hands, and that a body of them was retiring by the hillroad

Instantly on receiving this intelligence, we increased our speed, and sent on a skirmishing party before us, which overtook and killed several Afghans, whose heads they cut off, and brought bick to the main body, along with mumber of prisoners, bullocks, and slicep. The Diluzak Afghans also cut off and brought in several heads. Returning from thence, we halted in the neighbourhood of Katlang,1 where I sent guides in search of Khwājch Mīr Mirān, who had been sent on with the baggage, with instructions to bring him to join me in Makam

Lebruary

a 4dd very high

¹ Katlang is forty miles north of Akora, inclining to the east

Lobrany 11

Libruary 15

Next morning we marched, and passing by way of Katlang, hulted in the midst of Makamat One of Shah Mansur's people here joined us, and I disputched Khosrou Gokultāsh and Ahmedi Perwanchi with a body of troops to meet and protect the baggage On Tuesday the 14th, just as we halted in Makam, the baggage joined us. In the course of the last thirty or forty years, one Shahbaz Kalender, an impious unbeliever, had perverted the faith of numbers of the Yüsefzais and Dilazāks At the abrupt termination of the hill of Makam, there is a small hillock that overlooks all the plain country. It is extremely beautiful, commanding a prospect as far as the eye can reach, and is conspicuous from the lower grounds b Upon it stood the tomb of Shahbaz Kalender I visited it, and surveyed the whole place. It struck me as improper that so charming and delightful a spot should be occupied by the tomb of an unbeliever I therefore gave orders that the tomb should be pulled down, and levelled with the ground. As the situation was fine, both for climate and beauty, I took a maajun,2 and continued there for some time

When we left Bajour, we did it with the intention of attacking Behreh 3 before we returned to Kābul We were always full of the idea of invading Hindustune This was prevented by various circumstances. For three or four months that the army had been detained in Bajour, it had got no plunder of value As Behreh is on the borders of Hindustan, and was near at hand, I conceived that, if I were now to push on without biggage, the soldiers might light upon some booty Moving on under these impressions, and plundering the Afghans in our progress, when I reached Makam, several of my principal adherents advised me,

- a I encamped between Katlang and Makam
- b Omit this clause.
- Bhīra, for ever since we came to Kābul we were always full of the idea of invading India.

¹ Makām appears to he in Bunīr [It may be Mardān]
² These maajūns, generally composed of bhang, are taken to produce what is regarded as an agreeable intoxication.

² [Or Bhīra, which is a town on the Jhelum, in the Shāhpūr District of the Panjab]

that if we were to enter Hindustan, we should do it on a proper footing, and with an adequate force, that a great part of our army had been left behind at Kabul, that a body of our best troops had been left at Bajour, that a number, too, in consequence of the weakness of their horses, had returned to Lamghan, that the horses even of those who still continued with us, were so wretched, that they were unfit for a single day's hard service Though the advice was perfectly judicious, we made the inroad in spite of all these objections

Early next morning we marched towards the passage February over the Sind I dispatched Mir Muhammed välehbän 1 16 in advance, with his brothers and some troops to escort them, for the purpose of examining the banks of the river, both above and below After sending on the army towards the river, I myself set off for Sawāti,2 which they likewise call Karak-khāneh,3 to hunt the rhinoceros We started many rhinoceroses,4 but, as the country abounded in brushwood, we could not get at them A she rhinoceros that had whelps, a came out and fled along the plain, many arrows were shot at her, but as the wooded ground was near at hand she gamed cover We set fire to the brushwood, but the rhinoceros was not to be found. We got sight of another, b that, having been scorched in the fire, was lamed and unable to run c We killed it. and every one cut off a bit of it as a trophy of the chase Leaving Sawati, after a wide and fatiguing circuit,d we reached the camp about bed-time a a calf.

b a young one.

c lay there struggling

d after much groping about to find the way,

¹ [Raftsman, jālah is a raft made of leathern bottles.]
² [This may be Swābī, the head quarters of a Tahsīl in the Peshawar District, on the Buner border about ten miles due north of the Indus.]

^{* [}Rhinoceros place (= Karg-khāneh)]

⁴ It is worthy of notice, that the rhinoceros is now no longer to be found to the west of the Indus. [When I was in charge of the Rājanpūr Sub-division of the Derahghāzī Khān District (Panjāb) m 1879 I remember seeing a tiger which had come down to the river Indus to drink. This was one of the last seen in this neighbourhood, though a few were shot on the Bahāwalpūr side of the river a year or two later Tigers are now extinct in the Panjāb]

prayers The party that had been sent to survey the passage over the river did so, and returned

Bābur crosses the Sind, Feb ruary 17 Next morning, being Thursday the 17th, we crossed the ford with our horses, camels, and baggage, the camp bazar and the infantry were floated across on rafts. The same day be the inhabitants of Nilāb waited on me, bringing anarmed horse and three hundred shahrokhis, as a peshkesh As soon as we had got all our people across, that same day at noon-day prayers, we proceeded on our march, which we continued for one watch of the night, and halted at the river of Kacheh-kot. Marching thence before day, we crossed the river of Kacheh-kot, and the same evening surmounted the Pass of Sangdaki, and halted. Syed Kāsim Ishek-Agha, who brought up the rear guard, took a few Gujers who followed the camp, cut off some of their heads and brought them in

February 18

February 19 Marching at the dawn from Sangdaki, and crossing the river Suhān ⁵ about noon-day prayers, we encamped Our stragglers continued to come in till midnight. It was an uncommonly long and severe march, and as it was made when our horses were lean and weak, it was peculiarly hard on them, so that many horses were worn out, and fell down by the way. Seven kos from Behreh to the north, there is a hill. This hill, in the Zafer-nāmeh ⁶ and some

a sixteenth, b Add when I was by the ferry c towards noon

¹ Bābur appears to have crossed a little above Atak.

Nilab hes fifteen miles below Atak on the Sind. [Nilab (Blue spring), according to Raverty, though now in ruins, was once a great city, and the capital of the Kathar tribe. It is situated on the left bank of the Indus two miles below its junction with the Harru river Before Atak was founded, it lay on the main route between Peshāwar and Lahore]

2 Something less than £15 sterling

⁴ The river of Kachel kot is the Harru, or river of Gharshin [which joins the Indus nine miles below Atak on the left bank] By his ascending a pass so speedily after leaving the river, and by his reaching the Suhān so soon, it appears that Bābur turned sharp to the south after crossing the Harru

⁵ [The Suhūn lies between the Indus and the Jhelum, and is an affluent of the former]

[•] The Zafer nameh, or Book of Victory, is the history of Taimur Beg, or Tamerlane, written in a very elegant style, by Sharif ed din Ali Yezdi. It has been well translated by Petis de la Croix

other books is called the hill of Jud 1. At first I was ignorant of the origin of its name, but afterwards discovered that in this full there were two races of men descended of the same father. One tribe is called Jud the other Janiuhch? From old times they have been the rulers and lords of the inhabitants of this bill and of the Ils and Uluses which are between Nilab and Behrch. but their power is excited in a friendly and brotherly way. They cannot take from them whatever they please. They take as their share a portion that has been fixed from very remote times. The one nevertakes and the others never give, a single grain more or less Their agreement is as follows. They give a shahrokhi? for each head of cattle, seven shahrokhis are paid by each master of a family, and they serve in their armies. The Jud are divided into various branches or families, as well as the Januüheh This hill, which lies within seven kos of Behreh. branching off from the hill-country of Kashmir, which belongs to the same range as Hindū-kūsh, takes a southwesterly direction, and terminates below Dinkot,4 on the river Sind 5 On the one half of this hill are the Jud, and on the other the Innjuheh This hill got the name of Jud

¹ [The road from Katakhsh to Malot, 15 miles north of Bhīra, crosses a spur of the Salt Range, a thousand feet high, which may be the hill referred to here Malot was the ancestral home of the Janjūas.]

² [According to the Jhelum Gazetteer the Ianjūas are a tribe of Rahtor Rajpūts now reduced in size, but still of considerable importance. The Iaipūl who opposed Mahmūd of Ghazni is said to have been a Janjūa chief, and in Bābur's time they held much of the country between the Jhelum and the Indus—the Jūds were apparently a branch of the Janjūas.]

² The shahrokhi may be taken at a shilling or elevenpence

The shahrokhi may be taken at a shilling or elevenpence sterling

'Dinkot from this seems to have lain near Kārabāgh [or Kālabāgh on the right bank of the Indus. On Major Rennell's map Dinkot is marked on the left bank of the Indus, nearly opposite its junction with the Kuram river, and about sixty miles west of Pirhāla ?

⁶ Bābur's account of this hill is not very exact [The Salt Range runs almost in a semicircle south castwards from Kohāt, across the Indus near Kālabāgh, and east and north east to the Jhelum] It is evident that he supposes all the rough and mountainous country between the Kheiber and Salt Ranges to be one hill, and to be continued up to Kashmīr from a supposed resemblance to the celebrated full of Jud at The chief man among them gets the name of Rai younger brothers and sons are called Malik 2 These Janjüheh were the maternal uncles of Langer Khan name of the Hākim of the IIs and Ulūses in the neighbourhood of the river Suhān was Mahk Hast His original name was Asad, but as the people of Hindustan often drop the vowels, calling, for instance, hhabar, habr, and asad, asd, this word, going on from one corruption to another, ended in becoming Hast

Immediately on reaching our ground I sent Langer Khan in order to bring in Malik Hast - He galloped off, and by impressing him with a persuasion of my generosity and favourable intentions in his behalf, returned, accompanied by him, about bed-time prayers. Malik Hast brought a caparisoned horse with him by way of peshlesh, and made his submission. He was about the twenty-second or twenty-third year of his age 3

Many flocks of sheep, and herds of brood-mares, were feeding on all sides of the camp As I always had the conquest of Hindustan at heart, and as the countries of Behreh, Khushāb, Chenāb, and Chiniot,4 among which I now was, a It has been given the name of the first mentioned tribe (i. e. the tribe of Jud)

¹ Jud or Ararat, in Armenia, on which the ark was supposed to have rested

^{* [}The chief men of the Salt Range are still styled Maliks]

<sup>Hore Dr Loyden's version finally closes.
[Bhīra is the head quarters of a Tahsil in the Shāhpūr District</sup> of the Panjab situated on the left bank of the Jhelum in 32° 28'-72° 56' The old city, which lay on the right bank of the river, and is by some authorities identified with the ancient capital of Sophytes, belonged at this time to Ali Khan, the son of Daulat Khan, Governor of Lahore under the Delhi emperors. It is said to have been destroyed by the Hill tribes shortly after Babur's invasion The new town was built in 1540 Khushāb, the head quarters of another Tahsīl of the same district, and now a flourishing trade centre, lay forty miles down on the right bank of the Jhelum. Chenāb, as Erskine points out, was probably the name of a district which stretched over to the river of that name Chiniot is the head quarters of a Tahsil in the Jhang District of the Panjab situated 52 miles north east of Jhang city in 31° 43′-73° 0′ It is a very old town, and is identified

had long been in the possession of the Türks I regarded them as my own domains, and was resolved to acquire the possession of them either by war or peace. It was, therefore, right and necessary that the people of the hill should be well treated I accordingly issued orders that no one should molest or trouble their flocks or herds, or take from them to the value of a bit of thread or a broken needle

Marching thence rather late, about noon-day prayers we reached Kaldeh-Kahār,1 where we halted On every side there were many cornfields, where the grain was still green This Kaldeh-Kahār is a considerable place. Ten kos from Behreh, in the middle of the hill of Jud, there is a level plot of ground, in the centre of which is a large reservoir or lake. which receives the water from the surrounding hills, as well as the rain water, by which it is swelled to about a circumference of three kos On the north is the valley of Khūbi b, on the west, on the skirts of the hill, is a spring of water, which rises in the high grounds that overhang the lake As the place suggested itself as suitable for such a purpose, I formed a garden on it, called the Bagh-e-safa (or Garden of Purity) It has an extremely agreeable climate, is a very beautiful place, and will be mentioned hereafter

At dawn we set out from Kaldeh-Kahar On the very top A D 1519 of the Pass of Hambatu 2 we met, in different places, men o February 20 who were coming bringing in peshkeshes of small value, and tendering their submission These men I sent forward along with Abdal-Rahīm Shaghāwal to Behreh, in order to reassure the people of the place, to tell them that these countries, from remote times, had belonged to the Türks.

by some with the ancient Sākala. It is now famous for its brass work and wood carving 1 a rain water, and omit as well as the rain water.

Range.

b a fine meadow,

e men from different places,

¹ [This is Kāla Kahār, a place in the Jhelum District twelve miles from Malot. The lake still exists, as well as Babur's garden, and the platform cut out of the solid rock, on which he sat to admire the view —Murray's Handbook of the Panjab, London, 1883]

The lotal or Hill pass of Hambatu appears to he in the Salt and that they must be on their guard not to permit any commotions, which would inevitably terminate in the plunder and ruin of the country, of its inhabitants, and of the property and wealth, which for years they had been accumulating a

Babur reaches Behreb

About lunchcon-time we reached the bottom of the pass, where we halted and sent on Kurban Chirkly and Abdal Malük Khosti, with seven or eight others, to reconneitre and bring in intelligence Mir Muhammed Mahdi Khwajeh, one of the persons who was so sent in advance, brought in one man At this time some chiefs of the Afghans came with peshleshes and tendered their submission. I sent them on with Langer Khan, for the purpose of inspiring the inhabitants of Behreh with confidence. Having cleared the pass, and emerged from the wooded ground. I formed the army in regular array, with right and left wing and centre, and marched towards Behreh When we had nearly reached that place, Deveh Hindu, and the son of Siktu, who were servants of Ali Khan, the son of Doulet Khan Yusef-Khail, accompanied by the head-men of Behreh, met us, bringing each a horse and camel as a peshkesh, and tendered their submission and service prayers were over when we halted to the east of Behreh. on the banks of the river Behat, on a green field of grass, without having done the people of Behreh the least injury or damage

History of Behreh from the time of Tamerlane From the time that Taimur Beg had invaded Hindustan, and again left it, these countries of Behreh, Khushab, Chenab, and Chiniot, had remained in the possession of the family of Taimur Beg, and of their dependants and adherents Sultan Masaud Mirza, the grandson of Shahrokh Mirza and son of Siyūrghatmish Mirza, was, in those days, the ruler and chief of Kābul and Zābul, on which account he got the name of Sultan Masaud Kābuli. After his death, a for we know this country and its inhabitants, and it is not right that they should be exposed to plunder and pillage

¹ Siyürghatmısh Mırza died а н 830—а. D 1426 [According to Lane Poole's Muhammedan Dynasties (London, 1894), Sultan Mas'üd, King of Kübul, reigned from 1426 to 1439]

and that of his son Ali Asgher Mirza some of the persons whom he had brought forward and patronized such as the sons of Mir Ali Beg Biba Kabuli Darva Khan, and Anik Khan, who was afterwards called Ghan Khan having a commanding influence took possess on of Kabul Zibul, and those countries of Hindustan which have been inentioned and usurped the government. In the year 910, which 1501-5 was the date of my first coming to Kübul. I passed through Kheiler and advanced to Peshawer, with the intention of invading Hindustan, but, by the persuasion of Baki Chigh minimums diverted towards the Lower Bangash, which is called Kohat, and after leaving pillaged and rayaged a great part of Afghanistan and plundered and laid waste the dushi (or low country). I returned by way of Düki that time the government of Behreh. Khu hab and Chenab was held by Sved Ah Khan, the on of Ghiza Khan, and grandson of Mir Ah Beg. He read the Thutbeh in the name of 1sk inder Bahlol 1 and was subject to him Being darmed at my inroad by abandoned the town of Behreh crossed the river Behat, and made Sherkot, a place in the district of Behreh his capital. After a veir or two the Afghans having conceived suspicions against Sved Ali on my account he became alarmed at their hostility and surrendered his country to Doulet Khan son of Tatar Khan Yüsef khail, who at that time was Hakim of Labore Doulet Khan gave Behreli to his eldest son Ali Khan, by whom it was now held. Tatar Khan the father of Doulet Khan was one of the six or seven chiefs who invaded and conquered Hindust in, and made Baldol I mperor This Tätär Khan possessed Sirland and all the country to the north of the Salley The revenue of these territories was upwards of three Prors' After Tatar Khan's death Sultan Sikander, the reigning Emperor, had taken these countries from his

BABUH II

Add In the time of Abu Sand Mirza they lost Kābul and Zābul, but the territories in Hindustān remained in their hands.

¹ [Sikander Bahlol Lodi, Emperor of Delhi (A. D. 1488-1506)]

^{*} The Hakim is a chief or governor.

² Three kross or crores of dams, at forty to the rupec, would make this 750,000 rupecs, or about £75,000 sterling family Two years a before my coming to Kabul, the same prince had given Lahore alone to Doulet Khan

A D 1519 February 21 Next morning I sent out several foraging parties in proper directions, and afterwards rode round Behreh. The same day Sanger Khan Janjūheh came with a horse, which he presented to me with tenders of service.

Tebruary 23

February 24.

On Wednesday the 22nd, I sent for the head-men and chouderist of Behreh, and agreed with them for the sum of four hundred thousand shahrokhis as the ransom of their property, and collectors were appointed to receive the amount. I then rode out to see the country embarked in a boat, and ate a maniun. I had sent Haider Alemdür (the standard-bearer) to the Balüches, who were settled in the country of Behreh and Khushib Next morning, being Thursday, they came in with a bay "Tipchak horse as a peshhesh, and made their submission. Having learned that the troops had exercised some severities towards the inhabitants of Behreh, and were using them ill, I sent out a party, who having seized a few of the soldiers that had been guilty of excesses. I put some of them to death, and slit the noses of some others, and made them be led about the camp in that condition As I reckoned the countries that had belonged to the Türks as my own territories. I therefore admitted of no plundering or pillage to Sultan Ibrahim. People were always saying, that if ambassadors were to be sent in a friendly and peaceable way into the countries that had been occupied by the Türks, it could do no harm I therefore 4 dispatched Mulla Murshid to Sultan Ibrahim, whose father Sultan Iskander had died five or six months before,5 and who had succeeded his father in the empire

Embassy

a A year or two

b almond coloured

¹ Chouders in some districts signifies the head man of a trade, in others a landholder

² Nearly £20,000 sterling.

³ [The Belüchis, who form 2 per cent. of the total population of the Shāhpūr District, are still settled mostly in the Bhera and Khushāb Tahsīls.]

^{• [}P de C adds the date Thursday the first of Rabi ul awwal.]

^{• [}Sikander Lodi according to Ferishta, died on Nov 21, 1517, though Erskine would put it a year later (1518) on Babur's authority—EB, p 407]

of Hindustan, and giving him the name and style of ambassador, sent him to demand, that the countries which from old times had belonged to the Türks, should be given up to me Besides these letters for Sultan Ibrahim, I gave Mulla Murshid letters to Doulet Khan, and having also delivered to him verbal instructions, dismissed him on his mission The people of Hindustan, and particularly the Afglians, are a strangely foolish and senseless race, possessed of little reflection, and less foresight. They can neither persist in, and manfully support a war, nor can they continue in a state of amity and friendship. This person, who was sent by me, Doulet Khan detained some time in Lahore, neither seeing him himself, nor suffering him to proceed to Sultan Ibrahim, so that my envoy, five b months after, returned to Kabul without having received any answer

On Friday, letters of submission came from the people February of Khushāb Shah Hassan,1 the son of Shah Shujaā Arghun, was appointed to proceed to that district

On Saturday the 25th, I directed Shah Hassan to set out for Khushāb There was such a fall of run.2 that the un Behreh whole plain was covered with water Between Behreh and the hills where we were encamped, there was a little stream By the time of noon-day prayers, it was equal in February breadth to a considerable lake 6 Near Behreh, for upwards 26 of a bowshot, there was no footing in the ford, and it was necessary to pass paddling and swimming Between afternoon and evening prayers, I rode out for the purpose of surveying these waters The rain and wind were so violent

Inundation

d gardens

e river

f In the afternoon

a and giving him a hunting falcon to present to the King.

b a few

c The passage from As I reckoned to any answer on pages 98-9 18 placed after the sentence ending Syed Kasım and Mulubb Alı on page 100

¹ This Shah Hassan afterwards made a distinguished figure in the history of Sind, on the throne of which he succeeded his father Shah Beg.

² This rain is too early for the south west monsoon. It was probably a severe fall of the spring rain, which prevails at this season, or rather earlier and which extends all over the west of Asia that, in our return, we were afraid we should not have been able to rejoin the camp I passed the stream that was in flood by swimming a, the troops were extremely terrified Many of them leaving behind their tents and heavy baggage, and taking their coats of mail, horse furniture, and arms on their shoulders, after stripping their horses of all their harness, swam them across The whole plain was covered In the morning, many of the troops carried with water their tents and baggage across the inundation, in boats which they brought from the river Toward evening prayers, b Küch Beg's men, having gone about a kos higher up, discovered a ford, by which all the rest of the army passed We remained one day in the fort of Behreh, which they call Jehān-numā,1 and on the morning of Tuesday we marched, and encamped on the rising grounds which skirt along Behreh towards the north, in order to escape the inconveniences of

February 27

February 28 March 1. A D 1519

Birth of Hindal, March 4 fourth to Syed Käsim and Muhibb Ali
On Friday, the second of the month, Sheibāk Piādeh and Derwish Ali Piādeh, who are now matchlock-men, brought me letters from Kābul, containing news of the birth of Hindāl As this news came when I was on an expedition against Hind, taking it as a good omen, I named him Hindāl

contrive delays in paying the money which they had consented to give Having divided the country into four districts, I ordered the Begs to use all diligence in collecting the whole contribution. One district I gave in charge to Khalīfeh, another to Kūch Beg, a third to Dost Nāsir, the Kamber Beg, at the same time, brought letters from Balkh, from Muhammed Zemän Mirza:

A drinking party, March 5 Next morning, after the Diwin 4 was dismissed, when I had finished my ride, I went on board of a boat, and had $^{\mathrm{a}}$ Add my horse ,

the rain and inundation

b noon,

The inhabitants now began to World exhibiting, or Miniature of the World.

² The matchlock men seem to have been considered as a superior service.

³ Muhammed Zemān Mirza, who is often mentioned in the sequel of these Memoirs, was a son of Badia ez zemān Mirza, the late King of Khorasān

⁴ [1 e the Court]

a drinking party a with Kliwajch Dost Khawend, Khosrou Mîram, Mirza Kuli, Muhammedi, Ahmedi, Gudai, Naaman, Langer Khan, Ruhdem, Kāsım Alı tarıākı,1 Yūsef Alı, and Tengri Kuli Towards the bow of the vessel a space was roofed in It had a level platform above, and I and some others sat on the top of it A few others sat below the scaffolding Towards the stern of the slip, too, there was a place for sitting Muhammedi, with Gadai and Naaman, sat there We continued drinking spirits till after noonprayers b Disliking the spirits, we then took to manjun c Those who were at the other end of the vessel, did not know that we were taking maajun, and continued to drink spirits About night-prayers we left the vessel, and mounting our horses, returned late to the camp Muhammedi and Gadai, thinking that I had been taking nothing but spirits, and imagining that they were doing an acceptable service, brought me a pitcher of liquor, carrying it by turns on their horses They were extremely drunk and jovial when they brought it in 'Here it is,' they said, 'dark as the night is, we have brought a pitcher We carried it by turns' They were informed that we had been using a different thing d The maajun-takers and spirit-drinkers, as they have different tastes, are very apt to take offence with each other . I said, 'Don't spoil the cordiality of the party, whoever wishes to drink spirits, let him drink spirits, and let him that prefers maajun, take maajun, and let not the one party give any idle or provoking language to the other' Some sat down to spirits, some to manjun The party went on for some time tolerably well Baba Jan kabuzi 2 had not been in the boat, we had sent for him when we reached the royal tents He chose to drink spirits Tardi Muhammed Kipchak, too, was sent for and joined the spirit-drinkers

a I drank 'arak (toddy) with b afternoon prayers

c We, who were at the bow of the boat, decided to give up drinking spirits, and indulged in ma'jun.

d Afterwards they got to know that our party was not like theirs, and had not got drunk in the same way

e As spurt-drinkers do not get on with ma'jun takers, they were very disgusted with what happened.

^{1 [1} e. opium eater]

^{*} Kabūzi, one who plays on the Labūz

As the spirit-drinkers and manjun takers never can agree in one party the spirit-bibbing party began to include in foolish and idle conversation, and to make provoking remarks on manjun and manjun takers. Buby Jun too, getting drink talked very absurdly. The tipplers filling up glass after glass for Tardi Muhammed made him drink them off so that in a very short time he was mad drunk. Whatever exertions I could make to preserve peace were all unavoiding there was much uproar and wrangling. The party became quite burdensome and impleasant, and soon broke up

Mar 1 7

On Monday the 5th I gaye the country of Behreh to Hindû Beg and the country of Chenāb to Hussem Ikzāk when Hussem Ikzāk and the men of Chenāb took leave

At this time Manucheher Khan, the son of Sved Ali Ish in who had given me notice of his intention to wait on me but who, as he was coming from Hindustan by the upper road was intercepted by Tatar Khan Gakker (who would not suffer him to depart exceptly watched him and made him his son in Liw, by giving him his own daughter in marriage) after having been detained a considerable time at length came and tendered me his services.

Hari

2) 1

In the full country between Nilib and Behrele but apart from the tribes of Jud and lanjuhele and adjoining to the bill country of Kishmir are the lats Copers and many other men of similar tribes who build villages and settle on exery hillors and in exery villey. Their Halling?

was of the Gakker race and their government resembles that of the Juds and Janjulch The government of these tribes, which stretch along the skirt of the hills, was at that time held by Tatar Gikker and Hati Gakker sons of the they were cousins. Their places of strength were situated on raymes and steep precipiess. The name of Tatar's stronghold was Parhalch. It was considerably lower than the snowy mountains. Hates country is close adjoining to the hills. Hati had also brought over to his interest Båba Khan, who held Kalmjer - Tåtår Gakker had writed on Doulet Khan, and was in a certain way subject to hun * Hatchad never visited him but rem uned in an independent, turbulent state. Tatar at the desire of the Amirs of Hindustan and in conjunction with them had taken a position with his army a considerable way off, and in some sort kept Hati in a state of blockade. At the very time when we were in Behreh Hati had advanced upon Tatar by a stratagem b had surprised and slam him, and taken his country. his women, and all his property

About the time of noon-day prayers. I mounted to take Drinking a ride and afterwards going on board of a boat, we had party a drinking bout . The party consisted of Dost Beg Mirza Kuli Ahmedi, Gidai, Muhammed Ali Jeng Jeng Hassan Aughān, and Berdi Moghul The musicians were Rühdem, Bāba Jān, Kāsım Alı Yüsef Alı, Tengri Kulı Abul Käsım, ind Ramzan Luli. We continued drinking spirits in the boat till bed-time prayers, when being completely drunk, we mounted, and taking torches in our hands, came it full gallop back to the camp from the river-side, falling sometimes on one side of the horse, and sometimes on the other. I was miscrably drunk, and next morning, when they told me of our galloping into the camp with lighted torches in our hands, I had not the slightest recollection of the circumstance. After coming home, I vomited plentifully

On Friday I mounted to ride out, and crossed the river in March 11 a boat, went round the gardens and parterres d on the A D 1519

a whom he regarded as his suzerain

b on pretext of a hunting party,

^{° &#}x27;arak was drunk.

d orobords

towards the gate Hati, with thirty or forty horsemen, all, both man and horse, in complete armour, accompanied by a number of foot soldiers, attacked and drove back the skirmishers Dost Beg, who commanded the reserve, coming up, and falling on the enemy with great impetuosity, brought down a number of them, and routed the rest Hati Gakker, who distinguished himself by his courage and firmness in the action, a in spite of all his exertions could not maintain his ground, and fled He was unable to defend the narrows, and, on reaching the fort, found that it was equally out of his power to maintain himself there detachment, which followed close on his heels, having entered the fort along with him, Hati was compelled to make his escape, nearly alone, by the north-west entrance b Dost Beg, on this occasion, again greatly distinguished a D 1519 himself I ordered an honorary gift 1 to be given to him At the same time I entered Parhäleh, and took up my abode at Tātār's palace During these operations, some men, who had been ordered to remain with me, had joined the skirmishing party Among these were Amin Muhammed Karāchi, and Tarkhān Arghūn! In order to punish them for this offence, I gave them the Gujer, Sarpa, for their guide, and turned them out disgracefully into the deserts and wilds, to find their way back to the camp

Parhāleh taken

Next morning, passing by the ravine on the north-west, March 16 we halted on the sown fields, when I gave Wah, the treasurer, a body of select troops, and sent him off to the camp

On Thursday the 15th we halted at Anderabeh,3 which March 17 lies on the banks of the river Suhan This fort of Anderabeh depended, from old times, on the father of Malik Hast When Hati Gakker slew Malik Hast's father, it had been destroyed, and had remained in ruins ever since a whose bravery was celebrated in those parts,

b Hatı succeeded in effecting his escape by passing through the defiles and ravines to the north west of Parhaleh.

¹ Jildu = a special reward

² [P de C has Amīn Muhammed Tarkhān Arghūn, and Karāchi.]

^{2 [}Anderabeh is marked on Rennell's map as lying on the left bank of the Sühän river north west of Pharwala.

bed-time prayers, the party that had been left with the camp at Kuldeh-Kulhür rejoined us

Submis ion of Hiti Rakker

Hatt, after dispatching ! Tatar, had sent to me one Parbat, his relation, with a caparisoned horse, and a peshlesh He did not meet me, but fell in with that part of the arms that had been left beland with the camp, and having arrived along with the division that accompanied the buggage, now presented his offerings and tribute, and tendered his submission. I unger Khan who was to be left behind in Behreh, but who had accompined the cump in order to finish some business, also rejoined me, and, having brought everything to a conclusion, took leave on his return to Behreh, accompanied by some Zemindars of that district. After this we marehed on, crossed the river Sühän, and encamped on a rising ground. I gave a dress of honour to Parbat, Hati Khan's relation, and, having written letters to confirm Hate in his good intentions, and to remove any apprehensions that he might entertain, dispatched Parbat in company with a servant of Muhammed Ali Jeng-Jeng

Sulunisuon

of the

Karlok

Hazāras

March 18

Some of Humana's servants and gone along with Baba Dost and Halahil to Nilab, and to the Karlaki Hazaras, who had been given to Humana, and submitted to receive Daroghas. Sanger Karlak, accompanied by Mirza Malvi Karlak, and thirty or forty of the chiefs of the tribe, came to us, after sending on before them ba horse fully cap prisoned, and tendering their obedience. The army of the Dilazāk

And to karlük in order to perform the functions of daroglar among the Hazaras of those districts which had been assigned to Humayan

h came to meet me and to present me with

¹ [i c conquering]

There is still a part of the country, on the cast bank of the Indus, called Hazāra, probably after this tribe, for in all these countries, the name of a tribe is applied to its country, without any addition [There is an interesting account of this clan in Raverty's Autes, pp 280-1 The Karlugh Turks formed one of the mings of Tamerlane's army of invasion, and on his way back from Hindustān in 1398 he settled them in the district now called Hazāra, which is the Tājik iendering of the Turkish word ming (= a body of a thousand soldiers)]

Afglians having also arrived we next morning marched March 19 thence and halted, after advancing two kos. I here ascended a rising ground to survey the camp, and directed the camels of the army to be numbered. They mounted to five hundred and sevents camels. I had formerly heard the sumbal plant 1 (spikenard) described. I now saw it at this station On the skirts of this hill there are a few sumbal plants scattered here and there They are more abundant in the skirts of the hills of Hindust in where the plant is both more plentiful and larger in size. When I describe the animals and forests of Hindustan at will be more particularly mentioned

Marching hence at the time when the kettle-drum beats 2 Babur rewe halted about luncheon a time at the foot of the pass of Sangdaki About noon-day prayers we renewed our march, and ascended the pass crossed the river and halted on an eminence, we igain set out at midnight. In going to examine the ford by which we had passed in our way to Behreh, we found a raft, loaded with grain, that had stuck fast in the mud and clay, the owners, with all their exertions, had not been able to extricate it. We seized this corn, and divided it among the men who were with us, the grain came very sensonably. Towards evening b we halted lower down than the junction of the Sind and Kabul rivers and higher up than old Nilab, between the two brought six boats from Nilab, and divided them among the right and left wings and centre who immediately began to exert themselves in crossing the river Monday, being the day on which we arrived, and the night March 21. following, and on Tuesday and the night following, till 22, and 23 Wednesday, they continued passing, on Thursday also, March 24 a few passed

Parbat, Hati's relation, who had been sent from the neighbourhood of Anderabeh with the servant of Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng, returned to us, while we were on the banks of the river, bringing from Hūti a horse clad in armour, by way of tributary offering. The inhabitants of a breakfast.

This was probably at the Atak pass

March 20

March 21

b noon

Where the road separates from the river we heard a tiger howling and it soon issued out a. The moment the horses heard the tiger's ery they became unmanageable, and ran off with their riders, plunging down the steeps and precipices. The tiger retreated again into the jungle. I directed a buffalo to be brought and put in the wood for the purpose of luring him out. He soon issued out again howling arrows poured down on him from every side. I too, shot my arrow When Khalwa Piadeh struck him with a spear he twisted, and broke the point of the spear with his teeth. The tiger had received many wounds and tossed it away and had crept into a patch of brushwood when Baba Yasawel, drawing his sword, approached and struck him on the head at the moment he was on the spring this, Ali Sistani struck him on the loms, when he plunged into the river where they killed him. After they had dragged the animal out of the water. I ordered him to be skinned

Next morning we continued our march, and halted at Bekräm. We visited the Gurh-Katri. There are nowhere else in the whole world such narrow and dark hermits' cells as at this place. After entering the door-way, and descending one or two stairs, you must be down and proceed crawling along, stretched at full length. You cannot enter without a light. The quantities of hair, both of the head and beard, that are lying scattered round about and in the vicinity of this cave, are immense. On all the sides of this Gurh-Katri there are numerous cells, like those of a college or monastery. The number of apartments is very great. The first year that I came to Kābul, when I plundered and laid waste Kohāt, Bannu, and the Dasht, I passed through

March 25 Bübur reaches Bekrün Visits Gurh Kntri

n tiger suddenly came out of the forest which borders the river

b This is a small retreat narrow and dark like a hermit's cell

c hall, d Omit this sentence

¹ This description makes it probable that these excavations originally belonged to the Buddhist sect, the huge gigantic statues at Būt-Bāmiān have certainly the same origin. The hair found lying was what had been cut off and left by the pilgrims as a votive offering. [The Gor Katri is included in the modern city of Peshāwar, and is now used as the Tahsīlī. Akbar visited the building in 1581]

Bekrām and Barkalān, and was vexed at not having seen the subterraneous excavations n, but there was no reason for so much regret

This same day I lost my best hawk—Sheikhim, the chief huntsman, had the charge of it—It took herons and storks excellently—It had flown away b twice or thrice before It pounced so unfailingly on its quarry, as to make even one with so little skill cas myself the most successful of fowlers

On each of the six chief Dilazāk Afghans who accompanied Malik Tarkhān and Malik Mūsa, I bestowed a hundred mishkāls of silver, one vest, three bullocks, and one buffalo, out of the spoil of Hindustān — On the others, also, I bestowed money, cloth, bullocks and buffiles, according to the circumstances of each

March 26

When we had reached our ground at Ali Masjid, one Maaruf, a Yakub-khail Dilazak, brought ten sheep two loads of rice, and eight large cheeses, as tribute

March 27

March 28 March 29

March 30

From Ali Masjid we halted at Yadeh Bir — From Yadeh Bir we reached Jūi-Shāhi, at noon-day prayers, and halted This same day, Dost Beg was seized with a burning fever Early in the morning we marched from Jūi-Shāhi, and passed the mid-day of at the Bāgh-e-wafā? At noon-day prayers we left the Bāgh-e-wafā, and passed the Siāh-āb of Gandamak — Evening prayers were over, when, after having given four horses breath in a cultivated field, we mounted again in a gari? or two, and, passing the Surkhāb, halted at Karek, where we slept — Before dawn we again mounted, and, at the separation of the Karatū road, I and five or six others went to view a garden which I had made in Karatū I sent Khalīfeh, Shah Hassan Beg, and other persons $^{^{}n}$ I paid a visit to the huge banian tree ($barkal\bar{a}n$) at Bekrām and regretted I had not seen the Gor Khatri,

b moulted

c taste for this kind of sport

d ass loads c ate our mid day meal

 $^{^{\}rm f}$ Crossed the Siāh āb at Gandamak at evening prayer time, and after having given

¹ [Barkalān, which Erskine takes to mean the name of a place, signifies the 'Great Bar, or Banyān tree', which was doubtless grown from a cutting of the celebrated Bar tree at Buddhagāya]

² Near Adinapür

^{*} A garı is 24 minutes.

straight on to Kürük-Sai where they were to wait for me On reaching Karatū one Kizīl a tawachi of Shah Beg Arghun's, brought me information that Shah Beg had taken and plundered Kahan and retired. I issued orders that nobody should carry forward intelligence of my approach I reached Kübul at noon-day prayers, no one knew of my Bibur approach till I reached the bridge of Kutlük-kadam After reaches that, there was no time to put Humaiun and Kamran on horseback. They brought them forth in the arms of the nearest servants a between the gate of the fort and that of the citadel to offer me their duty. About afternoon prayers, Kisim Beg with the Kazi of the city and such of my court as had remained in Kābul b waited on me

On Friday the first day of the second Rabi Thad a joyial April 1 party about afternoon prayers. I bestowed a dress of honour from my own wardrobe on Shah Hassan

At daybreak on Saturday morning I went on board of April 2 a boat, and had a morning-party 4. At this entertainment Nur Beg played on the lute he had not then adopted a rigid severity of life. At noonday prayers we left the vessel and amused ourselves in a garden which I had laid out between Kulkineh and the hill About afternoon prayers we went to the Bagh-e-banafsheh, and sat down to our wine returned from Kulkinch over the ramparts into the citadel

Dost Beg

On the night of Tuesday the 5th Dost Beg, who had April3 crught a severe fever on the road was received into the mercy of God I was extremely concerned and grieved at this event. His body was carried to Ghazni, and buried in front of the entrance into the Sultan's Mausoleum d Beg was an admirable man. He was rising to the highest n pages, d garden

b Add and the notables,

ourn o

e a warrier of consummate valour

^{1 [}Kūrūk is the name given to a lofty mountain range which bounds the plain of Chahar dih on the south -Raverty's Notes. р 689 1

² Tawachi, an adjutant or commissary

^{2 [}This may be the well known capital of the Marri tribe in Belüchistän, as Shah Beg was at this time in Sind reducing that country to subjection 1

^{4 [}Sabühi means a morning draught of wine]

⁶ Or Gulguneh

[·] Violet Garden

His character

rank in the order of nobility. Before he had reached the rank of Beg, while attending my court, and attached to my person, he performed several gallant actions. One of these was when Sultan Ahmed Tambol surprised us by night, within a farsing of Andejan, at the Rabat of Zourak 1 With only ten or fifteen men, I stood my ground, charged him, and put his party to flight. By the time I came up with the main body of the enemy, where we found him standing with about a hundred men drawn up, I had only three men left with me, the rest having fallen behind, so that we were One of the three was Dost Nasir but four in number another Mirza Kuli Gokultash, the third Kerimdad on my corslet Tambol with another person stood in front of his troops about as far in advance as the outer vestibule of a house is from the door. I advanced right to Tambol, face to face, and struck him on the helmet with an I shot another arrow, which pierced his shield and plate-mail a They discharged an arrow at me, which passed close by my neck b Tambol let fall a heavy sword-blow on my head It is a singular fact, that though not a thread of my cap of mail was injured, yet my head was severely wounded No one coming up to my succour, and finding myself alone, I was obliged to retreat full gallop Dost Beg, who was somewhat behind me interposed, himself, and engaged him sword in hand, to fayour my escape another occasion, at Akhsi, when we were retreating out of that place, he had a single combat with Baki Hīz, though they called him Hiz (the effeminate) yet he was a stern and sturdy soldier, and wielded his sword right powerfully When I retired from Akhsi,2 and had only eight persons left with me, he was one of them The enemy after dismounting two others, at last dismounted Dost Beg. After he was elevated to the rank of Beg, too, when Siunjek Khan came with the Sultans to Tashkend, and besieged Ahmed Kasim, a and the leather attachment to which it was secured

b which grazed my thigh

¹ [In 1502—EB, p 172]
² [The retreat from Akhsi occurred later in the same year (1502)— EB, pp 176-7 1

he broke their ranks, passed through the middle of their army, and entered the city He likewise showed great selfdevotion in defending the place 1 Alimed Kasim, without giving him notice, abandoned the city and fled Under these circumstances, he manfully attacked the Khans and Sultans, forced his way out of Tashkend, broke through the midst of their army, and bravely effected his escape After this, when Shīrīm Taghāi and Mazīd, with their adherents. were in a state of rebellion. Dost Beg having been detached A H. 914. from Ghazni with a party of two or three hundred men on a plundering expedition, the Moghuls sent three or four hundred chosen men, to seek him out and chastise him Dost Beg fell in with this force of the enemy in the neighbourhood of Sherūkān, where he completely beat them, dismounted and took a number of them prisoners, and brought back with him a quantity of heads which he had cut off: At the storm of the fort of Bajour, too, Dost Beg's people came up and mounted the ramparts before any of the others, and, at Parhaleh, Dost Beg defeated Hati, put him to flight, and took the place 3 After Dost Beg's death, I gave his governments to his younger brother, Mīram Näsir

On Friday, the 8th of the latter Rabi, I left the fort, and A.D 1519 went to the Char-bagh

April 8

On Tuesday the 12th, Sultanım Begum, the eldest April 12 daughter of Sultan Mirza, a who, during the late occurrences, b had been in Khwarizm, where Isan Kuli Sultan, the younger brother of Yelipars 4 Sultan, had married her daughter, arrived with here in Kabul I assigned her the Bagh-ekhilwat for her residence After she had taken up her abode there, I went and waited on them As I visited them

Add and mother of Muhammed Sultan Mirza.

b the recent troublous times.

o with her is omitted, and no mention is made of the Sultan's daughter throughout the passage

¹ [In 1512 — TR, p 275]

² [This incident occurred in 1515—EB, p 334.]

^{3 [}The capture of the forts of Bajaur and Parhala took place in 15191

He is before called Dilbars, which seems to be the correct name with the same ceremony as if they were my elder sisters, I bowed down as a mark of politeness and respect, they also bowed down. I then went up to them and we embraced each other, and we always afterwards observed the same usage.

April 17

On Sunday the 17th, I released from custody that trutor Baba Sheikh, who had long been in confinement, forgave his offences, and bestowed on him a dress of honour

April 19

On Tuesday the 10th, I went out alout noon, to make a tour round Khwājeh Sehyārān ¹ That day I was fasting Yūnis Ali and some others said with surprise, 'What! Tuesday, and you fasting! This is a miracle' On reaching Behzādi, we halted at the Kazi's house That night we had made every preparation for a jolly party, when the Kazi came to me, and said, 'Such a thing was never yet seen in my house, however, you are Emperor and the Master' Although the whole apparatus for our merry-making was ready, yet, to please the Kazi, we gave up our intention of drinking wine ^a

April 21

On Thursday the 21st, I directed that an enclosure or fence b should be made on the hill, on the brow of which I had planned out a garden

April 22

On Friday, I embarked above the bridge on a raft On coming opposite to the Khāneh Sayādān (sportsmen's house), a bird called ding  was caught and brought to me I had never before seen a ding It has a singular appearance, and will be more particularly mentioned in the account of the animals of Hindustān

April 23 April 24. On Saturday the 28rd, I planted shoots of the plane, and of the sycamore, within the enclosure d At noon-day prayers we had a drinking party At daybreak next morn-

a Add On Wednesday I repaired to Khwaja Sihyaran.

b a large round platform c willow,

d round the circular platform

¹ [Sih yārān, or 'the three friends', is thus referred to in Masson's Belāchistān, Afghānistān, and the Panjāb (London, 1842), vol in, p 137 'Visible from Chārikār is a white building called the Sandūq, or chest, by the people It is a quadrangular building with a pillar at each angle and was once covered with a cupola']

The adjutant bird [Leptoptilus argala]

all presented with horses and dresses of honour, and dismissed, with liberty to return home

April 29

On Friday the 29th, I felt some symptoms of an intermittent fever, and got myself let blood. At that time there was an interval sometimes of two days, sometimes of three days, between the return of its attacks. At each attack the fever continued till a perspiration arose, when I was relieved. After ten or twelve days, Mulla Khwāja prescribed wine mixed with nareissus flowers. I took it once or twice, but it did me no good.

A D 1519 May 15 On Sunday, the 15th of the first Jumāda, Khwājeh Muhammed Alı came from Khost ¹ He brought a saddled horse as tribute, and also some money as an offering Muhammed Sherīf munajīm, ² and some sons of the Mirzas of Khost, accompanied Khwājeh Muhammed Alı, and tendered their services

May 16

Next morning, being Monday, Mulla Kabīr arrived from Kāshghar He had gone from Andejān to Kāshghar, and had thence come on to Kābul

May 23

On Monday the 23rd, Malik Shah Mansur Yüsefzai, with five or six chiefs of the Yüsefzais, came from Sawad, and waited on me

May 30

On Monday, the first of the latter Jumāda, I bestowed dresses of honour on the Afghan Yūsefzai chiefs who had accompanied Shah Mansūr, I gave Shah Mansūr a silken robe with rich buttons, presented another with a robe of waved silk, and gave other six persons robes of silk, after which I dismissed them. It was settled that they should never enter the country of Sawād higher up than Anūheh, and should strike out the contributions of the inhabitants from the rolls of their usual collections b, and further, that the Afghans who cultivate lands in Bajour and Sewād should pay six thousand kharwār or loads of rice to the government a silk robe and sleeves,

b and should turn out all such as were hable to contributions,

¹ Khost hes on the Kurram river, north of Dour, in the Afghan country ³ This would amount to nearly thirty eight thousand hundred weight.

On Wednesday the 3rd, I took a julep 1

On Monday, the 8th of the month, they brought the June 6 wedding present of Hamzah, the younger son of Kasım Beg, who was married to the eldest daughter of Khalifeh consisted of a thousand shahrokhis,2 with a saddled horse

Shah Hessan Beg's party

June 1

On Tuesday, Shah Hassan Beg sent to ask my permission June 7 to have a drinking party He carried Muhammed Ali, and other Begs of my court, to his house Yunis Ali and Gadai drinking Taghai were with me I still abstained from the use of wine 3 I said, 'I never in my life sat sober while my friends were getting merry, nor remained cool and observant while they were quaffing wine and getting jovial Come, there fore, and drink near me, that I may observe for a while the different progress and effects of society on the sober and the drunk 'a On the south-east of the Picture-gallery,4 which was built at the gate of the Chenār-bāgh, was a small set of -tents, in which I sometimes sat The party was held there Ghias, the buffoon, made his appearance, they several times in sport turned him out of the party, but at last, after much wrangling in jest, he forced his way into the meeting We sent for Tardi Muhammed Kipchāk and Mulla Kıtābdar I composed extempore, and sent to Shah Hassan and his party, the following verses

(Tūrl1)-My friends enjoy the rose garden of beauty in this banquet, While I am deprived of the delights of their society Yet since the charms of social bliss are theirs, I breathe a hundred prayers that no evil may betide them

I sent these lines by Ibrahim Chihreh Between noon-day and afternoon prayers, the party got drunk, and began to be guilty of follies b While they were in this state of into ucation, I made myself be carried out in my takht-rawan 5 For several days before this I had drunk the wine mixture. but afterwards, in consequence of its doing me no service, I had given up using it Towards the close of my illness, a what is the effect of the association of the drunk with the sober b Omit this clause. c During the period of my indisposition,

¹ [$Jul\bar{a}b = purgative.$] ² Nearly £50

Probably in consequence of his intermittent [fever]

⁴ Sūrat khaneh, or Picture palace

⁵ A sort of litter, generally carried between two mules

I made a party to the south-west of Talar chemit,1 under an apple tree, when we drank the medicated wine

June 10

On Friday the 12th, Ahmed Beg and Sultan Muhammed Duldar, who had been left in Bajour to assist in the defence of the country, resomed me

June 15

On Wednesday, the 17th of the month, Tengri Berdi, with some Begs and young officers, gave a party in Haider Taki's I too went to the party, and drank wine After bed-time prayers, we rose, left the place, and sat down to drink together in the Grand Public Tents 2

June 23

On Thursday, the 25th of the month, Mulla Mahmud was appointed to read the fikh-e-sciff *

June 28.

On Tuesday, the last day of the month, Abū Mushm Gokultāsh arrived from Shah Shujia Arghūn, as ambas-He brought a Tipchāk horse as a peshkesh same day Yüsef Alı Rıkābdar having swum across the waterplot of the Ragh-e-chenar a hundred times, received a dress of honour and a suddled horse as a present

July 6

On Wednesday, the 8th of Rajeb, I went to Shah Hassan's house, where we had a drinking party Many of my nobles and courtiers were present

July 9

On Saturday the 11th, there was a party between afternoon and evening prayers We went out to the terrace of the Pigeon-house, and sat down to our wine. When it was rather late, some horsemen were observed coming along the Deh-Afghanan road, proceeding to the city I ascertamed that they were Derwish Muhammed Sarban and his people, who were coming on an embassy from Mirza Khan, we sent for him up to the terrace 'Put aside the form and state of an ambassador,' said I, ' and sit down and join us without ceremony' Derwish Michil mmed accordingly came, and, having placed before me whew articles of the presents which he had brought, b sat down beside us At that time he was strict in his deportment, and did not drink wine

a Add and a sum of money

b Omit this clause.

¹ [Tālār garden.] [Large audience tents.]
² Sacred extracts from the Korān, which were to operate as charm for his recovery 4 Generally called Shah Beg

however, got extremely drunk Next morning, when I was sitting in the hall of audience, he came with all due state and ceremony, and having been introduced, presented the tributary offerings which Mirza Khan had sent

Last year, with extreme difficulty, and by unceasing exertions and management, all the natives in the neighbouring tracts, along with the Aimāks, had been moved and brought down into Kābul Kābul is but a small country. It has not sufficient room for the range of their flocks of sheep and brood-mares, and the Aimāks and Turks have not there any proper situations for their summer and winter residences. The tribes who inhabit the desert and wilds, if they have their own will, never will settle in Kābul Through Kāsim Beg, they begged leave to pass into another country Kāsim Beg pleaded hard for them, and at last procured leave for the Aimāks to go over to Kunduz and Baghlān 1

Hāfiz, Mīr Kātib's elder brother, had come from Samar- A D 1519 kand I now gave him leave to return I sent by him my dwān for Pūlād Sultan, and on the back of it I wrote the following verses

(Persian)—O Zephyr, if thou enter the sanctuary of that cypress, Remind him of this heart-broken victim of separation—
The object of my love thinks not of Bābur, yet I cherish a hope
That God will pour pity into his iron heart—(or Pūlād's 2 heart)

On Friday, the 17th of the month, Muhammed Zemān July 15 Mirza brought an offering, and a horse, as tribute from Shah Mazīd Gokultāsh,° and was introduced to me

The same day, having arrayed Abū Muslim Gokultāsh, the ambassador of Shah Beg, in a dress of honour, and given him some presents, d I gave him his audience of leave a promises and threats,

 b herds of cattle,
 c Shah Mazîd Gokultāsh arrived on behalf of Muhammed Zemān Mirza with tribute, and a horse as a present, d Omit this clause.

 $^{^{1}}$ [Baghlan lies east of Narı̈n on the same affluent of the Surkhab river]

 $^{^{2}}$ $P\bar{u}lad$ means steel, whence the play on the words, and the epigrammatic turn of these lines [P \bar{u} lad Sultan was a son of Kuchum, Khan of the Uzbegs]

The same day, I also gave an audience of leave to Khwājeh Muhammed Ali and Tengri Berdi, who held the countries of Khost and Anderāb ¹

July 21

On Thursday the 23rd, Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng, whom I had left in the neighbourhood of Kacheh-kot and Karlūk, districts which I had placed under his control, came to me accompanied by Mirza Malvi Karlūk's son, Shah Hussein and by some of Hāti's people

This same day, Mulla Ali Jan, who had gone to Samar-kand to bring his family, having returned, waited on me

Inroad on the Abdal Rahmän Afghans

July 27

The Abdal-Rahman Afghans a had settled themselves within the limits of Gerdez, and did not pay their taxes nor demean themselves peaceably They molested the caravans both in coming and going In order to chastise these Afghans, and beat up their quarters, on Wednesday, the 29th of Rajeb, I set out on an expedition against them We halted and took some food in the neighbourhood of Tang 1 Waghchan, 4 and again set out after noon-day That night we lost our road, and wandered a great deal to the south-east of Panjab shakhneh,5 among hillocks and waste a grounds After a time we again found the road, passed the hotal (hill-defile) of Chashmeh-c-tīrch,6 and about the time of morning prayers, reached the plain (descending to it by the valley of Yakishlik, on the side of Gerdez), and sent out our plundering parties to scour the country One detachment went out to plunder the country.

July 28

a broken

¹ Khost hes north west of Dour on the Kurram, and Anderab south west of Badakhshan

Beyond the Sind. Kacheh kot seems to be Chach [Karlük appears to be the present Hazara district]

³ [Raverty says these were a clan of the Khugiani tribe of Afghans —Notes, p 91]

^{4 [}According to Raverty (Notes, p 70) the Uchagan Pass has in the Lohgar Tuman between the Khushi valley and the village of Taghrau]

The Persian has Patakhab i shakhneh [According to Raverty, the proper name was Patakhab i shahnah (the morass of overseers), a place in the Longar Valley on the way to Hissarak.]

^{* [}Raverty calls this the Chashmah e türeh, and says it hes under the Gardez pass on the north side,—Notes, p 91]

and be it up the enemy's quarters on the side of the hill of Kirmäs, which has south-east of Gerdez. I sent Khosrou Mirza Kuli and Syed Ali, with a division under their command, from the right of the centre, to follow and support this body. A considerable party of troops a proceeded on a plundering excursion up the julga (or dale) to the east of Gerdez, Syed Küsim Ishek-agh i, Mir Shah Küchin, Kiyüm and Hindu Beg. Kutlük Kidem, Hussain, and their followers, were sent to support this second detachment.

As the party that went up the dale was the most considerable, after seeing them pass, I followed them inhabit into were a great way up, so that the troops which went to find them out tired their horses, and did not get the slightest thing worth mentioning. Forty or fifts Afghans came in sight on the plain. The party that had been sent to follow and support the troops rode up towards them and sent a horsem in to hasten my advance. I immediately rode briskly forward, but before I could come up, Hussam II issan, without motive or reason, had spurred on his horse into the midst of the Afghans, and while he was Living about him with his sword, his horse, being wounded with an arrow, threw him He had no sooner risen than they wounded him in the leg with a sword, threw him down again, disp itched him with their hangers and swords, and cut him in pieces. The Amirs stopped short, and stood looking on, but gave him no assistance. On getting information of this, I ordered Gadai Taghai, Payandch Muhammed Kiplan, Abul Hassan Korchi, Mümin Atkeh, with my immediate followers, and some chosen troops, to gallop on at full speed. I myself followed them at a quick pace First of all, Mümin Atkeh, on getting into action, struck down an Afghan with a spear, and cut off his head, which he brought away Abdal Hassan Korchi had not a The bulk of my army

¹ [P de C reads 'Girmās', which he says means 'impenetrable mountain'] On the Kurram there is a village called Karmān Perhaps the hill country at the sources of the Kurram may be meant, the whole country watered by that river being sometimes called Karmān.

² The Chamberlain

arrayed himself in his mail, but he advanced bravely, posted himself in the road by which the Afghans were marching, charged among them full speed on horseback, brought down an Afghan with his sabre, and cut off his head, which he brought in as a trophy He himself received three wounds, and his horse was also wounded in one place Payandch Muhammed Kıplan also advanced very gallantly, attacked and wounded an Afghan, sword in hand, made him prisoner, a and brought in his head Though the courage of Abul Hassan and Payandeh Muhammed Kıplan had been distinguished on former occasions, yet in this affair they gave still more conspicuous proofs of their gallantry These forty or fifty Afghans were all shot or cut down to a man After slaving the Afghans, we halted in a cultivated field, and I directed a tower of skulls to be made of their heads By the time I reached the road, the Begs who had been with Hussain came up Being very angry, and resolved to make an example of them, I said,—'As you, though so many in number, have stood by and seen a young man of such distinction and merit killed by a few Afghans on foot, and on plain ground, I deprive you of your rank and station, take from you your commands and governments, direct your beards to be shaven, and that you be led ignominiously round the streets of the town, that no man may henceforward give up a youth of such worth to so contemptible an enemy On level ground you stood looking on, and never lifted an arm Be this your punishment 'b That detachment of the army which had gone towards Kirmäs brought in some sheep and plunder Baba Kashkeh, who was a very resolute man, while an Afghan was in the act of lifting his sword, and rushing on to come to close quarters with him, stood his ground without flinching, applied his arrow to the string with the greatest coolness, hit the Afghan, and brought him down

a Omit made him prisoner,

b that all may know that such will be the punishment of every one who gives up to such a contemptible enemy, a soldier of so much worth on level ground without raising a hand to help him and looking on as an impassive spectator

c and had taken part in this expedition,

Next morning we set out on our return towards Kābul July 29 I ordered Muhammed Bakhshi, Abdal-azīz Mīr Akhūr, 1 a.p. 1510 and Mir Khurd Bekäwel to remain at Chashmeh-tirch and take some larlacels? I myself, with a small body went by the way of Meidan-e-Rustam as I had never seen that road. The Meidan-e-Rustam lies in the heart of a full country towards the top of the hills. The place is not remarkable for beauty. In the middle of a bill is an open julga or dale. To the south on the skirts of an eminence is a small fount up of water. It is surrounded with extremely large trees. Mong the road leading from Gerdez to this Meidan-e-Rustam there are springs. They also have many trees about them, but these trees are not so lofty as the former. Although the julga is rather narrow vet below these list-mentioned trees the valley is extremely yerd int and it is a most beautiful little dale. On reaching the top of the hill which rises to the south of Meidan-c-Rustam the hill-country of Kirmas and the hill-country of Bangash appear under our feet. As the rains do not reach that tract of ground b there is never a cloud seen on it. About noonday prayers I reached Hüh and halted

Next morning I halted at the village of Muhammed Aka, July 20 and indulging myself with a manifin made them throw into the water the liquor used for intoxicating fishes, and caught a few fish

On Sunday the third of Shaban, I arrived in Kabul

On Tuesday the 5th of the month I inquired into the conduct of Darwish Muhammed Fazli, and the servants of Khosrou regarding the surrender of Nilab and it appearing a It consists of a rather broad valley which opens out between two mountain ranges

b As the rainy serson does not prevail beyond the Karwar moun

e regarding the capture of Hosain

¹ Master of Horse. * Taster

July 31 Augu t 2

⁴ [Raverty in his Notes, pp 456-7, gives a long account of this place, and says it is situated on the main western range of the Mehtar Suleiman mountains at a point where it sends off a branch The Tochi and Zurmat rivers take their rise in to the north east the southern part of this julgah, and here too are to be found the rums of the ancient city of Zabull clearly in the course of the examinations that they had behaved ill, I degraded them from their rank and employments. About noon-day prayers, there was a drinking party under a plane tree. I bestowed a dress of honour on Bāba Kashkeh Moghul

August 5

On Friday the 8th, Kipck, who had been sent to Mirza Khan returned back

August 11

On Thursday, we mounted a morder to ride round and visit the damenkoh (or skirts of the hill-country) of Khwajeh Schyaran and Baran About bed-time prayers we alighted at Mama Khatun 1 Next morning, we went as far as Istalif where we halted That day I took a manjun

August 12

On Saturday, we had a drinking party at Istalif

August 13
August 11

Next morning we left Istälif, and passed through the Sinjid darch. When we had nearly reached Khwājch Sehyārān, they killed a large serpent, which was as thick as the arm, and as long as a man b. Out of this large serpent erept a thinner one which had apparently been caught and swallowed immediately before. All its parts were quite uninjured and sound. The thin serpent might be somewhat shorter than the thick one. Out of the thin serpent came a large rat, which likewise was perfectly sound, no limb of it was injured. On reaching Khwājeh Schyārān, we had a drinking party

I wrote letters a which I sent by the hand of Kichkinch tunketar to the Amirs beyond the hills, desiring them to assemble the force of the country mentioning that the army was in the field, and about to make an inroad, that they must therefore array themselves and join the camp of

August 15

Next morning I mounted, and took a manjun We threw into the river Parwan, where it meets the road f some

ⁿ Add in the afternoon,

b the two arms outstretched d 1dd the same day.

c a small mouse,
Add at the fixed renders ous

f at its confluence with the Kabul rive

¹ [Masson mentions Māmā Khātūn as a pass that opens on to the Kārā dushman plain north of Kābul]

² [Night watch, according to P de C

² Mar, the military force of the country of Kabul being still called alari of the drug which is used by the inhabitants of the country to into leate the fishes, and took a very great quantity of Mir Shah Beg presented me with a horse, and gave us a dinner From thence we went on to Gulbehar time prayers we had a drinking party Derwish Muhammed Sarban was present at these parties Though young, and a soldier, yet he never indulged in wine He always rigidly abstained from it Kūtluk Khwājeh Gokultāsh had for a long time renounced the profession of arms, and become a Derwish He was very aged, and his beard had become white, but he always joined us at our wine in these jovial drinking parties 'Does not the hoary beard of Kūtluk Khwājeh make you ashamed?' said I to Muhammed Derwish, 'Old as he is, and white as is his beard, he always You, a soldier, young, with a black beard, and never drink! What sense is there in this?' It never was my custom, as I did not think it polite, to press anybody to drink who did not wish, so that this passed as a mere pleasantry, and he was not induced to take wine

Next morning we had a morning cup

August 16 August 17

On Wednesday, we left Gulbehar, and came to the village of Alūn,1 where we dined, and then went on to Bāghāt khām, where we halted After noon-day prayers we had a drinking party

Next morning, we set out again on our progress, and after August 18 having visited and circumambulated the tomb of Khwajeh Khan-Said, embarked in a raft at Chineh Kurghaneh At the conflux of the river Penjhir, where the hill juts out. the raft struck on a rock, and began to sink When the raft struck, the shock was so violent, that Rühdem, Tengri Kuli, and Mir Muhammed Jälehban, were tossed into the river Rühdem and Tengri Kuli were dragged again into the raft with much difficulty A china cup with a spoon and cymbal felloverboard Putting off from thence, as we reached a place opposite to Sang-e-burideh (the Cut-rock), the raft again struck on something in the midst of the stream, I know not whether the branch of a tree, or a stake, which had been driven in for making a stop-water Shah Hassan Shah Beg went over on his back While falling, he laid hold of Mirza

¹ [Or Atun, according to the Persian version.]

Kuh Gokultāsh, and drew him in along with him Derwish Muhammed Sārbān likewise tumbled into the water Mirza Kuh Gokultāsh fell in an odd way. He had in his hand a knife for cutting melons, which, while in the act of falling, he struck into the mat that was spread over the raft, and fell overboard. Not being able to regain the raft, he kept swimming in his gown and dress of honour, till he reached the shore. On disembarking from the raft, we passed that night in the raftsmen's houses. Derwish Muhammed made me a present of a cup of seven colours, like that which had fallen overboard.

August 19

On Friday, we left the banks of the river We halted on the skirt of a small hill situated lower down than Koh-Bārik, where I plucked a number of toothpicks with my own hand had habout noon-day prayers, we halted in Kūtluk Khwājeh's village, in a district of Lamghān Kūtluk Khwājeh got ready a hasty dinner, of which I partock, after which I rode back to Kābul

August 22

A D 1519

On Monday the 25th, I bestowed a hinlant i hhasch³ (or dress of honour of the highest degree), and a saddled horse, on Derwish Muhammed Särbän, and he was presented on being raised to the rank of Beg ^c For four or five months I had never cut the hair of my head On Wednesday the 27th I had it cut—This day we had a drinking party

August 24
August 26

On Friday the 29th, I invested Mir Khurd with the office of governor to Hindal, on which occasion he brought me a present of a thousand shahrokhis 4

a Koh Injikah

c he was made to do me homage as a vassal

* Trūl is a jaghīr or estate

4 About £50 The mention of such sums shows the poverty of the country

b Add Thence we went to the house of Khwāja Khizr Khaili where we partook of food, after which we rode on

¹ [Miswāls, which are generally made from the thorny shrub called Capparis aphylla]

² The khdaal * khāsch, or dress of honour of the highest degree, in the time of Bābur, probably consisted of a robe or vest of rich cloth, a cap, sabre and dagger with enamelled handles, a military standard, and a horse with trappings enriched with gold, and perhaps the nakūra khūnch, or band of music

On Wednesday, the 5th of Ramzān, one Jekni, a servant August 31 of Tālik Gokultāsh Birlās, a came from his master with a letter reporting that an Uzbek plundering party had appeared in his neighbourhood, and that he had overtaken, attacked, and defeated it—The messenger brought one Uzbek alive, and the head of another

On the night of Saturday the 8th, we went to Kāsim Beg's Sept 3 house, and broke our fast ¹ He presented me with a saddled horse Next morning, we broke our fast at the house of Khalifeli, who presented me with a saddled horse

The morning after, Khwājeh Muhammed Ali and Jān Sept 4 Nāsir, who had been sent for in order to consult about military matters, arrived from their governments

On Wednesday the 12th, Sultan Ali Mirza, the maternal Sept 7 uncle of Kämrän, who, in the year in which I passed over from Khost to Käbul, had proceeded to Käshghar, as has been mentioned, waited on me

On Thursday, the 13th of Ramzān, I set out on an Sept 8 expedition for the purpose of repelling and chastising the Yūsefzais, and halted at a valley b which lies near Deh-Yākub, on the Kābul side of that village As I was mounting my horse, Bāba Jān, my waiting-man, having presented it in an awkward manner, I was angry, and struck him a blow on the face with my fist, by which I dislocated my thumb I did not feel it much at the time, but when I had dismounted at the end of our march, it had become extremely painful For a long while I suffered excessively from it, and I was unable to write a single letter—It got well, however, at last

At this station, one Kutlükdam,d a foster-brother of my aunt, Doulet Sultan Khanum, arrived from Kāshghar, bringing letters and news of the Khanum

The same day, Būkhān and Mūsa, the chiefs of the Dilazāks, came with their tribute, and were introduced e a Barlas Jūki, a servant of Tüluk Kukultash,

d Muhammed Kutlük,

A)

b meadow c having brought forward a sorry nag,

e did me homage.

¹ This being Ramzān, Bābur did not break his fast till sunset In like manner, during Ramzān, they eat in the morning, before sunrise

Sept 11 Sept 14 On Sunday the 16th, Küch Beg arrived

On Wednesday the 19th, we marched, and, passing by But-khīk,¹ halted in the place where we had been accustomed to encamp on the banks of the But-khāk river—As Bāmiān, Kahmard, Ghūri, and the districts held by Kūch Beg, were much exposed, in consequence of the vicinity of the Uzbeks, I excused him from accompanying the army, and at this station, presenting him with a turban which I myself had worn, together with a complete dress of honour, dismissed him to his government

On Friday the 21st, we halted at Bādām-chashmeh

Sept 16

Sept 21, 22, and 23

Next morning, we halted at Barīk-ab 2 I went and rode all round Karayūl a In the course of this day's march, we found honey in a tree Advancing, march after march, on Wednesday the 26th we halted at Bagh 3 All Thursday we stayed at Bagh On Friday, we marched, and halted after passing Sultanpur The same day, Mir Shah Hussain arrived from his government Bükhan and Müsa, the chiefs of the Dılazāks, and the Dılazāks themselves, also arrived this day I had intended to make an expedition against Sawad, in order to check the Yusefzais The Dilazak chiefs represented to me, that, in Hashnaghar, there were a great number of Ulus (or wandering tribes), who had large quantities of corn, and urged me to attack them consulting, I finally arranged that, as there seemed to be large quantities of grain in Hashnaghar, we should plunder the Afghans of that neighbourhood; that we should fit up the fort of Hashnaghar, or that of Pershäwer, and lay up magazines of grain in them, and that Mir Shah Hussain should be left there with a body of troops for their defence

a Karatū

¹ [But khāk (idol dust) lies about ten miles due east of Kābul on the Jelālābād road, according to Raverty It owes its name to the legend that Mahmūd of Ghazni here broke up and pounded to dust the idols he had brought from Hindustān]

² [Bārīk āb, according to Elphinstone's map, is situated on the right bank of the Kābul river some five miles west of its junction with the Panjshīr It is the intermediate stage on the Kābul-Jelālābād road between But khāk and Gandemak (Vigne's Personal Narrative, London, 1840)]

In e the Bagh I wafa]

In consequence of this resolution, Mir Shah Hussain got leave of absence for a fortnight, that he might go back to his government, and return with such warlike stores as were requisite

Next morning, we resumed our march, and came to Jūī Sept 24 Shāhi,1 where we halted Tengri Berdi and Sultan Muhammed Duldar overtook and joined us at this station zah likewise arrived this day from Kunduz

On Sunday, the 30th of Ramzan, we marched from Jui Sept 25 Shāhi, and halted at Kirik arik 2 I went on board of a raft with a few of my intimate friends. We passed the feast of the new moon 3 in this station Some people had brought several animals loaded with wine from the valley of Nur After evening prayers, there was a drinking party, consisting of Muhibb Ali Korchi, Khwajeh Muhammed Ali Kıtābdar, Shah Hassan Shah Beg, Sultan Muhammed Duldai, and Derwish Muhammed Sarban Derwish Muhammed always abstained from wine From my childhood down, it has been my rule that no one should be pressed to drink against his will Derwish Muhammed was always of our parties, and never was urged to drink at all Khwajeh Muhammed Alı would not suffer him to take his own way but, by pressing and urging, made him drink some wine

Early on Monday, being the day of the Id,4 we renewed Sept 26 our march, on the way I took a maajun to remove the crop sickness At the time of my taking the maajun a they brought a coloquint apple 5 Derwish Muhammed had never seen one I told him it was a Hindustani melon, and cutting it up, gave him a slice which he put hastily into his mouth, and chewed eagerly The bitter taste did not leave

^a When under the influence of a ma'jūn

^{1 [}Raverty states that this is the old name of Ningrahār It may be located at the point where the Lamphān river joins the Kābul.1

 $^{^2}$ [Kirik arik = the forty channels (P de C)] 2 The Id e fitr is the festival on the conclusion of the feast of the Ramzan, celebrated on seeing the new meon of Shawal.

That is, of the new moon of Shawal. The new moon having been seen the evening before, which to the Musulmans was Monday evening, they had celebrated the Id e fitr on Monday eve his mouth that whole day. We halted on the rising ground of Garm-chashmeh. Some meat had been already dressed and presented, when Langer Khan, who had been for some time at his place, arrived with an offering of some manjuna as tribute, and made a tender of his services. We went and halted at Badeh-sir. At afternoon prayers, I went aboard of a raft with several of my intimates, sailed down the stream about a kos, and then returned back.

[[]Citrullus colocynthus, or wild gourd.]

Sept 27

Next morning we marched thence and halted at the bottom of the Kheiber Pass. The same day Sultan Bayazīd who had passed over from Nilāb by way of Bāreh (whence having got notice of my motions, he had traced me out) arrived and gave me information, that the Afrīdī Afghans, with their families and property, were settled in Bīreh, where they had sown a great quantity of rice, which had not yet been carried off the ground. As I had fixed on plundering the country of the Yūsefzai Afghans and Hashnaghar, I did not care to meddle with these others. At noonday prayers, we had a drinking party at the quarters of Khwājeh Muhammed Ali. During this party I sent to Khwājeh Kalān at Bajour, by the hands of Sultan Tirāhi a detailed account of our march into these countries. On the margin of the letter I wrote the following couplet.

O, Zephyr! kindly say to that beautiful fawn— Thou hast condemned me to wander in the hills and deserted

Marching thence at dawn, we passed the defiles of Kheiber, and halted at Ah Masjid. Marching again about noon-day prayers, and leaving the baggage to follow, we reached the banks of the river of Käbul when the second watch was over and had a short sleep. At break of day we discovered a ford, a Add and a horse

^{&#}x27; Hot spring

^{* [}The Afridis are a powerful tribe inhabiting the Khaiber Pass, Kohāt Pass, and part of Tirah | For guarding the two former they receive subsidies from the British Government]

² The Bira river flows past Peshawar and its canals irrigate the gardens and fields near the city. Bara rice is still considered the finest in India ?

¹ Two Persian verses from an ode of Haliz

^{&#}x27; [i e midnight]

and crossed the river We got notice from our advanced A D 1519 party, that the Afghans had received information of our approach, and fled Proceeding in our course we crossed the river of Sawad, and halted amidst the cornfields of the Afghans We did not find one half of the grain that we had been led to expect, indeed, not one-fourth sequently gave up my intention of fortifying Hashnaghai as a depôt The Dilazāk chiefs who had urged us to make this inroad were rather mortified. About afternoon prayers we crossed to the Kābul side of the Sawād river, and halted

Next morning, having marched from the Sawad river,1 Sept 30 we crossed the Kābul river and halted Having summoned the Begs who were admitted to council, we held a consultation, in which it was resolved to plunder the country of the Afrīdī Afghans, as had been proposed by Sultan Bayazīd, to fit up the fort of Peshawer for the reception of their effects and corn, and to leave a garrison in it Hindu Beg, and the Mīrzādehs 2 of Khost, joined us at this station This day I took a maaiun Derwish Muhammed Sarban, Muhammed Gokultāsh, and Gadāi Taghāi, the captain of the night-guard, were of the party We afterwards sent also for Shah Hassan After dinner, about afternoon prayers, we embarked on a raft We sent for Langer Khan Sarı lıkewise to join us on the raft About evening prayers we landed and returned to the camp

Marching early in the morning from the banks of the October 1. river, in execution of the plan which had been formed, and passing Jam,3 we halted on reaching the mouth of the river of Alı Masjıd Abul Hāshem Sultan Alı, who had followed us, reported, that on the eve of Arifeh, he had, at Jui Shahi, met with a person who was come from Badakhshān, and who had informed him, that Sultan Said Khan was marching against Badakhshān, which had induced him to hasten to

¹ [The Swat river joins the Kābul on the left bank at Nisatta]

² Sons of the Mirs

Now Jamrūd.

This appears to be a mistake or oversight of Bābur The shab or eve of Arifeh was not till the evening of December 2, 1519 He probably meant to say, the Id e fitr, which had occurred only five days before, on September 26

me with the intelligence — I immediately sent for the Begs and consulted them, when it was resolved to renounce our plan of garrisoning the fort, and to set out on an expedition into Badakhshān — I bestowed a dress of honour on Langer Khan, and appointing him to reinforce Muhammed Ali Jeng-Jeng, gave him his leave — That night we had a drinking party in Khwājeh Muhammed Ali's tent

October 2

Early next morning we set out on our march, and crossing the Kheiber Pass, halted at the foot of it The Khizer-Khail had been extremely licentious in their conduct Both on the coming and going of our army they had shot upon the stragglers, and such of our people as lagged behind or separated from the rest, and carried off their horses was clearly expedient that they should meet with a suitable chastisement. With this view, early in the morning, we marched from the foot of the Pass, and spent the noon in Deh-ghulāmān 1 About noon-day prayers we fed our horses, and dispatched Muhammed Hussain Korchi to Kābul, with orders to seize all the Khizer-Khail in the place, to put their property under sequestration, and to send me an account of what was done I also desired them to write minutely, and send by some swift person whatever information had been received from Badakhshan That night we continued marching till midnight, and halted a little beyond Sultanpur, from which place, after having taken a short sleep, we mounted again The quarters of the Khizer-Khail extended from Bahar and Masikh-kiram as far as Kara-sū³ The morning had dawned when we came up with and charged them Much property, and many of their children, fell into the hands of our troops A few of them gained a hill which was a near at hand, and escaped

October 3

Next morning we encamped at Kila-ghu, where we took

October 4

a the hills which were

¹ [Also called Basāul (Raverty's Notes, p 54) It lies on the right bank of the Kābul river about ten miles east of Kāmeh, where the Chitrāl river joins the Kābul]

^{* [}Hichgram, according to Raverty]

² [The Kara sū, or dark water, is crossed on the route between Bāgh i safā and Bālā bāgh, and joins the Surkh rūd east of the latter place (Raverty's Notes, p 53)]

some karkacels. The baggage which had been left behind vib 1519 joined us to-day at this station

The Wazīrī 1 Afghans had been very irregular in paying Marmed at this example of punishment, they now brought three hundred sheep as tribute

Till my hand had got better I could not write at all this station, on Sunday the 14th, I was able to write a little October 9

Next morning the chiefs of the Khirilchi and Shamu- October 10 Khail arrived, accompanied by a body of Afghans Dilazak chiefs carnestly besought me to overlook and forgive the offences of these people, I accordingly pardoned them, and set the prisoners at liberty. I fixed their tribute at four thousand sheep, and, having given their chiefs vests of honour, sent them back into their country, accompanied by collectors, whom I appointed

Having settled these affairs, on Thursday the 18th we October 13 murched, and halted at Bahar and Masikh-kiram Next October 14 morning I reached the Bagh-e-wafa, it was the season when the garden was in all its glory. Its grass-plots were all covered with clover, its pomegrinate trees were entirely of a beautiful yellow colour. It was then the pomegranate season, and the pomegranates were hanging red on the The orange trees were green and cheerful, loaded with immunicrable oranges, but the best oranges were not yet ripe. Its pomegranates are excellent, though not equal to the fine ones of our country. I never was so much pleased with the Bagh e wafa (the Garden of Fidelity), as on this occasion. During the three or four days that we stayed at the Garden, all the people in the camp had pomegranates in abundance

On Monday we marched from the Garden, I stayed till the October 17 first watch, and bestowed the oranges on different persons I gave Shah Hassan the oranges of two trees, to several Begs I gave one tree, and to several two orange trees a As I had an intention of travelling through the Lamghan in a in other cases the fruit of one tree was divided between two persons.

¹ [The territory of this troublesome tribe has roughly between the Tochi and Gumal rivers, and so they had a long distance to cover in order to reach Babur's camp |

the winter, I desired them to tive about twenty trees, around the piece of water, for my use. This day we reached Goodanak.

October 16

Next morning we halted at Jagdāli — Towards evening prayers we had a drinking party, many of my courtiers were present. About the end of the party, Gadāi Muhammed, sister's son of kāsim Beg, became very noisy and troublesome, and, when he got drink, placed himself on the pillow on which I reclined, whereupon Gadāi Taghāi turned him out of the party.

October 19

Marching thence, before break of day, I went to visit the country up the Bărīk āb of Kūrūk sāi Many tural trees were in excellent beining. We halted at that place, and, having dired on a dish eilled yull eran, we drank wine in honour of the rich crop. We made them kill a sheep which was picked up on the road, caused some meat to be dressed, kindled a fire of oak brunches, and entertained ourselves. Mulla Abdal Malūk Diwāneh having petitioned to be allowed to carry to Kābul the news of my approach, I accordingly dispatched him for that city

Hassan Nabīreh, who had come on the part of Mirza Khan, after giving me due notice of his intentions, here met and waited on me. We continued at this place drinking till the sun was on the decline, when we set out. Those who had been of the party were completely drunk. Syed Kūsim was so drunk, that two of his servants were obliged to put him on horseback, and brought him to the camp with great difficulty. Dost Muhammed Bākir was so far gone that Amīh Muhammed Terkhān, Masti Chihreh, and those who were along with him, were unable with all their exertions, to get him on horseback. They poured a great quantity of water over him, but all to no purpose. At this moment a body of Afghans appeared in sight. Amīn Muhammed Terkhān, being very drunk, gravely gave it as his opinion, that rather than leave him, in the condition in which he was, to fall into the hands of the enemy, it was better at once to a which borders

¹ [Tural is the Arabic name for the common Purslam (Portulaco olcracca), but it is a prostrate herb and not a tree]

cut off his head and carry it away. Making another exertion however, with much difficulty, they contrived to throw him upon a horse, which they led along, and so brought him off

We reached Kābul at midnight Next morning Kuli Beg, October 20 who had been sent to Käshghar on an embissy to Sultan Said Khan returned and waited on me in the hall of audi-Bisligeh Mirza ambärchi,1 who had been sent along with Kuli Beg on an embassy to me, brought with him a few of the rardies of that country as presents

On Wednesday, the first of Zilkandeh, I went alone and October 26 had an early cup close by Kābil Beg sa tomb, the party afterwards dropped in, by one or two at a time. When the sun waxed hot, we retired to the Bagh e-ban ifsheh," and sat down to our wine by the side of the piece of water. At midday we took a nap. and, about noon-day prayers, again returned to our wine At this afternoon party, I gave wine to Tengri Kuli Beg and Mehndi, which I had never before At bed-time prayers I reached Hamam,3 and stayed there that night

On Thursday, I bestowed dresses of honour on the mer- October 27 chants of Hindustan, who were under the guidance of Yahid Lüham, and gave them leave to depart

On Saturday, the 4th of the month, I granted audience of October 29 leave to Bishgeh Mirza, who had come from Kashghar, when I gave him a dress of honour, and made him some presents

On Sunday, I had a party in the small Picture cabinet October of that is over the gate. Although the apartment is very small, our party consisted of sixteen

On Monday, I went to Istalif, to see the harvest This October 31 day I took a manjun During the night there was a great deal of run Most of the Begs and courtiers who had attended me were obliged to take refuge in my tent, which was pitched in the middle of a garden b

Next morning we had a drinking party in the same tent Nov 1 a Kābil's

b Bägh i kalan or the Great Garden

¹ Warehouse keeper

² Violet Garden

³ The Hot Baths

A. D 1519

Nov 2

We continued drinking till night On the following morning we again had an early cup, and, getting intoxicated, went to sleep About noon-day prayers, we left Istalif, and I took a maajun on the road It was about afternoon prayers before I reached Behzadi 1 The crops were extremely good While I was riding round the harvest-fields, such of my companions as were fond of wine began to contrive another drinking bout Although I had taken a maajun, yet, as the crops were uncommonly fine, we sat down under some trees that had yielded a plentiful load of fruit, and began to drink We kept up the party in the same place till bed-time prayers Mulla Mahmud Khalifeh having arrived, we invited him to join us. Abdallah, who had got very drunk, made an observation which affected Khalifeh Without recollecting that Mulla Mahmud was present, he repeated the verse,

(Persian)-Examine whom you will, you will find him suffering from the same wound

Mulla Mahmud, who did not drink, reproved Abdallah for repeating this verse with levity 2 Abdallah, recovering his judgement, was in terrible perturbation, and conversed in a wonderfully smooth and sweet strain all the rest of the evening b

Nov 10

On Thursday the 16th, I took a maajun in the Bagh-ebanafsheh, and embarked in a boat with several of my more Humārūn and Kāmrān also joined us intimate associates Afterwards Humāiūn shot a water-fowl in very handsome style

Nov 12

On Saturday the 18th, we rode out from the Charbagh about noon, o and, after dismissing our grooms and atten-

a I was so enchanted with the beauty of the trees, all laden with fruit, that I seated myself under them, b Add Having surveyed all the crops I reached the Charbagh at evening prayer time and alighted there

e midnight,

¹ [Masson (vol 111, p 115) refers to Bezādī as a large village north of Kabul on the elevated side of a deep ravine between Shakar darah and Bedak]

² This verse, I presume, is from a religious poem, and has a mystical meaning The profane application of it is the ground of offence.

d ints a passed Mulla Baba's bridge and, mounting the strut of Deverin 1 reached the subterraneous water-runs 2 of Küsh-näder and Bäzäriän "We then passed behind Klurs khaneh, and came late, about the time of the first sleep, to Terdi Beg Khāksīr's subterraneous conduit Terdi Beg on hearing of our arrival ran out in a great hurry to wait on mc I well knew Tersh Beg's thoughtless profuse turn and that he did not dislike his glass. I had b taken with me a hundred shahrokhis, which I now gave him, telling him to get ready wine and everything else for an entertainment, as I wished to make merry with some jolly companions Terdi Beg set out for Behzādi to bring wine I sent my horse with one of Terdi Beg's slaves to graze in a valley, while I myself sat down behind the water-course, on a rising ground. It was past the first watch (nine o clock) when Terdi Beg came back with a pitcher of wine, and we set about drinking it While Terdi Beg was bringing the wine, Muhammed Kasim Birlas and Shahzadeh, who had guessed at the object of his errand but had no suspicion that I was concerned, had dogged Terdi Beg on foot. We invited them to be of the party. Terdi Beg said, that Hul-hul-ankeh wished to drink wine with us I said, 'I have never seen a woman drink wine. Call her to be of the party. He likewise sent for a kalender,6 called Shahi, and a man connected with the conduit, who played on the rcbeck? We sat drinking wine on the eminence behind the water-run till evening prayers, after which we went to Tordi Beg's house, and drank by candle-light till after bedtime prayers. It was a wonderfully amusing and guileless I lay down, and the party went to another house, where they drank till the kettle drum beat Hul-hul-ankch came, and was very riotous with me, at last, however, I threw my self down, as if completely drunk, and so escaped I intended to mount my horse alone, and set off for Ister-a night guards,

1 Rabāb

b I well knew that Tardi Beg did not dishke his glass, and so had

² [1 e the Bazars.]
⁵ About £5 sterling 1 Durin 2 harez

⁴ Bear house

A kalender is a religious mendicant of a particular class.

Nov 13

ghach, without letting them know. They discovered my design, however, so that it did not succeed. At length, when the kettle-drum beat, I mounted Having desired Terdi Beg and Shahzādeh to accompany me, we all three rode on towards Isterghach. About early morning prayers we reached Khwaich Hassan, below Istalif We halted for a little, and I took a maajun, and made a circuit of the crops Towards sunrise, we halted at the garden of Istalif, and atc grapes, and finally halted and slept at Khwajeh Shahab, in the territory of Isterghach The house of Ata Mīr Akhūr was there While we were asleep, he prepared an entertainment, and got ready a pitcher of wine. It was of excellent vintage We drank several cups and mounted At noon-day prayers, we alighted in a beautiful a garden at Isterghach, and had a merry party In a little time Khwajeh Muhammed Amin joined us We continued drinking till night prayers During the course of that night and day, Abdallah, Asas, Nür Beg, and Yüsef Alı arrived from Käbul

Nov 14

Next morning we breakfasted, and rode round the Bägh-e-pādshāhi,¹ which is below Isterghach. One appletree had been in excellent bearing. On some branches b five or six scattered leaves still remained, and exhibited a beauty which the painter, with all his skill, might attempt in vain to portray. From Isterghach we rode to Khwājeh Hassan, where we dined. About evening prayers, we came to Behzādi, and drank wine in the house of one of Khwājeh Muhammed Amīn's servants, named Imām Muhammed.

Nov 15 Nov 17 Nov 18 Next morning, being Tuesday, we arrived at the Chārbāgh of Kābul On Thursday the 23rd I entered the fort On Friday, Muhammed Ali Haider Rikābdar having taken a tāeghān,² brought it in and presented it to me

Nov 19

On Saturday the 25th, I had a party in the Bägh-e-chenär ³ About bed-time prayers I mounted As Syed Käsim had taken offence at something, I alighted on coming to his house, and drank a few glasses

a abounding in fruit

b On each of its branches

¹ Royal Garden. ² [White falcon, according to P de C]

³ The plane tree garden.

On Thursday the 1st of Zilligeh Tayed din Mahmud who Nov 21 had come from Kandahar waited on me

On Monday the 19th, Muhammed Ali Jeng-Jeng arrived Dec 12 from Nilab

On Tuesday, Singer Khan Jenjüheh, who had come from Dec 13 Behreh, waited on me

On Friday the 23rd, I finished my extracts from the four Dec. 10 drewns of Ali Sher Beg, the ghazels of which I had selected and arranged according to their measure

On Tuesday the 27th, I had a party in the citadel. In Dec 20 this party, the rule was that every person who got drunk should leave the place, and another person be invited to supply his room 3

On I'nd ν the 30th of Zilligeh. I set out to make a cir- p_{ee} m_{ee} cut of I amghān

THE OCCURRENCES OF 9261

ON Siturday the 1st of Muharrem, I reached Khwājeh A D 1519 Schyārīn and had a drinking party upon the mound which $\frac{1}{2}$ had been thrown up by the Jūī-nou (or new river) b

Next morning I mounted and rode to visit Reg i rawan 2 Dec 25 I alighted at the Khanch bulbuli, 2 belonging to Syed Kasim, where we had a party

Next morning, I mounted and continued my tour—I took—Dec 26 a manjun—and went on till we reached Bilker—Although we had taken wine over-night, in the morning we had a morning cup—About noon-day prayers we proceeded onto Durnümeh,4 where we halted and had a drinking party—Before break of day, we had a morning draught—Hak-dād, the chief of Dec. 27 Durnümeh, presented me with his garden as a peshkesh

" on the banks of the new canal where it came out

Begram (three miles east of Kabul) to which a sterile sandy tract ascends (Masson, vol 111, p. 152)]

² Nightingale hall

^a I ordered that whoever left the room in a state of intoxication should not be admitted to it again

¹ [The vear A и 926 began on 23rd Dec v р 1519 ² Moving sand [Khwājā Reg i rawān is a bill and Ziārat near

Durnameli is a little valley that joins that of the north west

д D 1510 Dec. 29 On Thursday, we mounted and rode on to Deh-Tājikān,¹ in Nijrau, where we halted

Dec 30

On Friday, we hunted the hill which lies between Kulbeh² and the river Bārān, and killed many deer — From the time my finger was hurt I had never drawn an arrow — This day I shot an arrow right on the shoulder-bone of a stag — The arrow entered half-way up to the feather — At afternoon prayers I left the chase, and proceeded on to Nijrau

Dec. 31

Next morning, the tribute of the inhabitants was fixed at sixty mishkals a of gold

A D 1520 Jan 2 On Monday, I set out again on my tour in Lamghan I had intended to have carried Humaiūn along with me on this journey, but he preferred staying, and I took leave of him at the Pass of Kūra, after which I went on, and halted at Bedrau. The fishermen take great quantities of fish in the river of Bārān At afternoon prayers I embarked on a raft, and had a drinking party After evening prayers I landed from the raft, and again sat down to wine in the public tents b Haidar Alemdār 4 had been sent by me to the Kāfers He met me below the Pass of Bādīj, accompanied by some of their chiefs, who brought with them a few skins of wine c While coming down the Pass, he saw prodigious numbers of chikors 5 d

Jan 3

Next morning I went on board of a raft, and ate a maajūn Landing below Bulān, I returned to the camp

Jan 6

Marching again on Friday, I halted at Dāmeneh 6 below fandrāwar — At night, we had a drinking party

Jan 7

On Saturday I embarked in a raft, and passing the strait of Darüta,⁷ landed higher up than Jehān-nūmāi We went to the Bāgh-e-wafā, which is opposite to Adīnāpūr

 a Add thence we went on to Ulugh nūr b my tent c Add and did homage d locusts

¹ [The Tājik villages.]

² [P de C. has Chihil kulbeh, or forty ploughs.]

This seems an easy tribute It is only about 400 rupees, or £40

[Standard bearer]

A bird of the partridge kind (Caccabis chikor)

[Skirt of the hills]

⁷ Darūta is west of Jelālābād, up the river [This is possibly Raverty's Darūn tha, a village near which the Surkh rūd joins the Kābul river]

Kivām Urdāshah, the Hākim of Nangenhār, met us as we linded from the raft and paid me his respects. Langer Khan Niāzu linhohad long been in Niāb, waited on me on the road, and offered me his duty. We abglited at the Bīghie wiff. Its oringes were well advanced in their vellow hue and the verdure of the green plants was beautiful. We staved five or six days in the Bīghie-wafā. As Intended when forty years old to distain from wine? and as now I wanted somewhat less than one year of he my forty, I drank wine most copiously.

On Sundix the 16th I took an early drought and when In 8 solvered as I was tiking a maryon. Mullic Yard played an air which he had composed in the panygah time to the mulhammaes measure. The air was brautful. For come time I had not much attended to such matters. I took a fancy that I tookhould compose something and vas induced by this incident to compose in air in the chargah measure, as will be a sationed in its proper place.

Khwājeh Kalān had regulated everything at Bajour, and brought the country into the best order. As he was a prudent and able counsellor, I sent for him that he might be along with me, and I gave Shah Mir Hussain the charge of Bajour On Saturday the 22nd, I gave Shah Mir Hussain his audience of leave. This day, likewise, I had a drinking party at

Jan 15

Tan 11

Amleh Next morning it rained heavily. I went from Kuner to Kileh-Keram, where Malik Kuli had a house, and halted nt his second son's house, which was situated overlooking an orange plantation. As the rain prevented our going out among the orange trees we had our wine in the house The rain poured down in torrents. I knew a charm, and taught it to Mulla Ali Jan. He wrote it on four scraps of paper, and hung it up to the four points of the compass, the rain ceased that moment, and the sky immediately began to clear up

Jan 16

The following morning I went on board of one raft, and some young men embarked in another. In Sawad, Bajour, and the neighbouring countries, they make a peculiar kind of bazeh (or beer)2 There is a substance which they call kim, composed of the tops a of certain herbs, and of various drugs They make it round like a loaf, and then dry and lay it up This kim is the essence from which the buzeh (or beer) is made. Many of the potions composed of it are wonderfully exhilarating, but they are terribly bitter and ill-tasted. I had thoughts of taking this buzeh, but, from its extreme bitterness, was unable to swallow it I then took a little manifin I desired Asas Hassan Ikerek, and Masti, who were in the other raft, to drink some of the potion, which they did, and became Hassan Ikerek immediately began to play intoxicated a number of unpleasant freaks Asas, also, became perfectly drunk, and performed so many disagreeable pranks as to make us quite uncomfortable, insomuch, that we had thoughts of turning them out of the raft, and of landing

n roots

¹ [Or Kuhgram. See Raverty s Notes, p 111]
² [Būzeh, according to Steingass, is a drink brewed from rice, millet, or barley] them on the opposite side of the river, but were prevailed A D 1510 upon by urgent entreaties a to desist

I have mentioned that I had bestowed Bajour on Shah Mir Hossain, and recalled Khwajeh Kalan Having a high opinion of Khwijeh Kalin as a wise and able counsellor. I did not wish to prolong his residence in Bajour. I was of opinion too, that the management of Bajour was now become easier I met Shah Mir Hossain, as he was on his way to Bajour, at the passage over the river of Kuner, sent for him, and had some b conversation with him, after which I gave him one of my own corslets,1 and he took leave When we came opposite to Nürgil, an old man came and begged alms—the people in the raft each gave him something, a robe, a turban or a sash, in this way, the old man received articles to a considerable amount. About mid-way the raft struck on some bad ground. We were much afraid but though the raft did not sink, Mir Muhammed who guided it was pitched into the water. We passed that night near Ater On Tuesday we came to Mandrawar 2 Inn 17 Kutlük Kadem, and his father Doulet Kadem, prepared for us an entertainment. Although the place had nothing beautiful to recommend it, yet, to please them, I drank a few glasses of wine, and returned to the camp about afternoon prayers

On Wednesday we went and visited the fountain of Jan 18 Gidger 3 Gidger is a district dependent on the Tuman of Mandrawar In this district alone, of all the Lamghanat, are there any dates The village stands higher up than the damenhoh (skirts of the hills), its date groves he to the east of it It is situated on the edge of the date groves in an open space Six or seven cubits below the fountain, they have built a barricade of stones, for retaining the water for the purpose of bathing. The water is made to a Add of some of their companions

b Add serious

¹ Qūr, which means armour used by horsemen [cp $l\bar{u}rchi =$

^{*} In this excursion, Bibur seems to have gone north east till he got into Kuner, then to have floated down the river to the junction and either tracked or rode up to Mandrawar

^a Kindger, in the Persian copy

run over this basin in such a way as to fall on the heads of those who bathe below. The water of this fountain is extremely soft, if any one bathes in it in winter, his limbs at first feel excessively cold, but afterwards, however long he stay in, his sensations become altogether agreeable

Jan 19

On Thursday, Sher Khān Turkolāni made us alight at lis house, and entertained us About noon-day prayers we mounted again, and setting out, reached the fishing-houses or pools, which have been built for taking fish These fishing-houses have already been described

Jan 20

On Friday we halted near a village under the charge of Mir Miran About evening prayers we had a party

Jan 21

On Saturday we hunted the hill which lies between Alisheng and Alingar On one side the men of Alisheng, and on the other the people of Alingar, made a ring, and drove in the deer from the hill, numbers of deer were killed On leaving the chase we halted at Alingar, in the Bagh-c-mahkan, and had a party The half of one of my front teeth had been broken off, and the other half left, this day, while I was eating, the half that had been left also came out

Jan 22

Next morning I mounted, and went and threw a net for fish ² It was noon before I went to a garden at Alisheng, where we drank wine

Jan 23

Next morning Khamzeh Khan, the Malik of Alisheng, having been guilty of many erimes, and spilt innocent blood in murder, I delivered him up to the avengers³ of blood, by whom he was put to death in retaliation

. Jan 24.

On Tuesday, having read a section of the Koran, I returned for Kābul, by way of Yan-būlāgh About afternoon prayers we passed the river at Alghātū ⁴ At evening prayers we came to Karanghu, ^a where, having fed our horses and taken a hasty dinner, we remounted the instant our horses had finished then barley

a Karabougha.

¹ [Bāgh 1 malıkān = the Garden of Kıngs.]

² The tura is a fishing net

This right of private revenge, which forms a part of the law of most rude nations, exists in a mitigated form under the Muhammedan law. The criminal is condemned by the judge, but is delivered up to the relations of the person murdered, to be ransomed or put to death as they think fit.

4 The Persian has Ulugh nur

SUPPLEMENT

CONTAINING

AN ABRIDGED VIEW OF BÅBURS TRANSACTIONS 1 ROM A H 926 TO A H 932 1

Norm a hiatus here occurs in all the manuscripts and extends for a space of nearly six years, from the beginning of Safer v ii 926 to the beginning of Safer v ii 932 from the end of what is generally called Bibur's second expedition into India to the beginning of his fifth and final invasion of that country. The materials for supplying this blank are not so copious as might have been expected Abulfazi who wrote in Hindust in, in the reign and at the court of Babur's grandson whose secretary he was and from whom we might therefore have expected the most authentic and ample details of Babur's different invasions of India treats the march of Babur in 910 when he took an 1505 Kohat, passed through Bannu went down the Sind as far as the territory of Mult in and returned to Kabul by Chotiah and Ab 1 istadeh, as the first ,2 the expedition on the Cheghanserāi or Kashkār myer,3 in 913, in his account is the second, A p. 1507 probably because Babur had, at one period of this expedition formed the intention of proceeding to Hindustan, an ntention which he did not accomplish, and the expedition to Behreh in 925, is the third of the fourth, he acknow- A D 1519 ledges that he had not been able to get any account, an acknowledgement which, at the same time that it shows the uncertainty of tradition, seems also to prove that Abulfazl, who on other occasions follows the Memoirs of Babur,

Uncertain ty regarding Babur's expeditions into India

¹ From the end of January 1520 to the middle of November 1525 This interval, in the west, was distinguished by the progress of the Reformation under Luther, the taking of Belgrade and Rhodes by Soliman the Magnificent, and by the battle of Pavia In America, Cortez conquered Mexico

² See Akbernameh, vol. 1. MS

^{* [1} e the Chitrăl river]

had them in exactly the same imperfect state in which they have come down to our times, and the recapitulation of previous events which the Mcmoirs themselves contain, in the beginning of the account of the transactions of the year 932 of the Hijira, seems to confirm the same supposition, since, had an account of all the transactions of the six preceding years been given by way of journal, it would have rendered the recapitulation, by which the history of that year is prefaced, altogether unnecessary. It is plain, however, that Bābur regarded his expedition into Bhīra, or Behreh, in a n 925, not as his third but as his first expedition into Hindustin, so that the ignorance of Abulfazl was greater than he himself supposed

The expedition against the Yūsefzais and refractory Afghans, which is described by Būbur in the end of the year 925, and from which he was recalled by the events in Badakhshūn, is regarded by Ferishta as his second expedition into Hindustūn, but Būbur himself does not intimate that he had any intention at that time of crossing the Indus—It appears, however, that Peshūwer, or Bekrūm as well as a great part of the country west of the Indus—were anciently regarded as belonging to India, whence the inaccuracy apparent on this subject among the writers of Hindustūn may perhaps in part proceed—Indeed, Būbur himself informs us, that Kandahūr was formerly regarded as the boundary between Hindustūn and Khorasūn—I am not however, convinced that Būbur reckoned this as one of his invasions of Hindustūn

His third expedition A D 1520 Bābur's third expedition against Hindustān appears to have been made a H 926. In his way through Bhīra he inflicted punishment on those who had formerly joined him, but who had afterwards been seduced to revolt and to expel his officers. He drove from the country some Afghans, while he put to death and made prisoners a number of others, to the great relief of the peasantry and labouring classes

¹ Khāfi Khan describes Bābur as having, in his second expedition, advanced towards Sirhind, Multān, and Lahore, but as he, in common with all other authors, fixes Bābur's third invasion in A in 926, this supposition, independent of other objections, is incompatible with the chronology of the Memoirs

whom they had oppressed. He advanced to Stilkot, the inhabitants of which submitted and saved their possessions, but the inhabit ints of Svedpür, who resisted, were put to the sword, their wives and children carried into captivity, and ill their property plundered. Babur at this time received information that his territories had been invided on the side of Kandahār by Shith Beg, which obliged him to interrupt his expedition and to return to the defence of his dominions He soon drove Shah Beg from the field, and shut him up in his capital, which he kept in a state of partial blockade for nearly three years. For the reduction of Kandahar, which was a place of great strength he uppears to have trusted more to the effects of his annual 1 invasions in wasting and running the surrounding country, than to the operations of an active siege

The events which had occurred proved to him the necessity of leaving his own territories quiet and protected, before he ventured upon foreign conquests. In the course Humanun of the year 927 of the Hipra, having received information of the death of Khan Mirza 2 in Badakhshan, he bestowed that country on Humaiun Mirza, his eldest son. The same year he again entered the territories of Shah Beg, and reduced lum to great distress 3

Hegives Badakhshan to A D 1521

The following year, 928, seems to have been marked by the final reduction of Kandahār 1 Shah Beg had retired towards Shāl,5 Dour,6 and Siwistān, and in the end con-

v n 1522 Reduction of Kanda-

¹ See Ferishta's General History of Hindustan, translated by Dow, vol. 11, p 194, and the Tarikh i Khāfi Khan, vol 11, MS

² The period of Khan Mirza's death is very uncertain Abulfazl says it occurred a H. 917 Khafi Khan seems to fix it in 915 lerishta mentions it as occurring about 926. It must have happened either in that or the succeeding year

³ [It is stated by Erskine in his History of Babur (p. 355) that in A H 927 (A. D 1521) Shah Beg being reduced to great distress con cluded a treaty with Babur, under which he agreed to surrendor Kandahar in the following year He took advantage of the interval to remove his family to Sind, which he had subjugated.]

⁴ [According to Erskine's Babur (p 355) the keys of Kandahār were delivered to Bābur by Mir Ghyās ud dīn, nephew of the his torian, Khwandamir, the celebrated author of Habib us siyar]

⁵ [The modern Quetta]

6 [Daur, or the Valley of the Tochi, lies west of Bannu, and south of Khost, and is hemmed in on both sides by the Wazīrī Hills. The a d 1523 quered the kingdom of Sind ¹ Bābur pursuing his successes, occupied the country of Garmsīr along the Helmend, which had been part of the dominions of Shah Beg. The year 929 he occupied in various expeditions within his own territories, in checking the refractory Afghans, and in introducing some degree of order and arrangement into the affairs of his government.

State of Hindustan

The invasion of Hindustan had long been the favourite object of Babur's ambition. The Uzbeks had established themselves in too great force in Maweralnaher to leave him any hopes of expelling them. Khorasan had been occupied by the Safavi dynasty of Persian kings, who were now in the height of their power and glory, while the provinces of Hindustan, which in all ages have been an easy prey to the rapacity of every invader, afforded the prospect of a rich and a splendid conquest. The moment was every way favourable to such an attempt' The empire of Delhi was not then what it afterwards became under Akber or Aurengzeb, nor even what it had been under Muhammed Ghori or Ala ud din Klulji For some time past, it had been in the hands of Afghan invaders of Ibrahim had been an unvaried scene of confusion and His haughty and cruel temper, joined to the impolitic arrogance with which he had treated the Afghan nobles, who considered themselves as having raised his family to the throne, and as being still placed not very far below it, had completely alienated their affections of his discontented nobles had retired beyond the Ganges, and the whole eastern provinces, from Badaun to Behar, were in the hands of rebels, who occupied Behar itself So extensive had the defection become, that his dominions did not extend much beyond Dellu, Agra, the Doab, Biana, and Chanden Bengal had still its own sovereign, as well as Malwa and Guzerāt The Rāppūt Princes, from Mewāt to Udaspür, had joined in a confederacy, of which Rana inhabitants of this very fertile district are the Shitaks, the lowest in the scale of the Afghan races]

¹ [Shah Beg died on 25th June 1524 and was succeeded by his son Hassan, who acknowledged Bābur's suzerainty (E B, pp 376-9)]

troops intending to harass him in his advance, and that it would be expedient to send a detachment to disperse them Bābur was making preparations for acting in conformity with this advice, when he was secretly informed by Dilawer Khan that it was given with a treacherous intention, Doulet Khan being very desirous of dividing Babur's army in older to serve his own purpose. Babur was soon after convinced, or pretended to be convinced, from concurring circumstances, of the truth of this information, and threw Doulet Khan and Ghazi Khan into prison He was soon, however, prevailed on to release them, and gave them in jagtr 1 the town of Sultanpur, which the father had built, with its dependencies They were afterwards permitted to repair it, where they employed their time in preparing everything for a revolt, and soon after fled, but took shelter in the hill-country to the east of the Panjab Babur, on receiving the news of this event, sent for Dilawer Khan, gave him possession of their estates, and loaded him with This revolt of a man of such influence in the Panjāb as Doulet Khan, with other adverse circumstances. made it inexpedient for him to advance to Delhi, so that he fell back on Lahore, after he had crossed the Satley and proceeded as far as Sirland 2 He soon after found it necessary to return to Kābul He had now, however, gained a permanent footing beyond the Indus, and parcelled out the different districts among his most trusty officers, or such great men of the country as it was necessary to conciliate In the course of this invasion he had been joined by Sultan On lum Alā ed dīn, a brother 3 of the Emperor Ibrahīm

Revolt of Doulet Khan

Bābur advances to Sirhind Returns to Kālnil

Bābur bestowed Debālpūr, and probably flattered lum with hopes of the succession to the empire of Hindustān He now left with him Bāba Kashkeh, one of his favourite officers, to watch him, and retain him in his duty. He appointed Mīr Abdal-azīz to the charge of Lahore, Khosrou

Gokultāsh to Siālkot, and Muhammed Ali Tājik to Kalanūr ⁴

¹ A jagīr is a grant of lands to be held immediately of the sovereign, often with extensive privileges.

^{* [}He had not gone as far as Sirhind when he was obliged to retire on Lahore — $E\ B$, p 420]

³ [Uncle.

^{*} See Ferishta and Khafi Khan. [Kalanaur, the scene of Akbar's

Scarcely had Bibur recrossed the Indus, when Doulet Doulet Khan and Ghizi Kh in issued from their retreat in the hills, han defeats resumed possession of Sultanpur, by vigorous evertions. Ala od din succeeded in making Dilawer Khan prisoner, and detained him in close custody Their army rapidly increased and they advanced to Debalpur, where they defeated Sultan Alā ed dīn, who escaped and fled to Kībul Bāba Kashkeh repaired to Lahore, which was the head-quarters of the Türki army Doulet Khan, encouraged by his first suc cesses, sent five thousand Afghans against Sialkot, in hopes of reducing the place, but Mir Abdal-azīz having marched A H 931 from Lahore, with a detachment of Babur's troops, encoun- A D 1525 tered the Afghans, and completely defeated them supports Ala ed din

Sultan Ibrahim had now lessure to collect an army. Disperses which he sent igninst Doulet Khan, for the purpose of an army sent against reducing him to obedience, but so successful were the him intrigues of Doulet Khan in the imperial camp, that he contrived to gain over the general, and the army was completely broken up

The erafty old politician soon after learned that Sultan Babur Alā ed dīn had been fav ourably received at Kābul by Bābur who being lumself obliged to march to the relief of Balkh, which was besieged by the Uzbeks, had sent Ala ed din into Hindustan, with orders to his generals there to accompany hun in his march against Delhi, for the purpose of placing him on the throne of the empire 1 Doulet Khan instantly wrote to Sultan Ala ed din, whose talents appear to have been but slender, congratulating him on the success of his negotiations, and assuring him that he was the very person whom Doulet Khan was most anyous to see placed on the These assurances were accompanied by a deed of throne allegiance, under the seal of his Kazis and Chiefs Alā ed dīn, on reaching Lahore, informed Bābur's generals that they were ordered to accompany him to Dellu, and that Ghazi Khan, Doulet Khan's son, was to join them coronation, is a village situated between the Ravi and the Bias in the Gurdaspür district. Panjab 1

1 [In accordance with the treaty concluded between them Babur was to receive the formal cession of Lahore and all the countries to the west of it in full sovereignty, in return for which Alā ud din was to be elevated to the throne of Delhi.—E B, p 423]

with his army, and to issist them in the expedition this Babur's Begs objected. They declared that they had no confidence in Ghazi Khan or his father, with whom both Alaed din and themselves had recently been in a state of war, and that he must give hostages before they could place any confidence in him Their remonstrances, however, were unavailing Alä ed din made a treaty with Doulet Khan, ceding to him all the Panjab, while it was agreed Mā ed dīn should have Delhi, Agra, and the other dominions of the empire in that quarter, and that Han Khan, a son of Doulet Khan, should march with a large body of troops in his army Dilawer Khan, who had but recently escaped from his rigid confinement, joined Ala ed din Ferishta says, that Bābur's officers who remained in the Panjāb bargained that their master should have all the country north-west of the Indus, a circumstance not mentioned by Bābui humself, whose narrative never alludes to the claims of Alā ed dīn, m whose name 1 he appears at first to have marched against Ibrahim He probably imagined that Ala ed din's breach of faith, and subsequent treaty with Doulet Khan, had cancelled all their engagements

Alā ed dīn's army, in its advance, was joined by many Amīrs of rank, and by the time it reached Dellii, could muster forty thousand horse. The siege of Dellii, the defeat of Alā ed dīn, and the events that followed, are detailed by Bābur limself in his Memon's, as he was not informed of them till he was considerably advanced in his fifth invasion of Hindustān, with which his narrative recommences.

¹ Compare Bābur's Memoirs, anno 932, the Akbernāmeh of Abulfazi, the Tarīkh i Khāṭi Khan, and Ferishta

EVENTS OF THE YEAR 9321

ON Bridgy the 1st of Safer in the year 932, when the sun No. 1527 was in Sagitt irius, I set out on my maren to invade Hindustan Having crossed the hill of Yak-langch,2 we halted in a viller which his west of the river of Deh Yakub At. this place Abdal Malūk Korelu, who seven or eight months before, had gone on an embassy to Sultan Said Khan,3 returned to me accompanied by Yangi Beg, a foster brother of the Khan He brought me privately letters from the Khanums, as well is the Khan, with presents and prayers for my well-being a I halted here two days for the purpose of collecting b my army, after which we marched, and, one night intervening, halted at Bādām-chashmeh At this station I took a maajun

Ribur's fifth in vasion of

On Wednesday, when we were coming to our ground at Birīk-āb, the brothers of Nur Beg, who had remuned Nov 2 behind in Hindustan arrived bringing to the amount of twenty thous and shahrokhas on gold, in ashrafis and tankis, which Khwajeh Hussain, Diwan of Lihore, had sent by them d The greater part of this sum I dispatched through Mulla Ahmed, one of the chief men of Balkh, to serve my interests in that quarter

d out of the receipts of the Lahore treasury

¹ [This year commenced on 18th Oct 1525]

[Yak langoli, according to Masson, is a pass on the Jelalabal road, a short distance from Butkhak On its crest is the dilapidated fort of Kıla' Gurjî, and here the road is intersected by a canal (Jui Khwaja) derived from the Logar river, which may be the river of Deh Yakub ' referred to]

3 The chief of Kashghar

4 These were probably Khūb Nīgār Khanum, his aunt, who was the mother of the wife of Sultan Said Khan, Sultan Nigar Khanum another of his aunts, and her daughter, who had married Rashid

Sultan, Sultan Saïd's son. [Khūb Nigāi was already dead]
About £1,000 sterling Nothing can afford a stronger proof of the scarcity of specie in Kābul than this appropriation of so small a sum. The tanks, or tangs, is a small silver coin of the value of about fivepence The name of ushrasi is applied to the gold mohur, which is worth about a guinea and a half. It is applied, however, to gold coins of various magnitude and value.

a with a present that was specially intended for me

b equipping one of the younger brothers

Nov 24

On Friday the 8th, on halting at Gandamak, I had rather a severe defluxion, but, by the mercy of God, it passed off without any bad effects

Nov 25 He reaches the Bägh-e wafä On Saturday, I halted at the Bāgh-c-wafā Here I was forced to wait some days for Humāiūn² and the army that was with him—In these Memoirs I have already repeatedly described the limits and extent of the Bāgh-c-wafā, its beauty, and elegance a The garden was in great glory—No one can view it without acknowledging what a charming place it is—During the few days that we stayed there, we drank a great quantity of wine at every sitting, b and took regularly our morning cup—When I had no drinking parties, I had maajūn parties I in consequence of Humāiūn's delay beyond the appointed time, I wrote him sharp letters, taking him severely to task, and giving him many hard names c

Dec 3 Joined by Humājūn On Sunday, the 17th of Safer, I had taken my morning draught, when Humāiūn arrived I spoke to him with considerable severity on account of his long delay Khwājeh Kalān too arrived this day from Ghazni That same evening, being the eve of Monday, we marched, and halted at a new garden, which I had laid out between Sultanpūi and Khwājeh Rustam ⁵

- a the charm of its situation
- b we had many pleasant wine parties,
- c Omit this clause and read and urging him with much insistence to join me.

This Bagh i safa must not be confounded with another of the same name, which Babur laid out in the Salt Range near Bhīra. It is referred to in the Ayīn i Albarī (Gladwin's edition, p 451)

¹ [P de C thinks the word (rizandalik) means nothing more severe than a cold in the head]

² Humāiūn was now in his eighteenth year

^a Bābur unfortunately did not give up the use of wine at forty, as he had once vowed

⁴ The maajun, it will be recollected, is a medicated confection, which produces into vication

⁵ [The tomb of Khwājā Rustam is situated about three miles to the west of Jelālābād, and 1½ miles south west of it lies the Bāgh is safā, which is evidently the new garden referred to here. Sultānpūr is passed on the direct route between this place and Bālā Bāgh—Raverty's Notes, p. 53

On Wednesday we marched thence when I embarked on Dec 6 a raft on which I proceeded down the river, drinking all the way till we reached Küsh-gumbez where I landed and joined the camp

Next morning, after putting the troops in motion, I again Dec. 7 embarked on a raft, and took a manjun. We had always been accustomed to halt at Kirik arik. On coming over against Kirik arik though we looked out in every direction not a trace of the camp, nor of our horses, was visible came into my head, that, as Garm-chashmeh was near at hand, and was a shady, sheltered spot a the army had prob-I therefore went on to that place ably halted there coming near Garm-chashmeh, the day was far spent Without stopping there, I went on all next night and day, b Dec 8 having only made them bring the raft to an anchor, while I took a sleep About the time of early morning prayers we landed at Yadeh Bir and at sunrise the troops began to make their appearance coming in They had been for two days encamped in the territory of Kirik arik, though we had not observed them. There happened to be in the boat a good many men who wrote verses, such as Sheikh Abul Wajd, Sheikh Zein, Mulla Ali Jin Terdi Beg Khaksar, and several others. During the party, the following verse of Muhammed Sähh was repeated (Persian)—What can one do to regulate his thoughts, with a mistress possessed of every blandishment?

Where you are, how is it possible for our thoughts to wander to another 9

It was agreed that every one should make an extempore couplet to the same rhyme and measure accordingly repeated his verse. As we had been very merry at Mulla Alı Jan's expense I repeated the following extempore saturical verses

> What can one do with a drunken sot like you? What can be done with one foolish as a she ass 9 c 1 b through the night, a Omit this clause.

^e What can one do with a prodigy like you ? What can be done with a she ass that disembowels bullocks?

in the following terms 'In Jelālābād is the garden called Bāgh i safā, a monument of the Emperor Bābur']

It may be almost needless to observe, that the rhyme, measure,

A D 1525

Before this, whatever had come into my head, good or bad, in sport or jest, if I had turned it into verse for amusement, how bad or contemptible soever the poetry might be, I had always committed it to writing. On the present occasion, when I had composed these lines, my mind led me to reflections, and my heart was struck with regret, that a tongue which could repeat the sublimest productions, should bestow any trouble on such unworthy verses, that it was melancholy that a heart, elevated to nobler conceptions should submit to occupy itself with these meaner and despicable fancies. From that time forward, I religiously abstained from satirical or vituperative poetry. At the time of repeating this couplet, I had not formed my resolution, nor considered how objectionable the practice was

Bābur renounces saturical poetry

A day or two after, when we halted at Bekräm, I had a deflusion and fever, the deflusion was attended with a cough, and every time that I coughed I brought up blood I knew whence this indisposition proceeded, and what conduct had brought on this chastisement

(Arabic)—Then every one who fails and breaks his promise, that promise avenges its breach on his life, and he who adheres to his promises to God, God bestows on him boundless blessings.

(Türki verse)-What can I do with you, O my tongue?

On your account I am covered with blood within a How long, in this strain of satire, will you delight to compose verses,

One of which is impure, and another lying? If you say, Let me not suffer from this crime, b—Then turn your reins, and shun the field

(Arabic)—O my Creator, I have tyrannized over my soul, and, if Thou are not bountiful unto me, of a truth I shall be of the number of the accursed $^{\circ}$

I now once more composed myself to pentence and self-control, c I resolved to abstain from this kind of idle

a overwhelmed with anguish

h if you do not wish some day to burn in hell,- c to implore the mercy of God and solicit His pardon, and play of words, in the original, give these verses a great similarity to the former, which is totally wanting in the translation. They are a kind of parody of them

¹ Peshawer ² [Quran, xlvm, 10] ² [Quran, vn, 22]

thoughts and from such unsuitable amusements, and to break my pen Such chastenings from the throne of the Almights on rebellious servants are mighty graces and every servant who feels and benefits from such chastisements has cause to regard them as overflowing mercies

Marching thence, I halted at Ah Masud On account of Dec 9 the smallness of the encamping ground at this place, I was always accustomed to take up my quarters on an adjoining the troops all took their ground in the valley As the hillock on which I pitched my tents commanded the neighbouring grounds, the blaze from the fires of the people in the camp below was wonderfully brilliant and beautiful It was certainly owing to this circumstance that every time that I halted in this ground I drank wine b

Reaches Mr Masud

Dec 10 Reaches Helrim Dec. 11

Rhinoceros hunt

I took a maajun before sunrise, and we continued our That day I fasted. We continued our march till we came near Bekrim and then halted Next morning we continued halting in the same station, and I went out to hunt the rhinoceros We crossed the Siah-ab 1 in front of Bekram and formed our ring lower down the river we had gone a short way, a man came after us with notice that a rhinoceros had entered a little wood near Bekram and that they had surrounded the wood, and were waiting for us. We immediately proceeded towards the wood at full gallop and cast a ring round it. Instantly on our raising the shout, the rhinoceros issued out into the plain and took to flight. Humarun and those who had come from the same quarter never having seen a rhinoceros before were greatly amused? They followed it for nearly a kos, shot many arrows at it, and finally brought it down This rhinoceros did not make a good set at any person, or They afterwards killed another rhinoceros I had often amused myself with conjecturing how an elephant and rhinoceros would behave if brought to face each a 4dd in the evening

b 1dd and this time too much wine was drunk.

c two others

[[]Perhaps another name for the Bara, which is 1 Black river a turbid stream 1

^{2 [}Le interested]

other, on this occasion the elephant-keepers brought out the elephants, so that one elephant fell right in with the rhinoceros ^a As soon as the elephant-drivers put their beasts in motion, the rhinoceros would not come up,^b but immediately ran off in another direction

This day, when we stayed at Bekrām, I sent for several Begs and noblemen who were about my person, as well as for the paymasters and Diwāns, and having nominated six or seven of them as superintendents, appointed them to attend at the Nilāb passage, to conduct the embarkation to take down the name of every man in the army one by one and to inspect them. That same night I had a defluxion and fever. The defluxion ended in a cough, every time that I coughed I spat blood, I was considerably alarmed, but, praise be to God! It went off in two or three days.

Dec 12, 13, and 14

We made two marches from Bekram, and after the third, on Thursday the 26th, we encamped on the banks of the river Sind o

Dec. 16 Passes the Sind On Saturday, the 1st day of the first Rabi, we passed the Sind, and having also crossed the river of Kacheh-kot, halted on its banks. The Begs, paymasters, and Diwāns, who had been placed to superintend the embarkation, brought me the return of the troops who were on the service. Great and small, good and bad, servants and no servants, they amounted to twelve thousand persons.

This year there was a deficiency of rain in the lower

a just at the moment when a rhinoceros came out in front of them

b face them, c enumerate

d Add On leaving Bekräm I marched in pelting rain to the bank of the Käbul river, where I halted There I received information from India that Daulat Khan and Ghäzi Khan at the head of an army of twenty or thirty thousand men had conquered Kalānaur and were marching on Lahore I hurriedly dispatched Mūmin 'Ali tavāchi to announce the fact that we were advancing by forced marches and that they must be careful not to engage in battle before our arrival.

e After two more marches we reached on Thursday, the 28th of the month, the bank of the river Sind, where we encamped [†] Sunday,

¹ [Kacha kot (mud fort) is another name for the Harrii river]

grounds, whereas there had been a sufficient quantity in the Proceeds highlands To secure a proper supply of corn, we advanced along the skirts of the hills towards Sialkot 1 On coming opposite to the country of the Gakkers, a in the bed of a brook, we found in several places a quantity of standing water These waters were entirely frozen over Although there was not much of it,b the ice was in general a span in In Hindustan such ice is uncommon We met with it here, but, during all the years 2 that I have been in Hindustan, I have in no other instance met with any trace of ice or snow

by the route of the hills

Advancing five marches from the Sind, the sixth brought Dec 22 us close by the hill of Jūd, below the hill of Balinat-jogi, c3 on the banks of a river at the station of Bakialan,d where we encamped

Next morning we halted in the same encampment, for the Dec 23 purpose of allowing the troops to procure grain That day I drank spirits 4 Mulla Muhammed Parghari told us a great many stories I have seldom seen him so talkative Mulla Shams was generally riotous in his cups, and, when once affected, he continued noisy and troublesome from morning till night

The slaves and servants, and men of all descriptions, that had gone to bring in grain, instead of employing themselves in searching for grain,6 went confusedly and unrestrained over hill, wood, and dingle, making a number of prisoners f, in consequence of which Kichkineh tunkitär and some others of our men were cut off a On reaching the high grounds of the country of the Hati b Omit this clause. Galkars.

c below the hill of Balinat jogi which is connected with the hill of e passed beyond the limits of cultivation and d Bekıāl. f Omit this clause.

¹ Siālkot lies on the east of the Chenāb river, below the mountains.

² This passage must have been written not long before Bābur's

^{3 [}Balmāth Jogi or Tilla Gorakhnāth is a monastery of the Jogis, situated on an isolated peak of the Tilladanga (3,200 feet) in the head quarters Tahsil of the Jhelum district, about twenty miles west of Jhelum. It is one of the oldest religious institutions in India (Gaz. of the Jhelum Dist) The Hill of Jud appears to be another name for Tilladanga] · Arak

Dec 21 Arrives on the Behat

Marching thence we halted, after passing the river Behät below Jhelum, by the ford. Wah Kezil who held the pergannas of Bimragiri and Akerbadehpur, and who had been ordered to assist in the defence of Sfalkot, arrived and waited on me at this place. I was displeased, and cluded him for not remaining in Stalkot? He excused himself by informing me, that he had left it in order to repur to his perganna, and that Khosrou Gokultāsh on leaving Slālkot had given him no intimation of his intention. I listened to his excuse, but asked him, 'As you did not remain in Stälkot to defend it, why did you not repair to Lahore, and join the rest of the Begs?' He had no good answer to make, but as we were near about entering upon action, I overlooked his offence From this enganpment I sent forward Sved Tufan and Syed Sachin, a giving each of them a spare horse, with directions to push on with all speed to Lahore, and to enjoin our troops in that city not to fight, but to form a junction with me at Sialkot or Parsrur 3 The general report was that Ghazi Khan had collected an army of thirty or forty thousand men, that Doulet Khan, old as he was, had buckled on two swords, 1 and that they would certainly try the fate of a battle. I recollected the proverb which says, Ten friends are better than nine. That no advantage might be lost, I judged it most advisable before fighting, to form a junction with the detachment of my army that was a Lachin.

¹ [Jhelum, the head quarters of a district of the same name in the Panjab, is situated on the right bank of the Jhelum river A few miles down the river lies Jelālpūr, the reputed site of Alex ander's Bucephala.]

² [Siūlkot is now the head quarters of the district of the same name in the Panjāb It is situated on the Chenāb, 72 miles north of Lahore and some 50 miles south east of Jhelum It is a town of great antiquity, and is identified by some authorities with the ancient Sākala. It contains the shrine of the celebrated Bāba Nānak, the founder of the Sikh religion. It is now a large canton ment and a flourishing trade centre]

³ [Pasrūr is the head quarters of a Tahsīl of the same name in the Siālkot district, Panjāb, situated eighteen miles south of Siālkot town. It used to be a place of considerable importance on the road between Siālkot and Kālānaur]

^{4 [}This was to intimate that he was prepared to fight to the death.]

in Lahore I therefore sent on messengers with instructions to the Amirs, and at the second march reached the Reaches banks of the river Chenāb, where I encamped I rode on towards Bahlūlpūr, which is an imperial domain, and surveved it on every side. Its eastle stands on the banks of the Chenab, upon an elevated ravine It pleased me extremely, and I formed a plan of transferring the population of Siālkot to this place God willing, as soon as I find leisure I will complete my project I returned from Bahlülpür to the camp in a boat, and had a party, some drank arak,2 some bûzeh, and some took maajûn. I landed from the boat about bed-time prayers, and we drank a little in my pavilion I halted one day on the banks of the river to rest our horses

the Chenab Dec 26

Dec 28

On Friday the 14th of the first Rabi, we arrived at Reaches Every time that I have entered Hindustan, the Sialkot Dec 29 Tits and Gujers 3 have regularly poured down in prodigious

¹ [This place, which is marked on sheet 29 of the Indian Atlas, is situated in the north east corner of the Gujerat district (Panjab) on the right bank of the Chenab (i. e. across the river from Sialkot), and at a distance of fifteen miles from Sialkot and twenty two from Gujerāt The Gujerat District Gazetleer states that 'in the reign of Bahlol Lodi (1450-88) a tract of country on the right bank of the Chenab and including part of the Gujerat district was separated from the Province of Sialkot and formed into an independent charge under the name of Tila Bahlülpür The old district of Bahlülpür included portions of Gujerāt, Siālkot, and Jammu.]

² The name arak is applied to any spirituous distilled liquor The buzeh is a liquor like ale, brewed from millet or other grain.

it is said to be bitter and ill tasted, and is very heady

² [The vexed question as to the origin of the Jats and Gujars still awaits solution. By some authorities the Jats are considered a degraded type of Rajputs and classed as Indo Aryans, while according to others they belong to the Scytho (White Hun) Dravidian branch, and entered India with the Gujars in the fifth century A. D The total number of Jats in Northern India is said to exceed seven millions. They form a considerable proportion of the population in the Punjab, Rajpūtana, and the adjoining districts of the United Provinces, and are also widely scattered over Kashmir, North west Frontier Province, Central Provinces, Sinde, Belüchistän, and Bombay In the Panjab they include both Sikhs and Muslims. In Rajpütana they are mostly Hundus, and in Sind and Beluchistan Mohammedans. They speak the local language where they are found, as Rajasthani in Rajpūtana and Panjabi or Lahndi in the Pānjab They seem originally to have occupied the valley of the numbers, from their hills and wilds a in order to carry off oven and buffaloes These were the wretches that really inflicted the chief hardships, and were guilty of the severest oppression on the country. These districts in former times, had been in a state of revolt, and yielded very little revenue that could be come at b. On the present oceasion, when I had reduced the whole of the neighbouring districts to subjection, they began to repeat their practices. As my poor people were on their way from Sialkot to the camp hungry and naked, indigent and in distress, they were fullen upon by the road with loud shouts and plundered 1 I sought out the persons guilty of this outrage, discovered them, and ordered two or three of the number to be cut m pieces e

Receives defeat of

At this same station a mereliant arrived who brought us news of the the news of the defeat of Ahm Khan by Sultan Ibrahim Alim Khan. The particulars are as follows. Alim Khan.2 after taking leave of me, had marched forward in spite of the scoreling

> b and so were not very well organized c Add While I was at Stälkot I dispatched Shaham and Nur Beg to the Begs at Inhore enjoining them to ascertain the position of the enemy, and when they had found out from some one well acquainted with the country at what place they could join me, to send me information about it

Indus and formed the bulk of the population at the time of the Mohammedan conquest of Sind (v p. 712) They had the audacity to attack Mahmud of Ghazni on his return from Somnath, and his last expedition (v D 1026) was undertaken to chastise them. It is not till the decay of the Moghul Empire that they again appear in One branch which remained Hindu founded the two dynasties which still exist at Bharatpur and Dholpur Another section, having adopted the Sikh religion, ultimately made them selves masters of the Panjab under Ranjit Singh, and are now represented by the princely houses of Patiala, Jhind, and Nabha. The Gujars are a Scythic tribe who probably entered India with the White Huns in A D 452 from the north west, established a kingdom in Raipūtana, and spread southwards in the sixth century. Their ancient capitals were Bhinmal (sixth to seventh centuries) in Raj pūtāna, and Anhilwara in Gujerāt (746-1295) They founded several petty states in Rajpūtana, Panjab, and Gujerat, but, with a single exception, none of them survived the tenth century They are now a nomad pastoral tribe, and mostly Mohammedan]

1 The people alluded to were probably the Türki garrison of SialLot.

3 Alım Khan 18 Ala ed din Khan.

heat of the weather, and had reached Lahore, having, without any consideration for those who accompanied him, gone two stages every march At the very moment that Alim Khan took leave, all the Sultans and Khans of the Uzbeks had advanced and blockaded Balkh, so that, immediately on his departure for Hindustan, I was obliged to set out for that city Alim Khan, on reaching Lahore, insisted with such of my Begs as were in Hindustan, that the Emperor had ordered them to march to his assistance, and that they must accordingly accompany him, that it had been concerted that Ghazi Khan should likewise join him, and that they were all in conjunction to march upon Delhi and Agra The Begs answered, that, situated as things were, they could not accompany Ghāzi Khan with any kind of confidence, but that, if he sent to court his younger brother Han Khan, with his son, or placed them in Lahore as hostages, their instructions would then leave them at liberty to march along with him, that otherwise they could not, that it was only the other day that Alim Khan had fought and been defeated by Ghazi Khan, so that no mutual confidence was to be looked for between them, and that, altogether, it was by no means advisable for Alim Khan to let Ghāzi Khan accompany him in the expedition Whatever expostulations of this nature they employed in order to dissuade Alim Khan from prosecuting his plan, were all ineffectual. He sent his son Sher Khan to confer with Doulet Khan and Ghazi Khan, and the parties themselves afterwards met Dilawer Khan,1 who had been in confinement very recently, and who had escaped from custody and come to Lahore only two or three months before, was likewise associated with them Mahmud Khan Khan Jehān,2 to whom the custody of Lahore a had been entrusted, was also pressed into their measures In a word, it was in the end definitively arranged among them, that Doulet Khan and Ghāzı Khan should take under their orders all the Begs who had been left in Hindustan, and should, at the same time, themselves assume the government of all a a district of the Labore Province

Accounts of Alun Khan's actions

Alm Khan forms a league with Ghāzı Khan

¹ Dılawar Khan was the son of Daulat Khan.]

² [1.e son of Khan Jehān.]

Marches against Delhi,

and besieges it the adjacent territories, ¹ while Diläwer Khan and Hāji Khan were to accompany Ālim Khan, and occupy the whole of the country about Delhi and Agra and in that neighbourhood ^a Ismāel Jilwāni and a number of other Amirs waited on Ālim Khan, and acknowledged him He now proceeded towards Delhi without delay, by forced marches On reaching Inderi, ³ Suleimān Sheikhzādeh came and likewise joined him The numbers of the confederate army now amounted to thirty or forty thousand men They laid siege to Delhi, but were unable either to take the place by storm or to reduce it by famine ^b

Sultan Ibrahim, as soon as he heard that they had collected an army, and invaded his dominions, led his troops to oppose them Having notice of his march as he approached, they raised the siege and advanced to meet him federates concurred in opinion, that if the battle was fought in the daytime, the Afghans, from regard to their reputation with their countrymen, would not flee, but that if the attack was made by night, the night is dark, and no one seeing another, each chief would shift for himself ing, therefore, to attempt a night surprise, they mounted to proceed against the enemy, who were six kos off did they mount their horses at noon, and continue mounted till the second or third watch of the night, without going either back or forward, not being able to come to a resolution, or agree among themselves The third time they set out for their surprise, when only one watch of the night Their plan was for the party merely to set fire to the tents and pavilions, and to attempt nothing farther They accordingly advanced and set fire to the tents during the last watch of the night, at the same time shouting the Jalal Khan Jighet, and several other Amirs, came over, and acknowledged Alim Khan Sultan Ibrahim, attended by a body of men composed of his own tribe and family, did not move from the royal pavilion, but continued steady in the same place till morning. By this time, the

Surprises the camp of Sultan Ibrahim,

a Omit and in that neighbourhood.

b to cause any serious injury to its defenders

¹ That is, in the Panjab, or near Lahore.

² [Indern is a village in the Karnūl district (Panjūb), lifteen unles north of Karnūl town.]

defeated

167

troops who accompanied Alim Klian were dispersed, being busy plundering and pillaging Sultan Ibrahim's troops perceived that the enemy were not in great force, and immediately moved forward from the station which they had kept, though very few in number, and having only a single clephant, but no sooner had the elephant come up, than Alm Khan's men took to flight, without attempting to keep their ground. In the course of his flight, Alim Khan but is crossed over to the Doab side of the river and again recrossed it towards Pampat on reaching which place he contrived by a stratagem to get three or four laks 1 from Mi in Suleman and went on his way. Ismael Jilwam, Bib in and Julal Khan, the eldest son of Alim Khan, separating from him betook themselves to the Doab A small part of the army which Alim Khan had collected, such as Seif ed din, Darva Khan, Mahmud Khan Khan Jehan, Sheikh Jamal Fermuli, and some others, deserted before the battle and joined Ibrahim - Ahm Khan and Diläwer Khan. with Han Khan, after passing Sirland, heard of my approach, and that I had taken Milwat, whereupon Dilawer Khan, who had always been attached to my interests, and had been detained three or four months in prison on my account, separated from the others, came on by way of Sultanpur 3 and Kochi,4 and waited upon me in the neighbourhood of Milwat, three or four days after the taking of that town Ahm Khan and Han Khan having passed the river Satles, at length reached Gingütch, the name of a strong eastle in the hills between Dun and the plain, and threw themselves into it. One of my detach-

a Seif Khan,

 $^{^1}$ £750 or £1,000 , but perhaps they were <code>lals</code> of rupees [in which case the sum extorted would amount to £30,000 or £40,000]

⁻ Probably a rich shroff or banker

^{2 (}Sultanpur is a town in the state of Kapurthala, sixteen miles south of Kapurthala town I ounded in the eleventh century by Sultan Khan Lodi, it was once a place of note and lay on the great highway between Lahore and Dellii]

^{1 [}Perhaps Kanja, a Mohammedan Jat village in the Jalandhar district on the Hosmarpur border (Gazetteer, Jalandhar District)]

^{* [}This may be Gangot, in the Kangra district, on the Hoshiarpur border near Bahrwam (Guzetteer, Hoshiarpar District) 1

ments, consisting of Afghans and Hazaris, happening to come up, blockaded them, and had nearly succeeded in taking the eastle, strong as it was, being only prevented by the approach of night. These noblemen then made an attempt to leave it, but some of their horses having fallen in the gateway, they could not get out. Some elephants that were along with them were pushed forward, and trampled upon and killed a number of the horses unable to escape on horseback, they left the place during a dark night on foot, and after incredible sufferings, joined Ghazi Khan who, in the course of his flight finding that he could not get refuge in Milwat, had directed his course towards the hills, where they met Ghazi Khan did not give Ahm Khan a very friendly reception which induced him to wait on me, below Dun, in the neighbourhood of Pelhur, where he came and tendered me his allegiance While I was at Stälkot, some of the troops a whom I had left in Lahore arrived to inform me, that they would all be up by the morning

Dec 30. Bibur reaches Parsrür Next morning I marched, and halted at Parsrūr, where Muhammed Ali Jeng Jeng, Khwājeh Hussain, and some others, accordingly came and waited on me. As the enemy seamp was on the banks of the Rāvi, towards Lahore, I sent out Bujkeh with his party to reconnoitre and bring in intelligence. About the end of the third watch of the night they came back with information that the enemy, immediately on getting notice of their approach, had fled away in consternation, every man shifting for himself.

Dec. 31.

On the following morning, leaving Shah Mîr Hussain, and some other officers, to guard the camp and baggage, I separated from them, and pushed on with all possible speed. We reached Kalanūr about the middle of afternoon prayers, and halted. Muhammed Sultūn Mirza, Idil Sultūn, and the other Amirs, came here and waited on me

² The Ravi, or Hydraotes, which is the middle river of the five that compose the Panjab, is the river on which Lahore stands

a one of those

b 4dd and Jan Bog,

 $^{^{1}}$ These noblemen had been left with a body of troops to defend the Panjāb

Marching before day break from Kālanūr,1 we discovered on the road certain traces a that Ghazi Khan and the fugitives were not far off Muhammedi and Ahmedi,b with several of the Begs about my person, whom I had recently at Kābul promoted to the rank of Beg, were detached to pursue the fugitives, without halting Their orders were, that, if they could overtake the flying enemy, it was well, but, if not, that they should carefully guard every approach and issue of the fort of Milwat, that the garrison might not be able to effect their escape Ghāzi Khan was the object that I principally aimed at in these instructions Having sent forward this detachment under the Begs, we crossed the river Bias opposite to Kanwahin,2 and there halted From thence, after three marches, we encamped in the mouth of the valley in which lies the fort of Milwat 3 The Begs, who had arrived before us, and the Amirs of Hindustan, were directed to encamp and lay close siege to the fort Ismäel Khan, who was Doulet Khan s grandson (being the son of Alı Khan, Doulet Khan's eldest son), having arrived in our quarters, was sent into the fort to offer terms of capitulation, and with a message in which we mingled promises and threats On Friday I made the camp advance, Jan 5 and take ground half a kos nearer I myself went out, reconnoitred the fort, and after having assigned to the right and left wing, and to the centre, their respective stations, returned back to the camp

Jan 1,

Crosses the Biās Jan 2, 3, and 4 Blockades Milwat.

surrendered by Doulet Khan.

Doulet Khan now sent a person to inform me, that Ghazi which is Khan had escaped and fled to the hills, but that if I would

a news

b Add and Kutlūk Kadam,

¹ [Kalānaur is a town in the Gurdāspūr district (Panjāb), fifteen miles west of Gurdaspur town. It was here that Akbar received the news of his father's death, and had himself enthroned on a mound still to be seen outside the town]

² [This place is not marked on any map, but it is referred to in the Ayin Albari as being included in the Batala Sirkar of the Bārī Duāb Batāla is now the head quarters of the Batāla Tahsīl, Gurdaspur district (Panjab), twenty four miles north east of Amritsar 1

³ [Malot is an ancient fortress, now in rums, in the head quarters Tahsīl of the Hoshiārpūr district (Panjāb) It was founded in the reign of Sultan Bahlol Lodi (1451-89)]

excuse his own offences, he would come as a slave a and dehver up the place I therefore sent Khwajeh Mīr Mīrān to confirm him in his resolution, and to bring him out son Alı Khan accompanied that officer b In order to expose the rudeness and stupidity of the old man. I directed him to take care that Doulet Khan should come out with the same two swords hung round his neck, which he had hung by his side to meet me in combat When matters had come this length,d he still contrived frivolous pretexts for delay, but was at length brought out I ordered the two swords to be taken from his neck. When he came to offer me his obeisance, he affected delays in bowing, I directed them to push his leg and make him bow. I then made him sit down before me, and desired a man who understood the Hindustāni language to explain to him what I said, sentence by sentence, in order to reassure him . and to tell him, 'I called you Father I showed you more respect and reverence than you could have desired or expected delivered you and your sons from the insults of f the Balūches I delivered your tribe, your family, and women, from the bondage of Ibrahim The countries held by Tātār Khan¹ to the amount of three krors,2 I bestowed on you What evil have I ever done you, that you should come in this style against me, with these two swords by your side attended by an army, stir up tumult and confusion in my

who waits upon Babui

a make his submission

^b Having fulfilled his mission that officer returned in company with Daulat Khan and his son Ali Khan.

o Omit this clause.

d Add this man was so stupid and rude that

o and in such a way as to impress it well on his mind, beggary among

¹ [Tātār Khan was Daulat Khan's father]

² About £75,000 sterling The emperors of Hindustān, from a love of pomp and show, have always used large numbers in reckoning their revenues and in bestowing presents. Their revenue accounts were kept in dāms, of which forty go to a rupee Hence their laks and krors sink into a very small compass, when reduced to English money, and the revenue of very extensive tracts of country will frequently be found inferior to the rents of an English gentleman's estate.

territories?' The man, being stupefied, stammered out a few words not at all to the purpose, and, indeed, what could he say in answer to such confounding truths? It was settled that he and his family should retain their authority in their own tribes, and possession of their villages, but that all the rest of their property should be sequestrated a They were directed to encamp close by Khwājeh Mīr Mīrān

On Saturday, the 22nd of the first Rabi, to ensure their Jan. 6 good treatment while they were bringing out their dependants and families. I myself went and took my station on a rising ground opposite to the gate of Milwat Ali Khan came up and presented me with a few ashrafis as a peshkesh Towards afternoon prayers they began to remove their dependants and women b Abdal-azīz and Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng, Kutlük Kadem, Muhammedi, and Ahmedi. with several other of the Begs about my person, were directed to enter the fort, and to take possession of and secure their treasures, and all their property Although Ghāzı Khan was said to have left the place and fled, yet some reported that they had seen him within the fort On this account I placed several of my trusty officers and servants at the gate, with orders to examine every person and place of which o they had the least suspicion, that Ghāzi Khan might not escape by any artifice, as now my grand object was to make him prisoner. They had also orders to seize any jewels or precious stones that might be attempted to be secretly conveyed out of the town d The troops made a great not at the gate of the fort, which obliged me to discharge a few arrows to check their turbulence, a chance shot struck Humāiūn's reader, who expired on the spot After remaining on the hillock for two nights, on Monday Jan 8 I entered and surveyed the fort I examined Ghāzi Khan's library, and found in it a number of valuable books Some

a It was decided that he and his family should retain full authority over the members of their households and their womenfolk, but that all their chattels should be sequestrated.

b Add At dawn of day Sultan Juned,

N B This sentence occurs after the words passed the night there lower down (d) c of whom

d Add I had pitched my tent on a hillock opposite the gate and passed the night there of them I gave to Humaiun, and some I sent to Kamran There was also a number of theological books, but I did not, on the whole, find so many books of value as, from their appearance, I had expected

I stayed in the fort all night, and next morning returned to the camp. We had been mistaken in imagining that Ghāzi Khan was in the fort. That traitorous coward had fled, and escaped to the hills with a small number of followers, leaving his father, his elder and younger brothers, his mother, his elder and younger sisters, in Milwat

(Persian)—Observe that faithless man, for never Shall he see the face of good fortune, He takes care of his own comforts, Yet leaves his wife and children in misery ¹

Jan 10

On Wednesday I marched thence towards the hill to which Ghazi Khan had fled After advancing one kos from the station at the gorge of Milwat, we halted in a valley It was here that Dilawer Khan came and tendered his allegiance Doulet Khan and Ali Khan, with Ismael Khan and some other leading men, were delivered as prisoners to Kitteh, to be carried to the fort of Milwat,3 in Behreh, there to be detained in custody. The rest were delivered to various persons for the purpose of levying contributions on them, and their ransoms were fixed after Dilawer Khan's opinion had been taken Several were liberated on securities, several were committed to prison and close custody Kitteh set out with the prisoners He had reached Sultanpur when Doulet Khan died I gave the fort of Milwat to Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng, who lest his elder brother Arghūn in the place, on his part, with a body of troops About two hundred or two hundred and fifty Hazāras and Afghans were also left to assist in the defence of the fort

Death of Doulot Khan

> Khwājeh Kalān had loaded some camels with the wines of Ghazni, and brought them to the camp — His quarters were on a high ground that overlooked the fort and camp — We had a party there in which some drank wine and others It was a rare party

¹ From the Gulistan of Sadı [chap 1, story 17]

[[]This is the Malot in the Jhelum district sixteen miles north west of Pindadan Khan, remarkable for its fort and fine Buddhist temple—It was the ancestral village of the Janjūa clan, and is identified by Cunningham with Singhapūra, the ancient capital of the Salt Range.]

Marching thence, and passing the small hills of Ab-kend by Milwat.2 we reached Dun In the language of Hindustan, they call a julga (or dale), dun 1 The finest running water 2 in Hindustan is that in this Dun There are many villages around the Dun, which was a perganna of the Jaswal, who were the maternal uncles of Dilawer Khan This Dun is a very pleasant dale, and there are meadows all along the In several places they sow rice Through the middle of it runs a stream large enough to turn three or four mills The width of the dale is one or two kos, in some places it is even three kos. Its hills are very small, like hillocks, and all its villages stand on the skirts of these hillocks Where there are no villages, there are numbers of peacocks and monkeys There are also many fowls resembling barn-door fowls they resemble them in shape, but are generally of a single colour 3

Bābur reaches

Description of Din

As we could nowhere get any certain intelligence of Ghāzi Khan. I sent Tardikeh with Birim Deo Malinhat, o with orders to pursue him wherever he might go, to engage him, and bring him back a prisoner. In the country composed of small hills, that has been mentioned as lying around the Dun, there are some wonderfully strong castles north-east is a castle called Kütila 4 It is surrounded by d Of Kütila a rock seventy or eighty gaz in perpendicular height

b Omit this clause.

o Milhas.

d perched on

* [The Red Jungle fowl (Gallus ferrugineus)]

a and crossing one of the mountains of Milwat which is com pletely scarred with deep ravines,

¹ [This is the Jaswan or Una Dün, a fertile valley in the Hoshiarpur district, from four to eight miles in breadth, situated between the Sola Singhi range of the outer Himalayas and the Katar Dhar ridge of the Sivaliks It is traversed throughout its length by the Sohan mver]

² Ab : rawan-running water, is said to be used in Persian for a canal or aqueduct. It may, however, mean a stream of water, and the expression, the only ab 1 rawan, probably may mean, one of the few ab 1 rawans, or the finest of them. The expression again recurs.

This may be Kotlair in the south west corner of the Kangra district (Hamīrpūr Tahsīl), on the Hoshiārpūr bordar 1 its chief gate, for the space of about seven or eight gaz, there is a place that admits of a drawbridge being thrown across. It may be ten or twelve gaz wide. The bridge is composed of two long planks, by which their horses and flocks pass out and in. This was one of the forts of the hill-country, which Ghāzi Khan had put into a state of defence and garrisoned. The detachment that had been pushed on attacked the place vigorously, and had nearly taken it, when night came on. The garrison then abandoned the eastle and fled away. Near the Dūn is another strong eastle called the Fort of Gingūteh, the country around which is all hilly, but it is not so strong as the former. Alim Khan, in his flight, had thrown himself into this fort, as has been already mentioned.

Bibur resolves to attack Delhi After sending a detachment in pursuit of Ghūzi Khan, I placed my foot in the stirrup of resolution, and my hand on the reins of confidence-in-God and marched against Sultan Ibrahīm, the son of Sultan Iskander, the son of Sultan Bahlol Lodi Afghan, in whose possession the throne of Delhi and the dominions of Hindustān at that time were, whose army in the field was said to amount to a hundred thousand men, and who, including those of his Amirs, had nearly a thousand elephants. After one march I bestowed Debālpūr 1 on Bāki Shaghāwel, and sent him to reinforce Balkh. I sent a great part of the gold and effects found in the fort of Milwat, to strengthen my interest in Balkh, and to Kābul as presents to my relations and friends, and to my children and dependants c

² [height], except near the gate where it is only seven or eight yards high. It is entered by a drawbridge thrown across the moat which is twelve yards wide.

b which was also built over a steep precipice,

^c I sent him a large sum of money to advance my interests in Balkh, and I made a deduction from the spoils of Milwat to send rich gifts for those of my relations and children, big or little, who were in Kābul.

^{1 [}Dipālpūr is a small town in the Dipālpūr Tahsīl of the Mont gomery district (Panjūb) about forty miles south west of Lahore. It is situated on the old bank of the Beās, and the decay of the town may be attributed to the shifting of that river—It is best known as one of the frontier fortresses which defended the Delhi kingdom from Mongol inroads in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries Bābur stormed it in 1524]

A march or two below Dūn, Shah Imād Shirāzi came with letters from Araish Khan and Mulla Muhammed Mazhab.1 containing assurances of their attachment to my interest, and urging me to continue resolutely the expedition I had commenced I wrote them in return, to assure them of my protection and favour, and having dispatched the letters by a messenger on foot, continued my route detachment which had proceeded into Milwat, advanced against Harur, Kahlur,2 and the forts in that part of the country, among which, from the natural strength of the ground, no enemy had penetrated for a long time before, took the whole of them, and returned and joined me, after having plundered the inhabitants of the district. It was at this time that Alim Khan, being reduced to great distress came naked, b and on foot, to meet me I directed several Begs and some noblemen of my court to go out to receive him, and also sent him some horses. He waited upon me in this neighbourhood, and made his submission 3

A detachment was sent out among the hills and valleys in this vicinity, but returned after being out a night or two, without having met with anything of value. Shah Mīr Hussain, and Jān Beg, with some other of my people, asked permission to go on a foray, which I granted, and they went off

While I was in Dun, two or three letters had come from a parted from me at Milwat,

b stripped bare,

¹ These were lords of Ibrahim's court

² [Kahlūr is another name for Bilāspūr, capital of the Simla Hill State of the same name, situated on the left bank of the Satlaj Harūr was probably a fort in the same range of hills, but I have not been able to identify it.]

From this time forward there seems to have been an end to Ālim or Alā ed dīn Khan's pretensions to the throne of Delhi [He had the nominal command of a part of Bābur's army at the battle with Ibrahīm (A. D 1526) and also led a division in the battle of Kānwā against Rāna Sanga (A. D 1527) But Bābur, finding his pretensions inconvenient, had him confined in the fort of Kila Zafar in Badakhshān. From this custody he escaped, and passing through Sind took refuge with Bahādur Shah, King of Gujerāt, Here he was met by his son Tātār Khan. They were well received, and were subsequently supported by Bahādur in an attempt to expel Bābur's son, Humāyūn, from Agra—EB, p 431] near Sirband Ismacl Idwani and Biban! I sent them gracious answers from this place, to retain them in their favourable sentiments.

Arrives

After marching from Dan we came to Rapar? While we stayed at Rapar, it rained incessantly, and was so extremely cold, that many of the starying and hungry Hindustanis died. After marching from Rapar, we had halted at Kerit, opposite to Suhind,3 when a Hindustani presented himself, assuming the style of an ambassador from Sultan Ibraham. Though he had no letters or credentials, yet as he requested that one of my people might accompany him back as my ambassador, I accordingly did send back a sacadi tunketar had along with him. These poor men had no sooner arrived in Ibraham's camp than he ordered them both to be thrown into prison. The very day that we defeated Ibraham, the sacadi was set at liberty, and waited on me.

n in fulfilment of their requests

b one or two sawades of my bodyguard

1 These were also noblemen of great rank and power among the Afghans in Hindustan

[Rûpar the head quarters of a subdivision of the Ambāla district, is situated at a point where the Satlaj issues from the hills, and is a place of considerable commercial importance. The head works of the great Sirhind Canal are situated here. It was the scene of the celebrated meeting between Lord William Bentinek and Ranjit

Singh in 1831]

Schrind or Sirhind is situated in latitude 30° 26' and longitude 76° 30'. It has been a place of great importance, and is still a striking scene though quite deserted. It is a very compact town, six miles round, built with brick, and paved with the same material. The houses are now unroofed, but the walls all standing. The city contains a fort, now in ruins, a fine stone mosque, and many other hand some tombs and places of worship. The east of the city is covered by a lake, over which are two handsome bridges. On the other sides it is incircled by extensive and beautiful groves of mangoes, and altogether presents a very grand and pleasing speciacle. There is a ruined garden and palace near the town, which in splendour yields to no garden in India, except the Shahmar at Lahore. [Sirhind, a town in the Sirhind Tahsil of the Patiala State (Panjab), has now a population of 5,500. Owing to its strategic position it was one of the most important strongholds of the Mughal Empire.]

4 The office of the tunketär is not well ascertained. He seems to have been a confidential servant, perhaps connected with the ten, or private treasury. [In modern Persian sawads or all sawad means literate or educated. The term tunketär P de C. translates

by 'night guard']

After two marches more we halted on the banks of the stream of Banur 1 and Sanur 2. This is a running water, of which there are few in Hindustan, except large rivers They call it the stream of Kagar 3 Chiter stands on its banks We rode up this stream to view the country. Three or four kes above Cluter, it comes flowing down from a number of little springs Higher up than the stream by which we had ridden, a there issues from an open valley a rivulet fit to turn four or five mills. It is an extremely beautiful and delightful place with a charming climate. On the banks of this rivulet, where it issues from the spreading valley, I directed a Charbigh (or large garden) to be laid out. The rivulet, after reaching the plain goes on for a kos or two and falls into the first-mentioned river. The place where the stream of Kagar issues and is formed from the junction of the small springs that have been mentioned, may be three or four kos higher up than the place where this rivulet falls into it During the rainy season, the water of the rivulet, swelling extremely, flows down united with the stream of the Kagar, to Samanch 4 and Sanam At this station we had information that Sultan Ibrahim, who lay on this side of Delhi, was Sultan

Hears of Sultan Ibrahim s approach

a As we went up the river,

^{1 [}Banur is the head quarters of a Tahail of the same name in the Patiāla State (Panjāb) ten miles north east of Rajpūra. Its ruins tectify to its former importance. Its ancient name was Push pawati or City of Flowers, so called on account of the jasmine scent, which was its chief industry, now all but disappeared.]

² [A town in the Patiala State (Panjab) situated four miles south cast of Patiala town. In the reign of Babur, Malik Bahā ud din Khokar became chief of Sanūr, and of eighty four circumjacent villages, whence the district was known as Chaurāsi.]

⁵ [The Ghagar river rises in Sirmur and passing close to Ambāla flows through Patiāla and Hissār and finally loses itself in the Bikanīr desert near Bhatner It is not a perennial stream]

^{* [}Samāna is a town in the Bhawāni garh Tahsil of the Patiāla State (Panjāb), about seventeen miles south west of Patiāla town It is a place of great antiquity, and is frequently mentioned in Muhammedan histories as a fief of Delhi It surrendered to Muhammed Ghori after his defeat of Prithyi Raja in 1192 Sanām is the head-quarters of the Tahsīl of the same name in the Patiāla State, forty three miles south west of Patiāla town Though now of little importance it played a memorable part in the history of the Panjāb after the Muhammedan invasion.]

A H 932

д р 1526

advancing, and that the Shikdar of Hissar-Firozeh, 1 Hamid Khan, hhaseh-kharl, had also advanced ten or fifteen kos to wards us with the army of Hissar-Firozeli, and of the neigh I sent on Kitteh Beg towards Ibrahim's bouring districts camp to procure intelligence, and dispatched Mūmin Atkeh to wards the army of Hissar-Firozeh to get notice of its motions

Γeb 25

Detaches Humājūn towards Hissar-Firozeh

On Sunday, the 13th of the first Jumada, I marched from Ambāla.2 and had halted on the margin of a tank, when Mümin Atkeh and Kitteh Beg both returned on the same The command of the whole right wing I gave to Humāiūn, who was accompanied by Khwajeh Kalān, Sultan Muhammed Duldai, Wali Khazin, with some of the Begs who had stayed in Hindustan, such as Khosrou, Hindu Beg, Abdal-azīz, and Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng I also strengthened this force by adding to it several of the inferior Begs, and of my immediate dependants from the centre, such as Mansür Birläs, Kitteh Beg, Muhibb Ali, with a large body of troops, and directed him to march against Hamid Khan It was at this station, too, that Biban came and made his These Afghans are provokingly rude and submission stupid a Although Dilawer Khan, who was his superior, both in the number of his retainers and in rank, did not sit in the presence, and although the sons of Alim Khan stood, though they were princes,3 this man asked to be allowed to sit, and expected me to listen to his unreasonable demand

a tactless

¹ The Shikdar is a military collector of the revenue, and has often the chief authority in a district [Hissar, the head quarters of the district of the same name (Panjab), was founded in 1356 by Firoz Shah Tughlak, whence its name Firozah It was occupied by an Imperial garrison at the time of Babur's invasion. In later days it became remarkable as the head quarters of the celebrated knight errant, George Thomas, who took possession of it in 1783]

Ambala is a small town, with a handsome tank. The houses are mostly two stories high, more regular than is usual in India, the streets are well paved with brick, and very clean On the whole, it is probably the neatest town in India [Ambāla is the head quarters of the district of the same name (Panjab), now chiefly important as one of the largest cantonments in India. It was of little importance in early days.]

It will be recollected, that Alim Khan, or Ala ed din, was a brother of Sultan Ibrahim, the reigning emperor

Next morning being Monday the 14th Humaiun set out with his light force to attack Hamid Khan by surprise Hu mājūn dispatched on before him a hundred or a hundred and fifty select men by way of advanced guard. On coming near the enemy this advanced body went close up to them hung upon their flanks, and had one or two rencounters when the troops of Humaian appeared in sight following No sooner were they perceived than the enemy took to flight. Our troops brought down one hundred or two hundred of their men, cut off the heads of the one half, and brought the other half alive into the camp, along with seven or eight elephants Beg Mirak Moghul brought the news of this victory of Humanun to the camp at this station on Friday the 18th of the month On the spot, I directed March 2 a complete dress of honour, a horse from my own stable. with a reward in money, to be given to him

Γeb 26 Humaiûn defeats Hamid Khan

On Monday the 21st, Humaiun reached the camp that March 5 was still at the same station, with a hundred prisoners, and seven or eight elephants, and waited on me I ordered Ustad Alı Kulı and the matchlockmen to shoot all the prisoners as an example. This was Hum'in s first expedition, and the first service he had seen. It was a very good omen Some light troops having followed the fugitives, took Hissir Firozeh the moment they reached it and returned after plundering it Hissär-Firozeh which, with its dependencies and subordinate districts, yielded a hror, 1 I bestowed on Humaiun, with a kror in money as a present

Hissar Fi rozehiaken

Marching from that station, we reached Shahābād : I sent fit persons b towards Sultan Ibrahim's camp to procure intelligence, and halted several days in this station. From this place also I dispatched Rahmet Piadeh to Kabul, with letters announcing my victory

Halts at Shahabad

(At this same station, and this same day, the razor or seissors, were first applied to Humaiūn's beard 3. As my

Humaiūn's note on the Memoirs

a Omit this clause,

b omissaries

¹ About £25,000 sterling

² Shahabad is a town in the Thanesar Tahsil of the Karnal district (Panjab), sixteen miles south of Ambala 1

³ [This sentence was apparently written by Babur, and the rest of the parenthesis by Humayun, his son,] honoured father mentions in these commentaries the time of his first using the razor, in humble emulation of him, I have commemorated the same circumstance regarding myself. I was then eighteen years of age. Now that I am forty-six I, Muhammed Humāiūn, am transcribing a copy of these Memoirs from the copy in his late Majesty's own handwriting a)1

March 12

In this station, on Monday the 28th of the first Jumada the sun entered Aries, we now began also to receive repeated information from Ibrahim's camp that he was advancing slowly by a kos or two at a time, and halting two or three days at each station. I, on my side, likewise moved on to meet him, and after the second march from Shahabad, en camped on the banks of the Jumna,2 opposite to Sirsaweh ha Haider Kuli a servant of Khwajeh Kalan, was sent out to procure intelligence. I crossed the Jumna by a ford and went to see Sirsaweh That same day I took a manian At Sirsaweh there is a fountain from which a small stream flows It is rather a pretty place Terdi Beg Khaksar praised it highly I said, 'Yours be it' and in consequence of these praises I bestowed it on Terdi Beg Klinksur Having raised an awning c in a boat, we sometimes sailed about on the brond stream of the river, and sometimes entered the creeks in the heat d

Babur en eamps near Susaweh

From this station we held down the river for two marches keeping close along its banks when Haider Kuli who had been sent out to collect intelligence returned, bringing information that Daud Khan and Hütim Khan had been

² The sentence At the station — beard is given as part of Bahur's Journal, and Humāyūn's note consists of the sentence I was then eighteen and the current year is 961 (1553-4)

b Omit opposite to Simiweh

d I went about sometimes with the aid of the bort and sometimes without using it (i e by land)

¹ This note of Humuun's must have been made about A D 1553, during his residence in Kubul, before his last return to Hudustan

² This river the Persians call the Jun. It is always so written in the Memoirs

^{2 (}Survively is a small town situated in the district of Sahäranpür on the route between the latter place and Ambüla, ten miles west north west of the former.)

sent across the river into the Doab with six or seven thousand a horse, and had encamped three or four kos in advance April 1. of Ibrahim's position on the road towards us On Sunday the 18th of the second Jumada, I dispatched against this the enemy column Chin Taimūr Sultan. 1 Mahdi Khwajeh, Sultan Mirza, Adil Sultan, with the whole left wing, commanded by Sultan Juneid, Shah Mir Hūssain, Kūtluk Kadem, as well as part of the centre under Yunis Ali, Abdallah, Ahmedi, and Kitteh Beg, with instructions to advance rapidly and fall upon them by surprise About noon-day prayers, they crossed the river near our camp, and between afternoon and evening prayers set out from the opposite April 2 Next morning, about the time of early prayers,2 they arrived close upon the enemy, who put themselves in some kind of order, and marched out to meet them, but out troops no sooner came up, than the enemy fled, and were followed in close pursuit, and slaughtered all the way to the limits of Ibrahim's camp The detachment took Hatım Khan, Daud Khan's eldest brother, and one of the generals, with seventy or eighty prisoners, and six or eight elephants, all of which they brought in when they waited on me Several b of the prisoners were put to death, to strike terror into the enemy

Attempts to surprise

Marching thence, I arranged the whole army in order of [The vim] battle,c with right and left wing and centre, and after reviewing it, performed the vim d3 The custom of the vim is, that, the whole army being mounted, the commander takes a bow or whip in his hand, and guesses at the number of the army, according to a fashion in use, and in conformity with which they affirm that the army may be so many e The number that I guessed was greater than the army turned out to be a Omit or seven

b Most

c I reviewed the whole army.

d For and after reviewing it, performed the vim, read each division keeping to its own station. e Omit this sentence.

¹ [The son of Sultan Ahmed, 'the younger Khan']

² The farz prayers are repeated when there is light enough to distinguish one object from another

² [The tine is a march past of troops for purposes of enumeration]

Fortifies his front

At this station a I directed b that, according to the custom of Rum,1 the gun-carriages should be connected together with twisted bull-hides as with chains Between every two gun-carriages 2 were six or seven turas 3 or breast-works The matchlockmen stood behind these guns and taras, and discharged their matchlocks I halted five or six days in this camp, for the purpose of getting this apparatus arranged After every part of it was in order and ready, I called together all the Amirs, and men of any experience and knowledge, and held a general council. It was settled, that as Panipat was a considerable city, it would cover one of our flanks by its buildings d and houses, while we might fortify our front by turas, or covered defences, and cannon, and that the matchlockmen and infantry should be placed in the rear of the guns and taras o With this resolution we moved, and in two marches, on Thursday, the 30th of the last Jumada, reached Pāmpat 4 On our right were the town and suburbs In my front I placed the guns and taras which had been a Add I ordered all the soldiers to bring up wagons, each according to his means. Some seven hundred were in this way collected

April 13 Reaches Panipat

h Add Ustad Alı Kulı

o Add and very populous

d suburbs

o while the other flank would rest on the line of wagons and palisades behind which the matchlockmen and infantry should be posted

1 That is, of the Ottomans,

² [For guns and gun carriages P do C reads throughout wayons]

The meaning assigned to tūru, here, and in several other places, is morely conjectural, founded on Potis de la Cron's explanation, and on the meaning given by Meninski to tūr, viz. reticulatus. The tūrus may here have been formed of the branches of trees, interwoven like basketwork, so as to form defences, or they may have been covered defences from arrows and missiles, such as we have seen used in several sieges. [The tura, according to P de C, was a kind of palisade or mantelet]

4 (Pănipat, the head quarters of the Tahsīl of the same name in the Karnāl district (Panjāb), is situated on the Delhi-Kālka Railway, about fifty miles north west of the former place. It is a town of great antiquity, and was of considerable importance in Muhammedan times. Its chief title to fame is that it was the scene of three of the most decisive battles of northern India, viz. Bābur's defeat of Ibrahīm Lodi (1526), Hemu's defeat by Akbar (1550), and Ahmed

Shah's victory over the Mahrattas (1761).

On the left, and in different other points, we drew ditches and made defences of the boughs of trees. At the distance of every bowshot, a space was left large enough for a hundred or a hundred and fifty men to issue forth Many of the troops were in great terror and alarm Trepidation and fear are always unbecoming Whatsoever Almighty God has decreed from all eternity, cannot be reversed, though, at the same time, I cannot greatly blame them, they had some reason, for they had come two or three months' journey from their own country, we had to engage in arms a strange nation, whose language we did not understand, and who did not understand ours.

(Persian)-We are all in difficulty, all in distraction Surrounded by a people, by a strange people.

The army of the enemy opposed to us was estimated at Misconduct one hundred thousand men, the elephants of the emperor of the and his officers were said to amount to nearly a thousand He possessed the accumulated treasures of his father and grundfather, in current coin, ready for use. It is an usage in Hindustan, in situations similar to that in which the enemy now were, to expend sums of money in bringing together troops who engage to serve for hire These men are called Had he chosen to adopt this plan, he might have engaged one or two hundred thousand more troops But God Almighty directed everything for the best had not the heart to satisfy even his own army, and would not part with any of his treasure Indeed, how was it possible that he should satisfy his troops, when he was himself miserly to the last degree, and beyond measure avaricious in accumulating pelf? He was a young man of no experience He was negligent in all his movements, he marched without order, retired or halted without plan, and engaged in battle without foresight While the troops were fortifying their position in Panipat and its vicinity, with guns, a branches of trees, and ditches, Derwish Muhammed Sarban said to me, 'You have fortified our ground in such a way that it is not possible he should ever think of coming here 'I answered, 'You judge of him by the Khans and Sultans of the Uzbeks It is true that, the year in which we left Samarkand and came to Hissar, a body of the Uzbek Khans and Sultans having collected and united together, set out from Derbend 1 in order to fall upon us I brought the families and property of all the Moghuls and soldiers into the town and suburbs, and closing up all the streets, put them in a defensible state As these Khans and Sultans were perfectly versed in the proper times and seasons for attacking and retiring, they perceived that we were resolved to defend Hissar to the last drop of our blood, and had fortified it under that idea, and seeing no hopes of succeeding in their enterprise, fell back by Bundak Cheghāniān a But you must not judge of our present enemies by those who were then opposed to us They have not ability to discriminate when it is proper to advance and when to retreat 'b God brought everything to pass favour ably It happened as I foretold During the seven or eight days that we remained in Panipat, a very small party of my men, advancing close up to their encampment and to their vastly superior force, discharged arrows upon them c They did not, however, move, or make any demonstration of sallying out At length, induced by the persuasions of some Hindustäni Amīrs, in my interest, I sent Mahdi Khwājeh, Muhammed Sultan Mirza, Adıl Sultan, Khosrou Shah, Mir Hüssain, Sultan Juneid Birläs, Abdal-azīz, the master of horse (Mir akhūr), Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng, Kütluk Kadem, Walı Khāzın, Mulubb Alı Khalifeh, Mulammed Bakhshi, Jan Beg, and Karakuzi, with four or five thousand men, on a night attack They did not assemble properly in the first instance d, and as they marched out in confusion, did not get on well The day dawned, yet they continued

April 19 or 20

Babur harasses the enemy

lingering near the enemy's camp till it was broad daylight, a Nündek, near Cheghāniān.

b They have not learned how to carry out a military operation nor to conduct a manœuvre

c Add and brought back some decapitated heads.

d Add owing to the darkness

¹ The celebrated pass of Kolugha, or Kohlugheh, in the hills between Hissār and Shaher e sabz. [This defence of Hissār by Bābur occurred in A D 1512]

when the enemy, on their side, beat their kettle-drums, got ready their elephants, and marched out upon them Although our people did not effect anything, yet, in spite of the multitude of troops that hung upon them in their retreat, they returned safe and sound, without the loss of a man Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng was wounded with an arrow,a and though the wound was not mortal, yet it disabled him from taking his place b on the day of battle. On learning what had occurred. I immediately detached Humaiun with his division a kos or a kos and a half in advance, to cover their retreat, while I myself, remaining with the army, drew it out, and got it in readiness for action. The party which had marched to surprise the enemy fell in with Humaiun, and returned with him As none of the enemy came near us, I drew off the army, and led it back to the camp course of the night we had a false alarm, for nearly one gharn 1 the call to arms and the uproar continued Such of the troops as had never before witnessed an alarm of the kind, were in great confusion and dismay In a short time, how ever, the alarm subsided

By the time of early morning prayers, when the light was The enemy such that you could distinguish one object from another,d attacks notice was brought from the advanced patrols that the April 21. enemy were advancing, drawn up in order of battle We too immediately braced on our helmets and our armour, and mounted The right division was led by Humaiun, accompanied by Khwajeh Kalan, Sultan Muhammed Duldai, Hındu Beg, Walı Khāzın, and Pır Kulı Sīstānı, the left division was commanded by Muhammed Sultan Mirza, Mahdı Khwajeh, Adıl Sultan, Shah Mīr Hussain, Sultan Juneid Birlas, Kütluk Kadem, Jan Beg, Muhammed Bakhshi, Shah Hussain Bargi, and Moghul Ghanchi The right of the centre was commanded by Chin Taimūr Sultan, Muhammedı Gokultash, Shah Mansûr Bırlas, Yunıs Alı, Derwish Muhammed Sārbān, and Abdallah Kıtābdār, the left of the a Add in the foot.

b playing an active part c more than

d Add on Friday the 8th of the month of Rajab.

e Add Sultan Selīm Mirza.

¹ A ghari is twenty four minutes.

centre by Khalifeh, Khwājeh Mīr Mīrān, Ahmedi Perwāneh, Terdi Beg, Kūch Beg, Muhibb Ali Khalīfeh, and Mirza Beg Terkhān. The advance was led by Khosrou Gokultāsh and Muhammed Ali Jeng-Jeng ¹ Abdal-azīz, master of horse, had the command of the reserve ² On the flank of the right division I stationed Wali Kizil, Malik Kāsim, Bāba Kashkeh, with their Moghuls, to act as a tulughmeh (or flanking party) On the extremity of the left division were stationed Kara-Kūzi, Abul Muhammed Nezehbāz, Sheikh Ali, Sheikh Jemāl Bārīn, Mahdi, Tengrī Kuli Moghul, to form the tulughmeh (or flankers), with instructions, that ² as soon as the enemy approached sufficiently near, they should take a circuit and come round upon their rear ^b

When the enemy first came in sight, they seemed to bend their force most against the right division. I therefore detached Abdal-azīz, who was stationed with the reserve, to reinforce the right Sultan Ibrahīm's army, from the time it first appeared in sight, never made a halt, but advanced right upon us, at a quick pace When they came closer, on getting a view of my troops, and finding them drawn up in the order and with the defences that have been mentioned, they were brought up and stood for a while, as if considering, 'Shall we halt or not? Shall we advance or not?' They could not halt, and they were unable to advance with the same speed as before I sent orders to the troops stationed as flankers on the extremes of the right and left divisions, to wheel round the enemy s flank with all possible speed, and instantly to attack them in the rear, c the right and left divisions were also ordered to charge the enemy d The flankers accordingly wheeled on the rear of the enemy, and began to make discharges of arrows on them Mahdi Khwāieh came up before the rest of the left wing e A body of men with one elephant advanced a These two corps had orders that

b Add on the right and left

c Add with showers of arrows, and press them vigorously,

d while the right and left wings should advance and charge the enemy in front.

e Add and was the first to engage

¹ [This officer took a prominent part in the battle in spite of his wound]

² Terckh

to meet him. My troops gave them some sharp discharges of arrows, and the enemy's division was at last driven back I dispatched from the main body Ahmedi Perwanchi, Terdi Beg. Kuch Beg. and Muhibb Ali Khalifeh, to the assistance of the left division The battle was likewise obstmate on the right I ordered Muhammedi Gokultāsh, Shah Mansur Birlas, Yunis Ali, and Abdallah, to advance in front of the centre and engage Ustad Alı Kulı also discharged his guns 1 many times in front of the line s to good purpose Mustafa, the cannoncer, on the left of the centre, managed his artillery with great effect. The right and left divisions, the centre and flankers having surrounded the enemy and taken them in rear, were now engaged in hot conflict, and busy pouring in discharges of arrows on them They made one or two very poor charges on our right and left divisions My troops, making use of their bows, plied them with arrows, and drove them in upon their centre The troops on the right and left of their centre, being huddled together in one place, such confusion ensued, that the enemy, while totally unable to advance, found also no road by which they could flee The sun had mounted spear-high when the onset of battle began, and the combat lasted till mid-day, when the enemy were completely broken and routed, and my friends victorious and exulting By the grace and mercy of Almighty God, this arduous undertaking was rendered easy for me, and this mighty army, in the space of half a day, laid in the dust Five or six thousand men were discovered lying slain, in one spot, near Ibrahim We reckoned that the number lying slain, bin different parts of this field of battle, amounted to fifteen or sixteen thousand men On reaching Agra, we found, from the accounts of the natives of Hindustan, that forty or fifty thousand men had fallen in this field After routing the enemy, we continued the pursuit, slaughtering, o and making them prisoners

But is completely defeated

a centre b Add besides these, c completing their defeat,

¹ leringihā—The size of these artillers at the time in question is very uncertain. The word is now used in the Dekkan for a swivel. In common usage, zarb zan, at the present day, is a small species of swivel. Both words, in the time of Bābur, appear to have been used for field cannon.

Those who were ahead, began to bring in the Anīrs and Afghans as prisoners ^a They brought in a very great number of elephants with their drivers, and offered them to me as peshhesh Having pursued the enemy to some distance, and supposing that Ibrahīm had escaped from the battle, I appointed Kismāi Mirza, Bāba Chihreh, and Bujkeh, with a party of my immediate adherents, to follow him in close pursuit down as far as Agra ^b Having passed through the middle of Ibrahīm's camp, and visited his pavilion and accommodations, ^c we encamped on the banks of the Siāh-āb ¹

It was now afternoon prayers when Tahir Taberi, the

Ibrahim found among the slam

the younger brother of Khalifeh, having found Ibrahim lying dead amidst a number of slain, cut off his head, and brought it in

That very day I directed Humanin Mirza, Khwajeh Kalan, de Muhammed, Shah Mansir Birlis, Yung Ali, Abdallah and

Bābur sends a de tachment to occupy Agra and Delhi That very day I directed Humāiūn Mirza, Khwājeh Kalan, Muhammedi, Shah Mansūr Birlās, Yums Ali, Abdallah, and Wali Khāzin, to set out without baggage or encumbrances and proceed with all possible expedition to occupy Agra, and take possession of the treasuries—I at the same time ordered Mahdi Khwājeh, Muhammed Sultan Mirza, Adil Sultan, Sultan Juneid Birlās, and Kūtluk Kadem, to leave their baggage behind, to push on by forced marches, to enter the Fort of Delli, and seize the treasuries

April 🖭

Next morning we marched, and having proceeded about a kos, halted on the banks of the Jumna in order to refresh our horses

April 23 and 24 Visits the mausoleum of Vizām Aulia After other two marches, on Tuesday I visited the mausoleum of Nizām Auha,² and at the end of the third march a Soldiers arrived from all sides with prisoners, both Afghans and others, that they had captured in the midst of the fight

b Add and make him prisoner

c the tents that surrounded it [the pavilion]

Black river [1 e stagnant water]

² [The Dargāh or shrine of Sheikh Nizām ud din Aulia, situated three miles south west of Delhi, is one of the principal places of Muhammedan reverence in India. The saint, who was a disciple of the celebrated Farād ud din Shakarganj of Pākpattan, was born at Budaon in 1236, settled at Delhi during the reign of the Emperor Balban, and died there in 1324. The tomb has been so often restored by pious donors that little of the ancient structure remains. The adjacent Jamā'at Khānah, or Khizri Mosque, is a time specimen of the earlier ornate so-called Pathān style.]

€ в 15°6 Арті125

ene imped near ⁵ Delhi on the banks of the Junina . That same night being Wednesday. I circum ambulated the tomb of Khwājeh Kutb ed din ¹ and visited ⁶ the tomb and palaces.

a exactly apposite

to the examing of the same day I went to see the fort, and spent the night there. The next morning being Wedne day after making a pilgrimage to the shrine of Khwaja Kuth ud din I visited

1 The shrine of Khwijn Kuth ud din Ballitar Kali is situated near the village of Militarili about cleven miles from Delhi and a mile south we t of the Kutub Minar. This saint was born at Ush in Lerghan and comme to Della with the carliest Muhammedan conquerors died there in 1235 in the reign of Sultan Altainsh The saint's tomb consists of a plan within mound surrounded by a low marble ruling and is covered by a compactacted on four marble columns. To the west of Mihranh is the Haur i hamsi or Sun Tant, which had once a paython in the middle of it This was built by Sultan Altainsh (1210 36) and repaired by Sultan Liror Shah (1351-58). It must once have been a fine neer your but contains little water now. The so called Royal Taul as the Haura I has or Houra also which is situated near Liroz Shah's tomb on the right of the Delhi Curraon road. It is distant about nine miles south of Delhi, and two to the north west of the Kutub Min or I de the Sun Faul at had a payahon in its midst, but conthus no water at present. It is said to have been built by Sultan All and dur in 1293. The rained tomb of Sultan Glave and dur Balban (1266-87) is one of the numerous buildings that surround the Kutub Minir and is situated near the Jamili Moone. It was a large square building with a specious room on each eide which was probably the Dar alaman (Haven of Refuge) or College established by the kine. This latter hadding which was ristored by Liror Shah may be the palace alluded to by Babur. The tomb of Ala ud din (1296-1315) was in the centre of the three runed rooms behind the great serven of arches of the Kutub Mosque. The rooms at either end were probably sepalehral chambers while those in the wings to the front of it formed part of a college attached to the tomb which may be the palace referred to above. The Kutub Minar or minaret (which is probably referred to here as the Alai Minar was left unfinished), one of the clorics of Indian architecture was begun by Kutub ad din Aibel (1206-10) and was primarily intended to serve as a minaret to his mosque. The lower stores contains the name of Kutub ud din the next two that of his master Muhammed Ghori (1193-1200) the fourth that of Sultan Altamsh, and the fifth has an inscription relating to its restoration by Tiroz Shah, who entirely rebuilt the two uppermost storers in 1368. The present height of the minur is 238 feet. The three lower storeys are of red sandstone while the two upper ones are faced with white marble. It is formed in three divisions separated of Sultan Ghīas ed dīn Balban, of Sultan Alā ed dīn Khilji, and his minaret, the Shams tank, the royal tank, the tombs and gardens of Sultan Bahlol and Sultan Sikander, after which I returned into the camp, and went on board of a boat, where we drank arak—I bestowed the office of Shikdār (or military collector) of Delhi on Wah Kizil, I made Dost the Diwān of Delhi, and directed the different treasuries to be sealed and given into their charge

April 26

On Thursday we moved thence, and halted hard by a Tughlakābād, on the banks of the Jumna

April 27

On Friday we continued to halt in the same station Moulāna Mahmūd, Sheikh Zein, and some others, went into Delhi, to Friday prayers, read the khutbeh in my name, distributed some money among the fakīrs and beggars, and then returned back

April 28

On Saturday we marched from our ground, and proceeded, march after march, upon Agra I went and saw Tughla-kābād b, after which I rejoined the camp

a opposite

b I turned aside from my route to visit Tughlakabad.

from each other by projecting galleries, each division being fluted and ornamented with bands of Arabic inscriptions. Fergusson says that 'it is the most beautiful example of its class known any where, its only rival being the Campanile at Florence'. The Kutub Minār is eleven miles south of Delhi. The tomb of Sultan Bahlol Lodi (died 1488) is of unusual shape, having five domes over it, and the details of the sandstone decoration are entirely Hindu in character. It is situated about two miles to the north west of the Kutub Minār close to the shrine of Chirāghi Delhi, the attendants of which now live in the tomb. The mausoleum of Sultan Sikandar Lodi (died 1517) lies about five miles from Delhi to the left of the Gurgaon road and a short distance to the north east of the village of Khairpūr It is a fine building with Hindu details in its decoration. See Fanshawe's Delhi Past and Present.]

¹ [The Fort of Tughlakābād lies five miles due east of the Kutub Minār The city and fort were built by Sultan Ghyās ud din Tughlak in 1321-3 It was soon deserted, probably on account of its bad water supply and insalubrious climate, and the curse of the saint (Nizām Aulia), with the building of whose tank the king had interfered, was fulfilled to the letter (Yā base giyar yā rahe ujar). The fort stands on a rocky height, and the circuit of the walls is about four miles. The tomb of Tughlak Shah (died 1325) is inside the citadel, and used to stand in the midst of a lake which has now disappeared - Fanshawe's Delhi Past and Present.]

Arrives at Agra. May 4

On Friday, the 22nd of Rajeb, I halted in the suburbs of Agra, at the palace of Sulcimān Fermuli—As this position was very far from the fort, I next morning moved and took up my quarters at the palace of Jalāl Khān Jighat—The people of the fort had put off Humāiun, who arrived before me, with excuses, and he, on his part, considering that they were under no control, and wishing to prevent their plundering the treasure, had taken a position to shut up the issues from the place ^a

Bikermajīt, a Hindu, who was Raja of Gwāliār, had governed that country for upwards of a hundred years hi Sikander had remained several years in Agra, employed in an attempt to take Gwaliar Afterwards, in the reign of Ibrahîm, Azīm Humāiun Sarwāni invested it for some time made several attacks, and at length succeeded in gaining it by treaty, Shamsābād 2 being given as an indemnification In the battle in which Ibrahim was defeated, Bikermajit was sent to hell 3 Bikermajīt's family, and the heads of his clan c were at this moment in Agra When Humaiûn arrived, Bikermajīt's people attempted to escape, but were taken by the parties which Humaiun had placed upon the watch, and put in custody Humaiun did not permit them to be plundered Of their own free will they presented to Humāiūn a peshkesh, consisting of a quantity of jewels and precious stones Among these was one famous diamond, which had been acquired by Sultan Ala ed din 4 It is so valuable, that a judge of diamonds valued it at half of the daily

a Add till I arrived.

b Bikramajīt, a Hindu, was Raja of Gwāliār, a country which he had inherited from his ancestors, who had ruled it for upwards of a hundred years.

c members of his family,

¹ [According to Sir A Cunningham, Vikramaditya, a Tomär Prince, succeeded his father, Män Singh, as ruler of Gwäliär in 1516 In 1518 Gwäliär was captured by Ibrahim Lodi.]

² [Shamsābād is a town in the Farrukhābād district of the United Provinces, eighteen miles north west of Farrukhābād town. It took its name from Shams ud dīn Altamsh, who expelled the Rahtors and refounded the town in 1228]

³ The charitable mode in which a good Musulman signifies the death of an infidel

^{4 [}Alā ud dīn Khilji (1296-1316)]

expense of the whole world It is about eight mishhals on my arrival, Humaian presented it to me as a peshkesh and I gave it back to him as a present

Among the officers of superior importance in the fort were Malik Dād Kerāni Malik Sūrdek and Firoz Khan Miswāni who, having been convicted of some frauds, were ordered for punishment b. When Malik Dād Kerāni was carried out, much intercession was made for him c. Backwards and forwards, the matter was not settled for four or five days when, according to the desire of his intercessors, I pardoned him, and even conferred on him some marks of favour I also permitted all his adherents to retain their property.

A perganna of the value of seven laks was bestowed on Ibrahim's mother. Pergannas were also given to each of her Amirs. She was conducted with all her effects to a palace which was assigned for her residence about a kos below Agra.

May 10 Babur enters lgra

mers tgr

[1204]

115101

On Thursday the 28th of Rajeb, about the hour of afternoon prayers. I entered Agra and took up my residence at Sultan Ibrahām's palace. From the time when I conquered the country of Kābul which was in the year 910, till the present time, I had always been bent on subduing Hindustām. Sometimes however from the misconduct, of my Amīrs and their dislike of the plan, sometimes from the cabals and opposition of my brothers. I was prevented from prosecuting my expedition into that country, and its provinces escaped being overrum. At length these obstacles were removed. There was now no one left great or small, noble or private man, who could dare to utter a word mopposition to the enterprise. In the year 925 I collected an army, and having taken the fort of Bajour by storm in a day a expenses b were condemned to death

c several persons interceded for him

d I not only pardoned him but also accorded full and entire immunity to all his adherents

[&]quot; An extract formping ground separallanimits

Or 320 rates. [This diamond is by some authorities supposed to be the celebrated Koha nur. A rate is a weight equal to eight barles come the seed of the Abrus precatarius weighing about 1.525 of a Troy trun.]

^{*} I robably of dame or about $1,750

two or three gharis, put all the garrison to the sword I next advanced into Behreh, where I prevented all marauding and plunder, imposed a contribution on the inhabitants, a and having levied it to the amount of four hundred thousand shahrokhus in money and goods, divided the proceeds among the troops who were in my service, and returned back to Kābul From that time till the year 982, I attached myself [1525] in a peculiar degree to the affairs of Hindustan, and in the space of these seven or eight years entered it five times at the head of an army 1 The fifth time, the Most High God. of his grace and mercy, cast down and defeated an enemy so mighty as Sultan Ibrahim, and made me the master and conqueror of the powerful empire of Hindustan From the Reflections time of the blessed Prophet (on whom and on his family be peace and salvation!) down to the present time, three Hindustan. foreign kings had subdued the country, and acquired the sovereignty of Hindustan One of these was Sultan Mahmud Ghazi,2 whose family long continued to fill the throne of that country The second was Sultan Shahābeddin Ghūri,3 and for many years his slaves and dependants swaved the sceptre of these realms I am the third But my achievement is not to be put on the same level with theirs, for Sultan Mahmud, at the time when he conquered Hindustan, occupied the throne of Khorasan, and had absolute power and dominion over the Sultans of Khwarizm and the surrounding chiefs b The King of Samarkand, too. was subject to him If his army did not amount to two hundred thousand, yet grant that it was only one hundred

on the conquest of a Add in return for the immunity of their property from pillage. b and Transoxiana

¹ [The dates of the first, third, fourth, and fifth of these invasions are well authenticated (1519, 1520, 1524, and 1526), but that of the second is doubtful. (See E B, p 417 note)]

² [The celebrated Sultan of Ghazni (A D 997-1030), who made no less than seventeen incursions into India, though the Panjab Province was the only permanent possession which he acquired in India, and which was held by his descendants till A D 1187]

³ [Shahāb ud dīn, or, as he is sometimes called, Muhammed Ghori, was the younger brother of Ghyas ud din, the King of Ghor and Ghazni (A D 1157-1203) After a succession of campaigns (A. D 1178-1203) he accomplished the reduction of Upper India, and died by the hand of an assassin in A. D 1206]

resources of his kingdom, could bring into the field an army of five hundred thousand men. At that time a some of the Amīrs to the east were in a state of rebellion His army on foot was computed to be a hundred thousand strong, his own elephants, with those of his Amīrs, were reckoned at nearly a thousand Yet, under such circumstances, and in spite of this power, placing my trust in God, and leaving beland me my old and inveterate enemy the Uzbeks, who had an army of a hundred thousand men. I advanced to meet so powerful a prince as Sultan Ibrahim, the lord of numerous armies, and emperor of extensive territories consideration of my confidence in Divine aid, the Most High God did not suffer the distress and hardships that I had undergone to be thrown away, but defeated my formidable enemy, and made me the conqueror of the noble b country of Hindustan This success I do not ascribe to my own strength, nor did this good fortune flow from my own efforts, but from the fountain of the favour and mercy of God

The empire of Hindustan is extensive, populous, and rich On the east, the south, and even the west, it is bounded by the Great Ocean of On the north, daily has Kabul, Ghazni, The capital of all Hindustan is Delhi and Kandahār From the time of Sultan Shahabeddin Ghuri to the end of Sultan Firoz Shah's time,1 the great part of Hindustan was in the possess on of the Emperors of Delhi period when I conquered that country, five Musulman Kings and two Pagans exercised royal authority Although there were many small and inconsiderable R us and Rajas in the hills and woody country, yet these were the chief and the only ones of importance. One of these powers was the kingdom of the Afghans or of Della .

Description of Hindu st5n

Musubnan princes

b rast

a Although

c Add on the north it is bounded by a range of mountains which is connected with those of the Hindu kush, Kuferistan, and Kashmir

d On the north west.

Panjab, the Delhi Province, Jaunpur, Bundelkhand, and Behar, but, owing to the revolts of many of Ibrahim Lodi's feudatories. his hold over a large portion of it was very insecure.]

¹ [1 e from 1206 to 1398]

including the Purbi kingdom

Afghans, whose government included the capital, and extended from Behreh to Behär Jaunpur, before it fell into the power of the Afghans, was held by Sultan Hussain Sharki This dynasty they called the Purbi (or eastern) Their forefathers had been cup-bearers to Sultan Firoz Shah and that race of Sultans After Sultan Firoz Shah's death. they gained possession of the kingdom of Jaunpur 2 Delhi was at that period in the hands of Sultan Ala ed din.3 whose family were Syeds When Taimur Beg invaded Hindustan, before leaving the country, he had bestowed the government of Delhi on their ancestors Sultan Bahlol Lodi 4 Afghan and his son Sultan Sikander,5 afterwards seized the throne of Delhi, as well as that of Jaunpur, and reduced both kingdoms under one government

Lingdom of Gujerat

The second prince was Sultan Muhammed Muzaffer, in Gujerāt 6 He had departed this life a few days before Sultan Ibrahim's defeat He was a prince well skilled in learning, and fond of reading the Hadis (or traditions) was constantly employed in writing the Korān They call this race Tank. Their ancestors were cup-bearers to the a religious law.

¹ Purbi, in Hindustâni, has the same meaning with Sharki in Arabic or Persian, i. e. Eastern.

² [In 1394 Khwāja Jehān was appointed his viceroy in Jaunpūr by Mahmud Tughlak. In 1398, consequent on the troubles that followed the invasion of Timur, Khwaja Jehan's adopted son, Mubank Shah, declared his independence. He was followed by four successors, viz. Ibrahim, Mahmud, Muhammed, and Hosain. Bahlol Lodi drove Hosain from the throne in A. p. 1476 and annexed his Lingdom. Bahlol Lodi's successor, Sikander Lodi, completed the reduction of the Jaunpur dominions, including Behar]

^{3 [}Khizr Khan, the first of the Savyid dynasty, who had been placed in charge of Delhi by Timur, died in A. D 1421 He was succeeded by three members of his family, the last of whom, Alā ud din, abdicated in A D 1451, and retired to Budaon, which he was permitted to rule in peace in virtue of a friendly agreement with 4 [1421-89] Bahlol Lodi. 1489-1517

[·] Muzaffar Shah I, appointed Governor of Gujerat by Firoz Shah Tughlak, declared his independence probably about the time of Timur's invasion of India in A. D 1398 Muzaffar Shah II, who is referred to in the text, died in A D 1526 after a reign of fourteen years. His most noteworthy exploit was the restoration of Mahmud II to the throne of Malwa.

Sultan Liroz that has been mentioned, and his family After the death of I moz Shuh they took nossession of the throne of Guicrit

The third kingdom is that of the Bahmanis in the Dekhan, but at the present time the Sult ins of the Dekhan have no authority or power left. All the different districts of their kingdom have been seized by their most powerful nobles, and, when the prince needs anything he is obliged to ask it of his own Amirs

Kurdon of the Balmanic

The fourth King was Sultan Mahmud, who reigned in the Kingdom country of Malwa, which they likewise cill Mandui dynasty was called the Ishilu - Rana Sanka, a pagan, had defeated them and occupied a number of their provinces This dynasty also had become weak Their ancestors, too. had been originally brought forward and patronized by Sultan Liroz Shith, after whose demise they occupied the kingdom of Mālwa *

of Malwa

The lifth prince was Nasret Shah? in the kingdom of Bengal His father had been King of Bengal, and was a Syed of the name of Sult in Alacd din. He had attained this throne by hereditary succession It is a singular

Kingdom of Bengal

Singular custom

- 1 [The Bahmani dynasty was founded by an Afghan called Hasan (surnamed Gango Bahmani) in the reign of Muhammed bin Tughlak (s p 1317) From s p 1374 to 1452 the Bahmani kingdom was a flourishing state, which included the Hyderabad dominions, the Northern Sirkars, and a large part of the Bombay Presidency In 1482 the kingdom split up and the four later rulers were kings The last member of the dynasty was Kalim, who only in name died in A D 1526 1
- ² [The governor of Malwa, Dilawar Khan Chori declared his independence during the troublous period that followed Timur's invasion. He was followed by six successors, the last of whom was Mahmud II referred to above. This king, whose reign was long and troublous (4 D 1512-31), was eventually defeated, and captured by Bahadur Shah, when his kingdom was absorbed in Guierat (A D 1531)]
- 3 [Bengal, a quasi independent fiel of the Delhi suzeram since its conquest in A D 1193, declared its full independence under Ilvas Shah in the reign of Muhammed bin Tughlak, and was formally recognized as such by Firoz Shah in a D 1355. The greatest of its long line of kings was Ala ud din Hosain Shah, who was succeeded by his son Nasir ud din Nasrat Shah (1518-32) It was against this Nasrat that Babur fought his third great battle of Gogra in 1529, which secured for him the sovereignty of Behar]

custom in Bengal, that there is little of hereditary descent in succession to the sovereignty. There is a throne allotted for the King, there is, in like manner, a seat or station assigned for each of the Amīrs, Wazīrs, and Mansabdārs 1 It is that throne and these stations alone which engage the reverence of the people of Bengal A set of dependants, servants, and attendants are annexed to each of these situations When the King wishes to dismiss or appoint any person, whosoever is placed in the seat of the one dismissed, is immediately attended and obeyed by the whole establishment of dependants, servants, and retainers annexed to the seat which he occupies Nay, this rule obtains even as to the royal throne itself Whoever kills the King and succeeds in placing himself on that throne, is immediately acknowledged as King, all the Amirs, Wazīrs, soldiers, and peasants instantly obey and submit to him, and consider him as being as much their sovereign as they did their former prince, and obey his orders implicitly The people of Bengal say, 'We are faithful to the throne-whoever fills the throne, we are obedient and true to it' As, for instance, before the accession of Nasrat Shah's father, an Abyssinian having killed the reigning King mounted the throne, and governed the kingdom for some time 3 Sultan Ala ed din killed the Abyssinian,

¹ [The Mansabdārs were a sort of official aristocracy, who had to bring a fixed quota of men at-arms, horses, and elephants into the field, and were rated according to the number they supplied, as Mansabdārs of 10, 20, 100, 1,000, &c.]

² Strange as this custom may seem, a similar one prevailed, down to a very late period, in Malabar There was a jubilee, every twelve years, in the Zamorin's country, and any one who succeeded in forcing his way through the Zamorin's guards and slew him, reigned in his stead. 'A jubilee is proclaimed throughout his dominions at the end of twelve years, and a tent is pitched for him in a spacious plain, and a great feast is celebrated for ten or twelve days with mirth and jollity, guns firing night and day, so, at the end of the feast, any four of the guests that have a mind to gain a crown by a desperate action, in fighting their way through 30,000 or 40,000 of his guards, and kill the Zamorin in his tent, he that kills him, succeeds in his empire' See Hamilton's New Account of the East Indies, vol 1, p 309 The attempt was made in 1695, and again a very few years ago, but without success

² [This was Shams ud din Muzaffar, who reigned three years (1494-7)]

ascended the throne and was acknowledged as King Sultan Ala ed din's death, the kingdom devolved by succession to his son, who now reigned. There is another usage in Bengal, it is reckoned disgraceful and me in for any king to spend or diminish the treasures of his predecessors. It is reckoned necessary for every king, on mounting the throne, to collect a new treasure for himself. To collect a treasure is by these people, deemed a great glory and ground of There is another custom, that pergannas have been assigned from ancient times to defray the expenses of each department, the treasury, the stable, and all the royal establishments . no expenses are plud in any other manner A

The five kings who have been mentioned are great princes, and are all Musulmans, and possessed of formidable armies b The most powerful of the pagan princes, in point of territory Hardi and army, is the Raja of Bijnager 1 Another is the Rana princes Sanka,2 who has attained his present high eminence, only

b Add and ruling over vast territories

taken prisoner by Rana Sanga (A D 1519) 1

a the revenues of which must never be expended for any other purpose

^{1 [}The Hindu kingdom of Vijvanagar was founded shortly after the destruction of the Hoverla power by Muhammed bin Tughlak in v p 1327. The work of Bakka, the founder, was carried on by his brother Harihara (A D 1339-76), in whose reign the kingdom developed rapidly. The most notable of the Rajas was Krishna Deva (A D 1509-29), who overcame the armies of Orissa, Golkonda, and Bijapur The later history of the dynasty was nothing but a record of continual wars with the Bahmani kingdom, and the five Decem states into which it finally split up The vast city of Vijva nagar is now represented by the extensive ruins at Hampi near Bellary (Madras) In 1443, when Vijvanagar was visited by Abdur Razzāk, the Persian ambassador, it was said to be one of the most magnificent cities in Asia I

² [The Rana of Mewar, who belongs to the clan of Sisodia Rajpūts, is the premier prince of Rajpūtana, and is reputed to be able to trace his pedigree to Keneksen, who was the first of his race to establish a kingdom in Rājpūtāna (A D 145) Rāna Hamīr Singh, who recovered Chitor in A D 1316 from Alā ud din Khilji, re estab lished the Rājpūt dominion over all Mewār After the separation of Mālwa from the Delhi I mpire, the Kings of Mālwa, and the Rānas of Mewar were engaged in frequent hostilities. Shortly before Baburs invasion Mahmud II of Malwa had been defeated and in these later times, by his own valour and his sword original principality was Chitur 1 During the confusions that prevailed among princes of the kingdom of Mandu, he seized a number of provinces which had depended on Mandu. Such as Rantambhor,² Särangpür, Bhīlsa, and Chanden the year 984, by the divine favour, in the space of a few hours, I took by storm Chanderi, which was commanded by Medini Rao,3 one of the highest and most distinguished of

д р 1528

¹ [The famous rock fortress of Chitor was the old capital of Mewar, and is said to have been occupied by the Mewar Rana Bappa in the eighth century A. D It is situated seventy miles north east of the present capital of Udaipur It is famous for its three sieges by Alā ud dīn Khilji in 1303, Bahādur Shah of Gujerāt in 1534, and Akbar in 1567-8 The fort is full of interesting ruins, the most striking of which are the Kirthistambh, or Pillar of Fame, said to have been erected in A. D 896 by Rana Alluji, and the Jayastambh, or Pillar of Victory, built to celebrate Rana Kumbhos's victory over Mahmud I, King of Malwa, in 1439]

² [Rantambhor is a famous fortress in the south east corner of the State of Jaipur, situated on an isolated rock 1,578 feet high. Altamsh took it in 1226, and in 1301 it was captured by Ala ud din. It was lost to the Delhi Empire during the troubles that followed Timur's invasion of India (1398), and in 1516 it is mentioned as belonging to Mālwa Rāna Sanga captured it shortly after, but it was made over to Babur in 1528 Sarangpur is a town in the State of Dewas situated on the east bank of the Kalı Sind. The town, as it now stands, dates no earlier than the days of the kings of Malwa (fifteenth century), to whom it originally belonged. was at one time a large and flourishing place, as is attested by its extensive ruins. In 1526 it was wrested from Mahmud II by Rana Sanga of Mewar Bhilsa is a town on the east bank of the Betwa in the Gwaliar state It was originally the capital of eastern Malwa. It was sacked by Altamsh in 1235, and succumbed to Alā ud din in 1290 In its neighbourhood are numerous interesting Buddhist remains, the most important being the Sanchi Topes Chanden, a town in the Gwāliār state, is situated in a bay of sandstone hills approached by narrow passes. It was captured by Ghyas ud din Balban in 1251, and in 1438 fell to Mahmud I of Malwa. In 1520 it was seized by Rana Sanga, who made it over to Medni Rai, the revolted minister of Mahmud II of Malwa, from whom Babur cap tured it after a desperate resistance in 1528 1

2 [Medni Rai was for a long time the all powerful Hindu minister of Mahmud II of Malwa Alarmed at his growing influence, Mahmud escaped to Gujerāt and sought the aid of Muzaffar Shah II, who, after a desperate struggle with Medni Rai and his Raiputs, captured Mandu and restored Mahmud to his throne. After this Medni Rai retired to Chanderi, which Rana Sanga had made over to him

Rāna Sanka's officers put all the pagans to the sword, and from the mansion of hostility which it had long been converted it into the mansion of the faith as will be here ifter more fully detailed. There were a number of other Rais and Raj is on the borders and within the territory of Hindu sting many of whom bon account of their remoteness, or the difficulty of access into their country, have never submitted to the Musulman kings

Hindustan is situated in the first, second and third Geographic climates. No part of it is in the fourth. It is a remarkably fine country. It is quite a different world, compared with our countries. Its hills and rivers, its forests and plains, its animals and plants, its inhabitants and their languages. its winds and runs are all of a different nature. Although the garmsils (or hot districts) in the territory of Kabul, bear, in many respects, some resemblance to Hindustan while in other particulars they differ yet you have no sooner passed the river Sind than the country of the trees the stones, the wandering tribes, the manners and customs of the people, are all entirely those of Hindustan. The northern range of hills has been mentioned. Immediately on cross-hills ing the river Sind, we come upon several countries in this range of mountains, connected with Kashmir, such as Pakhli and Shemeng! Most of them, though now independent of Kashmir, were formerly included in its territories After leaving Kashmir, these fulls contain innumerable calposition

Northern

Mahmud then marched against Medni Rai and the Rana, and in the battle that ensued Mahmud was defeated and taken prisoner (1519)1 a Add some of whom have embraced Islam

b others. idd the water.

I [Pakhli was an ancient district of the Panjib now included in the Hazara District of the North West I contier Province 1t roughly corresponded to the ancient Urasa, which Ptolemy places between the Indus and the Jhelum In Babur s time the tract was held by the Khakha and Bambha tribes, whose chiefs had been rulers of the country to the east of the Indus, but had been driven out by the Gibari Sultans of Bajaur and Swat Its inhabitants still speak Pushtu. Shemeng may be another name for Dam taur (now a division of the Hazara District), the country of the Juduns. situated to the south of Pakhli, in a narrow valley along the river Dur, which runs south west and falls into the Indus at Torbela 1 tribes and states, pergannas and countries, and extend all the way to Bengal and the shores of the Great Ocean About these hills are other tribes of men. With all the investigation and inquiry that I could make among the natives of Hindustan, I could get no sort of description or authentic information regarding them. All that I could learn was, that the men of these hills were called Kas struck me, that, as the Hindustanis frequently confound shin and sin, and as Kashmir is the chief, and indeed, as far as I have heard, the only city in these hills, it may have taken its name from that circumstance 1. The chief trade of the inhabitants of these hills is in musk-bags, the tails of the mountain-cow, saffron, lead, and copper The natives of Hind call these hills Sawalak-parbat In the language of Hind, sawalāh means a lak and a quarter (or one hundred and twenty-five thousand), and parbat means a hill, that is, the hundred and twenty-five thousand hills On these hills

Their inha

I am indebted for this note to the kindness of Sir G Grierson, whose interesting paper on the subject was published in the Indian Antiquary (1915)]

a Omit this sentence.

¹ [The Persian adds, 'mir signifying a hill, and kas being the name of the natives of the hill country. The term kush in Kashmīr and Kāshgar, and changed to kus or kes in other place-names, probably refers to the Khas, a tribe who once played so important a part in the history of the Lower Himalayas. According to the most ancient Indian authorities, in the extreme north west of India, in Kashmir, Kāshgar, and the Western Panjāb, there was a group of tribes, one of which was called Khas, and whose people were looked upon as Kshatriyas of Aryan origin, but who had become Mlechchas, or Barbarians, by their non observance of the rules for cating and drinking Their speech belonged to the Pisacha group of languages. Pliny called them Kasiri, and accused them of being cannibals The tribute they brought was Tibetan gold dust, or ant gold, as recorded by Herodotus. Their descendants at the present day are the Khakhas of the Jhelum Valley, the Kanets of Kangra and Kulu, the Khasias of Kumaon and Garhwal, and the Khas, or ruling caste The derivation of mir is unknown, though the same suffix in Ajmir is said to mean a hill.

¹ The Lutas, or Litas, as here written, is a fringed knot made of the hair of the tail or mane of the mountain cow [or yak], often set in gold, and hung round the necks of horses by way of ornament, or as a defence against fascination. It appears also to have been used as a banner

the snow never melts, and from some parts of Hindustan, such as Lahore, Sirhand, and Sambal, it is seen white on them all the vear round. This range of hills takes the name of Hindū-kūsh, near Kābul, and runs from Kābul eastwird, but inclining a little to the south. All to the south of this range is Hindustan. To the north of these hills, and of that unknown rice of men whom they call Kas, hes Tibet 1 I great number of rivers take their rise in these mountains, Rivers and flow through Hindustan To the north of Sirland, six from the rivers, the Sind, the Behat, the Chenab, the Ravi, the Bias, hills and the Satler take their rise in these mountains, and all uniting with the Sind in the territory of Mult'in, take the common name of the Sind which, flowing down to the west, passes through the country of Tatta, and disembogues into the sea of Oman Besides these six rivers, there are other rivers, such as the Jumna, the Ganges, the Ruhet,3 the Gümti, the Gogra, the Sirūd, the Gandak, and a number of others, that all throw themselves into the Ganges,4 which,

northern

1 [Babur a geography as at fault The Sivalika are a ridge of hills which run for about 200 miles parallel with the Himalayas from Hardwar to the Hoshiarpur district of the Panjab, i e between the Ganges and Beas. Babur confounds them with the Himalayas.]

2 [These rivers all have their rise in the ranges of the upper, or lower Himalayas. The Indus, rising in Tibet, flows through Kashmir, the North West Frontier Province, Panjab, and Sind, and falls into the Arabian Ser. The Satley rises near the Manasoriwar Lake in Tibet, and, flowing through the Simla Hill States and Panjab, joins the Indus at Mithankot in the Muzasfargarh district. The Chenab rises in Lahul in the Kulu subdivision of the Kangra district in two streams (the Chandra and the Bhaga), which unite at Tandi, whence the united stream, flowing through Chamba, Kishtwar, and the Panjab, falls into the Indus at Mithan Kot The Ravi also takes its rise in the Kulu subdivision and falls into the Chenab The Beas has its source in the Rohtang Pass (Kulu subdivision), and joins the Satley on the borders of the Kaparthala State Jhelum issues from the spring of Vernag in Kashmir, and joins the Chenāb at Trimmu.]

2 Probably the Rapti, which joins the Ganges from Nopal

IThe Ganges issues from an ice cave at Gangotri in the Tehri State Debouching into the plains at Hardwar, it flows through the United Provinces and Bengal, and joins the sea by the Meghna estuary after a course of 1,557 miles. The Jamna also rises in the Tehri State near the Bandarpanah peak of the Himalayas, and flowing past Jamnotri, pierces the Sevalilis at Khara, and falls into the Ganges below Allahabad (860 miles) The Rapti takes its rise Other preserving its name, proceeds towards the east, and, passing through the midst of Bengal, empties itself into the Great Ocean. The sources of all these rivers are in the Sawālak mountains. There are, however, several other rivers, such as the Chambal, the Banās, the Betwa, and the Son, which rise from ranges of hills that are within Hindustān. In these ranges, it never snows. These rivers likewise fall into the Ganges.

Other ranges of hills

There are several ranges of hills in Hindustān. Among these is a detached branch that runs from north to south. It rises in the territory of Delhi, at the Jehān-numā, a prlace of Sultan Erroz Shah, which stands on a small rocky hillock. After passing this, it breaks, in the neighbourhood of Delhi, into a number of detached, scattered, small, rocky hills, that he in different directions. When it gains the country of Mewāt, the hills rise in height, and when it in the lower ranges of Nepal, and joins the Gogra in the Gorakhpūr District. The Guinti has its source near Pilibhīt, a district of the United Provinces, and joins the Ganges at Saidpūr in the Ghāzipūr district. The Ghagra rises in Tibet and, flowing through Nepal and the United Provinces, falls into the Ganges near Chapra. The Gandak rises in Nepal, and, flowing through the United Provinces and Bengal, joins the Ganges at Patna. By Sirūd is probably meant the Sarja, a tributary of the Gogra

¹ [The Chambal, a tributary of the Jumna, rises in the Jenapao Hill near Mhow, C.I. The Banas river has its source in the Aravalh Hills in Udaipur and falls into the Chambal at Rameswar The Betwa, which rises in the Bhopāl State, flows past Chanderi and Jhānsi, and joins the Jamna near Hamīrpur The Son, like the sacred Nerbudda, rises at Amer Kantak in the Rewah State, CI, and joins the Ganges above Dinapur 1

* [The Aravallis are here referred to This range of hills intersects Rājpūtāna from end to end in a line running north east and south west. The main range runs from Khetri in Jaipūr to Mount Abu, but a prolongation of it in the form of detached peaks may be traced through Alwar and Gurgaon to the Ridge of Delhi.]

Mirror of the world. [This, according to Fanshawe, was the Kushk i shikar, or hunting lodge, built by Sultan Firuz Shah Tughlak in 1374. It is situated on the Delhi Ridge.]

4 [Mewāt is an ill defined tract lying south of Delhi, and including the British districts of Muttra (UP), and Gurgaon (Panjāb), most of the Alwar State, and some of Bharatpūr It takes its name from its inhabitants the Meos, who seem originally to have been the same as the Mīnas of Rājpūtāna.] leaves Mew'it it enters the country of Biana. The countries of Sikri. Biri. and Dhülpür. are formed by this range although not comprehended within it. and the hill country of Gw'ihar. which they also call Gahür is formed by a detached offset from it. The hill country of Rantambhor Chitar Mandu. and Chander is formed by branches of this same range. In some places it is interrupted for seven or eight kos. This hilly tract is composed of very low rough rapped, stony and jungly hills. In this range it never snows that several of the rivers of Handustin originate among the hills of which it is composed.

Most of the districts of Hindust'in are plain and level

a hills to mitte dimen

AlBrain once a famous Rapput stronghold is now a small town in the state of Bharstpur on the Gamillar river and lies between

Apri and Rintimbhor J

I [Silve is a village in the Karnoli Tabul of the Apra district I.P., about twenty three miles we't of Apra. It was near this village that Bahur defeated the Rapput confederacy in 1527 and here it was that Alber built the city of Latchpur. For fifteen years Alber went on creatin, a magnificent series of buildings there, of which the runs remain to after their former splendour. The city was alreadoned in 1555 soon after its completion [

3 (Burn is a town in the Dholpur State, mucteen miles we to of

Dholpur etation 1

* [Dholpur the capital of the Dholpur State is situated in Rujpu tion about thirty four index south of Arra. The ruling family is that of the Bamrolia Inte. The town was captured by Silander

Lodi in 1501, and by Bebur in 1526 J

* [Gwāliar is the capital of the largest Treaty state in Central Index. The ruling dynasty of Sindia was founded by Runojee (died 1750) who was slipper bearer to the Peshwa Bālaji Baji Ruo. The fort, which has figured in ancient history since the sixth century.

18 Tull of interesting ruins]

(Mandu, the ancient cripital of Malwa now descried, is situated in the Dhūr State C.I. Hoshang Shah (1405-34) made it his capital, and during the Malwa dynasty it was the constant scene of siege and battle. It then passed successively to Bahādur Shah of Gujerūt (1535), Kadir Shah (1545). Sher Shah's governor Shujā at Khan, his son Būr Pahādur and Akbar (1561). In 1595 it was visited by the travell r Litch and in 1616 Sir T. Roe accompanied Jehāngūr there. The fort the ramparted walls of which are pierced by ten gates, and cover a circuit of twenty three miles, enclose extensive ruins of surpassing interest, the most striking being Hoshang's tomb and the cathedral mosque.]

Irrigation of the country

Though Hindustan contains so many provinces, a none of them has any artificial canals for irrigation It is watered only by rivers, though in some places, too, there is standing Even in those cities which are so situated as to admit of digging a water-course, and thereby bringing water into them, yet no water has been brought in There may be several reasons for this One of them is, that water is not absolutely requisite for the crops and gardens autumnal crop is nourished by the rains of the rainy season It is remarkable that there is a spring crop even though no They raise water for the young trees, till they raın falls 2 are one or two years old, by means of a water-wheel or buckets, after that time it is not at all necessary to water Some vegetables they water b In Lahore,3 Debālpur, Sirhind, and the neighbouring districts, they water by means of a wheel 4 They first take two ropes, of a length suited to the depth of the well, and fasten each of them so as to form a circle, between the two circular ropes they insert pieces of wood connecting them, and to these they fix water-pitchers The ropes so prepared, with the pitchers attached to them by means of the pieces of wood, they

a Add and towns,

b Some vegetables require continual irrigation

¹ Kara sūlar, literally black waters. These are chiefly large tanks [P de C. thinks it means ravines, i e water channels which are generally dry (except after heavy rain), with here and there standing pools of water]

^{* [}This is not quite correct. The north east monsoon, which is of continental origin, comes into full play about the beginning of January, and lasts from the middle of December to the end of May It gives rise to occasional showery weather, and sometimes heavy rain in the plains, which nourishes the spring crops.]

² [The well known capital of the Panjāb, situated on the Rāvi, with a population approximating 200,000. In the tenth century the kingdom of Lahore was in the hands of a Brahman dynasty, but in 1036 it was made the capital of the Ghaznevide dominions east of the Indus by Mahmūd, and from that time till the Sikh conquest (1767) it continued in the hands of various dynastics of Muhammedan kings. In 1849 the Panjāb was annexed to the British crown. The chief ornaments of Lahore are the fort, the Shālmār gardens, and Jehāngīr's tomb]

^{4 [}This system of well irrigation by the Persian wheel is extensively employed in the Panjab]

throw over a wheel that is placed on the top of the well On the one end of the axle-tree of this wheel they place another wheel with teeth, and to the side of this last they apply a third, which they make with an upright axle When the bullocks turn this last wheel round, its teeth. working upon those of the second wheel, turn the large wheel on which is the circle of pitchers. They make a trough under the place where the water is discharged by the revolution of the pitchers, and from this trough convey the water to whatever place it may be required another contrivance for raising water for irrigation in Agra, Biana, Chandwar, and that quarter, by means of a bucket 2 This is very troublesome, and filthy besides. On the brink of a well they fix in strongly two forked pieces of wood, and between their prongs insert a roller. They then fasten a great water-bucket to long ropes, which they bring over the roller, one end of this rope they tie to the bullock, and while one man drives the bullock, another is employed to pour the water out of the bucket (when it reaches the top of the well) Every time that the bullock raises the bucket from the well, as it is let down again, the rope slides along the bullock-course, is defiled with urine and dung, and in this filthy condition falls into the well In many instances, where fields require to be watered, the men and women draw water in buckets and irrigate them

The country and towns of Hindustan are extremely ugly All its towns and lands have a uniform look, its gardens have no walls, the greater part of it is a level plain. The banks of its rivers and streams, in consequence of the rushing of the torrents that descend during the rainy season, are worn deep into the channel which makes it generally difficult and troublesome to cross them. In many places, the plain is covered by a thorny brushwood, to such

Its aspect.

¹ pitchers

¹ [Chandwar lies on the right bank of the Jamna, south-eart of Agra.]

This method is used all over north India. The leathern bucker, which contains up to forty gallons of water, is called right. The bullocks, in hauling up the bucket, walk down a ramp while is approximately equal to the depth of the well.

a degree that the people of the pergannas, relying on these forests, take shelter in them, and, trusting to their maceessible situation, often continue in a state of revolt, refusing to pay their taxes In Hindustan, if you except the rivers, there is little running water 1. Now and then some standing water is to be met with. All these cities and countries derive their water from wells or tanks, in which it is collected during the ramy season In Hindustan, the populousness and decay, or total destruction of villages, nay of cities, is almost instantaneous | Large cities that have been inhabited for a series of years (if, on an alarm, the inhabitants take to flight), in a single day, or a day and a half, are so completely abandoned, that you can searcely discover a trace or mark of population 2. And if, on the other hand, they intend to settle on any particular spot, as they do not need to run water-courses, or to build flood-mounds, their crops being produced without irrigation,3 and the population of Hindustan being unlimited, inhabitants swarm in every direction. They make a tank or dig a well, there is no need of building a strong house or erecting a firm wall, they have abundance of strong grass, and plenty of timber, of which

richer parts of Maweralnaher

¹ In Persia there are few rivers, but numbers of artificial canals or water runs for irrigation, and for the supply of water to towns and villages. The same is the case in the valley of Soghd, and the

² This is the wulsa or icalsa, so well described by Colonel Wilks in his Historical Sketches [London, 1810] vol. 1, p. 309, note 'On the approach of an hostile army, the unfortunate inhabitants of India bury under ground their most cumbrous effects, and each individual, man, woman, and child above six years of age (the infant children being carried by their mothers), with a load of grain proportioned to their strength, issue from their beloved homes, and take the direction of a country (if such can be found) exempt from the miseries of war, sometimes of a strong fortress, but more generally of the most unfrequented hills and woods, where they prolong a miserable existence until the departure of the enemy, and if this should be protracted beyond the time for which they have provided food, a large portion necessarily dies of hunger' See the note itself. The Historical Sketches should be read by every one who desires to have an accurate idea of the south of India. It is to be regretted that we do not possess the history of any other part of India, written with the same knowledge or research.

³ Lalmi [irrigated by rain water].

they run up hovels, and a village or town is constructed in an instant

As for the animals peculiar to Hindustin, one is the Itsqual elephant, the Hindustanis call it Hathi, which inhabits a the district of Kalpi 1 and the higher you advance from thence towards the cast, the more do the wild elephants mere as in number. That is the tract in which the elephant is chiefly taken. There may be thirty or forty villages in Karrah? and Mänikpür hat are occupied solely in this employment of taking elephants. They account to the Government for the elephants which they take. The elephant is an immense animal and of great sagacity. It understands whatever you tell it and does whitever it is bid. Its value is in proportion to its size. When it arrives at a proper age to they sell it and the largest brings the highest price. They say that in some islands the elephant grows to the height of ten gaz. I have never in these countries seen one above four or five gaz. The clephant eats and drinks entirely by means of his trunk. He cannot have if he loses it. On the two sides of his trunk in his upper Jiw, he has two tusks, it is by applying these teeth, and exerting all his force, that he overturns walls and tears up trees and, when he fights

rupeds

The ele plinnt

³ Add the borders of

b its full size

^{1 (}Kilpi is a town of great historic intenst on the right bank of the Jamaa in the Jalaun district, UP 1 ^{* (}Karrali is a town on the left bank of the Jamua in the Allahabad district, UP1

^{2 [}Manikpur is a town in the Part ibgarh district, Delhi]

⁴ The improvement of Hindust'in since Bibur's time must be producious. The wild elephant is now confined to the forests under Himalayas, and to the Ghats of Malabar A wild elephant near Karrah (Currah), Māmi pūr, or kālpi, is a thing at the present day totally unknown. May not their familiar existence in these countries, down to Babur's days, be considered as rather hostile to the accounts given of the superabundant population of Hindustan in remote times. [Wild elephants are now found along the base of the Himalayas as far west as Dehra Dun, in the great forest tract between the Ganges and the Kistna, and in the wild hill ranges that extend from Mysore to Cape Comorin]

⁵ [A ga*, it will be remembered, is a unit of measure which, strictly speaking denotes the distance between the point of the shoulder and the finger-tips. This is generally taken to equal a varil though Babur 8 gaz 18 only 21 feet]

or performs any operation that requires great exertion, he makes use of these tusks, which they call ay 1. The tusks are highly valued by the Hindus. The elephant is not covered with hair or wool 2 like other animals a. The natives of Hindustan place great reliance on their elephants, in their armies, every division has invariably a certain number with it. The elephant has some valuable qualities at can carry a great quantity of baggage over deep and rapid torrents, and passes them with ease, gun-carriages, which it takes four or five hundred men to drag, two or three beliephants draw without difficulty. But it has a great stomach, and a single elephant will consume the grain of seven or fourteen camels

Rhinoceros

The rhinoceros is another This also is a huge animal bulk is equal to that of three buffaloes The opinion prevalent in our countries, that a rhinoceros can lift an elephant on its horn, is probably a mistake It has a single horn over its nose, upwards of a span in length, but I never saw one of two spans Out of one of the largest of these horns I had a drinking-vessel³ made, and a dice-box, and about three or four fingers' bulk of it might be left. Its hide is very thick If it be shot at with a powerful bow, drawn up to the armpit with much force, and if the arrow pierces at all, it enters only three or four d fingers' breadth They say, however, that there are parts of its skin that may be pierced, and the arrows enter deep On the sides of its two shoulder-blades, and of its two thighs, are folds that hang loose, and appear at a distance like cloth housings dangling over it It bears more resemblance to the horse than to any other animal 4 As the horse has a large stomach, so has 5 this, as the pastern of the horse is composed of a single

a Omit or wool animals

c Omit or fourteen

b three or four

d Omit three or

² The rhimoceros's horn was supposed to sweat on the approach of poison, a quality which fitted it, in a peculiar manner, for being made into a drinking cup for an eastern king

[·] It is to the eye more like the elephant, or a huge overgrown hog

^{* [}This ought to run, according to P de C, 'the rhinoceros, like the horse, has not a large stomach']

hone so also is that of the chinoceros in a there is a gumel 1 in the horse's foreless so is there in that of the rhinoceros It is more ferocious than the elephant, and cannot be rendered so tame or obedient. There are numbers of them m the jungles of Pershäwer and Hashnaghar as well as between the river Sind and Behreh in the jungles. Rindustan too, they abound on the banks of the river Sira? In the course of my expeditions into Hindustin in the jungles of Pershaver and Hashnaghar 3 I frequently killed the rhinoceros. It strikes powerfully with its horn, with which in the course of these hunts many men and many horses were gored. In one hunt, it tossed with its horn. n full spear's length, the horse of a young man numed Maksad, whence he got the name of Rhinoceros Maksad 4

Another animal s the wild buffalo. It is much larger with than the common buffalo. Its horns go back a like those of buffalo the common bulfalo, but not so as to grow into the flesh b It is a very destructive and ferocious animal a

Another is the nilgau 6. Its height is about equal to that Algan of a horse. It is somewhat slenderer. The male is bluish, whence it is called the nilgan. It has two small horns and on its neek has some hair, more than a span in length, which hears much resemblance to the mountain con tassels of Its tail is like the bull sig. The colour of the female is like that of the garcazen deer 10, she has no horns, nor any hair on the under part of her neek, and is plumper than the male

Another is the Lotali paicheh " Its size may be cause to a do not turn back to Omit this clause to tufts of hair.

Lotalipalcheli

d Its hoof is like that of an unlinear ox

¹ A marginal note on the Türki copy, translates guinek marron IP do C translates . The foreleg of the horse is bony 1

The Gegra. The rhinoceros is now entirely expelled from the countries about the Indus (The thinoceres (R Indicus) is now only found in Assam, the Nepal terni, the Bengal Sundarbands, and in Burmali 1 4 [i e 'the Rhine's aim ']

The wild buffalo (Bos bubalus) is now met with in Assam Bengal, and Origen 1

od Orissa] * [Portax pictus] Blue on On the lower part of its neck is a thick circumscribed tuft of 10 [Cereus maral] * Kulux

¹ Short legged [The hog deer (1xis porcinus)]

that of the white deer—Its two forclegs as well as its thighs are short, whence its name (short-legged)—Its horns are branching like those of the gawazen, but less—Every year, too, it easts its horns like the stag—It is a bad runner, and therefore never leaves the jungle

Antelope

There is another species of deer that resembles the male hunch or giran 1 Its back is black, its belly white, its horns longer than those of the hunch, and more crooked The Hindustanis call it lalliarch. This word was probably originally Lalahirn, that is black deer, which they have corrupted into halharch? The female is white. They take deer by means of this halharch. They make fast a running a net to its horns, and tie a stone larger than a football h to its leg,c that, after it is separated from the deer,d it may be hindered from running far. When the deer sees the wild halhareh it advances up to it, presenting its head? This species of deer is very fond of fighting, and comes on to butt with its horns. When they have engaged and pushed at each other with their horns, in the course of their moving backwards and forwards, the net which has been fastened on the tame one's horns, gets entangled in those of the wild deer, and prevents its escape. Though the wild deer uses every effort to flee, the tame one does not run off, and is greatly impeded by the stone tied to its leg, which keeps back the other also! In this way they take a number of deer,3 which they afterwards tame 8. They likewise take deer by setting nets h. They breed this tame deer to fight in their houses . it makes an excellent battle !

Deer

There is on the skirts of the mountains of Hindustan a circular b cheville c hindleg, d when the deer is caught,

When a wild deer is seen the tame one is placed in front of it omit this clause.

B and tame them for this kind of sport

b Omit this contage. B and tume them for this ki

h Omit this sentence.

i They are also very fond of setting these tame deer to fight with each other in their houses, which they do with great ardour

¹ [Or rather, according to P de C., 'the hunch the male of the $j\bar{\imath}r\bar{a}n$ ' Sterndale gives both light and $j\bar{\imath}r\bar{a}n$ as Türki names for the Persian gazelle (G subgutturosa), but they appear to be different animals and the latter may be the Saiga tartarica]

² [The common black buck of India (Antilope cervicapra)]

This way of catching the antelope is still in constant use in India another deep will have maller. It mus be equal in early in a breep with search 1.1.5.

Another where is a first and people of emplies are the Largest 1/27 / 1/2 for early of our country. Its lie has yets to obey and as our

Then offer a mother of the annual of the country. The " ier Handa to decill it I bet There is hims per real them One speare is the eagle that to be in, let be one complete. The in the second then the hit as met with in the hill er a tex of the Datebour valles of Sur, on the India of the a the shirt of the falls in the ne, ht orhivel of khedur and to a the evel man out throughout all Harly ter. It I or ! four I my to, he sup than the places I have mentioned Its hair is action ats from white its tall is not very long-There is mether species of morkey, a half he not found in By up San if and the ed thets and is much larger than the In de that are I not, by into our country. It I also very lon, its feat white heat three entirely black. They call this pere of nonlex I spur I and it is not with in the fulls and we to of Hande time. The case till in other species of menter who clear free in tall it limb are quite black they bon, it from reverd | I m ! of the rea. There is not in ther species of modes from the from one is ands. Its colour appear has to excllone to blue comenhat like the ship of the fee. It head is broaded, and it is of a much lither size thin other monless. It is very heree and destructive 4

Another is the rel. (or ming oo c). It is a little smaller $M_{C_{n-1}}$

I (The enail Indian partie or the Large (to ett) to eta) may be inferred to here }

A man really bettle felor total of them in oil

² in the adoption of the buffel had the second the extension

I don't the gir + they be not be detructive

I (This is the Gyess which is described in Yale and Burrell's all size as a very diminutive limber of bod in Benjah not mem then three feet high.)

^{* (}The Inciliar max be the One get) . Meeren elega

^{*} The linker of Second other is entelled }

^{*} Buliur nilds. It is simpular, quiel penis ejus seinger sit erecta, et nunquam nor nd e atum id nea.

I note on the Turl's copy calls the not, in a which is the weated

Squirrel

than the kish It mounts on trees, many also call it the mūsh-khūrma They reckon it lucky There is another of the mouse species, which they call galahri (the squirrel), it always lives in trees, and runs up and down them with surprising nimbleness

Its birds Peacock

Of the birds, one is the peacock? It is a beautifully coloured and splendid animal. It is less remarkable for its bulk than for its colour and beauty Its size may be about that of a crane, but it is not so tall On the head of the peacock, and of the peahen, there may be about twenty or thirty feathers, rising two or three fingers' breadth in height The peahen is neither richly coloured nor beautiful The head of the male has a lustrous and undulating a colour Lower down than the neck, its Its neck is of a fine azure back is painted with the richest yellow, green, azure, and violet, the flowers or stars on its back are but small, below. they increase in size, still preserving the same colour and splendour, down to the very extremity of the tail The tail of some peacocks is as high as a man b Below these richlypainted feathers of its tail it has another smaller tail like that of other birds, and this ordinary tail, and the feathers of its sides, are red It is found in Bajour and Sawad, and in the countries below, but not in Kuner or Lamghanat, or in any place higher up. It flies even worse than the harhawel (or pheasant), and cannot take more than one or two flights at a time 3 On account of its flying so ill, it always frequents either a hilly country or a jungle It is remarkable, that whenever there are many peacocks in a wood there are also a number of jackals in it, and as they have u iridescent

b fathom [6 feet]

of Tartary Newal is still the Hindustani name for the mungoose [The animal referred to by Babur here cannot be the mungoose (Herpestes mungas), which is not arboroal in its habits. It may be the Sciurus indicus, though this species of squirrel is not now found north of the Ganges. The kish, which Steingass describes as 'a fur bearing animal', may possibly be the Puterius erminea.]

^{1 [}Galahri is the native name for the common Indian squirrel (Sciurus palmarum)]
2 [Pavocristatus]

^{*} The karkāwel, which is of the pheasant species, when pursued, will take several flights immediately after each other, though none long, peacocks, it seems, soon get tired, and take to running to drag after them a tail the size of a man a it may easily be supposed how much they are molested by the jackals, in their passage from one thicket to another The Hindustanis call them mor According to the doctrines of Imam Abu Hanifelt, this bird is lawful food. Its flesh is not unpleasant It resembles that of the qual, but it is eaten with some degree of loathing, like that of the camel

Another is the parrot, which also is found in Bajour and Parrot. the countries below it. In the spring, when the mulberry ripens, it comes up into Nangenhar and Lanighanat, but is found there at no other season. There are many species of parrot. One is that which they carry into our countries, and teach to talk 1. There is another species, of smaller size, which is also taught to speak. They call it the wood-parrot. Great numbers of this species are found in Bajour, Sawad, and the neighbouring districts, insomuch, that they go in flights of five and six thousand. These two species differ only in bulk, both have the same colours. There is another species of parrot, which is still smaller than the wood-parrot Its head is red, as well as its upper feathers. From the tip of its tail to within two fingers' breadth of its feet, it is white d The head of many of this species is lustrous, and they do not speak They call it the Kashmir parrot 2 There is another species of parrot like the wood-parrot, but a little Its beak is red , round its neck is a broad black circle like a collar Its upper feathers are crimson, it learns to speak well I had imagined that a parrot, or sharak, only repeated what it had been taught, and that it could reduce nothing into words from its own reflections Abul Kasim Jelair, who is one of my most familiar servants, lately told me a remarkable incident. The cage of a parrot of this last-mentioned species having been covered up, the parrot called out, 'Uncover my face, I cannot breathe' another occasion, when the bearers who were employed to a a fathom long, b francolm [partridge], c sud The end of its tail to the length of two fingers is white

o black

¹ [Palaeornis torquatus (Hindustanī - tota) is found all over India]

^{2 [}Palaeornis rosea?]

carry it had set it down to rest themselves, and a number of people passed by, the parrot called out, 'Everybody is going by, why don't you go on?' Let the credit rest with the relater! Yet till one hears such things with his own ears, he never can believe them There is another kind of parrot, of a beautiful red colour, it has also other colours As I do not precisely recollect its appearance, I therefore do not describe it particularly. It is a very elegant bird,a and learns to talk It has one great defect, that its voice is particularly disagreeable, having a sharp and grating sound,1 as if you rubbed a piece of broken china on a copper plate

Shārak

Another of the birds of Hindustan is the sharak, which abounds in the Lamghanat, and everywhere lower down, over the whole of Hindustan The shārak is of different species One is that which is found in great numbers in the Lamghanat Its head is black, its wings white b, its size rather larger than the chughur,2 and slenderer It learns to speak There is another sort, which they call pindaweli They bring it from Bengal It is all black It is much larger than the other sharah Its bill and foot are yellow In its two ears are two yellow leathers, which hang down, and look very ugly They call it the meina 3 It learns to speak, and speaks well and fluently There is another kind of sharah a little slenderer than this last 4. It is red round the eye This kind does not talk. When I threw a bridge over the Ganges, and crossed it, driving the enemy before me, I saw in Lucknow, Oudh, and these countries, a species of shārah, which had a white breast, and a piebald head, with a black back 5 I had never seen it before This species probably does not learn to speak at all a Add its plumage is splendid,

b piebald

¹ Perhaps the Lori [Loriculus vernalis]

In The Persian has Jal, which is the Bokhara lark, a common cage bird in India (Melanocorypha torquata) Chughur is a large species of lark. The bird referred to here must be some species of starling (shārak), possibly Sturnus humni]

The Persian adds 'they call it wan-sharak' (the wild or wood shārak) [Possibly the Calornis chalybeius]

⁵ [This is probably the pied starling (Sturnopastor contra), generally known as Ablag maina 1

Another is the lujeh 1 This fowl they also call the buhale- Lujeh. mūn 2 From the head to the tail, it has five or six different Its neck has a bright glancing 3 tinge like the pigeon's In size, it is equal to the habh i durri It may be regarded as the kabh i durn 4 of Hindustan, as the kabh i durri inhabits the summits of the mountains, this also inhabits the tops of the mountains. They are met with in the country of Kābul and the hill-country of Nijrau, and from thence downward, wherever there are hills, but they are not found any higher up A remarkable circumstance is told of them. It is said, that in winter they come down to the skirts of the hills, and that if in their flight one of them happens to pass over a vineyard, it can no longer fly, and is taken God knows the truth! Its flesh is very savoury

Another bird is the durray (or partridge) 5 It is not Durray (or peculiar to Hindustan It is found everywhere in the countries of the garmsil But, as certain species of it are found only in Hindustan, I have included it in this descriptive enumeration The partridge may be equal to the habh i durri b 6 in size The colour of its back is like that of the female of the murgh-c-dashti (or jungle fowl) c Its neck and breast are black, with bright white spots On both sides of both its eyes is a line of red It has a cry like Shir darem, shakreh 7 From its cry it gets its name It pronounces shir short, darem shakrek it pronounces distinctly partridges of Asterābād are said to cry Bāt mīni, tūti lār 8

black partridge

a in the mountains of Nijrau in the country of Kābul,

b partridge

¹ The Persian has lükheh [This may be the manal pheasant (Lophophorus impeyanus), though būkalamūn is the Persian word for the turkey 1

² Chamelion bird. ³ [1. e. lustrous.]

^{*} The kabl : dari, or durri, is much larger than the common kabl of Persia, and is peculiar to Khorāsan [Tetragallus Caspius] It is said to be a beautiful bird. The common kabk of Persia and Kabul is the hill chikor of India [Caccabis chukūr]

[[]The black partridge of northern India (Francolinus vulgaris)]

⁶ [The bird referred to here seems to be the kabk or hill chikor accabis chukūr)]

⁷ I have milk and [a little] sugar (Caccabis chukūr)]

[•] P de C. translates this 'They ha

The cry of the partridges of Arabia and the neighbouring countries is, Bil shuker tadām al niam. The colour of the hen bird resembles that of the young karkāwel (or pheasant) They are found below Nijrau. There is another fowl of the partridge kind, which they call kanjel. It is about the size of the partridge. Its cry is very like that of a kabh, but shriller. There is little difference in colour between the male and female. It is found in the country of Pershäwer, Hashnighar, and in the countries lower down, but in no district higher up.

Pülpeikar

Another bird is the palpeikar 3 Its size is equal to that of the kabk i durn. Its figure resembles the dung-hill cock, and in colour it is like the hen. From its forchead down to its breast it is of a beautiful scarlet colour. The palpeikar inhabits the hill-country of Hindustan.

Murgh-e salira (or fowl of the wild)

The murgh-e-sahra 4 (fowl of the wild) is another The difference between it and the barn-door fowl is, that the fowl of the wild flies like the harhawel (or pheasant), it is not of every a colour like the barn-door fowl. It is found in the hill-country of Bajour, and the hill-country lower down. It is not met with above Bajour.

Chelsi

Another is the chelsi, which is like ^b the pülpeikar, but the pülpeikar has finer colours—It inhabits the hill-country of Bajour

Shām

Another is the shām ⁵ It may be about the size of the common cock, and is of various colours It also is found in the hill-country of Bajour

Budineh, or quail Another is the budineh (or quail), which is not peculiar to Hindustan, but there are four or five species of it peculiar to that country There is one species that visits our

a uniform

b the same size as

¹ [Blessings endure through thanks.]

² [Kanjck, according to P de C. Possibly the grey partridge (Ortygioraus ponticerianus)]

4 [Perhaps the common Red jungle fowl (Gallus ferrugineus)]

² [This may be the horned pheasant of the hills (Trapogon melanocephala) It is the only pheasant with a scarlet throat and neck.]

⁵ [The Chels: and Shām may be names for the Kalīj (Gallophasis albo cristatus) and Koklas (Pucrasia macrolopha), which are common pheasants in the lower Himalayas.]

countries. It is larger and more spreading than the common budinch. There is another species, which is less than the budinchs that visit us? Its wings and tail are reddish. This budinch goes in flights like the chir. There is still another species, which is smaller than the budinchs that visit our country. They are generally black on the throat and breast. There is another species which seldom visits Kābul. It is small, somewhat larger than the harcheh, in Kābul they call it hardin.

Another is the kharchāl (or bustard), which may be about the size of the tughdāk, and is in rightly the tughdāk of Hindustān. Its flesh is very savoury. The flesh of the leg of some fowls, and of the breast of others, is excellent, the flesh of every part of the kharchāl is deheious

Kharchül (or bus (ard)

Another is the charz (or floriken)—Its size is somewhat less than the tughderi * The back of the male is like that of the tughderi, its breast is black—The female is all of a single colour. The flesh of the charz is very delicate. As the kharchāl resembles the tughdāk, the charz resembles the tughderi

Charz (or floriken)

Another is the bāghri-kara⁹ (or rock-pigeon) of Hindustān, which is less than the bāghri-kara of the west,¹⁰ and slenderer, its ery, too, is sharper

Bighrikara (or rockpigeon) Water-

There are other fowls, that frequent the water and the banks of rivers. One of these is the ding! (or adjutant),

¹ That is, the country north of the Onis [This migratory species is probably the common grey quail (Colurnix communis). The 'common budinch' may be the bush quail (Perdicula asiatica), the laicā of Hindustān, which is much used for fighting]

² [The rock bush quail (Perdicula argunda) may be referred to, as it flies in flocks.]

³ [Phasianus Wallichii]

4 [The Coturnix coromandelica or rain quail.]

* [Possibly the lesser button quail (Turnix dussumicrii Kārchch = wagtail.]

* The bustard is common in the Dekkan, where it is bigger than a turkey, and is called tughdar, probably corrupted from tughdal [This is the great Indian bustard (Eupodotis Edwardsii)]

⁷ [Sypheotis aurita]

* [The lesser bustard (Houbara Macqueen) so well known to falconers.]

• [The common sandgrouse ($Ptcrodes\ exustus$) which Jerdon calls 'the rock pigeon of sportsmen in India']

¹⁰ [The black breasted or Imperial sandgrouse (Ptcrocles arenarius)]

" The Hindustāni name of the adjutant [Leptoptilus argala] is Pīr e dīng

Ding (or adjutant)

which is a large bird—Each of its wings is the length of a man, a on its head and neck there is no hair, b something like a bag hangs from its neck, its back is black, its breast white, it frequently c visits Kābul—One year they caught and brought me a ding, which became very tame—The flesh which they threw it, it never failed to catch in its beak, and swallowed without ceremony—On one occasion, it swallowed a shoe well shod with iron, on another occasion, it swallowed a good-sized fowl right down, with its wings and feathers

Sāras

Another is the sdras ¹ The Türks who are in Hindustän call it tweh-turneh ² It is a little less than the ding. The neck of the ding is longer than that of the sdras ^d Its head is red. They keep it about their houses, and it becomes very tame.

Mınkısā

Another is the minkisa, which is nearly of the height of the saras, but its size is less. It resembles the stork, but is much larger. Its bill is longer than the stork's, and is black. Its head is polished and shining, its neck white, its wings parti-coloured. The edges and roots of the feathers of its wings are white, and the middle black.

Yak ding

There is another sort of stork, which has a white neck, while its head and all the rest of its body are black. It migrates to our countries. It is rather less than the common stork. This stork the Hindustānis call yak ding ⁵. There is another stork, which resembles in colour and shape the stork that visits our countries. Its beak is generally black and white, ⁶ and is much smaller than the other. There is yet another fowl which resembles the stork and heron ⁶. The a a fathom's length, b feathers, c occasionally

d It is a little less bulky than the ding, but taller

o but its beak is much blacker,

¹ [Grus antigone] ² Camel crane

³ [The white necked stork (Dissurus episcopus) P de C calls it the Ming, the native name being Mānik-jūr]

⁴ [The common white stork of India is known as laglag (Ciconia alba) I am unable to identify the other species mentioned by Bābur]

⁵ [Or rather Yak rang (one colour), which is P de C's variant This may be the Painted Stork (Pseudotantalus leucocephalus), a common Indian species]

^{• [}The common grey heron (Ardea cinerea)]

bill of this bird is longer than the heron's and larger size it is less than the stork

Another is the large buzek (or curlew) Its bulk may Buzek (or be about that of the starling Its head and two wings a are white It has a loud cry Another is the white buzek? Its head and bill are black. It is considerably larger than the buzek of our countries but less than the buzek of Hindustān 3

There is another water-fowl, which they call gheret-pai 4 Gheret-pai It is larger than the sona burchin The male and female are of the same colour. It is always found in Hashnaghar, and sometimes visits the Lamghanat - Its flesh is very delicate

There is another waterfowl which they call shahmurgh 5 Shah-It may be rather less than the goose It has a swelling Its breast is white its back black, and its above its nose flesh is excellent

murgh

Another is the zume; o which is about the size of a burkut Zume; (or falcon) It is of a black colour

Another is the starling. Its tail and back are red Another is the ala-hurgheh 8 (or magpie) of Hindustan

Starling Ala kūrgheh (or magpie)

n the back of its wings

² [The white ibis (Ibis mclanocephala)]

Perhaps the spoonbill, called, in India, Chamach buzch [Platalea leucorodia).

4 Ghazin pāi — Tūrli There is a kind of water fowl called gazpā, which seems to be a redshank. [This may be the spotted billed duck (Anas poccilorhyncha), which is called garm pāi by falconers. Sona is a name for the mallard (Anas boschas)]

5 The bird called nulta, a sort of duck, but nearly as big as a wild goose, it has a black beak, with a high knob on it. [This is evidently the blackbacked goose, or comb duck (Sarcidiornis melanonotus), though shāhmurghābi is a name properly applied to the sheldrake.

⁶ [Zuma] is the Arabic name for the Persian dubara, or dubarā daran (two brothers), so called because it hunts in couples. It is probably the black hawk eagle (Ictinactus malayensis) Būrqūt is perhaps the golden eagle (Aquila chrysaetus)]

7 Sār [This cannot be the common starling (Sturnus vulgaris), the tail and back of which are not red. Possibly the rose coloured starling (Pastor roseus) is referred to]

• [The Ala kūrgha 18 really the carrion crow (Corvus Cornix var sharpii) l

¹ [The common black ibis (Inocotis papillosus)]

It is slender and smaller than the ala-kargheh (or magpie) of my native country. It has some white on its neck

Crowpheasant There is another bird, which bears some resemblance to the carrion crow a In Lamghanat they call it the woodfowl Its head and breast are black, its wings and tail red, its eyes a very deep red 1 From its being weak and flying ill, it never comes out of the woods, whence it is that it gets the name of the wood-fowl

Chamgidri (or flying (ox) Another is the great bat, they call it chamgidri. It is about the size of the owl, and its head resembles that of a young whelp. It lays hold of a branch of the tree on which it intends to roost, turns head undermost, and so hangs, presenting a very singular appearance.

Aakeh

Another is the aakch 3 of Hindustan, they call it mital It is a little smaller than the common aakch, which is particulared black and white, while the mital is particulared brown and black

There is another bird whose size may be equal to that of the sandalay-mamala⁴ It is of a beautiful red, and on its wings has a little black

Kürcheh

Another is the karchch It resembles the karlughāch,⁵ but is much larger than that bird, it is entirely of a black colour

Koel

Another is the hoel,0 which in length may be equal to the a Add especially to the kind called gukeh [magpie]

² [The flying fox (Pteropus medius)]

¹ This is the crow pheasant, or Malabar pheasant, the Centropus sinensis

³ ['Aqqah is the Arabic word for magnie. The Indian magnie is the Treepie (Dendrocitia rufa), the European magnie (Pica rustica) is common trans Indus.]

^{4 [}Mamūlā is the Arabic word for wagtail (Motacilla), for which sandulāj appears to be the Tūrki equivalent The bird referred to may be the scarlet minivet (Pericrocolus speciosus)]

^{*}Also called the terashterek [According to P de C qārlūghāch means swallow The larger bird (kārcha) may be the common swallow (Hirundo rustica), and the smaller (qārlūghāch) the Indian swift (Cypselus affinis)]

^{• [}The common Indian cuckoo (Eudynamis honorata) This bird is parasitic like its European cousin, and lays its eggs in the nest of the common crow The note of the kock (pace Bābur) is very harsh and unpleasant, increasing in intensity as it proceeds, and crow, but is much thinner It has a kind of song, and is the nightingale of Hindustan It is respected by the natives of Hindustan as much as the nightingale by us It inhabits gardens where the trees are close planted

There is another bird resembling the shikrak close among and about trees, and may be about the size of a shikrak It is green-coloured like the parrot 1

Of the aquatic animals, one is the alligator 2 It dwells in Aquatic standing waters,3 and resembles the crocodile4 They say that it carries off men, and even buffaloes Another is the sipsar⁵ (another species of alligator) This, too, is like It inhabits all the rivers of Hindustan One the crocodile was caught and brought to me It may be about four or five gaz in length, b and some are even larger Its snout is upwards of half a gaz long Both in its upper and lower law it has several very small ranges of teeth. It comes out and sleeps c on the edge of the water

animals Alligator

Another is the water hog, which is also found in all the Water hog rivers of Hindustan It springs up from the water with a jerk, puts up its head and plunges it down again, leaving no part of its body visible but the tail The jaw of this animal, too, is like that of the alligator It is long, and has the same kind of ranges of teeth, in other respects its head and body are like a fish While it is playing in the water it resembles a water-bag. The water-hogs that are

hence its nickname (the 'brain fever bird') The male is greenish black, and the female dusky green spotted with white]

The sherābi, or water lion, is the alligator [Crocodilus palustris].

⁸ It clings to trees and remains motionless,

b Add and as bulky as a sheep,

d Add which resembles the alligator's snout,

c hes

e snout

¹ [Shiqrāq is the Arabic for the green magpie (Cissa sinensis) From P de C's description the Indian bird referred to may be a species of green woodpecker (Gecinus striolatus)]

³ [Le the lagoons left on the banks of the great rivers after an inundation.]

⁴ Gilās (= lizard).

⁵ [This may be a corruption of the Persian word for crocodile (Sıyāhsar = black head) The saurian referred to here is probably the C porosus, which is the largest of the three species of Indian crocodiles.]

^{*} Khūk ābı [The Gangetic Dolphin (Platanista gangetica)]

in the river Sarū, while sporting, leap right out of the water. This animal, too, resembles a fish in never leaving the water.

Garial

Another is the garial, which is a large fish. Many of the army saw it in the river Sarū. It carries off men. During the time that we remained on the river Sarū, one or two slave boys a were seized by it and carried down. Between Ghāzipūr 2 and Benāres it also carried off two, three, or four of our men. In that vicinity I saw the garial 2 from a distance, but I could not get a distinct view of it.

Kakch

The kakch is another fish. On a line with its two ears issue two bones, three fingers-breadth in length. When eaught it shakes these two bones, which return a singular sound, whence they have given this fish its name of kakeh

The flesh of the fishes of Hindustan is delicate, and they have few small bones d. They are surprisingly netive. On one occasion a net was laid in a river, from side to side. The fish entered it d. Each side f of the net was then raised a gaz a above the water, yet many of the fish leaped, one after the other a full gaz over the net, and escaped. There are, besides, in many rivers of Hindustan small fishes, which, if they hear a harsh sound, or the treading of a foot, instantly leap a gaz, or a gaz and a half, out of the water.

Trogs

The frogs of Hindustan are worthy of notice Though of a women b camp followers

d Add and no unpleasant smell

f The upper extremity

c bony protuberances c Omit this sentence

g half a gaz

¹ The Sırjü, or Gogra

² [Ghāzipūr is the head quarters of the district of the same name in the United Provinces. It is situated on the left bank of the Ganges about forty two miles north east of Benares. The old palace of the Forty Pillars which overlooks the river is its principal attraction. On the plain near the old cantonment is a cenotaph in white marble, with a medallion bust by Flaxman, to the memory of Lord Cornwallis, who died there in 1805. Ghāzipūr used to be the head-quarters of the UP Opium Agency, which has recently been closed.]

³ The gariāl is one of the two kinds of crocodile the other is called magar. The latter has a long, sharp snout the snout of the former is round. [The ghariāl, or Gavial (Gavialus gangeticus) is the alligator, the magar being the crocodile (Crocodilus palustris)]

the same species as our own, yet they will run six or seven gaz on the face of the water

Of the vegetable productions peculiar to Hindustan, one Fruits is the mango (ambeh) 1 The natives of Hindustan generally Mango pronounce the bi in it, as if no vowel followed. but as this makes the word difficult to articulate, it is sometimes called naghzak, as Khwāieh Khosrou 2 savs

My mango (my fair 3) is the embellisher of the garden, The most lovely fruit of Hindustan

Such mangoes as are good are excellent. Many are eaten, but few are good of their kind They pluck most of them unripe, and ripen them in the house. While unripe the mango makes excellent tarts, and extremely good marmalade b In short, this is the best fruit of Hindustan The tree bears a great weight of fruit c Many praise the mango so highly as to give it the preference to every kind of fruit, the musk-melon excepted, but it does not appear to me to justify their praises It resembles the hards peach, and ripens in the rains There are two kinds of it d One kinde they squeeze and soften in the hand, and then, making a hole in its side, press it and suck the juice. The other is like the kardi peach! They take off its skin, and eat it Its leaf somewhat resembles that of the peach Its trunk is ill-looking and ill-shaped In Bengal and Guierat the mangoes are excellent.

Another of their fruits is the plantain 1 The Arabs call it Plantain mauz Its tree is not very tall, and, indeed, is not entitled to the appellation of tree, it is something between a tree

a an excellent dish

b preserves

c The tree which bears the mango grows to a great size

d two ways of eating it e By one way

f By the other it is treated like the lardi peach.

¹ Magnifera Indica

² [Amīr Khusru (1253-1325), the celebrated poet of India known as Tute Hind, was the son of a Lachin Turk, Amir Saif ud din Mahmud, who came from Balkh to India, and settled in Patiala, where the poet was born. He was a most prolific author, and among his numerous works may be mentioned the Diran, Nuh sipehr, the Khamsah, Qıran us sa'daın, and the Matla' ul anwar]

^{4 [}Kela (Musa sapientum)] Naghzak.

and a vegetable 1. Its leaf bears some likeness to that of the aman hara, but the plantain leaf is two gaz in length and nearly one in breadth. A shoot resembling a heart springs up from its centre. The bud of the plantain is on this shoot. This large bud resembles a sheep's heart. From the root of every leaf that opens round this bud, a row of six or seven flowers springs out. These flowers so rising in a row, afterwards become rows of plantains. When the shoot which resembles a heart expands and blows, the leaves of that large bud opening, the rows of the plantain flowers become visible a The plantain has two good qualities the one is, that it is easily peeled, the other, that it has no stones, and is not stringy. It is rather longer and thinner than the bringal? It is not very sweet. The plantain of Bengal, however, is extremely sweet, and has a very beautiful tree. It has very broad leaves of bright green and is an elegant plant

Ambli, or Indian date

Another is the ambli, which name they give to the Indian date b It has small indented leaves, precisely like the bina,4 but the leaves of this tree are smaller. It is a very beautiful tree, and yields a profusion of shade. It grows to a great size, and abounds in a wild state

moura

Mahweh, or Another is the mahweh, which is also called the gul-chilan This also is a very wide-spreading tree The houses of the natives of Hindustan are chiefly constructed of the timber They extract a spirit from the flowers of the of this tree They dry its flowers, and eat them like raisins It is from them likewise that they extract the liquor 6 They c bear a great resemblance to the kishmish? and have rather

A small kind of grape, or current, brought from the Persian

Gulf

a Add Each plantain stalk only produces fruit once b date-tree c In this [dried] state they

¹ That is, is herbaceous. [Solanum melongena]

² Tamarındus Indica, so called from Tamar hindi, the Indian date

⁴ [P de C calls this the nutmeg tree (Myristica officinalis)]

^a [Bassia latifolia. Gul chikān is the name of its flower]

In Bombay this liquor is well known by the name of moura, or Parsee Brandy The farm of it is a considerable article of revenue. [Arrack is distilled from the flowers of the mahua tree, which are very rich in sugar]

a disagreeable, sickly taste, but the smell of the flower is not agreeable a It may be eaten b This tree likewise grows wild Its fruit is ill-tasted. The stone is rather large, and its shell thin They extract an oil from the kernel

Another is the kirm 1 This, though not a wide-spread tree, kirm at the same time is not a small one. Its fruit is of a yellow colour It is smaller than the jujube. In taste it bears a perfect resemblance to the grape It leaves rather a bad flavour behind, but it is a good fruit, and is eaten c The skin of its stone is thin

Another is the jaman? Its leaf perfectly resembles that Jaman of the tal,3 but is thicker and greener. It is on the whole a fine-looking tree Its fruit resembles the black grape, but has a more acid taste, and is not very good

Another is the hermerik 4 It is fluted with five sides. In Kermerik size it may be equal to a ghīnālū, do and in length four or five fingers-breadth When ripe it is yellow This fruit, too, has no stone If plucked unripe, it is very bitter, when well ripened, it has an agreeably sweet acid, and is a pleasant sweet-flavoured fruit

Another is the hadhil (or jack) 6 This has a very bad look Kadhil (or and flavour It looks like a sheep's stomach stuffed and lack) made into a haggis 7 It has a sweet sickly taste Within it are stones 8 like a filbert, they bear a considerable

n on the contrary, when they are fresh they are really not bad to b Omit this sentence. o very eatable eat

d peach [shaftālū]. e Omit or five

³ [The willow]

According to Dr Hunter, the Averrhoa Carambola

¹ The lini is a tall tree with a small yellow fruit, with a stone It is very common in Gujerāt.—(It is the Minusops hexandra of Roxburgh, fruit oblong, pointed, covered with a soft yellow saccha (aluq əmr

² Eugenia jambolana

⁵ The Türki has ghatālu, Mr Metcalfe's copy ghabālu, and the Persian ghinālu [Some kind of plum.]

[[]Artocarpus integrifolia, a very evil smelling fruit Kathal is the correct Hindi name 1

⁷ The gipa is the sheep's stomach stuffed with rice, minced meat. and spices, and boiled as a pudding The resemblance of the jack to the haggis as it hangs on the tree is wonderfully complete

The stones of the jack, when roasted, resemble the chestnut in taste resemblance to the date, but the stones are rounder and not so long, and the substance softer than that of the date. They are eaten. This fruit is very adhesive—on account of this adhesive quality, many rub their mouths a with oil before eating them. They grow not only from the branches and trunk of the tree, but even from its root. You would say that the tree was all hung round with haggises.

Badhil

Another is the badhil, which may be about the size of an apple. It is not bad smelling, but is very insipid and tasteless b

Bor

Another is the ber, which in Persian they call hundr. It is of various kinds, and is rather longer than the alacheh? (or plum) There is another species of it, of the bulk and appearance of the Hussaini grape, but this last sort is seldom good. I have seen a ber in Bandire which was very excellent. This species easts its leaves under the constellations of Taurus and Gemini. In Cancer and Leo, which is the season of the rains, it regains its leaves, and becomes fresh and flourishing, in Aquarius and Pisces, its fruit ripens.

Karonda

Another is the karonda, which grows on shrubby bushes

Add and hands

b Omit and substitute The badhil is about the size of a quince and is not a bad fruit. It is sour and not very tasty when green, but when ripe it is by no means to be despised. It then becomes soft and can be entirely peeled by the hand and caten. Its sweet acid taste then reminds one very much of the quince when it is peeled.

© Mandanir

* Ber, the Zizyphus Jujuba —Hunter's Hind Diet [Kunūr is the Persian for the lote fruit.]

* The alücheh is the Bullaco plum [Prunus communis] It is small, not more than twice as big as a sloe, and not high flavoured It is generally yellow, sometimes red

¹ [The barhal is the Artocarpus lakoocha, and is, according to Watt, a sweet and acid fruit, yellowish red, and nearly round. Under the name bedhil it is included in the Ayīn i Albarī under the head of acid fruits, and was sold at the rate of one dām each.]

^{&#}x27;The Muhammedan months going round the solar year, those concerned in agriculture, or in operations dependent on the seasons, are often obliged to direct themselves by the appearance of the constellations

The corinda, or Carissa carandas -Hunter

tree, it withers and dies the other is, that as no animal bears without concourse with the male, in like manner, if you do not bring a branch of the male date-tree, and shake it over a the female, it bears no fruit. I cannot youch for the truth of these remarks The top of the date-tree which has been mentioned is called its cheese. The cheese of the date is that place where its branches and leaves shoot out, and it has very much the appearance of a white cheese From this white cheesy substance the branches and leaves shoot out When these branches and leaves have somewhat expanded, the leaves wax greener This white sub stance, which they call the cheese of the date, is rather pleasant tasted The pith b bears some resemblance to the kernel of the walnut They make an meision in that part of the tree where the cheese lies, and insert a date-leaf in the wound, in such a way, that whatever water flows from the opening, must run down this leaf, this leaf they fix to the mouth of an earthen pot, and tie the pot to the tree, all the liquid that flows from the wound is collected in this If drunk immediately, the liquor is sweetish, if it stand three or four days, they say that it acquires an intoxicating quality On one occasion, when I had gone out to survey Bari,1 while examining the districts on the banks of the river Chambal, in the course of our journey we chanced upon a valley, inhabited by people who employed themselves in drawing this liquor We drank a great deal of it, and felt no symptoms of intoxication 2 A great quantity of it must probably be taken, as its intoxicating powers are very small

Cocoanuttree Another is the cocoanut-tree, or nargil which the Arabs call nartl, and the Hindustänis naltr by a vulgar error. The fruit of the cocoanut-tree is the Hindi nut, of which the black spoons are made. Of the larger sort they also make the sounding-cup of the ghichch (or guitar). The tree

Babur must have drunk it fresh and unformented, as the date wine or sendi is very strong

a bring it in contact with

b For it

¹ [Bārı 19 a town in the Dholpūr State situated nineteen miles west of Dholpūr and forty five miles south west of Agra]

² The common Hindustani name for it is narial [Cocos nucifera] in Lamghanat, Bajour, and Sawad, where it is both plentiful and good The orange of Lamghanat is small, but juicy, and pleasant for quenching thirst. It is sweet-smelling, some light is thrown on the subject by Dr E Bonavia in his work on the Cultivated Oranges and Lemons of India and Ceylon (London, 1890), which has supplied me with material for the following note

The Nāranj mentioned by Bābur cannot be the Seville or bitter orange (Citrus bigaradia) as it has a sour pulp and bitter rind, and was introduced later into India from China. The orange here described was probably the Khatta (Citrus aurantium khatta), which is a delicate fruit easily spoiled, pale yellow in colour, with a thick skin and acid pulp Kirna is a synonym for this species of orange, or it may be a local variety

Suntara (a loose skinned variety—Citrus aurantium sinense gallesio) is one of the two main branches into which the sweet, or sub acid, oranges of India are divided, the other being the Malta or Portugal orange (Citrus aurantium sinense rumphius), which is close skinned

The Kāmılah (a corrupt form of Keonla), and Nārıngı, form another class of sweet oranges closely allied to the Suntara family Both these are redder, rougher, and smaller than the Suntara

The Turany and Bayaura (Citrus medica) belong to the citron (proper) class. The former has a very thick skin, and a dry sour pulp of small dimensions, the white part of the skin being plentiful and sweet. The latter has a thinner skin, larger pulp, and abundant acid juice.

The Jhambīri, though often grouped with limes, may be classed as 'an acid Citrus with rather orange characteristics, and resembles the Suntara and Keonla in the general character of the fruit and foliage' It has a smooth lemon yellow exterior, the pulp being white to orange Bābur's lemons and limes may be divided into the following three classes

The Amalbed (Citrus decumana) belongs to the Pummelo group This fruit has a close skin and a sour orange tinted pulp—It differs slightly from the Pummelo proper (Chakotra), which was introduced into India from Java] be about that of the Khosravi musk-melon. Its skin i rough, rising and falling in knobs a. Its extremity is this and knobbed b. The citron is of a deeper yellow than th orange. Its tree has not a large trunk. It is small and shrubby, and has larger leaves than the orange

Santerch orange)

The santerch (or orange) is another fruit resembling (or common the naranj (or Seville orange) In colour and appearance it is like the citron, but the skin of this fruit is smooth and without any unevennesses. It is rather smaller than Its tree is large, perhaps about the size o the small citron the small appropriate. Its leaf resembles the narang leaf It has a pleasant acid, and its sherbet is extremely agreeable and wholesome. Like the lime it is a powerful stomachic and it is not a weakening fruit like the citron d

Kilkil (or large lime)

Another fruit of the orange kind, is the larger lime which, in Hindustan, they call the kilkil lime. In shape it is like a goose's egg, but does not, like the egg, taper away at the two extremities. The skin of this species is smooth, like that of the santerch. It has a remarkable quantity of juice

Jambiri

Another fruit resembling the orange is the jambiri In shape it is like the orange, but is of a deeper o yellow It is not, however, an orange, though gits smell is like that of the orange This fruit, too, yields a pleasant acid

Sadaphal

Another of the orange kind is the sadaphal, which is shaped like a pear, and in colour resembles the quince. It has a sweet taste, but not so mawkish as the sweet orange

Amratphal

The amratphal is another of the fruits resembling the orange 1

" wrinkles b with a beak at the end c Omit small f Omit this clause d orange o a different shade of gand

¹ On this notice of the amratphal there is, in the Türki copy, the following note of the Emperor Humaiun It is not found in either of the Persian translations

^{&#}x27;His Majesty, whose abode is in Paradise,* may Heaven exalt his ^{*} Hazret Ferdous makān Every Emperor of Hindustān has an epithet given him after his death to distinguish him, and prevent the necessity of repeating his name too familiarly Thus, Ferdous makan 18 Babur's, Humaiun's is Jannet-ashiani-he whose nest is in Heaven, Muhammed Shah's, Ferdous aramgah—he whose place of rest is Paradiso, &c

to that of the orange and lime 3

Another of the orange kind is the kirnch, which may be kimeh about the size of the kilkil lime This too is tart

Another resembling the orange is the anni-bid. I have Anni bid seen it first during this present year 1. They say that if a needle be thrust into the heart of it, it melts away 2 Perhaps this may proceed from its extreme acidity, or from some other of its properties. Its acidity may be about equal splendour! has not attended sufficiently to the amatphal. As he observed that it was sweet and mild tasted, he compared it to the sweet orange, and was not fond of it, for he had a dislike to the sweet orange and everybody, on account of the amratphal's mild sweet called it like the orange. At that time, particularly on his first coming to Hindustan he had been long and much addicted to the use of strong drinks whence he naturally did not like sweet things. The amratphal is however, an excellent fruit. Its juice though not extremely sweet yet is very pleasant. It a later period, in my time we discovered its nature and excellence. Its acidity, when unripe resembles that of the orange. While yet very acid, its sourcess affects the stomach. but, in the course of time, it ripens and becomes sweet

'In Bengal there are other two fruits which have an acid flavour though they are not of equal excellence with the amratphal. The one is called kanulah, and grows to the size of an orange (nāran), many hold it to be the larger lemon (narang) but it is much pleasanter than the lemon. It has not an elegant appearance or shape other is the santerch, and is larger than the orange, but is not sour, Santerch and is not so tasteless as the amratphal, nor is it very sweet either Indeed, there is no pleasanter fruit than the santerch. It is a very fine shaped, pleasant, and wholesome fruit. No person thinks of any other fruit, or has a longing for any other, where he can find it. Its peel may be taken off by the hand, and however many you eat, you are not surfeited, but desire more It does not dirty the hand by its Its peel is easily separated from the pulp. It may be eaten after food. This santereh is seldom met with. It is found at Bengal at one village called Sonargam, and, even in Sonargam, it is found in the greatest perfection only in one place. In general, among this class of fruits, there is no species so pleasant as the santereh, nor indeed is there among any other'

1 P de C has 'which I have not had an opportunity of seeing for these three years', i. e since he came to India in 1526 This would show that Babur wrote this chapter in 1529]

This story of the needle is believed, by the natives, of all the citron kind, which are hence called in the Dekkan sai gal (needle melter)

Abulfazl informs us (Ayeen e Akberi, vol 1, p 74) that Akber gave great encouragement to the cultivation of fruit trees, and that people of skill were invited from Persia and Tartary to attend to their culti

Kāmīlalī

Jisün or gurhal

In Hindustan there is great variety of flowers One is the jasan, which some Hindustanis call the gurhal. It is not a grass, the shrub on which it grows is tall, its bush is larger than the red-rose bush, its colour is deeper than that of the pomegranate Its size may be about that of the red rose, but the red rose, after the bud is formed. opens all at once, whereas when the jasan opens from its bud, from the midst of the cup that first expands, a thing like a heart becomes visible, after which the other leaves of the flower spring out, though these two form a single flower, yet the thing like a heart in the midst of it, which springs from these leaves and forms another flower, has a very singular appearance a It looks very rich coloured and beautiful on the tree, but does not last long, as it withers in a single day, and disappears. It blows very charmingly for the four months of the rainy season. It continues to flower during the greater part of the year, but has no perfume

Kanır

Another is the kanir,² which is sometimes white, and sometimes red, and is five-leaved, like the flower of the peach. The red kanir resembles the peach flower, but fourteen or fifteen kanir flowers blow from the same place, and from a distance they look like one large flower. The shrub of this flower is larger than the bush of the jasan b. This also blossoms incessantly, and in great beauty, during the whole three or four months of the rainy season, and is, besides, to be met with during the greater part of the year.

a while in the jūsūn, as soon as the flower opens, there arises from the cally in the midst of the petals a slender stem, which stretches out in the form of a stalk to the size of a hand, and the petals of which expand in their turn. The whole forms a flower like a heart, and presents a very singular appearance

b rose bush

vation. He enumerates musk melons, grapes, water melons, peaches, almonds, pistachioes, and pomegranates, as being of the number introduced. His account of the annual bringing of the fruits from Kābul, Kandahār, and Kashmīr, is curious. I am informed that the annual importation of fruits from Kābul into Hindustān is still carried on to a great extent, though daily declining [Kābul grapes are carried all over Northern India by Powindah Afghans at the present day?

The shoe flower (Hibiscus rosu sinensis)]

Another is hearth which has a very sweet smell. The Kearch Arabs call it hari . The fault of musk is, that it is rather drying b This may be called the moist musk a singular appearance. Its flower may be about a span and a half or two spans in length—It has long leaves like the gherau. This flower, too, is prickly, like the rose-bud, when unblown, its outer leaves are very green and prickly, while its inner leaves are white and soft. Among its inner leaves is something like a centre or heart. It chas a sweet smell It resembles a new-blown shrub, the trunk of which is not yet grown up, but its leaves are broader and more prickly. Its trunk is very ill proportioned. It springs in stalks from the ground d

Another is the white jasmine, which they call chambeli 4 Chambeli It is larger than our jasmine, and its perfume stronger

or white asmine

In other countries there are four seasons, in Hindustan Seasons there are three, four months of summer, four of the rainy season, and four of winter. Its months begin with the new moon Every three years they add a month to the rainy season, again, at the end of the next three years they add a single month to one of their winters, and in the course of the succeeding three years they add one month to a summer This is their mode of interculation Cheit, Beisakh. Jeth, and Asarh® are the summer months, corresponding to Pisces, Aries, Taurus, and Gemini, Sawan, Bhadun,

a Omit this sentence.

b liable to dry up

c which

d This shrub resembles the shoots of the male reed, which have just shown up from the soil, and the principal stem of which has not yet appeared, but it has very large leaves and a prickly, ill proportioned trunk, round which the roots can be seen exposed

¹ The Pandanus odoratissimus of Roxburgh

² [According to Vullers a kind of reed (Calamus scriptorius) P de C says it is a species of rose.]

² The Persian translator here adds, 'Not knowing what this is, I have written it in the same way 'The Türki, however, has yumshal, probably a ball or clue, while the Persian has migner or wasiteh

Jasminum grandiflorum

[[]Chart, the first month of the Hindu year, corresponds roughly to the period between March 15 and April 15]

The names of the months, as pronounced and written by the Musulmans, differ considerably from the genuine Hindu names. In Kuwār, and Kātik form the rainy months, corresponding to Cancer, Leo, Virgo, and Libra, Aghen, Pūs, Māgh, and Phāgun arc the winter, and include Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricornus, and Aquarius. The natives of Hindustān, who have divided their seasons into terms of four months each, have confined the appellation of the violence of the season to two months of each term, and call them the period of summer, the period of the rains, the period of winter. The two last months of summer, which are Jeth and Asārh, they separate from the others, calling them the period of the heats. The two first months of the rainy season, Sāwan and Bhādun, they regard as the period of the rains, the two middle months of winter, which are Pūs and Māgh, they consider as the period of winter. By this arrangement they have say seasons.

Days of the

They also assign names to the days of the week Sanicher is Saturday, Aitwar is Sunday, Somwar, Monday, Mangelwar, Tuesday, Budhwar, Wednesday, Brispatwar, Thursday, and Shukrwar, Friday

Day and night Division of time

As, by the usage of our country, the day and night are divided into twenty-four parts, each called an hour, and each hour into sixty minutes, so that the day and night are composed of one thousand four hundred and forty minutes, and as in the space of a minute, the fatiheh (or first chapter of the Korān), with the bismillah (or blessing), may be repeated six times, they may be repeated eight thousand six hundred and forty times in the space of a night and day. The natives of Hindustān divide the night and day into sixty parts, each of which they denominate a ghari, they likewise divide the night into four parts, and the day into the same number, each of which they call a pahar (or watch).

Sanskrit the summer months are called Cheitra, Visakha, Jeshta, Ashadha, the rainy months, Sravana, Bhadrapada, Aswini, Kritika, those of winter, Mrigasira, Pūshia, Magha, and Phalguni The Hindustānis soften most of these names by omitting consonants

¹ [The six seasons are divided thus Basant, or the spring (Chait and Baisākh), Grishma, or the summer (Jeth and Asārh), Varsha, or the rainy season (Sawan and Bhadon), Sharat, or the autumn (Kunar and Kātik), Hemanta, or the winter (Aghan and Pūs), Sisīra, or the period between winter and spring (Māgh and Phālgun)—Gladwin's Aīn : Albarī, p 225]

which the Persians call a past. In our country I had heard of par and pashan, though I did not understand the custom a In all the principal cities of Hindustan, there is a sort of people called gharidh, who are appointed and stationed for this express nurpose. They east a broad briss plate about the size of a tray and two fingers breadth deep. This brass vessel they call gharial." The gharial is suspended from a high place. They have another vessel like an hour cup, which has a hole in its bottom. One of these is filled every and the character who watch by turns attend to the cup that is bout into the water. In this way beginning from daybreik when they put in the cup as soon as it is filled for the first time, they strike one stroke on the glianial. Mode of with a wooden club which they have and when it has been filled a second time, they strike two and so on for the first watch. The signal that the first watche is past is their striking yers fast for a number of times on the gharial with the wooden club. If it is the first witch of the day, after striking repeatedly and fast, they stop a little and strike one blow if it be the second watch after striking fast for some time, they deliberately strike two and after the third they strike three and after the fourth four. With the fourth watch the day closing the night watch begins. and they go through the night watches in precisely the same Formerly the gharialis, whether by day or night, best the sign of the watch at the end of each watch only. so that when a man waked from sleep, and heard the sound of three or four gharis he did not know whether it was the second watch or the third I directed, that after beating the sign of the ghari, whether by night or day, d they should likewise beat the sign of the watch. For example, that after beating three gharis of the first watch they should stop, and after an interval, beat one other blow as the mark of the

Their clep

marline Lime

Muration introduced by Babur

1

a But the special signification which these words have here is not assigned to them there b which they

d by night and whenever the weather was cloudy

[&]quot; Add of the night

¹ Watch and watchman

^{2 [}Gharial is a gong, and qharial; the gong striker]

³ [Or rather, ghari - twenty four minutes]

watch, so that it might be known that it was three gharis of the first watch. After beating four gharis of the third watch of the night, if they stopped and beat three, it would indicate that it was four gharis of the third watch. This answers particularly well, for when a man wakes by night and hears the gharidl, he knows with certainty how many gharis of a particular watch are past. Again, they divide every ghari into sixty parts, each called a pal, so that every day and night consists of three thousand six hundred pals. They reckon each pal equal to the time in which the exclids may be shut and opened sixty times, and reckon a day and night equal to two hundred and sixteen thousand times of shutting and opening the eyes. By experiment. I found that one pal admitted of the hulho vullah and bismillah being repeated nearly eight times, so that, in the space of a single

Division of time

Measures

thousand six hundred times

The inhabitants of Hindustan have a peculiar method of reckoning as to measures, they allow eight ratis to one mashch, four mashchs to one tang, or thirty-two ratis to one tang, five mashchs to one mish al, which is equal to forty ratis, twelve mashchs make one tola or minety-six ratis, fourteen tolas make one ser, and it is fixed that everywhere forty sers make one man, and twelve mans one man, and one hundred manis one minasch. They reckon jewels d and precious stones by the tang night and day, they admit of being repeated twenty-eight

Mode of reckoning

The natives of Hindustan have a distinct and clear of mode of reckoning. They call a hundred thousand a lak, a hundred laks a kror, a hundred krors an arb, a hundred arbs a kerb, a hundred kerbs a ntl, a hundred ntls a padam, a hundred

a very exact and most ingenious

^b tānk,

c forty sers make one batman or māni,

d pearls c excellent

¹ [The bismillah is the third, and the qulhuwallah the fifth prayer of the standing (qiyām) posture—Bismillah is the abbreviated form of the ejaculation (lasmiych) in the name of God, the Compassionate, the Moreiful 'Qul huwa allah are the opening words of the 112th chapter of the Qurān (sūrat ul ikhlūs), which runs—'Sav He is God alone—God the Eternal—He begetteth not, nor is begotten, and there is none like unto Him.'—Hughes, Dict of Islam]

² [Or rather 'eight hundred', according to P de C's figures]

padams a sang. The fixing such a high mode of calculation is a proof of the abundance of wealth in Hindustan

Most of the natives of Hindustan are pagans. They call Hindu in the pagan inhabitants of Hindustan Hindus. Most of the Hindus hold the doctrine of transmigration. The officers of revenue, merch ints and work people, are all Hindus, In our native country, the tribes that inhabit the plains and deserts have all names according to their respective families, but here exerciseds whether they live in the country or my ill ages have names according to their families b Again every tradesmans has received his trade from his forefathers,! who for generations have all practised the same trade

habitants

Defects of Hindust in Hindustan is a country that has few pleasures to recommend it? The people are not handsome. They have no idea of the charms of friendly society of frankly mixing together, or of familiar intercourse. They have no genius, no comprehension of mind no politeness of manner no kindness or fellow feeling, no ingenuity or mechanical invention in planning or executing their handieraft works, no skill or knowledge in design or architecture d, they have no horses, no good flesh, no grapes or musk-melons,3 no good fruits no ice or cold water no good food or bread in their bazars, no baths or colleges, no candles no torches, not a candlestick. Instead of a candle and torch you have a gang of dirty fellows, whom they call dirates, who hold in their left hand a kind of small tripod to the side of one leg of which it being wooden they stick a piece of iron like the a artisans

b In our country tribal divisions exist only among the nomads while here the persantry and villagers are divided into castes.

c artisan

d both in their ideas and their worls they lack method, order, principles, and rules

¹ This refers to the institution of castes. [This is the functional type of caste, but there are many other types. See the article on caste in vol 1 of the Imperial Gazetteer of India]

² Babur's opinions regarding India are nearly the same as those of most Europeans of the upper class, even at the present day

² Grapes and musk melons, particularly the latter, are now common [Lamp lighters, from diga, a lamp] all over India top of a candlestick, they fasten a plant wick, of the size of the middle finger, by an iron pin, to another of the legs. In their right hand they hold a gourd, in which they have made a hole for the purpose of pouring out oil in a small stream, and whenever the wick requires oil, they supply it from this gourd. Their great men kept a hundred or two hundred of these divatis. This is the way in which they supply the want of candles and candlesticks. If their emperors or chief nobility, at any time, have occasion for a light by night, these filthy divates bring in their lamp, which they carry up to their master, and there stand holding it close by his side

Houses and

Beside their rivers and standing waters, they have some running water in their ravines and hollows, they have no aqueducts or canals in their gardens or palaces be In their buildings they study neither elegance nor elimate, appearance nor regularity. Their peasants and the lower classes all go about naked. They tie on a thing which they call a langoti, which is a piece of clout that hangs down two spans from the navel, as a cover to their nakedness. Below this pendent modesty-clout is another slip of cloth, one end of which they fasten before to a string that ties on the langoti, and then passing the slip of cloth between the two legs, bring it up and fix it to the string of the langoti behind. The women, too, have a lang—one end of it they tie about their waist, and the other they throw over their head.

Advantages of Hindu stān Pleasant climate

The chief excellency of Hindustan is, that it is a large country, and has abundance of gold and silver. The climate during the rains is very pleasant. On some days it rains ten, fifteen, and even twenty times. During the rainy season inundations come pouring down all at once, and form rivers, even in places where, at other times, there is no water. While the rains continue on the ground, the air is singularly delightful, insomuch that nothing can a thumb,

c air.

b Except the rivers and the streams which flow in their ravines and hollows, they have no running water of any kind either in their gardens or palaces

d In places where it rains, and where the showers succeed each other without interruption, surpass its soft and agreeable temperature. Its defect is that the air is rather moist and damp. During the rains season you cannot shoot even with the bow of our country. and it becomes quite useless. Nor is it the bow alone that becomes useless, the coats of mail, books, clothes, and furniture, all feel the bad effects of the moisture houses, too, suffer from not being substantially built a There is pleasant enough weather in the winter and summer, as well as in the rainy season, but then the north wind always blows, and there is an excessive quantity of earth and dust flying about. When the rains are at hand, this wind blows five or six times with excessive violence, and such a quantity of dust flies about that you cannot see one another. They call this an andhi 1 It gets warm during Thurus and Gemini but not so warm as to become intolerable The heat cannot be compared to the heats of Balkh and Kandahär It is not above half so warm as in these places of Another convenience of Hindustan is, that the workmen Abundance of every profession and trade are innumerable and without of work end For any work, or any employment, there is always people a set ready, to whom the same employment and trade have descended from father to son for ages In the Zafer-nameh of Mulla Sherif-ed-din Mr Yezdi, it is mentioned as a surprising fact, that when Taimur Beg was building the Sangin (or stone) mosque, there were stone cutters of Azarbanan, Färs, Hindustän, and other countries, to the number of two hundred, working every day on the mosque In Agra alone, and of stone-cutters belonging to that place only, I every day employed on my palaces six hundred and eighty persons, and in Agra, Sīkri, Biāna, Dhūlpūr, Gwahar, and Koel,2 there were every day employed

a The stability even of the houses is affected

b 4dd in the summer, when the sun is in the signs of Taurus and Gemini.

c and its duration is only about half as long as in those places

¹ This is still the Hindustani term for a storm, or tempest.

² [Kol is the name generally given to the native city of Aligarh, the head quarters of a district in the United Province Aligarh is now an important manufacturing centre, but is chiefly celebrated for the Mohammedan Anglo Oriental College founded by Sir Sevyid Ahmed Khan 1

on my works one thousand four hundred and ninety-one stone-cutters In the same way, men of every trade and occupation are numberless and without stint in Hindustan

Revenue

The countries from Behreh to Behār, which are now under my dominion, yield a revenue of fifty-two krors, as will appear from the particular and detailed statement. Of this amount, pergannas to the value of eight or nine krors are in the possession of some Rais and Rajas, who from old times have been submissive, and have received these pergannas for the purpose of confirming them in their obedience.

a as a reward for their good conduct [Add the following note on the revenues of Hindustan Almost the whole of Hindustan had actually and in a short space of time submitted to my victorious standards. The administration of the countries situated cis Indus, such as Sutlei, Behrah, Lahore, Siālkot, Debalpūr, and others besides these, yielded 3 kror, 33 laks, 15989 tangas.

	Krors	Laks	Tangas
That of Sirhind	1	29	31985
, Hısar Fırozeh	1	30	75174
, the capital town of D and the Miān i doāl		69	50254
, Mewāt, which was not cluded in the domin of Sıkandar Lodi	1	69	81000

¹ [Behār (from Vihāra = a Buddhist monastery) is now one of the three provinces which make up the Lieutenant Governorship of Bihār, Chota Nāgpūr, and Orissa, and lies between Bengal and the United Provinces, being divided into two parts by the Ganges. Though so close to Bengal it differs from it in almost every respect. The extremes of temperature are far greater, the rainfall lighter and more capricious, and the population denser and more hardy. The language is Hindi, and 82 per cent. of the population are Hindus. It comprises the ancient kingdoms of Magadha, Anga, Vaisāli, and Mithila, and it was here that Buddhism and Jainism were founded. Behār came into Bābur's possession after his victory of Ghāgra (Gogra) in 1529]

² About a million and a half sterling, or rather £1,300,000

³ This statement unfortunately has not been preserved [The detailed statement of the revenues of Bābur's dominions, though omitted from the Persian version of the Memoirs, which Erskine followed, is found in the Tūrki original, and is reproduced by P de C. in his translation]

About £225,000 sterling

ţ

I have thus described the particulars regarding the country of Hindustan, its situation its territory, and inhabitants, that have come to my knowledge, and that I have been able to verify. Hereafter if I observe anything worthy of being described, I shall take notice of it, and if I hear anything worth repeating, I will insert it

On Saturday, the 20th of Rajeb, I began to examine Distribu and to distribute the treasure. I gave Humaiun seventy laks from the treisury, and, over and above this treasure, a palace a of which no account or inventory had been taken

tion of the treasure 1526 May 11

		Krors	Lak+	Tanya*
That of	Brāna	1	11	14930
	\gra		29	76919
,	the Central Provinces	2	91	19000
	Gwäleir	2	29	57150
•	Kälpi Senahda, and Gar		28	55950
	Kanauj	1	36	63358
•	Sambal	1	35	41000
	Lucknow and Lal hear	Ī	39	82433
	Kharrābād		12	85000
	Oudh and Bahraich	1	17	1369
,	Inunpür	1	0	88 333
	Karrah and Mänikpür	1	803	27283
•,	Behär	1	5	60000
	Sirohi	1	55	17506
	Sirun	i	10	18673
	Chipiran (Champaran)	i	90	86060
,	Gundega	•	13	30300
,	Raja Mutana and Ra	1a (2	55000
	Rup Barin	•	27000	50000
,	Rantambhor	•	20	0
,,	Angor
1,	Raja Bikramajit Ra	n
• •	tambhor			_
,,	Raja Kalanjari			-
"	Raja Singli deo
"	Raja Bikamdeo		-
"	Raja Bikamehand		_

a a private douceur.

¹ Bābur, just before the description of Hindustān, says that he entered Agra on Thursday, the 28th Rajeb The date in the text is an error, the 29th of Rajeb being a Friday Perhaps he thought that the distribution of treasure on a Friday might have seemed to inter fere with his religious duties If the distribution occurred on Saturday, the 12th May 1526, if on Friday, May the 11th the date

To some Amīrs I gave ten laks, to others eight laks, seven laks, and six laks On the Afghans, Hazāras, Arabs, Baluches, and others that were in the army, I bestowed gratuities from the treasury, suited to their rank and circumstances Every merchant, every man of letters, in a word, every person who had come in the army along with me, carried off presents and gratuities, which marked their great good fortune and superior luck a Many who were not in the army also received ample presents from these treasures, as, for instance, Kamran received seventeen laks, Muhammed Zemān Mırza fifteen laks, Askerı Mırza¹ and Hındāl, in a word, all my relations and friends, great and small, had presents sent them in silver and gold, in cloth, and jewels, and captive slaves Many presents were also sent for the Begs in our old territories, and their soldiers I sent presents for my relations and friends b to Samarkand, Khorasan, Kashghar, and Irak Offerings were sent to the Sheikhs (or holy men) in Khorasan and Samarkand, as likewise to Mekka and Medina To the country of Kābul, as an incentive to emulation, c to every soul, man or woman, slave or free, of age or not, I sent one shahrokhi 2 as a gift 3

When I first arrived in Agra, there was a strong mutual dislike and hostility between my people and the men of the place. The peasantry and soldiers of the country avoided and fled from my men. Afterwards, everywhere, except only in Delhi and Agra, the inhabitants fortified different posts, d while the governors of towns put their fortifications.

The inha bitants disaffected to Babur

n Omit this clause

b Omit and friends and the whole district of Versak,

^{&#}x27; and such as held fortified posts put themselves in a posture of defence,

Askeri and Hindal were sons of Babur, Muhammed Zeman Mirza was a son of Badia ez zeman Mirza, the late Sultan of Khorasan

² Abul fazl tells us that eight laks of shahrokhis are equivalent to one kror, 28 laks of dāms (Ayeen c Alberī, vol 11, p 169), which, allowing 40 dâms to the rupec, makes it equal to 2½ shahrokhis. This would give the shahrokhi the value of tenpence or elevenpence.

^{* [}For this generous distribution of the wealth accumulated by the Lodi kings, of which he kept none for himself, Bābur is said to have been given the title of kalendar or mendicant (E. B., p. 440)]

in a posture of defence, and refused to submit or obey Kāsım Sambalı was ın Sambal, Nızām Khan ın Bıāna, the Raja Hassan Khan Mewāti himself in Mewāt That infidel was the prime mover and agitator in all these confusions and Their insurrections Muhammed Zeitün was in Dhülpür, Tätär Khan Sarang-khani in Gwäliär, Hussain Khan Lohani in Rāberi, Kuth Khan in Etāwa, and in Kālpi Ali Khan b Kanauj, with the whole country beyond the Ganges, was entirely in the possession of the refractory Afghans, such as Nasīr Khan Lohām, Maaruf Fermuli, and a number of other Amīrs, who had been in a state of open rebellion for two vears before the death of Ibrahim At the period when I defeated that prince, they had overrun, and were in possession of Kanaui and the countries in that quarter, d and had advanced and encamped two or three marches on this side They elected Behär Khan, the son of Darva Khan, as their king, and gave him the name of Sultan Muhammed Marghūb, a slave, was in Mahāban 1 This confederation, though approaching, yet did not come near for some time 6 When I came to Agra, it was the hot All the inhabitants fled from terror, so that we could not find grain nor provender, either for ourselves or our horses The villages, out of hostility and hatred to us, had taken to rebellion, thieving, and robbery The roads became impassable I had not had time, fafter the division of the treasure, to send proper persons to occupy and protect the different pergannas and stations It happened too that the heats were this year uncommonly oppressive Many men about the same time dropped down, as if they had been affected by g the samum wind,2 and died on the spot different

a Omit this clause.

ь 'Ālım Khan

c two or three

d beyond it.

e from which he did not move for some time, although he was in my immediate neighbourhood.

f the opportunity,

g under the influence of

¹ [Mahāban, the head quarters of a Tahsīl in the Muttra district of the United Provinces, situated near the left bank of the Jamna, is the traditional home of the god Krishna's childhood, and as such is much venerated by the Hindus It was sacked by Mahmud in 1018]

² [A sultry, pestilential wind.]

Discontents in Bābur's army

On these accounts, not a few of my Begs and best men began to lose heart, objected to remaining in Hindustan, and even began to make preparations for their return If the older Begs, who were men of experience, had made these representations, there would have been no harm in it. for, if such men had communicated their sentiments to me, I might have got credit for possessing at least so much sense and judgement as, after hearing what they had to urge, to be qualified to decide on the expediency or in-expediency of their opinions, to distinguish the good from the evil But what sense or propriety was there in eternally repeating the same tale in different words, to one who himself saw the facts with his own eyes, and had formed a cool and fixed resolution in regard to the business in which he was engaged 9 What propriety was there in the whole army, down to the very dregs, giving their stupid and unformed opinions? It is singular, that, when I set out from Kābul this last time, I had raised many of low rank to the dignity of Beg, in the expectation, that if I had chosen to go through fire and water, they would have followed me back and forward without hesitation, and that they would have accompanied me cheerfully, march where I would It never surely entered my imagination that they were to be the persons who were to arraign my measures, nor that, before rising from the council, they should show a determined opposition to every plan and opinion which I proposed and supported in the council and assembly Though they behaved ill, yet Ahmedi Perwanchi and Wali Khāzin behaved still worse From the time we left Kābul, till we had defeated Ibrahim and taken Agra, Khwajeh Kalān had behaved admirably, and had always spoken gallantly, giving such opinions as befitted a brave man, but a few days after the taking of Agra, all his opinions underwent a complete change Khwajeh Kalan was now, of all others, the most determined on turning back

Babur assembles his nobles, and ad dresses them I no sooner heard this murmuring among my troops than I summoned all my Begs to a council. I told them that empire and conquest could not be acquired without the materials and means of war. that royalty and nobility could not exist without subjects and dependent provinces that, by the labours of many years, after undergoing great hardships, measuring many a toilsome journey, and raising various armies a, after exposing myself and my troops to circumstances of great danger, to battle and bloodshed, by the divine favour, I had routed my formidable enemy, and achieved the conquest of the numerous provinces and kingdoms which we at present held 'And now, what force compels, and what hardship obliges us, without any visible cause, after having worn out our life in accomplishing the desired achievement, to abandon and fly from our conquests, and to retreat back to Kābul with every symptom of disappointment and discomfiture b? Let not any one who calls himself my friend ever henceforward make such a proposal But if there is any among you who cannot bring himself to stay, or to give up his purpose of returning back, let him depart ' Having made them this fair and reasonable proposal, the discontented were of necessity compelled, however unwillingly, to renounce their seditious purposes Khwajeh Kalan not being disposed to remain, it was arranged, that as he had a numerous retinue, he should return back to guard the presents, I had but few troops in Kābul and Ghazni, and he was directed to see that these places were all kept in proper order, and amply supplied with the necessary stores I bestowed on him Ghazni, Gerdēz, and the Sultan Masaudi Hazāras, I also gave him the perganna of Kehrām¹ in Hindustān, yielding a revenue of three or four laks 2 Khwājeh Mīr Mirān was likewise directed to proceed to Kābul The presents were entrusted to his charge, and put into the immediate custody of Mulla Hassan Sarāf³ and Nouker Hindū Khwājeh Kalān, who was heartly tired of Hindustan, at the time of going, wrote

Khwājeh Kalān's verses.

a at the head of my troops,

b to be exposed afresh to the trials of poverty?

¹ [There is a town named Kuhrām marked on Rennell's map in Patiāla, south east of Patiāla town and south west of Ambāls. Kuhrām is often mentioned in history See Aīn i Albarī, vol. 11 (Jarrett), pp 105, 296]

² This sum, at forty dams to the rupee, and taking the rupee at two shillings, would be £800 or £1,000 sterling

 $^{^{3}}$ [Sarraf = banker]

the following verses on the walls of some houses in Delhi

(Tūrl 1)-If I pass the Sind safe and sound, May shame take me if I ever again wish for Hind

When I still continued in Hindustan, there was an evident impropriety in his composing and publishing such vitupera-If I had previously cause to be offended at tive b verses his leaving me, this conducte of his doubled the offence I composed a few extempore lines, which I wrote down and sent him

Bābur's answer

(Türls)-Return a hundred thanks, O Babur! for the bounty of the merciful God

Has given you Sind, Hind, and numerous kingdoms, If unable to stand the heat, you long for cold, You have only to recollect the frost and cold of Ghazni

At this period I sent to Koel, Mulla Apak, who had formerly been in a very low station, but who, two or three years before, having gathered together his brethren and a considerable body of other followers, had received the command of the Urukzais1 and of several Afghan tribes on the banks of the Sind I sent by him firmans containing assurances of safety and protection, to the bowmen and soldiers about Koel Sheikh Güren, availing himself of these assurances, came voluntarily and entered into my service d He brought with him two or three thousand bowmen from the Doab, who all joined my army

Babur joined by some Doib men

And by Fermile

The sons and clansmen e of Alım Khan Fermüli fell in with Alim khan Yunis Ali, between Delhi and Agra, at a time when he had mistaken the road and separated from Humaiūn, but, after a short engagement, were defeated, and the sons of Alim Khan made prisoners, and brought to the camp At this juncture, I dispatched Mirza Moghul, the son of Doulet Kadem the Turk, accompanied by one of the sons of Alim Khan, who had been taken prisoner, with firmans containing assurances of protection and honour, to Alim Khan, who, during these commotions, had gone to Mewat That nobleman returned

b lightly jesting c a jest like this a his house d came to me loyally and rendered me homage e relations

f Availing myself of this circumstance,

^{1 [}An Afghan tribe inhabiting Tirah, on the borders of the Kohāt district, NW P]

back in his company I received Alim Khan with distinction and kindness, and bestowed on him one of the most desirable pergannas, worth twenty-five laks 1

Sultan Ibrahim had sent Mustafa Fermuli and Firuz Khan By Firuz Sārangkhāni, with several other Amīrs, against the rebellious lords of the Pūrab (East) Mustafa had some well-fought Bayezid and desperate actions with the rebels, and had given them several severe defeats He had died, however, before the Kazi Jia defeat of Ibrahim, and Sheikh Bayezid, his younger brother, had assumed the command in his room, while Ibrahim was yet on the throne b Firuz Khan, Sheikh Bayezid, Mahmud Khan Lohani, and Kazi Jia, now entered my service bestowed on them honours and rewards beyond their expecta tions To Firūz Khan I gave a grant of upwards of a kror out of Jaunpur, on Sheikh Bayezid one of a kror from Oudh, on Mahmud Khan, nine laks and thirty-five thousand dams out of Ghāzīpūr, cand on Kazī Jia twenty laks from Jaunpūr

A few days after the Id,3 or festival of Shawal, we had distributes a great feast in the grand hall, which is adorned with the his officers peristyle of stone pillars, under the dome in the centre of Sultan Ibrahim's private palace 4 On that occasion I presented Humaiun with a charlob, a sword with the belt, and n Omit this clause and read I provided for his maintenance by bestowing on him

b and that king, finding himself in a difficult situation, made over the command of his elder brother's troops to Sheikh Bayezid

c Firuz Khan received a grant of 1 kror, 46 lakhs and 5,000 tangas from Jaunpur, Sheikh Bayazid got 1 kror, 48 lakhs and 50,000 tangas on Oudh, Mahmud Khan 90 lakhs, 35,000 tangas out of Ghazipur,

¹ Probably about £6,250

⁵ A square shawl, or napkin of cloth of gold, bestowed as a mark of rank and distinction.

Khan, Sheikh Mahmüd Khan, and

Bābur rewards to

A kror may be about £25,000, nine laks and 35,000 dams, about £2,440, twenty laks, nearly £5,000 [These are only round numbers The details are given in P de C's translation.1

The Id of Shawal, it will be remembered, is celebrated at the con clusion of the Ramzan, on seeing the first new moon of Shawal. In A.H. 932, it must have fallen about July 11, 1526

⁴ [The two last Lodi kings resided in Agra. Sikander Lodi built the Baradarı Palace near Sıkandra, which suburb received its name from him. The 'Lodi's Mound', which is now built over with modern houses, is said to have been the site of another Lodi Palace called Badalgarh (Murray's Handbook to the Bengal Presidency, London, 1882)]

a Tipchāk horse with a gold saddle To Chīn Taimūr Sultan, to Mehdı Khwajeh, and Muhammed Sultan Mırza, I gave a charkob, a sword with the belt, and a dagger a To the other Begs and officers I gave, according to their circumstances, a sword with a belt, a dagger, and dresses of honour, so that on the whole there were given one Tipchāk horse with the saddle, two pairs of swords b with the belts, twenty-five sets of enamellede daggers, sixteen enamellede kitarehs, two daggers1 (jamdher) set with precious stones,d four paire of charhobs, and twenty-eight vests of purple f On the day of the feast there was a great deal of rain, it rained thirteen times Many of those who were seated on the outside were completely drenched against Sambal.

I had at first bestowed the country of Samaneh on Muham-Lxpedition medi Gokultāsh, and sent him on a plundering expedition into Sambal 2 I had bestowed Hissar-Firozeh on Humaiun by way of gift, and now gave him Sambal likewise As I had placed Hindū Beg in Humāiūn's service, I, therefore, in the room of Muhammedi, sent Hindu Beg, accompanied by Kitteh Beg, Malik Kāsim, and Bāba Kashkeh, with their brothers and relations, g3 Mulla Apāk, Sheikh Gūren, and the bowmen from the Doab, with orders to proceed on duty to Sambal Intimationsh had come three or four times from Kāsım Sambalı, that the traitor Bīban had laid siege to Sambal, and reduced him to the last extremity, so that it was desirable that they should advance by forced marches Bīban,4 with the same force and array with which he had fled from us, had occupied the skirts of the hills, collected the fugitive and discomfited Afghans, i and, finding the place ill garnsoned, during these troubles, had gone and laid siege Hindū Beg, Kitch Beg, and the whole detachto Sambal ment that had been dispatched to the rehef of the place, b jewelled swords a Add with its belt c jewelled d Add a gold scimitar, a nag, and a sword, e four

g with all his brothers.

h Messengers

i Add and Indians.

¹ The khanzer, l stäreh, and zamdher are peculiar kinds of daggers.

² [Sambhal is a town in the district of Moradabad, UP, twenty two miles south west of Moradabad city]

² That is, their clansmen.

[[]Malık Bıban Jilwanı]

on reaching the Ahar-ford,1 while busy in passing the river, sent on Malık Kāsım, and Bāba Kashkeh with his brothers, in advance As soon as Malik Käsim had crossed the river, he pushed on with great expedition, accompanied by a hundred or a hundred and fifty of his brethren,2 and reached Sambal about the time of noon-day prayers Biban, on his side, drew out his men from his camp, and ranged them in order of battle Malik Käsim and his party having advanced rapidly, and got the fort in their rear, began to engage him Biban, unable to keep his ground, took to flight They killed a number of his men, whose heads they cut off, and took several elephants and a number of horses a Next morning, the Begs who had been sent to relieve the place arrived Kāsim Sambali came out and had an interview with them, but made some difficulties as to giving up the fort, always contriving evasions One day, Sheikh Guren having concerted measures with Hindu Beg and the rest of the generals, b brought Käsim Sambali before them by stratagem, and introduced my men into the fort of Sambal The family and dependants of Kāsim Sambali were suffered to leave the place in safety, and were conducted to Biana o which is taken

253

Kalender Piadeh was now sent to Nizam Khand with letters, in which threats were mingled with promises I wrote extempore, and sent the following fragment

Nızām Khan holds out Biana.

Contend not with Türks, O Mir of Biana ! 2 The speed and bravery of Türks are surpassing Now is the time to present yourself, and to lend an ear to counsel. What is the use of telling a man of what is before his eyes?

The fort of Biana is one of the most famous in Hindustan, Biana, which lies south west from Agra, was formerly one of the most important places in India, from its vicinity to the capital, which it defended on the side of the Rapput states.

a Add besides other booty

b Sheikh Guren and Hindu Beg having concerted measures with their colleagues. c Omit this clause. d Add to Biann

The Ahar ford is on the Ganges, a little above Anopsheher, or Anupshir [Anupshahr, the head quarters of a Tahsil in the Buland shahr district, UP, situated on the right bank of the Ganges twenty five miles east of Bulandshahr city, was an important town in its day as commanding this crossing of the Ganges on the road between Delhi and Rohilkhand.] Clansmen.

and the foolish man, confiding too much in its strength, had cherished expectations, and instructed his envoy to make demands, far beyond what he was able to command I returned him a sharp answer by the man whom he sent to treat, and made every exertion to collect whatever was necessary for the siege

Muham med Zertün holds out

I sent Baba Kuli Beg to Muhammed Zeitun with letters. in which menaces were mixed with conciliation. He likein Dhalpar wise made excuses to waste the time, and practised a variety of artifices

Rāna Sankatakes Kandār

Although Rana Sanka,2 the Pagan, when I was in Kabul, had sent me an ambassador with professions of attachment, and had arranged with me, that, if I would march from that quarter into the vicinity of Delhi, he would march from the other side upon Agra, yet, when I defeated Ibrahim, and took Delhi and Agra, the Pagan, during all my operations, did not make a single movement. After some time, he advanced and laid siege to Kandar,3 the name of a fort which was held by Hassan, the son of Makan Makan had several times sent me envoys, though Makan himself had not waited on me with his submissions forts around, such as Etāwa, Dhūlpūr, Gwāliār, and Biāna,4 were not yet in my possession The Afghans to the eastward were in a state of rebellion and contumacy, they had even advanced two or three marches from Kanauj towards Agra, and had then encamped and fortified their position b I was a a refusal of his demands

b their head quarters were at a point two or three marches from Kanaul in the district of Agra,

¹ Muhammed Zeitün held Dhülpür, which lies south from Agra, on the Chambal, and is a very strong place.

Rāna Sanka, the Raja of Udaipūr, had made the principal Rājpūt states dependent upon him. He had enlarged his dominions by the conquest of several provinces in Mālwa, that had formerly belonged to the King of Mandu, and was, upon the whole, the most formid able opponent whom Babur had to dread.

* Kandar is a strong hill fort, a few miles east of Rantambor [in

Rājpūtāna]

These are the chief forts to the south of Agra. Etawa lies on the Jumna, between Agra and Kalpı Gwaliar is a celebrated hill fort, well known as the prison of the princes of the house of Taimur, and the chief place in Gohud

Rāberi given to

Muham-

med Ah

Etāwa given to

Mahdı Khwäieh

Jeng Jeng

by no means secure of the fidelity of the country immediately about us—It was impossible for me, therefore, to send any detachment to his relief, and Hassan, in the course of two or three months, having been reduced to extremity, entered into a capitulation, and surrendered the fort of Kandār

Hussain Khan, who was in possession of Räberi, being seized with a panic, abandoned the place, and made his escape. I bestowed it upon Muhammed Ali Jeng-Jeng

I had several times summoned Kutb Khan, who was in Etāwa, to come out and wait upon me, a but he neither waited upon me nor surrendered the fort. I now bestowed the fort of Etāwa on Mahdi Khwājeh, and sent along with him Muhammed Sult in Mirza, Sultan Muhammed Duldāi, Muhammed Ali Jeng-Jeng, Abdal-azīz, the master of horse, with some other Begs, several of my inferior Begs and adherents, and a number of other troops, to occupy the place. I had lately bestowed Kanauj on Sultan Muhammed Duldāi, but, in the meanwhile, I ordered him also to march against Etāwa, accompanied by Firōz Khan, Mahmūd Khan, Sheikh Bayezīd, Kazi Jia, and the Begs of their party, to whom I had shown great favour, and given pergannas on the side of Pūrab

Muhammed Zeitün continued in Dhūlpūr, and, under various false pretences, would neither leave the place nor make his submission. I bestowed Dhūlpūr³ on Sultan Juneid Birlās, and appointed Ādil Sultan, Muhammedi Gokultāsh, Shah Mansūr Birlās, Kūtluk Kadem, Wali Jān Beg, Abdallah, Pir Kuli, and Shah Hussain Bārgi, to proceed against that place, giving them instructions to assault and take it by storm, and to deliver it into the custody of Sultan Juneid Birlās, after which they were to march against Biāna

n d d

Dhūlpūr given to Sultan

Juneid Birlis.

^a I had several times sent letters to Kutb Khan, who was in Etāwa, endeavouring to attract him by promises, and intimidate him by threats, b in command of a considerable number of Begs and household troops,

¹ Rāberī was a place of importance on the Jumna, below Chāndwār

^{*} Kanaul, or Canouge, a famous city on the Ganges, about the 27th degree of N Lat It lies on the right bank of the river

⁵ It will be observed that the greater part of these governments, bestowed by Bābur, were of places still to be conquered.

Having appointed these armies to proceed in execution

Bähur holds a council of their various objects, I sent for the Türki nobles and those of Hind, and held a consultation I stated to them that the rebellious lords in the east, Nāsir Khan Lohāni, Maarūf Fermuli, and their adherents, had passed the Ganges, to the number of forty or fifty thousand men, had occupied Kanauj, and advanced and encamped two or three marches on this side of it, that the Pagan Rana Sanka had taken Kandar, and was in a state of open disobedience and revolt that the rainy season was now nearly over, that it seemed expedient and necessary to march against either the rebels or the pagans, that it would be an easy matter to reduce the neighbouring forts after getting rid of these formidable enemies, that then they would cost no trouble, that Rana Sanka was not, upon the whole, a very formidable enemy All unanimously answered, that Rana Sanka was not only far off, but that it was not even plain that it was in his Alghans in power to come near us, that the rebel chiefs had advanced closer up to us, that to repulse them should be our first object, and they therefore begged to be led against that enemy Humaiun represented that it was quite unnecessary for the Emperor to accompany the expedition, and asked to be permitted to undertake the service. All having agreed in this plan, and the Türki Begs, as well as those of Hind, being pleased with the arrangement, it was settled that Humaiun should march towards the east, with the armies that had been appointed to proceed against Dhulpur a, and Kābuli Ahmed Kāsim was in consequence dispatched with all speed, to make these armies change the course of their march, so as to meet Humaiun in Chandwar bi Mahdi Khwajeh, Muhammed Sultan Mirza, and the armics that had been sent against Etawa, were likewise ordered to march and form a function with Humaian

Resolution to march against the the east The command given to Hu mānin, who matches to th eastward Aug 21

On Thursday, the 13th of Zilkandeh, Humaiun marched to the village of Jilisir 2 sixteen kos c from Agra, where he

a Omit this clause

b to direct the armies that had been dispatched against Dhulpur to ioin Humaiûn at Chândwâr three kor

¹ Chindwar hes on the Jumna below Agra and above Ptawa I fale ar on the Jamus below Agra is the head quarters of a Tabail encamped Having halted there one day he proceeded march after march towards the enemy On Thursday, the Aug 28 20th of the same month, Khwajeh Kalan took leave on setting out for Kābul makes a garden ner Agra, be yond the Jumna,

It always appears to me that one of the chief defects of Babur Hindustan is the want of artificial water-courses intended, wherever I might fix my residence, to construct water-wheels, to produce an artificial stream, and to lay out an elegant and regularly planned pleasure-ground 1 Shortly after coming to Agra, I passed the Jumna with this object in view and examined the country, to pitch upon a fit spot for a garden The whole was so ugly and detestable, that I repassed the river quite repulsed and disgusted consequence of the want of beauty, and of the disagreeable aspect of the country, I gave up my intention of making a charbagh, but as no better situation presented itself near Agra, I was finally compelled to make the best of this same spot I first of all began to sink the large well which supplies the baths with water, I next fell to work on that piece of ground on which are the amble (or Indian tamarind) trees, and the octangular tank, I then proceeded to form the large tank and its enclosure, and afterwards the tank and talar 2 (or grand hall of audience) that are in front of the and a stone palace. I next finished the garden of the private palace apartments, and the apartments themselves, after which I completed the baths In this way, going on, without neatness and without order, in the Hindu fashion, I, however, produced edifices and gardens which possessed considerable regularity as In every corner I planted suitable gardens,

2 So it was that in this country of India so devoid of charm, and naturally so lacking in order, I succeeded in making gardens full of beauty and symmetry in the Etah district of the United Provinces, about eight miles from the Jalesar road station, on the Great Eastern Railway]

1 In Persia and India, a house or palace is always understood to be comprehended under the name of garden.

² Tālār is an apartment open in front, and supported on pillars It is frequently a hall of audience.

IThis may be the garden palace which Babur is said to have built on the east bank of the Jamna, nearly opposite the Tal, close to which 18 a Mosque erected by Humayun in 1530 There are, however, three in every garden I sowed roses and narcissuses regularly, and in beds corresponding to each other a. We were annoyed with three things in Hindustan one was its heat, another its strong winds, the third its dust. Baths were the means of removing all three inconveniences. In the bath we could not be affected by the winds b During the hot winds, the cold can there be rendered so intense, that a person often feels as if quite powerless d from it. The room of the bath, in which is the tub or eistern, is finished wholly of stone The water-run is of white stone, all the rest of it, its floor and roof, is of a red stone, which is the stone of Biana Khalifeh, Sheikh Zein, Yunis Ali, and several others, who procured situations on the banks of the river, made regular and elegant gardens and tanks, and constructed wheels after the fashion of Lahore and Debālpūr, by means of which they procured a supply of water The men of Hind, who had never before seen places formed on such a plan, or laid out with so much elegance, gave the name of Kābul to the side of the Jumna on which these palaces were built

Babur excavates a wain in Agra.

There was an empty space within the fort (of Agra), between Ibrahīm's palace 1 and the ramparts I directed a large waīn to be constructed on it, ten gaz by ten 2 In the language of Hindustān they denominate a large well, having a In every corner I made pretty parterres, in which roses and narcissi in all their beauty were arranged with consummate art

b Add or the dust o In the hottest season, d half frozen other gardens near Agra, which are connected by tradition with Bābur, viz. the Achānak Bāgh, one mile due south of the city, the Zahīreh Bāgh, situated between the Rām Bāgh and the Chīnī kā rozah, and another garden of the same name, the largest of all, on the Agra side of the river near the Barracks This garden con tains the great well, the wonder of Agra, which has a circumference of 220 feet, and from which fifty two people can draw water at the same time. It may be the waīn referred to by Bābur further on.]

¹ [As far as I know, no trace of this palace exists in the fort. It was doubtless demolished to make room for later buildings of the

Moghal period]

² [The usual word in Hindustāni for such a well is baoli, which is defined as follows in Fallon's dictionary 'a deep well, descent to which is by long flights of steps with landing places and covered chambers where travellers may rest and take refreshments during the heat of the day']

a staircase down it, wain This wain was begun before the charbagh was laid out, they were busy digging it during the rains, but it fell in several times, and smothered the workmen After my holy war against Rāna Sanka, as is mentioned in the Memoirs, a I gave orders for finishing it, and a very excellent wain was completed In the inside of the wain there was constructed an edifice of three different. The lowest story has three open halls, and you descend to it by the well, the descent is by means of a flight of steps, and there is a passage leading to each of the three different halls b Each hall is higher than the other by three steps In the lowest hall of all, at the season when the waters subside, there is a flight of steps that descends into the well c In the rainy season, when the water is high, the water comes up into the uppermost of these halls In the middle story there is a hall of carved stone, and close by it a dome, in which the oven that turn the water-wheel move round The uppermost story consists of a single hall From the extremity of the area that is at the top of the well, at the bottom of a flight of five or six steps, a staircase goes off from each side to this hall, and proceeds down to its right side d Straight opposite to the entrance is a stone, containing the date of the building By the side of this well a shaft or pit has been dug, in such a way that the bottom of it is a little higher than the middle of the well e The cattle. moving in the dome that has been mentioned, turn a waterwheel, by which the water is raised from the one well into the other well or shaft On this last-mentioned shaft they have erected another wheel, by which the water is raised to a level with the ramparts, f and flows into the upper gardens At the place where the staircase issues from the well they

a as is recorded in a chronogram engraved on a stone, in which there is an allusion to its completion after the Holy War,

b The lowest consists of three halls, each of which communicates directly with the well by means of steps

c When water is drawn from the lowest hall, the level of the water is only one step below it

d You go down to it from the platform of the well by a flight of five or six steps on each side, the entrance being on the right

o By the side of the first well another has been sunk, the depth of which is not quite half that of the first one

f is carried along the ramparts, have built a house of stone, and beyond the enclosure that surrounds the well, a stone mosque has been built, but it is ill built, and after the style of Hindustan

The the east fall back from Jāmāu

By the time that Humaiun had made some progress in his Afghans of march, a Nasır Khan Lohanı, Maaruf Fermuli, and the rebel lords, b had assembled and encamped at Jājmāu 1 Humājūn, when about fifteen c kos off, sent Mümin Atkeh, in order to gain intelligence, and to push on, to plunder and beat up their quarters He could not get any accurate information of their motions, but the rebels, having notice of his approach, took to flight, without waiting for his appearance Humaiun sent out Kasımnaı with Baba Chihreh and Bujkeh, after Mümin Atkeh, in order to get intelligence They brought news of the panic and flight of the enemy, whereupon Humaiun advanced and occupied Jaimau, from whence he proceeded onward When he arrived near Dilmau.3 Fateh Khan Sarwani came and made his submission He sent that nobleman to me, accompanied by Mahdi Khwājeh and Muhammed Sultan Mirza

Fateh Khan Sarwāni submits Trans actions in Khorasan

This same year, Obeidullah Khan raised an army, and advanced from Bokhāra against Merv Ten or fifteen peasants, who were in the citadel of Merv,3 were taken and put to the sword Having settled the revenue of Merv, he. in the course of forty or fifty days,d proceeded against In Sarakhs he found about thirty or forty Kızılbāshes, who shut the gates, and refused to give up the

b Omit and the rebel lords, a started on his expedition, d Having occupied Merv for forty or fifty days, he o ten or fifteen

¹ Jājmāu is in the Doab, below Cawapore [Jājmāu is the old name of the head quarters Tahsil of the Cawnpore district, United Provinces 1

² Dilmau stands on the left bank of the Ganges, south east from Barcilly [Dalman is the head quarters of the Tahsil of the same name in the Rai Bareilly district, United Provinces It contains many interesting ruins, the most striking being the picturesque old fort overlooking the Ganges 1

^{2 [}Merv, the chief town of the Oasis of the same name, is situated in the Trans Caspian Province of Russia on the south edge of the Kara Kum desert, 230 miles north of Herāt. The new town 14 situated on both sides of the Murghāb river The ruins of the old Seljuk capital cover an area of fifteen miles]

This prince acted rightly in enforcing the law of retaliation by putting to death Imad-al-mulk, who had behaved so treacherously, but unfortunately, besides this. he put to death a number of his father's Amīrs, and gave proofs of his being a blood-thirsty and ungovernable young man

EVENTS OF THE YEAR 933

Birth of Farük

lug 2

In the month of Muharrem, 1 Bcg Weis arrived with news of the birth of Farük, although a messenger on foot had previously brought me the news, yet Beg Weis came this month for the purpose of communicating the good tidings He was born on Friday eve, the 23rd of the month of Shawal. and named Farük

Ustad Ab large can บอก

I had directed Ustad Alı Kulı to cast a large cannon, for Kuli casis a the purpose of battering Biana, and some other place which had not submitted Having prepared the forges and all the necessary implements, he sent a messenger to give me notice that everything was ready On Monday, the 25th of Muharrem, b2 we went to see Ustad Ah Kuli cast his Around the placec where it was to be cast were eight forges,d and all the implements in readiness Below each forge they had formed a channel, which went down to the mould in which the gun was to be cast On my arrival, they opened the holes of all the different forges. The metal flowed down by each channel in a liquid state, and entered After waiting some time, the flowing of the the mould melted metal from the various forges ceased, one after another, before the mould was full. There was some oversight either in regard to the forges or the metal Ustad Ali Kuli was in terrible distress, he was like to throw himself into the melted metal that was in the mould cheered him up, and given him a dress of honour, we contrived to soften his shame. Two days after, when the a but, not content with this

b 15th of Muharram,

d furnaces. 4 mould

e A day or two after,

¹ Muharrem, A H 933, began on October 8, 1526

Muharrem 25th, November 1, happened on a Thursday There 18 probably an error in the text, of Doshembeli for Panjshembeli P de C has Monday the 15th of Muharram.]

mould was cool, they opened it Ustad Ali Kuli, with great delight, sent a person to let me know that the chamber of the gun for the shot was without a flaw, and that it was easy to form the powder chamber. Having raised a the bullet-chamber of the gun, he set a party to work to put it to rights, while he betook himself to completing the powder chamber 1

Mahdi Khwajeh, who had received the charge of Fatch Fatch Khan Sirwim from Humaiun, brought him to court had parted from Humaiūn at Dilmau - I gave Fatch Khan i fivourible reception, and bestowed on him the pergannas of his father, Azīm Humāiūn, with some places in addition, to the value of a kror and sixty laks 2 In Hindustan it is customary to bestow on the Amīrs who are in the highest fivour certain titles One of these is Azīm Humāiūn, mother Khan Khānān 3 another is Khan Jehan, futher's title was Azīm Humāiūn. As I saw no propriety in any one's bearing this title except Humaiun himself. I abolished it, and bestowed the name of Khan Jehan on Fatch Khan Sarwāni

On Wednesday, the 20th of Safer 1 I creeted awnings on the banks of the tank, on the side above the tamarind trees. and had a feast, when I invited batch Khan Sarwani to i drinking party, made him drink wine, invested him with a turban, and a complete dress of honour from head to foot, 65 and, after distinguishing him by these marks of favour and grace, gave him leave to return to his own country arranged that his son Mahmud Khan should always remain a extracted

it court

b Add that I had worn myself,

Khan Sar Khan Je

¹ It would appear, from this account, that cannon were sometimes made of parts bound or clamped together They were frequently formed of iron bars strongly compacted into a circular shape description, however, is not very distinct

² About £10,000 sterling

³ These titles signify the Mighty August, the Lord of the World, and the Lord of Lords

⁴ November 26 was a Monday [P de C has 8th of Safar]

The stropā was a complete dress of honour, consisting of a robe, and some other articles

Humārŭn's army recalled Oct 31 On Wednesday, the 24th of Muharrem, Muhammed Ali Haider Rikābdār was dispatched with all speed to Humāiūn to desire him, as the army of the rebels of the Pūrab (east) had been put to flight and dispersed, that, immediately on Muhammed Ali's arrival, he should proceed to Jaunpūr, leave in the place a some Amīrs adequate to the trust, and then immediately set out with his army in order to rejoin me, that the Pagan Rāna Sanka had taken advantage of the absence of the army, to approach very close upon me, and was now the first object to be attended to

Alım Khan's expedition against Biāna After the army had marched to the eastward, I had ordered Terdi Beg, Küch Beg, with his younger brother, Sherafgan, and Muhammed Khalīl Akhtehbegi, with his brothers and akhtanan,¹ Rustam Turkomān with his brothers, as well as other chiefs of Hindustān, and Rao Wadi Sarwāni, to proceed to plunder and lay waste the country about Biāna if they could prevail on the garrison in the fort by any assurances of safety and indemnity to join me, they were to do it, if this failed, they were to waste and plunder the country, and to reduce the enemy to as great distress as possible

Alm Khan, who was in the fort of Tehenger,² was an elder brother of Nizām Khan of Biāna Repeated messengers had come from him, bringing professions of submission and allegiance. This Alm Khan undertook, if I would give him charge of a body of troops, to bring all the archers of Biāna to listen to terms of capitulation, and to deliver Biāna d into my hands. I gave instructions to the troops who had been sent on the plundering expedition along with Terdi Beg, that as Alim Khan, who was a Zemindār of consequence, had undertaken this duty and service, they should be guided by his advice and opinion in whatever

For he should place read he should leave in Jaunpur b the Pagan Rana Sanka had approached quite close to us, c For as well as Sarwani read Ravi Sarvani, the Hindu,

d Add and its dependent villages 6 of the country,

D'Herbelot explains akhtaji to mean a vassal who holds lands of a superior lord. [P de C translates this 'equerries']
 [Tahangarh is a celebrated fort in the Karauli State of Rājpū

² [Tahangarh is a celebrated fort in the Karauli State of Rājpū tāna, which was built by Tahan Pāla, a Jadūn Rājpūt, in 1058 It was captured by Muhammed Ghorī in 1196]

regarded the reduction of Biana Though many of the men of Hindustan are brave swordsmen, yet they are extremely ignorant and inexperienced in the art of war, and in the disposition and conduct of their force as commanders This Alim, who was accompanied by the whole of our detachment, paid no attention to a single word that fell from anybody, and with a total indifference as to what was expedient and what was not, carried it close up to Biana The detachment consisted of two hundred and fifty, or nearly three hundred Türks, and somewhat above two thousand Hindustānis, and men from different quarters a Nizām Khan, with his Afghans, and the troops of Biana, amounted to above four thousand horse, with upwards of ten thousand infantry Observing the advance of our troops, Heissurand perceiving the error which Alim had committed, b they made a sudden sally with their whole force, and being much superior in numbers, charged the detachment at full speed, and put them to flight in a moment Alim Khan Teliengeri, who was Nizam Khan's elder brother, was taken prisoner, with five or six others. In spite of this, I still consented to overlook Nizām Khan's past offences, and again sent him letters, offering him terms and assurances of indemnity As soon as he had certain information of the near approach of Rana Sanka the Pagan, seeing no remedy, he sent for Syed Rafaa, and, by his mediation, delivered up the fort Biana sur to my troops, after which he accompanied the Syed to the presence, and was graciously received and taken into my service d I bestowed on him a perganna of twenty laks 1 in the Doab Dost Ishek-Agha had been sent to take the temporary command of Biana till a governor was appointed A few days after, I appointed Mahdi Khwajeh to the charge with an allowance and appointment of seventy laks,3 and sent him to his government prised and

runders

a different adjacent districts b and discovering its strength, c Add a certain amount of baggage was also left in the enemy's d and was granted the honour of waiting on me hands

¹ Nearly £5,000

² This is probably the Mahdi Khwajeh who married a daughter for rather sister] of Babur's, and who afterwards aspired to the throne

³ About £17,500

Gwäliär taken by stratagem

Tätär Khan Särangkhäm, who held Gwähär, had repeatedly sent messengers with professions of submission and attach-After the Pagan had taken Kandar, and when he was approaching Biana, one of the Rajas of Gwaliar, Dermenket, and one Khan Jehān, a pagan, came into the vicinity of Gwāliār, and began to attempt, by raising an insurrection and gaining a party, to produce a defection and seize the fortress Tatar Khan finding himself in considerable difficulty, was willing to deliver up the fort to me My Begs and confidential servants, as well as the greater part of my best men, had all been sent off with the armics, or in various scattered detachments I, however, dispatched Rahimdad with a party of Behreh men and Lahoris, and made Imshiji Tunketär with his brothers accompany them, having previously assigned pergannas in Gwahar to the whole party I likewise sent along with them Mulla Apak and Sheikh Güren, who were directed to return after establishing Rahīmdād in Gwāliār When they got near Gwāhār, Tātār Khan had changed his mind, and would not suffer them to enter the fort At this period Sheikh Muhammed Ghaus, well known as a Derwish, and celebrated for his picty, and whose followers and disciples are very numerous, sent a man from the fort to Rahimdad, to advise him to procure admission any way that he could, that Tatai Khan's intentions were changed, and that now he was resolved to hold out a Rahimdad, on receiving this information, sent in notice that he was afraid to remain without, from dread of the pagans and proposed that he should be allowed to enter the fort with a few of his men, while the rest stayed After much entreaty, Tātār Khan aswithout the walls sented to this arrangement Rahimdād had no sooner secured his own admission, and that of a few of his men, than he requested that some of his people might be permitted to attendat the gate, b which was granted, and accordingly some of his people were stationed at the Hathipol, or Elephant-That very night he introduced the whole of his men by that gate In the morning Tatar Khan, seeing that a he entertained traitorous designs

b he expressed a wish that the rest of his party might be posted at a gate, which he named,

there was no help for it, surrendered the fort very unwillingly, and came and waited upon me at Agra I assigned for his support the perganna of Biāwān, with twenty laks 1

Muhammed Zeitun likewise, seeing that nothing could Dhulpur be done, surrendered Dhūlpūr, and came and waited on me I bestowed on him also a perganna of several laks, and made Dhulpur an imperial domain, bestowing the shihdan (or military collectorship) of it on Abul Fatch Turkomān, whom I sent to Dhulpur

also surrenders

In the neighbourhood of Hissar-Firozch, Hamid Khan The Pain Sārangkhām, and a party of the Pam Afghans, having collected a number of Afghans and others from the countries Hissār around, to the number of three or four thousand men, were in a state of open and active revolt

Afghans infest Firozeh

On Wednesday the 15th b of Safer, I ordered Chin Taimur Nov 21 to take with him Sultan Alimedi Perwanchi, Abul Fateh Turkomān, Malıkdād Karrānı, and Mujāhid Khan Multāni. and to proceed with a light-armed force against these They accordingly set out, and advancing c by a circutous road, fell upon the Afghans, whom they completely routed, and killed a number of men, whose heads Defeated they cut off, and sent to me

In the end of the month of Safer, Khwajehgi Asad, who Embassy had been sent into Irak, on a mission to the Prince Tahmasp,2 from Persia returned accompanied by a Turkoman, named Sulciman, bringing several curiosities of the country, as presents Among these were two Circassian 3 female slaves

On Friday the 16th d of the first Rabia, a strange occurrence happened As the particulars are circumstantially detailed in a letter which I wrote to Kabul, the letter itself Babur is inserted here, without adding or taking away follows

'A very important incident happened on Friday the Babur's 16th day of the first Rabia, in the year 933 The circum-

a willy nilly, d 17th

^b 25th

c charging suddenly

About £3,000. [Bianwan is in the Agra district]
Shah Tahmasp, when a boy of ten, had succeeded his father Shah Ismail as King of Persia in 1524]

Cherkes or Circattians

stances are these The mother of Ibrahim, an ill-fated lady. had heard that I had eaten some things from the hands of natives of Hindustan It happened in this way Three or four months ago, never having seen any of the dishes of Hindustan, I desired Ibrahim's cooks to be called, and out of fifty or sixty cooks, four were chosen and retained The lady, having heard the circumstance, sent a person to Etawa to call Ahmed, the taster, whom the Hindustants call behawel, and delivered into the hands of a female slave a tola 1 of poison, wrapped up in a folded paper, desiring it to be given to the taster Ahmed b Ahmed gave it to a Hindustāni cook o who was in my kitchen, seducing him with the promise of four pergannas, and desiring him,d by some means or other, to throw it into my She sent another female slave after the one whom she had desired to carry the poison to Ahmed, in order to observe if the first slave delivered the poison or not It was fortunate that the poison was not thrown into the pot, it was thrown into the tray He did not throw it into the pot, because I had strictly enjoined the tasters to watch the Hindustanis, and they had tasted the food in the pot while it was cooking When they were dishing the meat, my graceless tasters 2 were mattentive, and he threw it upon a plate of thin slices of bread, he did not throw above one-half of the poison that was in the paper upon the bread, and put a Ahmed chāshnīgīr (taster), which is the equivalent in India for our term bakāwal, b Add (A tola, as has been stated above, is a little more than two miskāls)

c cooks
d if he found an opportunity,

¹ The tola is about the weight of a silver rupee. [About three rams]

The account of the management of the imperial kitchen as contained in the Ayeen e Akberī is curious 'Ordinary people are not permitted to enter the kitchen.'—'During the time of dressing and taking up the victuals, an awning is spread over the top of the kitchen, and care taken that nothing falls therefrom. The cooks tuck up the sleeves and the skirts of their garments, and hold their hands before their mouths and nostrils. Before the victuals are taken up, a cook and one of the inferior bekāwels taste them, after which they are tasted by the Mīr Bekāwel, and then put into dishes'

^{&#}x27;The Mir Bekäwel puts his seal upon every dish,' &c.—Aycen e Alberi, vol. 1, p 62, where the whole arrangement may be seen

some meat fried in butter upon the slices of bread. If he had thrown it above the fried meat, or into the cooking pot, it would have been still worse, but in his confusion, he spilt the better half of it on the fire-place.

'On Friday, when afternoon prayers were past, they dished the dinner I was very fond of hare," and ate some, as well as a good deal of fried carrot of I was not, however, sensible of any disagreeable taste. I likewise ate a morsel or two of smoke dried meat, when I felt nausea. The day before, while eating some smoke-dried flesh, I had felt an unpleasant taste in a particular part of it. I ascribed my nausea to that incident. The nausea again returned, and I was seized with so violent a retching, two or three times while the tray was before me, that I had nearly vomited. At last, perceiving that I could not check it, I went to the water-closet. While on the way to it my heart rose, and I had again nearly vomited. When I had got in front of the water-closet.

'I had never before comitted after my food, and not even after danking wine. Some suspicions crossed my mind I ordered the cooks to be taken into custody, and desired the meat to be given to a dog, which I directed to be shut up Next morning about the first watch, the dog became sick, his belly swelled, and he accorded distressed. Although they threw stones at him, and shoved him, they could not make him use. He remained in this condition till noon, after which he rose and recovered. Two coung men had also eaten of this food. Next morning they too comitted much, one of them was extremely ill but both in the end escaped.

(Persuan)—A calamity fell upon me, but I escaped in safety Almighty God bestowed a new life upon me,—

I came from the other world,-

I was again born from my mother's womb

(Türki)—I was broken s and dead, but am again raised to life how, in the salvation of my life, I recognize the hand of God.h

'I ordered Sultan Muhammed Bakhshi to guard and n I apr.

a Omit this clause, b I are heartly of hare fricassee, Add I swallowed only a mouthful or two of the poisoned Hindu stan dish

t to before me,

A 11 933

examine the cooks, and at last all the particulars came to light, as they have been detailed

'On Monday, being a court day, I directed all the grandees and chief men, the Begs and Wazīrs, to attend the Diwan I brought in the two men and the two women, who, being questioned, detailed the whole circumstances of the affair in all its particulars. The taster was ordered to be cut to nieces I commanded the cook to be flayed alive One of the women was ordered to be trampled to death by an elephant, the other I commanded to be shot with a matchlock The lady I directed to be thrown into custody too, pursued by her guilt, will one day meet with due retribution On Saturday I ate a bowl of milk I also drank some of the makhtum flower, brayed and mixed in spirits On Monday I drank the makhtam flower,1 and terial e faral,2 mixed in milk. The milk seoured my inside extremely On Saturday, as on the first day, a quantity of extremely black substance, like parched bile, was voided Thanks be to God, there are now no remains of illness! I did not fully comprehend before that life was so sweet a thing The poet says,

(Türlı)-Whoover comes to the gates of death, knows the value

'Whenever these awful occurrences pass before my memory, I feel myself involuntarily turn faint The merey of God has bestowed a new life on me, and how can my tongue express my gratitude? Having resolved with myself to overcome my repugnance, b I have written fully and circumstantially everything that happened Although the occurrences were awful, and not to be expressed by the tongue or lips, yet by the favour of Almighty God, other days awaited c me, and have passed in happiness and [tiriāgi farūk = the finest kind of antidote]

a On Wednesday the first of Safar,

b To silence the rumours that may have rendered you anxious,

c await

^{1 [}P de C translates this an infusion of terre sigillée, which is a sort of ochreous earth obtained in the Archipelago Erskine has confused gil (= earth) with gul (= flower)]

These Teriaks are antidotes used to avert the effects of poison health a That no alarm or uneasiness might find its way among you, I have written this on b the 20th of the first A D 1526 Rabīa, while in the Chārbāgh'

Dec 25 Ibrahim's

confined

When I had recovered from this danger, I wrote and sent this letter to Kābul As the ill-fated princess had been guilty of so enormous a crime, I gave her up to Yunis Ali, and Khwijeh Asid, to be put under contribution After seizing her ready money and effects, her male and female slaves, she was given to Abdal-Rahim's charge, to be kept in custody Her grandson, the son of Ibrahim, had previously Ibrahim's been guarded with the greatest respect and delicacy When Kahul an attempt of so hemous a nature was discovered to have been made by the family. I did not think it prudent to have a son of Ibrahim's 1 in this country d On Thursday, the 29th of the first Rabia, I sent him to Kāmrān 2 along with A D 1527 Mulla Sarsan, who had come from that prince on some business son sent to

Jan 3

leaves Sul tan Juneid

Humāiūn, who had proceeded against the rebels of the Humāiūn East, having taken Jaunpür, marched expeditiously to Ghāzipūr, for the purpose of attacking Nasīr Khan ^e The in Jaunpūr. Afghans in that quarter, on getting notice of his approach, passed the river Sarū 3 The light detachment of the army, that had advanced, marched back again, after plundering the country Humaiun then arranged everything as I had directed He left Sultan Juneid and a body of his best troops to support Shah Mir Hussain in Jaunpur He also ordered Kazı Jīa to remain behind, and left Sheikh Bayezīd in Oudh Having left these posts well fortified, and with every means

d this prince about my person

e Add He (Nasīr Khan) warned of the danger that menaced him. crossed the Ganges, whereupon Humāyūn marched against Khairā bād from Ghāzipūr a All has happened for the best

b Add Tuesday

c Add shaghawal = introducer of ambassadors, or chamberlain

¹ It is worthy of notice, that Babur refrains from mentioning his name

^{* [}Kāmrān, though only a child, had been left in nominal charge of Kābul and Kandahār 1

³ The Sarū or Sirjoo is a branch of the Goger or Gogra, which joins it a little above Oudh Babur, however, applies that name to the joint stream, till it falls into the Ganges.

of defence, he crossed the Ganges at Karreh-Mänikpür, and marched by way of Külpi to join me Älim Khan, son of Jalāl Khan Jighet, who was in Kälpi, had sent letters of submission, but had not himself come to court Humāiūn, on arriving opposite to Külpi, sent a person who removed all distrust from his mind, and he accompanied Humāiūn and was introduced to me On Sunday, the 3rd of the last Rabīa, Humāiūn waited on me in the garden of the Hasht-Behisht That very same day Khwājeh Dost Khāwend arrived from Kābul and rejoins Rābur at Agra Jan G

Approach of Rāna Sanka to wards Biān_a

Detach ment sent to the succour of Buna.

Heisjoined by Hassan Khan of Alwar

At this time messengers began to come close upon each other from Mahdi Kliwajeh, to announce that the Rana Sanka was undoubtedly on his march, and had been joined by Hassan Khan Mewati, that it was become indispensably necessary to attend to their proceedings, in preference to every other object That it would be beneficial to my affairs if a detachment could be sent on, before the Grand Army, to the assistance of Biana In order, therefore, to harass the Rana's army, b I pushed on before me towards Biana, a light force, under the command of Muhammed Sultan Mirza, Yunis Ali, Shah Mansur Birlas, Kitteh Beg, Kāsımı, and Bujkeh Nāhir Khan, a son of Hassan Khan Mewāti, had fallen into my hands in the battle with Ibrahīm I had kept him as a hostage, and his father, Hassan Khan, had ostentatiously maintained a correspondence, and constantly asked back his son Many imagined, that if I gratified Hassan Khan by sending his son to him, he would be extremely sensible of the obligation, and exert himself actively in my service o I therefore invested his son, Nähir Khan, with a dress of honour, and on his entering into an

- a Having conclusively arranged all these matters,
- b Omit this clause.
- o would be entirely won over to my side

² Kālpi stands on the right bank of the Jamna, between Agra and Allahābād, and has always been a place of consequence

² [The eight heavens.]

¹ Karreh Mānikpūr, so called to distinguish it from another Karra, is about twenty miles above Allahābād on the Ganges, Karra being on the right bank, and Mānikpūr higher up on the left [P de C translates 'close to Karra and Mānikpūr which are two separate towns, separated by the Ganges and commonly bracketed together']

Kilin Kara

Balkh, Si-

Sultan takes engagement, a sent him bick to his father b, but that wretch as soon as he had ascertained that his son was released, and before the young man had reached him, totally forgetful of the obligation conferred on him, c marched out of Alwar, and went to join Rāna Sanka a I was certainly guilty of a piece of imprudence in dismissing his son at such a crisis

A great deal of rain fell about this time, and we had several parties at which Humaiûn too was present, although he did not like wine vet during these few days he drank it

One of the most remarkable incidents of this period occurred at Balkh When Humaiun was on his way from the fort of Zafer 2 to Hindustin Mulla Baba Peshagheri and his younger brother Baba Sheikh deserted from him by the road and went and joined Kitin Kara Sultan troops in Balkh being hard pressed, that place fell into Kitin Kara Sultan's hands. The traitor now taking on himself and his brother the management of in expedition against my dominions, entered the territory of Aibek, Khuram and Sirabigh 3 Shah Sikander being confounded by the fall of Balkh surrendered the fort of Ghuri to the Uzbeks, and Mulla Bāba and Bāba Sheikh, with some Uzbeks, took possession of it. As Mir Hameh's fort was close at hand, he saw nothing left for it but to declare for the Uzbeks days afterwards the Mir and his party were ordered to Balkh as a place of safety while Biba Sheikh, with a body of Uzbeks proceeded to occupy his eastle 8 Mir Hameh introduced Baba Sheikh himself into the castle, and

n Omit this clause

b Add to whom he was to take fair promises on my behalf,

c Add who had at first vainly tried to make me release his son,

d Add at Tuda

o interference in the affairs of those countries,

f having no longer a footing anywhere after the fall of Balkh,

g A few days later Baba Sheikh with a party of Uzbegs arrived at the fort with the intention of removing Mir Hameh and his troops from it and taking them towards Balkh

¹ [Alwar, the ancient capital of Mewāt, is now the chief town of the Alwar State in Rājpūtāna, situated ninety eight miles southwest of Delhi]

² The fort of Zafer was in Badakhshān

³ Arbek, Khuram, and Särabägh all stand on the, between Khulm and Kahmerd

It was discharged about afternoon prayers, and carried one thousand six hundred paces I bestowed on Ustad a dagger, a complete dress, and a Tipchak horse, as an honorary reward

On Monday, the 9th of the first Jumāda, I began my march to the holy war against the heathen Having passed the suburbs, I encamped on the plain, where I halted three or four days, to collect the army and communicate the necessary instructions As I did not place great reliance on the men of Hindustan, I employed their Amirs in making desultory excursions in different directions Alim Khan was directed to proceed with a light force to Gwāhār, to carry assistance to Rahīmdād, while I appointed Makan, Kāsim Sambali, Hamid with his brothers, and Muhammed Zeitun, to proceed with a light-armed party towards Sambal

the detach

Bābur

marches against Rā

Teb 11.

na Sanka,

At this station we received information that Rana Sanka Defeat of had pushed on with all his army nearly as far as Biana party that had been sent out in advance were not able to reach the fort, nor even to communicate with it garrison of Biana had advanced too far from the fort, and with too little caution, and the enemy having unexpectedly fallen upon them in great force, completely routed them Sanger Khan Janiüheh fell on this occasion affair began, Kitteh Beg came galloping up without his armour, and joined in the action He had dismounted a pagan, and was in the act of laying hold of him, when the Hindu, snatching a sword from a servant of Kitteh Beg, struck the Beg on the shoulder, and wounded him so severely that he was not able to come into the field during the rest of the war against Rana Sanka He, however, recovered long after, but never was completely well Kāsımı, Shah Mansūr Birlas, and every man that came from Biana, I know not whether from fear, or for the purpose of striking a panic into the people, bestowed unbounded praise on the courage and hardshood of the pagan army

Marching hence, b I sent forward Kāsim, the master of horse, with the pioneers, to open a number of wells in the perganna of Madhakar, which was the place where the army was to encamp

a Add with its belt.

b Before leaving my first camp.

Feb 16 On Saturday, the 14th of the first Jumāda, I marched from the vicinity of Agra, and encamped in the ground where the wells had been dug

Feb 17

Bābur marches for Sīkri

Next morning I marched from that ground It occurred to me that, situated as I was, of all the places in this neighbourhood, Sikri, being that in which water was most abundant, was, upon the whole, the most desirable station for a camp, but that it was possible that the pagans might anticipate us, take possession of the water and encump there I therefore drew up my army in order of battle, with right and left wing and main body, and advanced forward in battle array I sent on Derwish Muhammed Sarban with Kismnai,2 who had gone to Biana and returned back, and who had seen and knew every part of the country, ordering him to proceed to the banks of the tank of Sikri and to look out for a good ground for encamping On reaching my station, I sent a messenger to Mahdi Khwaieh, to direct him to come and join me without delay, with the force that was in Biana At the same time I sent a servant of Humaiun's, one Beg Mirak Moghul, with a body of troops, to get notice of the motions of the pagans They accordingly set out by night, and next morning returned with information, that the enemy were encamped a kos on this side of Basawer 3 The same day Mahdi Khwajeh, with Muhammed

a had already anticipated us and taken

³ Basāwer is a small town ten or twelve miles north west from Biāna [Bhasāwar is a town in the Wer Tahsil of the Bharatpūr State in Rājpūtāna, situated thirty miles WSW of Bharatpūr city]

¹ Sīkrī was a favourīte place of Bābur's, he built a palace and laid out a garden there. When his grandson Akber made his pil grimage on foot, from Agra to Ajmīr, to the tomb of Khwājeh Mundi, and back, to procure the saint's intercession for his having male children, he visited a Dervish named Selīm at Sīkrī, and learned from him that God had heard his prayers, and that he would have three sons—'This prophecy', says Thevenot, 'was so pleasing to Akber, especially when it began to be accomplished, that he called lins eldest son Selīm after the Dervish, and gave the town, which formerly had been called Sīkrī, the name of Fatehpūr, which signifies place of joy and pleasure, and built there a very beautiful palace, with the intention of making it his capital '—Thevenot's Travels, vol v, p 148 [The city was called Fathpūr ('Victory town') after the conquest of Gujerāt in 1573]

Sult in Mirza, and the light troops that had been sent to Biana, returned and joined us

I had directed that the different Begs should have charge of the advance and a scouts in turn. When it was Abdalizīz's day without taking my precautions he advanced as far as kānwā, which is five kos from Sakri. The pagans were on their march forward when they got notice of his imprudent and disorderly advance, which they no sooner learned, than a body of four or five thous ind of them, it once pushed on and fell upon him. Abdal azīz and Mulla Apāk had with them about a thous ind or fifteen hundred men. Without taking into consideration the numbers or position of the enemy, they immediately engaged. On the very first charge, a number of their men were taken prisoners and carried off the field be

Discomfi ture of Ab dal artz a detach ment

The moment this intelligence arrived 4 disputched Muliibb Ali Khalifch, with his followers, to reinforce them. Mulla Hussan and some others were sent close after to their support, being directed to push on each according to the speed of his horse. I then detached Muhammed Ali Jeng-Jeng to cover their retreat? Before the arrival of the first reinforcement consisting of Mulubb Ali Khalifeli and his party, they had reduced Abdal aziz and his detachment to great straits, a had taken his horse tail standard, and taken and put to death Mulla Namet, Mulla Daud, and Mulla Apik's younger brother, besides a number of others No sooner did the first reinforcement come up, than Tahir Librathe maternal uncle of Mulnbb Ala, made a push forward, but was unable to effect a junction with his friends, and got into the midst of the enemy (Muliibb Ali himself was thrown down in the action, but B iltū making a charge from behind a Omit advance and

b Weakened by the large number of prisoners that had been taken by the enemy, it was not long before they were shaken

c and then in succession, Mulla Husain, some others whom I need not name, and finally, Muhammed Ali leng leng d had forced to retreat.

o to render assistance to the routed troops, and fell himself into the lands of the enemy

Abrūk sabrūk

Yūsef, with some who belonged to the royal camp, and a number of other men who had gathered by ones and twos from different quarters, amounting in all to five hundred persons, arrived from Kābul Muhammed Sherif the Muhammed istrologer, a rascally fellow, came along with them Baba Dost Süchi,1 who had been sent to Käbul for wine, came back with some choice wine of Ghazni, laden on three strings of camels,2 and arrived in their company. While the army was yet in the state of alarm and panic that has been mentioned, in consequence of past events and of ill-timed b and idle observations that had been spread abroad, that evil-minded wretch Muhammed Sherif, instead of giving me any assistance, loudly proclaimed to every person whom he met in the camp, that at this time Mars was in the west, and that whoever should engage coming from the opposite quarter would be defeated The courage of such as consulted this villainous soothsayer was consequently still further depressed Without listening to his foolish predictions, I proceeded in taking the steps which the emergency seemed to demand, and used every exertion to put my troops in a fit state to engage the enemy

Sherif the astrologer.

On Sunday the 21st3 I sent Sheikh Jamali to collect as Sheikh Jamany bowmen of the Doab and Delhi as he could, to proceed with them to plunder the country of Mewat, and to leave Mewat, nothing undone to annoy and distress these districts Mulla Türk Alı, who had come from Kübul, was instructed to accompany Sheikh Jamali, and to see that everything possible was done to plunder and rum Mewät Similar orders were given to Maghfür Dīwān, who was instructed to proceed to ravage and desolate some of the bordering and remoter districts, runing the country, and carrying off the inhabitants into captivity They did not, however, appear to have suffered much from these proceedings

mālı sent to lay waste

a Kawām Ūrdū Shāh [a place name], b Add misunderstandings

¹ Sūchi probably means Ābdār (waterman), butler

² The latur or string of camels, contained five, according to Abul fazl, Ayeen e Akberī, vol. 1, p 145, who assigns the same number to that of the mule, p 157

³ This probably should be Sunday, the 22nd of the first Jumāda (February 24) [This is the date as given by P de C.]

Bābur's penitence leb 25

On Monday, the 23rd of the first Jumada, I had mounted to survey my posts, and, in the course of my ride, was seriously struck with the reflection that I had always resolved, one time or another, to make an effectual repentance, and that some traces of a hankering after the renunciation of forbidden works had ever remained in my heart a I said to myself, O, my soul!

(Persian verse)-How long wilt thou continue to take pleasure in sin * Ropentanco is not unpalatable-Tasto it

(Turke rerse)—How great has been thy defilement from sin!— How much pleasure thou didst take in despair "!-How long hast thou been the slave of thy passions!--

> How much of thy life hast thou thrown away !-Since thou hast set out on a Holy War,

> Thou hast seen death before thine eyes for thy salvation

> He who resolves to sacrifice his life to save himself, Shall attain that exalted state which thou knowest.c Keep thyself d far away from all forbidden enjoy ments.

> Cleanse thyself from all thy e sins Having withdrawn myself from such temptation,f I vowed never more to drink wine.

 He dcstroys the drinking vessels, and renounces the use of wine

Having sent for the gold and silver goblets and cups, with all the other utensils used for drinking parties, I directed them to be broken, and renounced the use of wine, purifying my mind g The fragments of the goblets, and other utensils of gold and silver, I directed to be divided among Derwishes and the poor The first person who followed me in my repentance was Asas, who also accompanied me in my resolution of ceasing to cut the beard, and of allowing it to grow 1 That night and the following, numbers of Amīrs and courtiers, soldiers and persons not in the service, to the a and that these continual breaches of the religious law had clouded the mirror of my soul like dust

b prevarication!

c You know how he comports himself e He cleanses himself from all his

d He keeps himself f Having abandoned my former mode of life, g and so recovered my peace of mind. [This sentence forms part of the poem \

¹ This vow was sometimes made by persons who set out on a war against the Infidels They did not trim the beard till they returned victorious. Some vows of a similar nature may be found in Scripture.

his friends a who are pure, and blessed be the mirror-like minds of men of understanding, which are the place in which the affairs of the world are seen in their true light, and which are the treasury of the pearls that adorn the forms of truth and right, and will be the receivers of the figures of the brilliant jewels of this truth b-that the human constitution, from the mode of its creation, is prone to desire the gratification of earthly passions, though the renunciation of such desires is inseparably connected with the favour of God and celestial aid Human passions are not far removed from evil desires, and I feel that my mind is not pure, since it certainly draws me towards coil. And this abstinence from wickedness is a boon not to be gained, but by the mercy of the most merciful King 1-Yet such is the graciousness of God, that he gives it to every one that asks it, And God is the author of mighty kindness? The purpose of writing these lines, and of enouncing these truths is, that from the frailty of human nature, in compliance with the usage of kings, the seductions of royalty, and the custom of men of rank, both kings and soldiers, during the times of early youth, many forbidden acts and unlawful deeds have been obstinately committed, and after a few days, repentance and sorrow having ensued, these forbidden act, have in succession been renounced, and the door of relapse shut on such criminal transgressions by unfergned repentance But the renunciation of wine, which is the most indispensable of all renunciations, and the most important of all these resolutions of amendment, remained hid behind a veil, since every act has its due season, and did a companions

b the minds of sensible men of the Community of the Faithful, among whom the revelation of the mysteries of creation, and the ornaments of the pearls of truth and rectitude, shine with an unique lustre, are like mirrors in which are brilliantly reflected this truth—

[·] behind the veil of these words 'for everything its season,'

^{1 [}This whole passage is a quotation from the Quran (xii. 53) and runs as follows in Palmer's version 'Yet I do not clear myself, for the soul is very urgent to evil, save what my Lord has had merey on, verily my Lord is forgiving and merciful.']

² [Palmer's translation of this verse of the Quran (lvn. 21) runs thus 'And God's grace, He gives it to whom he pleases, for God is Lord of mighty grace'!]

dashed upon the ground of contempt and rum, and broken in pieces, the goblets, and cups, and all the utensils and vessels of silver and of gold, which, resembling in their number and splendour the stars of the lofty sky, were the ornaments of the Assembly of Wickedness," and were like unto those idols which, God willing, we shall quickly be aided in breaking to pieces b, and every fragment was thrown to a needy or helpless one. And by the blessing of this repentance which draws near unto remission of sins, many of those near the presence, as the custom is a that courtiers follow the usage and fashion d of the prince, in that same meeting were exalted by the glory of repentance, and entirely renounced the use of strong drinks, and still, crowds of those who are subjected to us, hourly find their blessing and exaltation in this self-denial And hopes are entertained, according to the saying, He who shows the roud to goodness is as the doer of good, that the blessing of these acts will terminate in the good fortune and greatness of the Nawab whose undertakings are successful, the emperor f And that from the happy influence of these good deeds victory and success may day by day increase g, and after the conclusion of this enterprise, and the fulfilment of this wish, that the firman which the world obeys may receive such perfect execution, that, in the regions protected by our sway, God Leeping watch to protect them from all cuil and all enmity, h there may not be a creature who shall indulge in the use of into leating liquor, or employ himself in procuring. or in making spirits, or in selling them, or who shall purchase them, or keep them, or carry them out or bring them in Abstain from intoxication perhaps you may be justified 1, and there is a blessing on this self-conquest 1 our brilliant entertainments, they broke them in a thousand pieces, as, by God's grace, the idols soon will be.

d For usage and fashion read religion c acting on the maxim o has the same merit as he who does it.

f terminate in my ever increasing prosperity

h danger, 1 Omit this clause. g attend my arms,

This is a quotation from the Quran (ii. 185) which runs 'and haply, ye may prosper yet' The rest of the passage in italics is not taken from the Quran.]

Alarm in Habur's army.

At this time, as I have already observed, in consequence of preceding events, a general consternation and alarm prevailed among great and small. There was not a single person who uttered a manly word, nor an individual who delivered a courageous opinion. The Wazīrs, whose duty it was to give good counsel, and the Amirs, who enjoyed the wealth of kingdoms, neither spoke bravely, nor was their counsel or deportment such as became men of firmness a During the whole course of this expedition Khalifeh conducted himself admirably, and was unremitting and indefatigable in his endeavours to put everything in the best order. At length, observing the universal discouragement of my troops, and their total want of spirit, I formed my plan I called an assembly of all the Amīrs and officers, and addressed them, His speech - Noblemen and soldiers! Every man that comes into the world is subject to dissolution. When we are passed away and gone, God only survives, unchangeable Whoever comes to the feast of life must, before it is over, drink from the cup of death. He who arrives at the inn of mortality must one day inevitably take his departure from that house of sorrow—the world How much better is it to die with honour than to live with infamy!

to his officers.

> With fame, even if I die, I am contented, Let fame be mine, since my body is Death's.1

The Most High God has been propitious to us, and has now placed us in such a crisis, that if we fall in the field we die the death of martyrs, if we survive, we rise victorious, the avengers of the cause of God o Let us, then, with one accord, swear on God's holy word, that none of us will even think of turning his face from this warfare, nor desert

h The Most High God has predestined us for this good fortune and put within our reach this glorious destiny, o if we conquer, we will secure the triumph of the cause of God

a The ministers, whose duty it was to represent matters in their true light, and the nobles, on whom lay the obligation of strengthening the administration, preserved a cowardly silence, not being able to propose any measure, and remaining paralysed by despendence and mability to make any suggestions

¹ These beautiful lines are from the Shahnameh of Ferdausi

from the battle and slaughter that ensues till his soul is separated from his body

Master and servant, small and great, all with emulation, seizing the blessed Korin in their hands, swore in the form that I had given My plan succeeded to admiration, and its effects were instantly visible, far and near, on friend and foe

Ha power ful effects

Babur's danger

many dis

The danger and confusion on all sides were particularly alarming at this very moment. Hussain Khan Lohani had advanced and taken Rabert 1 Kuth Khan's people had taken Chandwar 2 A man a of the name of Rustam Khan having assembled a body of Doab bowmen, had come and taken Koel,3 and made Kichek Alı prisoner Zahid had been compelled to exacuate Sambal and had He loses rejoined me Sultan Muhammed Duldai had retired from Kanauj, and joined my army The pagans of the surrounding country came and blockaded Gwaliar Alim Khan, who had been sent to the succour of Gwähar, instead of proceeding to that place, had marched off to his own country Every day some unpleasant news reached us from one place or another Many Hindustanis began to desert from the army Haibet Khan Gurg-andaz b 4 fled to Sambal Hassan Khan Bariwal fled and joined the pagans Without minding the fugitives, we continued to regard only our own force On Tuesday, the 9th of the latter Jumada, on the day of the He advan-Nouroz, I advanced my guns, and tripods that moved on wheels, with all the apparatus and machines which I had prepared, and marched forward with my army, regularly drawn up and divided into right and left wing and centre in battle order I sent forward in front the guns and tripods placed on wheel-carrages Behind them was stationed Ustad Alı Kulı, with a body of his matchlock-men, to prevent the communication between the artillery and infantry, who were behind, from being cut off and to enable them to

March 12 ces against the enems

b Kara andāz

Carried States

a wretch

⁻ Rāberi, a fort in the Doab, below Chandwar

² Chāndwār lies on the Jumna below Agra.

³ Koel 18 in the Doab, between Agra and Anopshir [Duab is the district lying between the Ganges and Jamna 1

⁴ If Gurg andaz, the epithet is the wolf hunter if Kara andāz the rhinoceros hunter

Спеатря

advance and form into line. After the ranks were formed, and every man stationed in his place, I galloped along the line, animating the Begs and troops of the centre, right and left, giving each division special instructions how they were to net, and to every man orders how to conduct himself. and in what manner he was to engage a, and, having made these arrangements, I ordered the army to move on in order of buttle for about a kos, when we halted to encamp The pagans on getting notice of our motions, were on the alert, and several parties drew out to face us, and advanced close up to our guns and ditch b. After our army had encamped, and when we had strengthened and fortified our position in front, as I did not intend fighting that day, I pushed on a few of our troops to skirmish with a party of the enemy, by way of taking an omen. They took a number of pagans and cut off their heads, which they brought away Malik Kāsim also cut off and brought in some lieads He behaved extremely well This incident raised the spirits of our army excessively, and had a wonderful effect in giving them confidence in themselves

March 13

Next morning, I marched from that station, with the intention of offering battle, when Khalifeh and some of my advisers represented to me, that as the ground on which we had fixed for halting was near at hand, it would be proper, in the first place, to throw up a ditch and to fortify it, after which we might march forward and occupy the position. Khalifeh accordingly mounted to give directions about the ditch, and rejoined us, after having set pioneers to work on the different parts of it, and appointed proper persons to superintend their progress.

March 16 Again advances On Saturday, the 13th of the latter Jumāda, having dragged forward our guns, and advanced our right, left, and centre in battle array, for nearly a kos, we reached the ground that had been prepared for us Many tents were a giving each division instructions as to the position it was to occupy, and the order of march it was to observe,

b Omit this clause.

c As soon as our camp had been laid out with its line of trenches and wagons, and after we had strengthened our position and its approaches as much as possible,

d after having pointed out its position to the pioneers.

already pitched, and they were engaged in pitching others, when news was brought that the enemy's army was in sight I immediately mounted, and gave orders that every man should, without delay, repair to his post, and that the Andenguns and lines should be properly strengthened a As the gages the onemy letter announcing my subsequent victory contains a clear detailed account of the circumstances of the Army of the Faith, the number of the pagan bands, the order of battle and arrangements of both the Musulman and pagan armies,b I shall therefore subjoin the official dispatch 1 announcing the victory, as composed by Sheikh Zein, without adding or taking away

The Firman of Zchireddin Muhammed Babur Ghazi (victorious over the Heathen)

Babur's Limin

All manner of praise2 be to God, for that His promises are sure, and that He assists His servants, and exalts His armies, and scatters in rout the bands of those who give associates unto Him 3 He is one, and except Him there is nothing O Thou who hast exalted the standards of Islam, by means of the friends of the faith, a who walk in the right way, and who hast dashed down the standards of idols, by dispersing a and that their lines should be strengthened by means of the wagons drawn up in front

b the position taken up by both armies and the bittle that took place between them.

c hostile bands

d pillars of Islam, by aiding his faithful followers, o pedestals

² The stalic character denotes the Arabic, many of the sentences of which are texts of the Koran, which, in some cases, gives the sense

a broken and imperfect appearance

That is, the Christians and Polytheists

¹ Nothing can form a more striking contrast to the simple, manly, and intelligent style of Babur himself, than the pompous laboured periods of his secretary Yet I have never read this firman to any native of India, who did not bestow unlimited admiration on the official bombast of Zemeddin, while I have met with none but Turks who paid due praise to the calm simplicity of Babur The different firmans are translated, like the Memoirs themselves, with scrupulous fidelity, perhaps in some instances with too much [P de C.'s Fragments includes a shorter and less pretentious account of the battle, said to have been written by Babur himself. which will be found in Appendix D an flight the encourer of the Murulmann, who are referred; for verily he cuts down and destroys the ruce which practises oppression, all praise belongs unto God, who is the creator of the vorld, and may the blessing of God light on the best of his created beings Muhammed, the greatest of holy warriors, and of such as ever unged war on the heathen, and blessing be on his family and friends hacho are the pointers of the true road, e en till the day of judgement. The constant succession of God's mercles is the cause of the number of pruses bestowed on the Most High and the number of the praises and glorifyings of God is again, in its turn, the cause of the constant succession of God's mercies. For every mercy a thanksgiving is due and every thanksgiving is followed by a mercy. To pay the due praise and thanksgiving to the Almighty, for exceeds human ability, and even the best are altogether unable to discharge the mighty debt. But, above all, thanksgiving is due for a grace, than which no more mighty favour is, or for evermore can be in this world, -- for victors over the heathen and the defeat of powerful sinners ", for these are those heathen and sumers! concerning whom revelation has been made and verily. in the sight of men of understanding, there can be no blessing more excellent, all good and all blessing proceed from God! And that grand favour, that mights gift (which, from the cradle till the present moment, was the most ordent wish and most fixed desire of this heart that longs for the good of mankind, and is eager in pursuit of truth), at this fortunate and auspicious moment, showed itself from the hidden store of the mercies of the sublime majesty of the Wisest of the Wise F, and the Accomplisher who never reprocehes, and He who is bountiful without enuse, with the keys of victory

a who cuts down b companions

c than which there is no more mighty favour in this world and which surpasses all the bliss of the world to come.

d over the most powerful unbelievers, and the richest sunners, of whom it has been said 'These are the wicked unbelievers',

f may thanksgiving be rendered to God for it!

⁸ has been granted by the beneficence of the King from whom nothing is hidden,

¹ [This passage, which runs ' and these are the wicked unbelievers', is taken from the Quran, [xxx. 42.]

has opened the doors of bounty before the face of the wishes of us the Nawab, success-adorned a, and the illustrious names of our ever-successful armies have been inserted in the book of the illustrious warriors of the faith, while the standards of Islam, with the aid of our victorious hosts, have attained the highest heights of exaltation and glory The particulars of this happy transaction, and the details of this glorious event, are as follows When the glancing of the swords of our soldiers, who are the stay of the faith, illuminated the regions of Hindustan with the splendours of conquest and victory, and the hands of divine assistance evalted our victorious banners in the kingdoms of Delhi, and Agra, and Jonpur, and Kharid, and Behär, and elsewhere, as has been made known in former accounts of our victories b, many tribes of men, both of the heathen and of such as professed the faith, submitted to and became subjects of us the fortunate Nawab When, according to what is written, hee hath waxed rebellious and presumptuous, and is become one of the heathen,1 some having raised up their headsd in revolt like Satan, and having become the leaders of the army of the accursed, and the generals of the soldiers of the rejected, were the cause of the gathering of these bands, composed of some who bore on their necks the zunnar,2 (that voke of perdition), and of others who fixed thorns from the pangs of apostacy o in the hem of their garments, now the sway of the accursed Pagan, May the Almighty consign him to perdition f at the day of judgement, was so

Sanka.

^{*} He who dispenses the treasures of His bounty without seeking an account of it from any one, and whose generosity is boundless. has opened the gate of glory with the key of his munificence to us. his faithful, and everywhere triumphant, vicegorents,

b This clause follows the word victory three lines above.

o When Rana Sanka, the infidel, who made at first a parade of submission to my fortunate heutenants, showed by his acts that he d he raised up his head [The whole passage refers only to Rana

e wore the greevous badge of apostacy

f who is condemned to isolation (friendlessness)

^{1 [}Quran 11. 32, '(The angels) adored him save only Iblis, who refused, and was too proud, and became one of the misbelievers.']

² The zunnār is the Brahminical cord.

² [Quran lxix. 35 'He has not here to-day any warm friend.'

extensive in the country of Hind, that before the rising of the sun of the imperial dominion, and before our attaining the Khalisat and empire, a (although mighty Rajas and Rais, who, in this contest, have obeyed his mandates, and Hākims and rulers, glorying in apostacy, who were under his control in this warfare, having regard to their own dignity. did not obey nor assist him in any former war or battle. and had never accompanied the Pagan in any of his former enterprises, but had only deceitfully flattered and fed his vanityb), yet the standards of the heathen streamed in two hundred cities inhabited by people of the faith, whereby the destruction of mosques and holy places had ensued. and the women and children of the Musulmans of these towns and cities have been made captives, and his strength had reached such a pitch, that, calculating according to the custom in Hind, by which a country yielding a lak 1 furnishes one hundred horse, and one yielding a kror (or ten millions) ten thousand horse, the countries subject to that Pagan had attained the amount of ten krors (or one hundred milhons), which afforded one hundred thousand cavalry And at this time, many heathen of eminence, who never before in any war had any one of them assisted him, actuated by hatred to the armies of the faith, increased his villamous array, so that ten independent princes, each of whom raised on high like smoke the boast of revolt, and who in different quarters were the leaders of the pagan hosts, and were like the chains 2 and fetters on the limbs of these wretched pagans c, each of those ten infidels, who, unlike the ten blessed,3 unfolded the misery-freighted

* the viceregency of the King of kings,

IThe Asharah mubashsharah, or 'the ten who received good

h Omit this clause here and add still there was not one of the kings of the first rank in this wide realm, such as that of Delhi, Gujerāt, Mālwa, and others, who was able to oppose him, much less to form a coalition with others against him, and who did not have recourse before him to all the resources of dissimulation and cajolery, c this wicked Pagan,

¹ A lak is one hundred thousand dams

² This alludes to the Asiatic custom of wearing chains and rings of silver and gold on the feet and legs, the sense is, 'these leaders, though regarded as the ornaments of the pagan host, were really only, by the blessing of God, as the fetters on their feet.'

banners, which mark them out for future torment and wailing n,1 possessed many dependants and armies, and wide extended pergannas As, for instance, Silahed din a possessed b thirty thousand horse, Rawal Udai Sing Nagari,3 ten c thousand horse, Medmi Rai, ten d thousand, Hassan Khan Mewati, twelve thousand horse, Birmal Idan, four thousand horse, Narpat Hada, eseven thousand, Sattery i Kiehi, sixthousand. Dharm Dec. four thousand, Narsing Dec, four thousand horse. Mahmud Khan, the son of Sultan Sikander, though he possessed no country nor perganna, yet had gathered about him ten thousand horse, who adhered to him in the hopes that he might succeed in establishing his pretensions, insomuch, that the total number of all these wretches, who were separated from the fields of salvation and bliss, if an estimate be formed from the capacity of their dominions and pergannas, was two hundred and one thousand These haughty-minded vet blind pagans, a having latterly united their hearts h with those of the other black, hardhearted, ill-fated pagans, like one darkness coming upon another, advanced in hostile array, to war with the people of Islim, and to destroy the foundation of the religion of the Cluef of Men, on whom be praise and blessing. The holy warriors of the imperial army, coming like the divine mandates on the head of the one eved Dajal, showed to a the banners on which were inscribed the words 'to them give the tidings of grievous woe'.

b had a government which was assessed at d twelve o Hāra. c twelve I Birsingh Deo.

h having concerted g This Pagan, tidings' were ten of the most distinguished of Muhammed's followers. whose certain entrance into Paradise he is said to have foretold (Hughes's Diet of Islam) Apropos of this P de C refers to the supposed efficacy of the number ten in the East, e g ten fingers and toes, ten senses, the ten divisions of the Quran, the Ten Command ments, the ten disciples of Muhammed, &c.1

¹ [This is a quotation from the Quran, in 20, which runs 'to them give the tidings of grievous wee']

² [Or Silhadi, who was governor of Bhilsa, Raisen, and Sarangpür. and was killed in 1531 on the occasion of the capture of Raisen by Bahādur Shah of Gujerāt] ² [The chief of Dungerpūr] ⁴ Dājāl, or al Masīh al Dajjāl, the false or lying Messiah, is the

Muhammedan Antichrist He is to be one eyed, and marked on the men of understanding the truth of the saying, whenever

March 16

fate arrives the eye becomes blind, and having placed before their sight the text of the blessed Koran, where it is written, Whoever engages in a holy war, of a truth fights for his own soul,1 exhibited their obedience to the commandment ever to be obeyed, engage in war with the heathen and the immious at On Saturday, the 18th of the latter Jumada, in the year 933, of the good fortune of which day the sacred words, since God has given a blessing on your Saturday, are a proof, the encampment of the victorious army of Islam was established in the neighbourhood of Kanwa, one of the districts of Biana, hard by a hill which resembled the grave of b the enemies of the faith When the accounts of the glorious array and parade c of the army of Islam reached the ears of the accursed pagans, the enemies of the faith of Muhammed (who, like the warriors of the elephant, were eager to destroy the kaabeh of the people of the faith, and who made the mountain-formed, demon-looking elephants their confidence), all with one heart and mind drew out their armies, which marched under ill-starred standards

> In these elephants the wretched Hindus Were confident, like the warriors of the elephant ³ Like the evening of Death, the detested and execrable bands, Darker than night, and more numerous than the stars,

a hypocrates

b which was only two kos distant from

c When the din

forehead with the letters K.F.R., signifying Kafer, or Infidel. He is to appear in the latter days riding on an ass, and will be followed by 70,000 Jews of Ispahān, and will continue on earth forty days, of which one will be equal to a year, another to a month, another to a week, and the rest will be common days. He is to lay waste all places, but will not enter Mecca nor Medina, which are to be guarded by angels. He is to be finally slain at the gate of Lud by Jesus, for whom the Musulmans profess great veneration, calling him the breath or spirit of God.—See Sale's Introductory Discourse to the Koran

¹ [This verse of the Quran (xxix. 5) is translated thus by Palmer 'and he who fights strenuously, fights strenuously only for his own soul'

* [This quotation may refer to the command (Quran, viii 40)

*Fight then against the infidel, till strife be at an end, and religion be all of it God's ']

² This alludes to the defeat of Abraha, a prince of Yemen, who marched his army and some elephants to destroy the kaaba of

All ascending like fire, nay, rather like smoke, Raised their heads in hostility to the azuro sky Like ants they issue from right and left, Horse and foot, thousands of thousands

Eager for combat and battle, they approached the camp of the true believers. The holy warriors of the faith, who are the trees of the garden of valour, advanced in ranks straight as the rows of fir-trees, and evalted aloft their fir-like helmets and basinets, that gleamed in the sun, even as the hearts of those that strive in the way of the Lord Their array, like the barrier of Sikander, was of iron hue, and, like the road of the Muhammedan faith, straight and firm, and bearing indications of its strength. And the foundation of the array was like those foundations which are strong, and supporting besidees and victory, and what is written, They are on the right road on the side of their Creator, a adorned with victory by virtue of these words,

b and they were destined to win

Mecca. 'The Meccans,' says Sale, 'at the approach of so considerable a host, retired to the neighbouring mountains, being unable to defend their city or temple But God himself undertook the defence of both For when Abraha drew near to Mecca, and would have entered it, the elephant on which he rode, which was a very large one, and named Mahmud, refused to advance any nigher to the town, but knelt down whenever they endeavoured to force him that way, though he would rise and march briskly enough if they turned him towards any other quarter, and while matters were in this posture, on a sudden a large flock of birds, like swallows, came flying from the sea coast, every one of which carried three stones, one in each foot. and one in its bill, and these stones they threw down upon the heads of Abraha's men, certainly killing every one they struck.' The rest were swept away by a flood, or perished by a plague, Abraha alone reaching Senaa, where he also died .- Sale's Koran, vol 11, p 510, note [Abra hat ul Ashram, an Abyssinian Christian, who was viceroy of the King of San'ā in Yamen, marched against Mecca in the year of Muhammed's birth, A. D 571]

¹ The barrier or iron wall supposed to have been erected by Alexander the Great at the Derbend, on the west of the Caspian, to repress the invasions of Yājūj and Mājūj (Gog and Magog)

² [This quotation and the one preceding appear to be taken from the Quran (lu 4), which runs as follows 'Verily God loves those who fight in His cause in ranks as though they were a compact building'] and they are successful,1 belonged to the men in that army 2

(Masnevi)—In that array there was no rent occasioned by timid souls, It was firm as the wish of the Emperor and the faith. Their standards all swept the sky, And the banner staffs were all—of a truth we have given success?

The far-seeing guardians having concerted measures for the security of the matchlock-men and thunder-darters,3 who were in front of the army, made a line of carriages,b connected with each other by chains, according to the practice of the holy warriors of Rum, and the troops of Islam finally displayed such array and firmness, that old Intelligence,4 and our Heaven,5 poured down praises on their orderer and arranger, and in making this array and arrangement, and firm front and immovable order, a personage honoured in the imperial presence, the pillar of the royal state, Nizameddin Alı Khalifeh, gave all his aid and assistance, and all his ideas were conformable to fate. and all his acts and doings were agreeable to the illuminated mind (of the Emperor) The station of the impenal grandeur was established in the centre, and on his right the cherished brother, the high-in-rank, the respectable d and favoured of fate, the selected-by-the-kindnesses of the assistance-giving king. Chin Taimur Sultan, and the son

a Omit belonged to the men in that army

b In order to neglect nothing of the dictates of prudence and provide against every accident, the musketeers and cannoncers were posted in front of the army along the line of wagons,

c upright, d illustrious

o the object of the favours of the King whose aid is invoked by all,

¹ [Quran 11. 4, which runs, 'These are in guidance from their Lord, and these are the prosperous.']

^{* [}This line, according to P de C, should run (and bear this device), 'Verily we have given Thee an obvious victory' The quotation is from the Quran, vivil. 1]

³ Barkandaz, or lightning-darter, is the usual word in India for a matchlock man. [P de C translates this 'gunners']

⁴ [Khirad : nakhustin], or the First Intelligence, was supposed to be the guardian of the empyreal heaven.

^{*} The different spheres are each supposed to have a guardian angel to watch over them, and keep them steadily in their ordained courses high-in-rank, who is distinguished by the gifts of the evalted majesty, a Suleiman Shah, and he who is exalted by pointing the true road, the piety-adorned Khwajeh Dost Khawend b, and the trusty in c the mighty empire, faithful to the exalted royalty,d the confidential counsellor, the chosen among persons of trust. Yunis Ali, the prop of the grandees, the perfect in friendship, Shah Mansur Birlas, the prop of the nobility, the chosen among the attached, Derwish Muhammed Sārbān, the prop of the nobles, the pure in attachment, & Abdallah Kıtābdar and Dost Ishik-Agha, were stationed in their posts And in the left of the centre, the sovereignty-adorned, the Khilafat-descended b Sultan, Alāeddīn Ālım Khan, the son of Sultan Bahlol Lodi, a prince who has near access to the royal majesty i, and the Dastur, the most evalted among Sadders 1 of the human race,1 the protector of mankind, the supporter of Islam, Sheikh Zein Khawafi, and the prop of nobles, the perfect-infriendship, Muhibb Ali, the son of him who has near access to the royal majesty above mentioned 2, and the chosen among nobles, Terdi Beg, the brother of Küch Beg, who has been received into mercy and purified, Shir-afgen,3 the son of the said Küch Beg, who has received the divine

a most upright, whom God regards with tender care,

h the follower of the true road, the adept of saintliness, Khwāja Kamāl ud din Dost i Khāwind, c the faithful friend of

d the loyal dweller near the sublime threshold, favourites, the choicest of friends, Add Shahābuddīn, hallied

1 the object of special favour at the hands of the King whose aid all men invoke.

I the Dastür, the confidential counsellor of his Majesty, celebrated among all, who occupies the most exalted rank amongst men, ¹ Dastūr and Sadder, the former of which seems originally to have meant, one who retains within rule, and the latter, one who holds an eminent seat, were both first applied to religious directors, but a ter wards to political ministers. Dastūr, at the present day, is constantly used for a $Waz\bar{\imath}r$, except among the Parsis, who give the name of Dastūr to their priests, and it is here used as a high priest. The Sadder is a chief judge.

² Nızāmeddīn Alı Khalīfeh.

³ [According to P de C Sher afgan (hon-slayer), the well known title of Nūrjahān's first husband, is not a separate name, but a title of Khwājeh Hosain.]

forgiveness, and the chosen among grandees and nobles, the mighty Khan, Araish Khan, and the Wazir, the greatest of Wazirs among men, Khwajeh Hussain, and a band of grand officers, were stationed, each in his place. And in the right wing, the exalted son, the fortunate, the honourable, befriended-of-fate, the happy, the well-regarded in the sight of the mercies of Creating Majesty, the star of the sign of monarchy and success, the sun of the sphere of Khilafat and royalty, the praised by slave and free, the evalter of the emperor and empire, Muhammed Huminun Bahader, was stationed On the right of that lofty prince, who is nearly allied to good fortune, was he whose rank approximates to royalty, who is distinguished by the favour of the king, the giver of all gifts, Kasım Hussain Sultan, the column of the nobility, Ahmed Yüsef Aghlakchia, the trusted-of-royalty, the perfect-in-fidelity, Hindu Beg Küclin, and the intrusted-of-royalty, Khosrou Gokultüsh, and the intrustedof-royalty, Kewam Beg Urdu-Shah, and the pillar of the royal retainers, the perfect-in-attachment, Wali Kasım o Karagūzi, and the chosen among attached adherents, Pīr Kulı Sistānı, and the pillar of Wazīrs amongst mankınd, Khwajeh Pehlewan Badakhshi, and the prop of the royal bands, Abdal Shakur, and the prop of the nobility, Suleiman Agha, the ambassador of Irak, and Hussain, the ambassador of Sistan, were stationed On the victory-clothed left of the fortunate son who has been mentioned, of lofty extraction and Syed race, of the family of Murtiza, Mir Hameh, and the prop of the household troops,d Muhammedi Gokultāsh, and Khwajehgi Asad Jandar, were stationed And in the right wing, of the Amīrs of Hind, the Umdet-al Mulk (prop of the state), Khan Khanan (Khan of Khans), Dilawer Khans, and the prop of the nobility, Malikdad Karrani, and the prop of the nobility, the Sheikh of Sheikhs, Sheikh Güren, were stationed, each in his fixed place And in the left wing of the Islām-exalted armies, the lord of high rank, the

 ^a Nızām ud din Ahmed Yüsuf Oghlākelii, ^b Add the loyal,
 ^c Khāzin [treasurer]
 ^d Add the most loyal, Sharisuddin

[.] Khāndār,

Murtiza [the chosen] is a name of Ali
 [The son of Daulat Khan.]

protection of the magistracy, the abode of greatness, the ornament of the family of Taha and Yasin, al Syed Mahdi2, and the exalted, the fortunate brother, he who is well regarded in the sight of the Creating King, Muhammed Sultan Mirza, and the personage near to royalty, the descended of monarchs, Adıl Sultan, son of Mahdı Sultan 3, and the intrusted-inthe-state, the perfect-in-attachment, Abdal-azīz Mīr Akhūr, and the intrusted-in-the-state, the pure-in-friendship, Muhammed Ah Jeng-Jeng, and the prop of the nobility. Kūtluk Kadem Kerawal, and Shah Hussain Yaregi, Moghul Ghänchi, and Jan Beg Atkeh, b extended their ranks in this station, of the Amīrs of Hind, of royal race, Jalāl Khan, and Kamal Khan, the sons of the Sultan Alaeddin who has been named, and the selected among nobles. Alı Khan Sheikhzadeh Fermuli, and the prop of nobles, Nizām Khan of Biāna, were placed And as a tulughmeh (or flanking party), two persons of chief trust among the household retainers, Terdikeh and Malik Kasım, the brother of Bāba Kashkeh, with a party of the Moghul tribes, were stationed on the right wing, and two persons of trust from among the nobility, Mumin Atkeh and Rustam Turkoman Bāshlīgh, with a party of the Emperor's own immediate dependants, were stationed on the left wing, and the prop of the household troops, the perfect-in-friendship, the choice of confidential advisers, Sultan Muhammed Bakhshi, having arranged the nobles and grandees of the warriors of the faith in their suitable stations and places, himself repaired to await my commands, and he sent the tewachis 4 to execute their orders, and dispatched directions

a Add the model for the offspring of the Prince of Messengers, b Jalāl ud din Shah Hosam Bāragi, Moghul Ghānchī, and Nizām ud din Jān Beg,

¹ [Taha is the title of the twentieth chapter of the Qurān, which begins with these Arabic letters, the meaning of which is obscure. Yasīn is the name of the thirty sixth chapter of the Qurān, which similarly begins with these two letters Yasīn is a title of Muhammed.]

² [Sayyıd Mahdī Khwāja, Bābur's brother in law]

² [This may be the Mahdi Sultan who was executed by Bābur in 1511 after the defeat of the Uzbegs]

⁴ A sort of adjutant and aide de camp worthy to be obeyed," regarding the array and disposition of the army and troops, to the Sultans high in rank, and to the great Amirs, and to all the illustrious soldiers of the Faith And when the pillars of the army were made firm, and every person had repaired to his post, the firman, worthy to be obeyed, and necessary to be attended to, was published, commanding that no person should move from his station without orders, nor lift his hand to engage without instructions And of the aforesaid day about one watch and two gariso were past, when the two opposing armies having approached each other, the combat and battle began While the centres of the two armies, like light and darkness, stood opposed to each other, so desperate an engagement ensued on the right and left wings, that the ground was shaken with an earthquake, while a tumultuous clangour filled the upper-The left wing of the ill doomed heathen approached the right wing of the faith-clothed armies of Islâm, and made a desperate attack on Khosrou Gokultash, Malik Kāsım, and d Bāba Kashkeh Our brave and elevated brother,6 Chin Taimur Sultan, according to orders, carried a gallant reinforcement, joined in the combat, and having driven back the heathen, pushed on nearly to their centre And a noble gift has been given to that our evalted brother ! And the wonder of our times, Mustafa Rümi, from the centre directed byg my exalted, upright, and fortunate son, who is regarded with favour in the sight of the Creating Majesty, and distinguished with the particular grace of the mighty King who commands to do and not to do, Muhammed Humaiun Behader, having brought forward the cannon, broke the ranks of the pagan army with matchlocks and guns like their hearts 2 And during the battle, Kasım Sultan Hussain his post,

o Omit and two gars

d brother of

Our highly honoured, and most righteous brother,

A special guerdon was deserved by him for his bravery in this g where was action.

a and dispatched in all directions adjutants and aides de camp, who were entrusted with the duty of convoying instructions,

b And when the pillars of the army [generals] had repaired each to

¹ About half-past nine in the morning

² That is, black and covered with smoke.

of royal race," and the pillars of the nobles, Ahmed Yūsef and Kewam Beg, having received orders, hastened to his support and as, from time to time, armies of the heathen and troops of the rebels came from behind repeatedly to the succour of their men, we also disputched to the assistance of our warriors, the intrusted-in-the-state, Hindu Beg Kuchin, and after him, the props of the nobility, Muhammed Gokultāsh and Khwājehgi Asad, and afterwards the intrusted in the high monarchy, the trustworthy in the resplendent court, the most confided-in of nobles, the chosen among my confidential adherents, Yunis Ali, and the prop of the nobles, the perfect-in-attachment, Shah Mansur Birlas, and the prop of the grandees, the pure-in-fidelity, Abdallah Kıtābdār, and behind him, the prop of the nobles, Dost Ishek-Agha, Muhammed Khalil Aktehbegi 1 The heathen b made repeated and desperate attacks on the left wing of the army of Islam, and fell furiously upon the holy warriors, the children of salvation, and each time the high and mighty holy warriors struck some with wounds from their arrows which lead to victory, and sent them to the house of destruction, the worst of abodes,2 and part of them they drove back And the trusty among the nobles, Mūmin Atkeh and Rustam Turkoman, advancing in the rear of the dark and benighted bands of the heathen, who reposed on evil fortune, and the trusty among nobles, Mulla Mahmud and Alı Atkeh Bashligh, the servants of the counsellor of the imperial majesty, the trusty in the royal state, Nizām-ed-dīn Ali Khalifeh,3 were sent to support them And our brother of high rank, Muhammed Sultan Mirza, and the allied-toroyalty,c Adıl Sultan, and the trusty in the state, Abdalazīz Mīr Akhur, and Kūtluk Kadem Kerāwel, and Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng, and Shah Hussain Yaregi,d and Moghul

a our highly honoured and most upright brother,

b right wing c representative of the royal dignity,

d the pillar of nobility, Shah Hosain Bāragi,

¹ [Grand equerry, or Master of the Horse]

² [This is apparently intended to be a quotation from the Qurān (xiv 34), which runs thus 'and have made their people alight at the abode of perdition—in hell they shall broil, and an ill resting-place shall it be']

² [Bābur's Prime Minister]

л и 938

Ghänchi, having engaged in action, maintained a firm position, and we sent the Wazīr, the highest of Wazīrs among men, Khwajeh a Hussain, with a body of our household, to their support, and all the men devoted to holy warfare, exerting every nerve, and straining all their means, bentered into fight with desperate delight, and reflecting on the text of the Koran, Say, Verily they regard me, and place before their eyes one of two blessings,1 and incited by the desire of lavishing their lives, displayed their life-destroying banners. and as the combat and battle were drawn out to length and extended in time, the mandate worthy of obedience was issued, when straightway of the bold warriors of the imperial household troops, and the rending warriors, united in mind,d who were standing behind the cannon, like lions in chains, issuing from the right and left of the centre, and leaving in the middle the station of the outer matchlock-men, engaged on both sides, and darted forth o from behind the carriages. like the rising of the van of the true dawn from below the horizon, and spilling the ruddy crepuscle-coloured blood of the infidel pagans in combat, on the field wide as the rolling firmament, caused many of the heads of the rebels to fly like falling stars from the sky of their bodies, and the miracle of the time, Ustad Ali Kuli, who was stationed with his men in front of the centre, having exhibited great proofs of valour, discharged g huge bullets,2 of such a size, that if one of them were placed in the basin of the scale of duty, its master,h then that man whose scale is heavy gains a name among the blessed 3, and if thrown against a rooted

a Add Kamāluddīn

b desirous of manifesting their ardour and their zeal in the combat,

d and the hons of the forest of valour,

o should engage and accordingly they darted forth 8 Add against the iron mailed bastions of the hostile ranks

h its owner would gain the reward of these words.

^{1 [}Quran ix. 52, which runs, 'Say, do ye expect for us aught but one of the two best things?' (i e victory or martyrdom)]

* Sang means either a bullet or weight, whence the play of words in the text.

² [Quran c₁ 5, which may be translated 'and as for him whose balance is heavy, he shall be in a well pleasing life', a reference to hill, or a lofty mountain, it would drive them from their foundation like teazed wool 1 Such were the bullets he darted on the iron-clad lines of the heathen bands, and from the discharge of balls and guns and matchlocks, many of the suns a of the bodies of the heathen were annihilated imperial matchlock-men, baccording to orders, having issued from behind the artillery in the heat of the fight,c each of them made many pagans drink the draught of death, and the infantry having advanced into the place of high and fearful conflict,d made their names conspicuous among the lions of the forest of bravery, and the champions of the field of valour And at the moment while these events were passing, the firman, worthy to be obeyed, was given to drag forward the guns in the centre And the pure soul of the Emperor, on whose right is the victory of the state, and on whose left are pre-eminence and glory, began to move forward on the Pagan's troops, which being understood on all sides by the victory-graced armies, the whole raging sea of the victorious army rose in mighty storm, and the valour of all the crocodiles of that ocean was manifested The blackness of the dust spreading over the sky, like dark clouds, raced back and forward over all the plaing, while the flashing of the gleaming of the sword within exceeded the glancing of lightning h, so that the face of the sun, like the back of a mirror, was void of light The striker and the struck, the victor and vanquished, mingled in the fray i, the marks of discrimination were concealed from view, and such a night ensued that the firmament was not visible, a frames

b The musketeers of the centre, where the Emperor was posted,

c mto the midst of the fight, d danger,

^{*} sacred person f are victory and triumph,

g The black dust extended like a dark veil on every side,

h while the thick cloud, which had overspread the battlefield, was furrowed with the flashing of swords, which much surpassed in brilliance that of lightning,

i were so mingled in the fray that the Balance wherein all good and evil actions will be weighed on the Day of Judgement.]

¹ [Qurān ci. 4, 'and the mountains shall be like flocks of carded wool.'] and the only stars that could be distinguished were the prints of the horses' feet a (Verse)—On the day of combat, the dew of blood descended to the fish, and the dust rose above the moon,

From the hoofs of the coursers in that spacious plain, so that the earths became six," and the heavens eight

The warriors of the Faith, who were in the temper of self-devotion, and prepared to submit to martyrdom, heard from a secret voice the glad tidings And be not dejected nor sorry, for ye are exalled, and from the infallible informer heard the joyful words, Assistance is from God, and victory is at hand, spread the glad tidings among the Faithful. They fought with such delight, that praises were showered down on them from the pure above, and the angels who are near to God, hovered like butterflies around their heads. And between the first and second prayers, the fire of battle blazed so, that its flames raised the standards above the firmament. And the right and left of the army of the Faithful, having driven the right, left, and centre, of the infidels into one place, the indications of the superiority of the illustrious holy warriors, and the exaltation of the ⁿ The Magician of the time had so charmed every eye that the only planets they saw were arrows, and the only fixed stars that appeared were those under the hoofs of the steady squadrons.

b Under the pressure of the horses' hoofs in that vast plain the regions of the earth became six.

c at the very moment when they flung themselves full tilt into danger, and risked their lives,

d Saints of the Sublime Assembly,

e drove back on their centre the right and left wings of the accursed infidels. When the indications

2 [Quran, m. 133, the passage runs thus 'Do not give way nor grieve, for ye shall have the upper hand if ye but be believers.']

4 [Quran, lx1 13]

¹ [This is an allusion to the myth of the fish, which is supposed to support the earth, the meaning being 'to the lowest depths of the earth']

² [1. e. the seven regions of the earth became six under the pressure of the horses' hoofs.] There are supposed to be seven earths, and as many heavens, in Muhammedan philosophy The poet supposes that one earth, being converted into dust and rising aloft, became an eighth heaven, leaving only six earths.

standards of Islam, began to be evident, and in the course of one hour, those damnable heathen and those atheistical wretches, being desperate and astonished at their condition, finally resigning their lives to despair, made an attack on the right and left of our centre, and having advanced their greatest force on the left, had nearly reached it, but the holy warriors distinguished by valour, exhibiting the fruits of excellence, bulanted the tree of their arrows on the ground of the breast of every one, and east them all out clike their In this situation of things, the breezes of black fortune success and victory blew on the garden of the Good Fortune of us the fortunate Nawab and the glad tidings came, Of a truth we have displayed on thy account a splendid victory 1 The mistress Victory, whose world-adorning countenance deeked with waving ringlets, and with God will aid you reith mighty aid,2 had been hid behind a veil, as the ornamented Bride of Futurity now gave her aid and came to greet the Present d, the vain Hindus discovering their dangerous state, were scattered abroad like teazed wool, and brolen like bubbles on reine 3. Many were slain, and fell in the battle, and some giving up their lives for lost, turned to the desert of ruin, and became the food of crows and kites, and hillocks were formed of the slain, and towers rused of their heads Hassan Khan Mewati was enrolled in the band of the dead by a matchlock shot, and in like manner many of these bewildered and misled rebels, the n continued for an hour in a state of bewilderment, and finally resolving to sell their lives dearly.

b having before their eves the fruits of a divine reward,

c made them turn tail

d The Princess Victory, whose world adorning beauty was en hanced by the ornament of this phrase 'God will aid you with a mighty aid, having manifested to our eyes the happiness of the future, which had been concealed behind a yeil, made it a present reality.

^{1 [}Quran, vlviii 1, 'Verily we have given thee an obvious victory']

^{2 [}Quran, xlvm. 3]

³ [Quran, c. 4 and 3 The latter verse is translated by Sale and Palmer 'and scattered like moths' The passage runs as follows 'The day when men shall be like scattered moths, and the mountains like flocks of carded wool']

leaders of that army, were struck by arrows or musket-shot. and closed their lives, of the number, Rawal Udai Sing, before named," who was Prince (Wali) of the country of Udaipur, and had twelve thousand horse, and Rai Chanderbhan Chuhan, who had four thousand horse, band Manikchand Chuhān, and Dilpat Rai, who were masters of four thousand horse, and Gangu, and Karm Sing, and Rao Bikersi,1 who had three thousand horse, and a number of others, who each were leaders of great clans, men of high rank and pride, measured the road to Hell, and, from this house of clay, were transferred to the Pit of Perdition from the field of battle was filled like hell, with the wounded who died by the way, and the lowest hell was rendered populous, in consequence of the numbers of infidels who had delivered up their lives to the angels c of hell On whatever side of the armies of Islam a person went, on every hand he found men of distinction lying slain, and the illustrious camp, wherever it has moved after the fugitives, could nowhere find a spot in which to plant a foot, in consequence of the number of distinguished men lying mangled d

All the Hindus were scattered and confounded,^e
With stones,² like the warriors of the elephant
Many hills of their bodies were seen,
And from each hill flowed a rivulet of running blood
From the dread of the arrows of the ranks full of grandeur,
They were flying and running * to every field and hill

Arabic —They go backwards in flight And the event happened as it had been ordained of Fate And now the praise be to God, who is All-hearing and All-wise, and a Nagori,

d where a distinguished victim did not lie prostrate

¹ Nagersı —Mr Metcalfe's copy

b. Add Bhūpat Rao, son of Salāh ud dīn, of whom I have spoken above, who was governor of the territory of Chanden, and had 6,000 horse, c Prince

o All the Hindus were stretched on the earth, abject and struck down.

This is again a play on the word sang, which means either a bullet or a stone. In the war of the elephant, the enemy's army was destroyed by pebbles, miraculously dropped on their heads by birds.

Or by a double meaning, 'hogs flying to every field and hill' except from whom there is no help for he is great and powerful *1 Written in the month of the latter Jumada, in March the year 933 =

After this victory I used the epithet Ghazi,2 in the imperial Bibur as titles On the Fatchnameh (or official account of the vie-sumes the tory) below the imperial titles (inscribed on the back of the Ghazi despatches). I wrote the following verses

title of

(Turki)-For love of the Parth I became a wanderer in the desert. I became the antagonist of Pagans and Hindus I strove b to make myself a martyr -Thanks be to the Almights who has made me a Ghazi (victorious over the enemies of the Laith)

Sheikh Zein discovered the date of this victory in the words Patch-1-badshah-1-Islam (the victory of the Emperor of the Faith) Mir Gisū also, one of the men who had come from Kibul, discovered the date in the very same words, and sent them with four verses inscribed below. There was a perfect coincidence between Sheikh Zein and Mir Gisü. in their best emblems d. The very same words were contained in their quatrains. On another occasion, on my conquest of Debilour Sheikh Zem discovered the date in Wasat-1-shahr-1-Rabia ul auval- (the middle of the month of the first Rabia), and Mir Gisü hit upon the very same words

his victory

Having defeated the enemy, we pursued them with Improves great slaughter. Their camp might be two kos distant from ours On reaching it, I sent on Muhammedi, Abdal-azīz, Ali Khan, and some other officers, with orders to follow them in close pursuit, slaving and cutting them off, so that they should not have time to re-assemble! In this instance a the Almighty and All wise

b resolved c Omit inscribed below

d By a lucky chance there was a perfect coincidence between Sheikh Zain's and Mir Ghisa's quatrains

[·] Omit this sentence

Omit this clause

¹ [This passage is a melange of tags from various chapters of the Quran (xvii 49, xxiii 38, ni 122, xxii 220)]

² [In P de C.'s version the date of the month (25th) is added]

³ Ghāzi signifies victorious in a holy war

⁴ The letters make 933 [1526-27]

[•] The letters make 930 [1523-24]

shes unmed If, the ologer

I was guilty of neglect, I should myself have gone on and urged the pursuit, and ought not to have entrusted that business to another. I had got about a kos beyond the enemy's camp when I turned back, the day being spent, and reached my own about bed-time prayers. Muhammed Sherif, the astrologer, whose perverse and seditious practices I have mentioned, a came to congratulate me on my victory. I poured forth a torrent of abuse upon him, and when I had relieved my heart by it, although he was heathenishly inclined, perverse, extremely self-conceited, and an insufferable evil-speaker, by et, as he had been my old servant, I gave him a lak a sa present, and dismissed him, commanding him not to remain within my dominions.

rrec in the b led th 17 Next day we continued on the same ground I despatched Muhammed Ali Jeng-Jeng, Sheikh Güren, and Abdal Malük Korchi, with a large force against Ihūs Khan who had made an insurrection in the Doāb, surprised Koel, and taken Kīchek Ali prisoner. On the arrival of my detachment, the enemy, finding that they could not cope with them, fled in all directions, in confusion and dismay. Some days after my return to Agra, Ihūs Khan was taken and brought in. I ordered lum to be flayed alive.

nr con ds n rof s

shea n The battle was fought within view of a small full near our camp—On this hillock, I directed a tower of the skulls of the infidels to be constructed

From this encampment the third march brought us to Biana. Immense numbers of the dead bodies of the pagains and apostates had fallen in their flight, all the way to Biana, and even as far as Alwar² and Mewat. I went and surveyed Biana, and then returned to the camp, and, having sent for the Türki and Hindi Amīrs, consulted about proceeding against the country of these pagains. That plan was,

[&]quot; who had entertained most evil sentiments about me,

h always prone to rebellion,

[&]quot; Add and lay stream

⁴ About £250

Alwar has west from Muttra and is the capital of the Rajah of Mochers. It is at about an equal distance from Dellu and Arra [Machari, now a village was the old capital of the Alwar state. It is rituated about thirty miles routh cast of Alwar.]

Mewalt

however, abandoned, in consequence of the want of water on the road, and of the excessive heat of the season

The country of Mcwat has not far from Delhi, and yields Reduces a revenue of three or four krors 1 Hassan Khan Mewati had received the government of that country from his ancestors, who had governed it, in uninterrupted succession, for nearly two hundred a years. They had yielded an imperfect kind of submission to the Sultans of Delhi The Sultans of Hind, whether from the extent of their territories, from want of opportunity, or from obstacles opposed by the mountainous nature of the country, had never subdued Mewat b They had never been able to reduce it to order, and were content to receive such a degree of obedience as was tendered to them. After my conquest of Hind, following the example of former Sultans, I also had shown Hassan Khan distinguished marks of favour Yet this ungrateful man, whose affections lay all on the side of the pigans, this infidel, regardless of my favours, and without any sense of the kindness and distinction with which he had been treated, was the grand promoter and leader of all the commotions and rebellions that ensued, as has been related The plan for marching into the country of the pagans having been abandoned. I resolved on the reduction of I advanced four marches, and, after the fifth, encamped six kos from the fort of Alwar, which was the seat of government, on the banks of the river Manasma Illass in Khan's ancestors had made their capital at Tijārah In the year in which I invaded Hindustan, defeated Pahar Khan.3 and took Lahore and Debālpūr, being even then apprehensive of the progress of my arms, he had set about building A person named Karmehand, one of Hassan this fort Khan's head men, who had come to visit Hassan Khan's son while he was a prisoner in Agra, now arrived from the son, a a hundred to two hundred

b had never turned in the direction of Mewat

c this thankless heretic, who behaved like an infidel,

¹ This may be from £75,000 to £100,000

This is the river marked on the map as flowing eastwards to the south of Alwar]

^{* [}Bahār Khānbadı may be meant.]

commissioned to ask a pardon I sent him back accompanied by Abdal Rahim Shaghāwel, with letters to quiet his apprehensions, and promising him personal safety a, and they returned along with Nahir Khan, Hassan Khan's son I again received him into favour, and bestowed on him a perganna of several laks for his support I had bestowed on Khosrou 1 an allowance and establishment of fifty laks,2 and nominated him to the government of Alwar, from a supposition that, during the battle, he had performed a certain very important piece of service. As his ill luck would have it, he put on airs and refused the boon I afterwards discovered that the service had not been performed by him, but by Chin Taimur Sultan I bestowed on Sultan b the city of Tijarah,3 which was the capital of Mewat, granting him at the same time a settled provision of fifty laks 4 To Tardikeh, who, in the battle with Rana Sanka, commanded the tulughmeh (or flanking division) on the right, and had distinguished himself more than any other, I gave an appointment of fifteen laks,5 with the charge of the fort of Alwar I bestowed the treasures of Alwar, with everything c in the fort, on Humaiun

Sends back Humāiūn and the Badakhshīn men, April 3

I marched from this station on Wednesday the first of Rajeb, and, having come within two kos of Alwar, went and examined the fort, where I stayed all night, and returned back to the camp in the morning Before engaging Rāna Sanka in the Holy War, as has been mentioned, when all, small and great, took the oath, I had told them, that after conquering this enemy, I had no objection to any one's returning home, and would give leave to as many as asked it Most of Humāiūn's servants were from Badakhshān and the neighbouring countries, and had never served in an army on any expedition that lasted more a with conciliatory letters,

b Add by way of reward

c all stores

¹ Perhaps Khosrou Gokultāsh ² About £12,500

² [Tijāra, the head quarters of a Tahsīl in the Alwar state, Rājpū tāna, is situated thirty miles north east of Alwar city It was for a long time the capital of the Khanzādahs of Mewāt, and contains what is said to be the tomb of Hasan Khan, Bābur's opponent, who fell on the field of Kānwā]
⁴ About £12,500

About £3,750 [P de C gives the amount as 50 lakhs.]

than a month, or two months at a time Before the battle, they had been seized with a longing for home a I had made with them the agreement which has been mentioned Besides, Kübul was very imperfectly defended. On these accounts, I finally resolved to send off Humaiun to Kabul Having come to this resolution, I marched from Alwar on Thursday the minth of Raich, and having moved four or April 11 five kos, encamped on the banks of the Manasni Khwäich appearing also to be very uncomfortable, I gave him liberty to return to Kābul The shikdari of Biāna I conferred on Dost Ishek-Agha As Mahdi Khwajeh held the nominal government of Liva, Ib now bestowed it on Jaafer Khwajeh, the son of Kuth Khan, who had fled from Etawa and joined me 1. I halted three or four days in this ground, previous to taking leave of Humaiun c From this station I despatched Mümin Ali Tewächi to Käbul, with letters giving an account of the victory

I had heard much of the fountain of Firozpūr,2 and of the Visits the great tank of Kotilah. On Sunday, I mounted and rode out from the camp, for the double purpose of seeing the country, and of conducting Humaiun for some distance on his way That day I went to visit Firozpūr and its April 14

fountain of lirozpur and the tank of Kotilah

a they had completely reached the end of their patience

b I had previously granted the government of Ltawa to Mahdi Khwaja, and accordingly I o in order to attend to the matter of Humay un's departure

d these two marvels.

¹ [There is some confusion here, as Ja'far Khwaja was the son of Mahdi Khwaja, and, further on, Babur states that when Ltawa was abandoned by Kuth Khan, Ja'far Khwaja was sent to take charge of it in his father's room 1

^{* [}This is Firūzpūr, the head quarters of a Tahsil in the Gurgaon district, Panjab, on the route from Delhi to Alwar, situated seventy four miles south of the former It is said to have been founded by Firoz Shah Tughlak to control the Mewatis. The springs alluded to are known according to the Gazetteer of Gurgaon as 'the Jhir of Fırüzpür']

^{*} Kotilah lies south of Alwar about thirty miles ['The Kotlah lake lies under the Firuzpur hills on the borders of the Firuzpur and Nuh Tahsils. It is the largest lake in the (Gurgaon) district, being three miles long by two and a half broad'-Gazetteer of Gurgaon. Drainage operations must doubtless have curtailed its size since Bābur s time.

fountain, and took a maajūn In the valley from which the water of the fountain flows, the hantr¹ flowers were all in full bloom It is very beautiful, though it will not support the high praises lavished upon it Within this valley, where the stream widens, I directed a reservoir to be made of hewn stone, ten by ten We halted that night in the valley, and next morning rode to visit the tank of Kotilah One of its banks is formed by the side of a hill, and the river Mānasni flows into it 2 It is a very large tank, but does not look well from either of its sides b In the midst of the tank is a rising ground, around it are a number of small boats The inhabitants of the towns on the banks of the tank, when any alarm or confusion occurs, embark in their boats, and make their escape When I arrived there, a number of people got into their boats, and rowed into the middle of the lake After riding to the tank, I returned to Humājūn's camp, where I rested and dined, after which I invested the Mirza and his Begs with dresses of honour, and towards bed-time prayers, took leave of Humaian, mounted,

April 15

Hımüıün takes leave April 16.

Babur visits the fountain near Busawer my journey and reached the camp, which I found at Tudeh Having marched from Tudeh, when we alighted at Somgīr, Hassan Khan's son, Nāhir Khan, who had been delivered into the custody of Abdal-rahīm, made his escape Leaving this place, the second march brought us and slept at a place on the road I afterwards mounted again, and, towards dawn, passed the perganna of Kuhri,3 where I took a little more rest, after which I continued a It is surrounded on all sides by the hills that hem it in,

b It is so large that the eye cannot clearly distinguish objects on one side from the other

^{1 [}Olcander]

^{* [}The Mānasm, or Mānasle (man taker), now known as the Ruparel, enters the district (of Gurgaon) from Alwar, and passes up the Firūzpūr valley along the Landdha channel After Bābur's time, instead of falling into the Kotla lake, it appears to have been artificially diverted, or naturally found its way into Bharatpūr (Gazetteer of Gurgaon)]

^{* [}Kohri is marked on Rennell's map as a village in the Alwar

state about fifteen miles south east of Alwar city]

^{• [}Tuda Bhīm is the head quarters of a Tahsil in the Jaipur state in Rāiputāna, situated sixty two miles east of Jaipur city] to the fountain which is on the face " of the hill, between Busawer and Jhuseh, where we halted I here erected an awning, and had a marjun. When the camp passed this way, Terdi Beg Khāksār had praised this fountain. We now went and visited it on horseback b. It is a very beautiful In Hindustan there are searcely any artificial fountain water-courses, so that fount was for confining and conducting the water c are not to be looked for. What few fountains there are ooze out, as if distilling from the ground, but do not burst forth like the springs in our countries The water of this fountain might be about half large enough to drive a mill, and it issues bursting from the skirt of the hill The ground all about it is meadow pasture, and is very I gave orders that an octagonal reservoir of cut-stone should be built, where this spring issues out While we were sitting by the fountain, under the influence of our maajūn, Terdi Beg repeatedly proposed, with some appearance of vanity, that, as we were pleased with the place,d we ought to give it a name. Abdallah proposed that it should be called the Royal Fountain, Terdi Beg's delight " This proposal furnished us with great subject for merriment Dost Ishek-Agha, who came from Biana, waited on me at this fountain

Setting out from this place, I again visited and surveyed Biling, and went on to Sikri, where I halted two days, close by the garden which I had formerly directed to be had out. After giving directions about the garden, on the morning of Thursday, the 23rd of Rajeb, I pursued my way and reached Agra

I have mentioned that, during the late disturbances, the Babur gets enemy had made themselves masters of Chandwar and Rāberi I now sent Muhammed Ali Jeng-Jeng, Terdi war.

Proceeds to Biāna

April 25 Arrives in Agra possession of Chand-

b This is what made me go and see it, but I viewed it from horse back without stopping

c Omit for confining and conducting the water

d as he was the cause of the beautifying of this place,

e adorned by Tardi Beg

f During this time I busied myself in beautifying the garden, and

¹ These places lie in the Doab below Agra, but above Etawa

Beg, Küch Beg, Abdal Malük Korchi, Hussain Khan, with his Daryā-khānis,1 against Chāndwār and Rāberi They no sooner reached Chandwar, than the garrison in the place, who were Kuth Khan's people, on getting notice of their arrival, deserted and joined them. After taking possession of Chandwar, they proceeded against Raberi Hussain Khan Lohāni's people advanced beyond the suburb-fence,2 in tending to skirmish a little a, but our men had no sooner come close upon them and begun the attack, than the enemy, unable to stand their ground, took to flight Hussain Khan mounted on an elephant, reached the river in company with some others, but was drowned in crossing the Jumna On receiving intelligence of this, Kuth Khan surrendered Etāwa, and joined me b As Etāwa had at first been given to Mahdı Khwajch, hıs son Jaafer Khwajch was now sent to take charge of it, in his father's room and Etāwa

Bābur's generals repel Biban

During the war with the Pagan Sanka, a number of Hindustānis and Afghans had deserted, as has been mentioned, in consequence of which all their pergannas and governments had been seized. Sultan Muhammed Duldāi, who had abandoned Kanauj and rejoined me, was now unwilling, whether from fear or from shame, to return thither, and, in exchange for the government of Kanauj, which was thirty laks, took that of Sirhind, which was only fifteen. Kanauj was bestowed on Muhammed Sultan Mirza, with the allowance of thirty laks. Budāun was given to Kāsim Hussain Sultan, who was ordered to accompany Muhammed Sultan Mirza. Several others of the Tūrki Begs,

b managed to escape with a few followers

a Hosain Khan Lohāni's people came out to meet them with the idea of skirmishing awhile behind the barricades,

c and had taken possession of all their districts and governments

^{1 [1} e. the Khans, or chiefs, of the river banks.]

² [1 e. barricades.] ³ A son of Sultan Weis Mirza

^{*} Nearly £7,500

⁵ Budāun is in Rohikund, below Sambal [Budaon is the head quarters of a district in the United Provinces situated near the river Son. It was captured by Kutb ud din Aibek in 1196, and afterwards became an important frontier post on the northern boundary of the Delhi Empire It is famous as the birthplace of Abdul Qādir, the historian, and author of the Muntakhab ut tawārīkh (1596)]

Malık Kāsım, Bāba Kashkeh, with his brothers and Moghuls, Abul Muhammed Nezehbaz, Muavyid, with his father's followers, Sultan Muhammed Duldai, and Hussain Khan, with his Daryā-khāms, as well as several Amīrs of Hind, Alı Khan Fermüh, Malıkdad Karranı, Sheikh Muhammed, Sheikh Behkehāri, Tātār Khan, and Khan Jehān, were ordered to accompany Muhammed Sultan Mirza against Biban, who, during the confusion occasioned by the war and 1527 against Sanka the Pagan, had besieged and taken Lakhnau 2 When this army passed the river Ganges,3 Biban, having information of its approach, packed upc his baggage and fled The army pursued him as far as Khairābīd,4 halted there many d days, and afterwards returned

The treasures had been divided, but I had not hitherto Babur disfound lessure to make any arrangement as to the pergannas and provinces, the holy war against the pagans having the rainy intervened to prevent me Being now relieved from the war with the infidels. I made a division of the different provinces and districts, and the rainy season being near at hand, I directed every person to repair to his own perganna, to prepare his accourrements and arms, and be in readiness to join me again when the rains were over

perses his army for season

At this time I received information that Humaiun had Humaiun repaired to Dellii, and had there opened several of the seizes some houses which contained the treasure, and taken possession Delhi by force of the contents I certainly never expected such conduct from him, and, being extremely hurt, I wrote and sent him some letters containing the severest reprehension treasure at a Muayyıd with his father, and Hosain Khan with his Daryakhānis and the retainers of Sultan Muhammed Duldāi.

b Nikāri,

c abandoned

d some

IThis should be the Jamna.

¹ Malık Bıban Jılwanı was an Afghan chief of great power

² [Lucknow, the former capital of Oudh, is a large cantonment situated on the Gumti It was captured by Babur in 1528, and a few years later Humāyūn descated Mahmūd Lodi there It is possible, however, that Lakhnur is meant, which was a town 'a little to the east of Sambhal on the banks of the Ramganga' -E and D's History of India, vol. iv, p 384 n]

IThis may be Khairābād, a town in the district of Sītapūr, United Provinces, situated due north of Lucknow It was a place of some importance under the Mohammedan regime 1

Babur sends an ambassa dor to Persia May 16 Khwājehgi Asad had formerly been sent by me as ambassador to Irāk, and had returned accompanied by Suleimān Turkomān. On Thursday, the 15th of Shābān, I sent him back a second time, accompanied by Suleimān Turkomān, on an embassy to the Prince Tahmāsp, with some suitable rarities and curiosities as a present

Sends Terdi Beg to Kibul

Terdi Beg Khāksīr, whom I had formerly withdrawn from the life of a Derwish, and induced to betake himself to arms, had remained several years in my service, but now felt a strong desire for returning to the state of a Derwish, and asked his discharge, which I gave him—I sent him on a sort of mission to Kāmrān, to whom I made him earry three laks i of treasure—Last year I had written some Tūrki verses, with a view to those persons who had returned home in I now addressed them to Mulla Ali Khan, and sent them to him by Terdi Beg—They are as follows

Bābur's Verses

٦

(Türki)-O ye that ha e left this country of Hind,

From experience of its hardships and sufferings!
Filled with the remembrance of Kabul and its delicious climate,

You deserted the sultry Hind,

You went and now have seen and enjoyed your country, In pleasure and delight, in enjoyment and jollity, b

Yet praise be to God, we have not perished,

Though exposed to many hardships and grief mexpressible, You have escaped from pain of mind, and from bodily suffering,c

Yet I too have passed this Ramzān in the garden of Hasht Behisht,2

And have purified myself, reciting all the stated prayers (of Ramzān) d 3

From the eleventh year of my age till now, I had never a on those who had deserted us

b You have departed hence full of zeal and ardour, and there you have enjoyed all the delights of society, and a life of case,

c Add and we too are beyond the reach of their attacks,

d These two lines do not form part of the poem, and are translated thus This year we spent the Ramazan in the garden of the Eight Heavens, and fulfilled the obligation of night prayers, and purificatory ablutions

³ [A reference to the larawih, or prayers of twenty rak ahs, recited at night during the month of Ramazan.]

About £750, yet it may be lake of rupees, which would be £30,000 Hasht Behisht signifies the Eight Heavens spent two festivals 1 of the Ramzan in the same place Last year's festival I had spent in Agra In order to keep up the usage, on Sunday night the thirtieth, I proceeded June 30 to Sikri to keep the feast there A stone platform was erected on the north-east of the Garden-of-Victory, on which a set of large tents was pitched, and in them I passed the festival The night on which we left Agra, Mir Alı Korchi was sent to Tatta, to Shah Hassan 2 He was extremely fond of cards,3 and had asked for some, which I sent him

On Sunday, the 5th of Zilkaadeh, I was taken very illa My illness continued seventeen days On Friday, the 24th of the same month, I set out to proceed to Dhulpur That night I slept at a place about half-way on the road Next. morning I rode as far as b Sultan Sikander's mound,4 where I alighted Below the mound, where the hill terminates, there is a huge mass of red stone I sent for Ustad 5 Shah Muhammed, the stone-cutter, and gave him directions. if he could make a house out of the solid stone, to do it If the stone was too small o for a house, to level it and make a reservoir in the solid rock From Dhulpur I went and visited Bari 6 Next morning I mounted and left Bari, Aug 25 and passing a hill that lies between Bari and the Chambal,d rode as far as the river Chambal, and returned hill, between the Chambal and Barr. I saw the ebony tree Its fruit is called tinda? A white species of ebony tree is also often met with, in this hill the ebony trees were chiefly

He falls sick

Aug 4 His tour Dhüloür Bārı, Sil

Aug 24

Aug 26

² [Shah Hosam Arghūn was King of Sind. He succeeded his father Shah Beg in 1524, and died in 1555]

³ This is the earliest mention of playing cards that I recollect. in any eastern author ' [Le. dam.]

The head people of the engineers, artificers, &c , get the name of Ustad, which also means schoolmaster

Barı lies between Biana and Dhülpür [Nineteen miles from the latter place]

⁷ [Two varieties of the ebony tree are found in North India (Diospyrus melanoxylon and D tomentosa), which, according to Brandis, are hardly distinguishable from each other 1 a with a sore throat

c low

b I reached at dawn

d Chambal [the town].

¹ This gives a lively idea of the unsettled life of Bābur *[The festival referred to is the 'Id ul fitr, which is held to celebrate the breaking of the Ramazan Fast on the first of Shawwal.]

Aug 28

white Leaving Bari, I visited Sikri, and on Wednesday, the 20th of the same month, reached Agra

About this time I heard disagreeable accounts of Shokh Bayerid's 1 proceedings I sent Sultan Ali Türk to arrange a truce of twenty days with him

Aug 30

On Friday, the 2nd of Zilhijeh, I began to read the texts, which were to be repeated forty-one times? At this same period I composed the verses,

 $(T\hat{u}rls)$ —Let me celebrate thine eyes, thine eyebrows, thy converse, thy love,

Let me celebrate thy cheeks, thy hair, and thy kindness to in five hundred and four measures, and collected them in a book b. At this time I again fell sick, c and was ill for nine days. On Thursday, the 29th of Zillinjeh, I set out on horseback to visit Koel and Sambal?

Sept 20

EVENTS OF THE YEAR 934

Blbur's tour to koel and Sambal A D 1527 Sept 28 A D 1527 On Saturday, the first of Muharrem, we encamped at Koel⁴ Derwish and Alı Yüsef, who had been left by Humānūn in Sambal,⁵ had defeated Kuth Sirwāni, and several Rajas, who had crossed a river and attacked them, had killed a number of the enemy, and sent me some of their heads and an elephant, which reached me while I was at Koel, where I spent two days in visiting the place On the invitation of Sheikh Güren I alighted at his house After dinner he presented me with a peshkesh a Tell me !

Are these her eyes, her eyebrows, her speech, and her language? Are these her gart, her cheeks, her hair and her waist?

b and composed a treatise on the subject

c Add with a sore throat, d Add totally

e each of the two rivers [Ganges and Jamna]

f After a sumptuous entertainment

¹ [This was Mustafa Fermuli s younger brother]

³ Koel is in the Doab, Sambal to the cast of the Ganges, in Rohilkand.

Sambal is higher up, on the left of the Ganges.

These texts were to operate as a charm, to produce his entire recovery [This exercise consists in the recital of certain selected verses (wird) of the Quran.]

л п 934

Sets out against Chanders Dec. 9

Dec 12

Dec 23. Dec 20

Dec 27

Sends Muhammed Alı Jeng Jeng against the Afghans m the east

Having returned from my visit to Sikri on Monday, the 14th of the first Rala, I set out, in pursuance of a yow. on a holy war against Chander, and, marching three kos. halted at Jalisir, where, having stayed two days, in order to accoutre and review " my troops, on Thursday I marched forward, and halted at Anwar 2 Leaving Anwar in a boat, I passed Chandwar, and landed From thence we proceeded, march after march, and on Monday, the 28th of the month. halted at the ford of Kanar 2 On Thursday, the 2nd of the latter Rabi, I crossed the river I remained four or five days, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, to get my army conveyed across During that time, I regularly went aboard of a boat, and indulged in a maajun. The junction of the Ganges and Chambal is a kos or two above the ford of Kanar On Friday, I embarked in the river

Though I had no decisive proofs of Sheikh Bayezīd's hostility, I was well assured, from his way of proceeding and general conduct, that he was hostilely inclined On this account I detached Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng from the army, and sent him to bring together at Kanaul, Muhammed Sultan Mirza, and the Sultans and Amirs in that quarter. such as Küsim Hussain Sultan, Taimür Sultan, Malık Küsım Kokı, Abul Muhammed Nezelibäz, Manüchelier Klian. with his brothers and the Darya-khanis, and to march with them, under his command, against the hostile Afghans He was directed to summon Sheikh Bayezid to attend

Chambal in a boat, and passing over at the point of junction,

went on to the camp

3 [Kanār 18 mentioned in the Ayīn 1 Akbarī as a Mahāl of Kālpī in the Subah of Agra.]

a to carry out my intention of engaging in b supply

¹ Chanders is a town and district in Malwa, to the west of Bundel kand. It lies on the Betwa river

² [This is probably Anwara (or Unwara as it is spelt in the Indian Atlas, Sheet 50), which lies on the left bank of the Jamna, and con sequently on the opposite side to Agra. It is in the Agra district, and twelve miles distant from Agra city as the crow flies. The Jalisir referred to in this passage cannot be the Jalesar in the Etah district. It was probably an unimportant village near Agra, but I have been unable to identify it.]

If he came frankly, they were to take him along with them on the expedition, if he did not join them, they were then, first of all, to settle his business Muhammed Ali asked me for a few elephants, I gave him ten Muhammed Alı had been sent off, I directed Baba Chilireh also to join them

I advanced one march from Kanar in a boat On Wednes- Proceeds day, the 8th of the last Rabi, we halted within a kos of towards Külpi 1 Büba Sultan, the younger brother of the full blood of Jan 1528 Sultan Said Khan,2 the son of Sultan Khalil Sultan, came and waited on me at this station. Last year he had fled from his elder brother, and come to my territories, a but soon after, changing his mind, b had gone off from the country of When he got near Käshgar, however, Khan Haider Mirza was sent to meet him, and to desire him to return back c

Next morning I halted at Kalpi, at Alm Khan's house Jan 2 He entertained me with a dinner, in which the meats were dressed after the Hindi fashion, and presented me with n peshlesh

On Monday the 13th, I marched from Kalpi, and on Friday Jan 6 we encomped in Iraj 3 On Saturday we reached Bandir 4

Jan 10 Jan 11

On Sunday the 19th, I sent forward in advance Chin Jan 12 Taimur Sultan with six or seven thousand men, against nafar as Anderab, b feeling remorseful, c and brought him back.

Chander The Begs who went on this expedition were Bāki Ming-Begi ¹ Terdi Beg, Kūch Beg, Āshik Bekāwel, Mulla Apāk, Mulisin Duldāi, and of the Amīrs of Hindustān, Sheikh Gūren

Jan 17

Reaches Kachweh

On Friday the 24th, we encamped near Kachweh I sent to assure the inhabitants of Kachweh that they had nothing to apprehend, and bestowed the place on Budreddin's Kachweh is rather a pretty place. It is surrounded by small hills On a hill to the north-east of Kachweh." they have constructed a mound 2 for collecting the water, and formed a large tank which may be five or six kos in circumference. This tank encloses Kachweh on three of To the north-west there is a small neck of dry its sides land, on which side is the gate of the town. In this tank they have very small boots, which may hold three or four persons Whenever they are obliged to flee, they betake themselves to their boats, and push out into the middle of the tank Before coming to Kachweh, in two other places, we had met with similar mounds thrown up between hills and tanks formed, but they were less than that at Kachweli

A D 1525

Arrives before Chanderi Jan 18

Im 19 and 20 Having halted one day at Kachweh, I sent on a number of overseers and pioneers to level the inequalities of the road, and to cut down the jungle to admit of the guns and carriages passing without difficulty. Between Kachweh and Chanderi the country is jungly. Leaving Kachweh, the second day's march brought us within three kos of Chanderi, where we encamped, having previously crossed the river of Burhanpur³

The citadel of Chanderi⁴ is situated on a hill. The outer fort and town he in the middle of the slope of the hill. The straight road, by which cannon can be conveyed, passes right below the fort b. After marching from Burhan pur, we passed a kos lower down than Chanderi, on account of our guns, and at the end of the march, on Tuesday

[&]quot; Among the hills to the south east of it, " outer fort

e recond mutch

¹ [Leader of a thousand]
² [A tributary of the Betwa]

^{&#}x27;[Chanden is a town, now much decayed, 10; miles south of Gwili'r]

the 28th, encumped on the banks of Bahjet Khan's tank, Jan 21 on the top of the mound a posts around the fort, to the different divisions of my army, for the to the centre, and to the right and left wings In placing his Jan 22 battery. Ustad Alı Kulı chose a piece of ground that had no slope Overseers and pioneers were appointed to construct works on which the guns were to be planted All the men of the army were directed to prepare turas and scalingladders, and to serve the turas 1 which are used in attacking forts Chanderi had formerly belonged to the Sultans of Mandu After the death of Sultan Nasır-ed-din,2 one of his sons, Sultan Mahmūd, who is now in Māndu, got possession of Mandu and the neighbouring countries, another of his sons, Muhammed Shah, seized on Chanderi, and applied to Sultan Sikander for protection Sultan Sikander sent several large armies, and supported him in his dominions After Sultan Sikander's demise,3 in Sultan Ibrahim's reign, Muhammed Shah died, leaving a young son of the name of Ahmed Shah Sultan Ibrahim carried off b Ahmed Shah, and established one of his own people in his stead When Sanka advanced with an army igainst Ibrahim as fai as Dhülpür, that prince a Amīrs rose against him, and on that occasion Chanderi fell into Sanka's hands. He bestowed it on one Medini Rao,4 a pagan of great consequence, who was now in the place with four or five thousand pagans As Arāish Khan had long been on terms of friendship with him, I sent Araish Khan to him, along with Sheikh Güren, to assure him of my favour and elemency, and offering him

Next morning I rode out and distributed the different Prepares for the

Năsir nd din 1

Shamsabad in exchange for Chanderi Two or three b drove out a dam e One or two

¹ These tūras, so often mentioned, appear to have been a sort of testudo, under cover of which the assailants advanced, and sometimes breached the wall. The word burkereh, or buzkezeh, I do not under stand. Mr Metcalfe's MS seems to read, noukerī tūra, which would signify, and to serve the tūras, which I have adopted in the text [P de C translates this 'as well as all the necessary apparatus for tūras ']

[[]A town in the Qaimgan Tahsil of the Farrukhabad district.

Jan 28

Bābur's army in Pūrab de feated considerable people about him were averse to conciliation a I know not whether he did not place perfect reliance in my promises, or whether it was from confidence in the strength of his fort, but the treaty broke off without success. On the morning of Tuesday, the 6th of the first Jumāda, I marched from Bahjet Khan's tank, for the purpose of attempting Chanderi by force, and encamped on the banks of the middle tank, which is near the fort

The same morning, just as we reached our ground, Khalifeh brought me a letter or two The tenor of them was, that the army which had been sent to the eastward (to Purab), while marching in disorder, had been attacked and defeated, that it had abandoned Lakhnau, and fallen back to Kanauj I saw that Khalifeh was in great perturbation and alarm, in consequence of this news I told hun, that alarm or discomposure was of no use, that nothing could happen but by the decrees of God, that as the enterprise in which we were engaged was still unfinished, we had better not speak a word of his intelligence, but attack the fort vigorously next morning, and see what The enemy had garrisoned every part of the citadel strongly, but had placed only a few men, by ones and twos, in the outer fort, to defend it . This very night my troops entered d the outer fort on every side. There being but few people in the place, the resistance was not They fled, and took shelter in the citadel

Chanders taken by storm Jan 29 Next morning, being Wednesday, the 7th of the first Jumāda, I commanded the troops to arm themselves, to repair to their posts, and to prepare for an assault, directing that, as soon as I raised my standard and beat my kettledrum, every man should push on to the assault—I did not intend to display my standard, nor beat the kettle-drum, till we were ready to storm, but went to see ^o Ustād Ali Kuh's battering-cannon play—He discharged three or four shot, a this proposal.

b had garrisoned the citadel only,
to guard against accidents.
d attacked

Not wishing to give the signal before the fight had waxed warm,
 I whiled away the time by watching

UP, eighteen miles north west of Farrukhābād. It is said to have been founded by Sultan Shamsuddīn Altamsh in 1228]

by one, crowded in and stretched out their necks, eager to die. In this way many went to hell, and, by the favour of God, in the space of two or three garis, I gained this celebrated fort, without raising my standards, or beating my kettle-drum, and without using the whole strength of my arms 2. On the top of a hill, to the north-west of Chanderi, I erected a tower of the heads of the pagans. The words Fatch dar-ul-harb 3 (the conquest of the city hostile to the faith) were found to contain the date of its conquest I composed the following verses.

Long was the fort of Chanden

Full of pagans, and styled the town of hostility and strife,

I stormed and conquered its castle,

And the date is the Conquest of the custle hostile to the faith

Description of Chanderi

v p 1528

Chander is an excellent country, abounding on every side with running water. Its citadel stands on a hill. In the midst of it they have excavated a large tank out of the rock. Another large tank was in the covered way, that has been mentioned as the point by which the place was attacked and taken by storm. The houses of all the inhabitants are of stone, and are beautiful and capacious. The houses of the men of consequence are of hewn stone, wrought with great skill and labour. The houses of the lower ranks are wholly of stone, generally not hewn. Instead of tiles, the houses are covered with flag-stones. In front of the fort there are three large tanks. Former governors have thrown up mounds on different sides of it, and formed these tanks. In an elevated situation in this district,

² Omit this clause.

¹ About one hour

^{* [}Khāfi Khan, the historian, gives rather a different account of this affair He affirms that the outer fort was surrendered on condition that the lives of the inhabitants and garrison were to be spared, but that, as the Rājpūts, on leaving the place, had been guilty of some acts of hostility, Bābur's troops cut three or four thousand of them in pieces—E B, p 483, note.]

³ [Dār-ul-harb (or the Land of Warfare) is a country in which peace has not been proclaimed between Muslims and Unbelievers, and in which the edicts of Islam have not been promulgated.—Hughes, Dict of Islam]

^{4 [&#}x27;And these I inserted in the following quatram' is P de C's version, which gives a better sense]

⁵ The letters in Fath-i-där ul harb make 934

called Betwi, there is a lake It is three kos from Chinderi In Hindustan the water of Betwees famous for its excellence and its agreeable taste. It is a small pretty lake. Little spots of rising ground are senttered about it, affording beautiful sites for houses a Chanden his south from Agra minety kos by the road. It is situated in the 25th degree of north latitude b

Next morning being Thursday, I marched round the fort, and encamped by the tink of Mallu Khan came, it was my design, after the capture of Chanderi, to fall upon Rai Sing,1 and Bhilsan,2 and Sarangpur which is a country of the pagans, that belonged to Silah-ed-din the Pagan, and I intended, after conquering them, to advance to Chitura against Sanka On the arrival of the unfavourable news that has been alluded to, I convened the Begs, and held a council in which it was decided that it was necessary first of all to proceed to check the rebellion of the insurgents I gave Chanderi to Ahmed Shah, who has been mentioned, the grandson of Sultan Nasır ed-din and fixed a revenuc 1 of fifty laks to be paid from it to the imperial treasury I made Mulla Apik shihdar (or military collector) of the territory, leaving him with two or three thous and Türks and Hindustānis to support Ahmed Shah

Jan 30 Bibur resolves to march to the cast ward

Having made these arrangements, on Sunday the 11th reb 2 of the first Jumada, I set out from Mallu Khan so tank on my expedition,d and halted on the banks of the river of a Isolated rocks suitable for building purposes lie about it

b The altitude of Capricorn at Chanderi is 25 degrees

I withdrew from the precincts of the town. d return,

¹ [Raisen is the head quarters of the eastern district of the Bhopāl State, C I It played an important part in the history of Malwa in early days, especially in the Muhammedan period, but is now only a petty town The fort is situated on a spur of the Vindhyas with the town at its foot]

Bhilsan, or Bhilsa, is a town and district north east of Bhopal, in Sārangpūr hes to the westward of Bhīlsa, north east from Mālwa

Uiein

2 Chitur, or Cheitore, is the capital of the Rana, or head of the Rapput governments It lies in Mewar, south from Amir

'[P de C translates this 'fine' in the feudal sense]

5 About £12,500

6 [Mallu Khan, an officer of the Khilji Government, ruled in Malwa under the title of Qadir Shah (1537-1542 AD)]

328

Burhanpür I dispatched from Bandir, Yakeh Khwajch and Jaafer Kliwajeh, to bring vessels from Kalpi to the passage at Kanār i

Feb 15 Jumna

On Saturday the 24th, having halted at the passage of Crosses the Kanar, I ordered the troops to lose no time in crossing with all possible speed. At this time I received intelligence, that the detachment which I had sent forward, after abandoning Kanaui, had fallen back to Raberi, and that a strong force 2 had advanced and stormed the fort of Shamsabad, which had been garrisoned by the troops of Abul Muhammed Nezehbäz 3 We were detained three or four days on the two banks of the river, while the army was passing. Having transported the whole army across, I proceeded, march after march, for Kanau, and sent on a party of light troops before us, in order to gain intelligence of the enemy We were still two or three marches from Kanaul, when they returned with information, that, instantly on discovering from a distance the troops who had advanced to reconnoitre, the son of Maaruf had fled from Kanauj and abandoned it, and that Biban and Bayezid, as well as Maaruf,4 on hearing of my motions, had recrossed the Ganges, and occupied the east side of the river opposite to Kanaul, hoping that they would be able to prevent my passage

Feb 27 Encamps on the Ganges

Resolves to Sizes force a pas sage. situation, about a kos below our encampment I appointed

On Thursday, the 6th of the latter Jumada, I passed Kanaul, and encamped on the western bank of the Ganges My troops went out and seized a number of the enemies' boats, which they brought in From above and from below they collected about thirty or forty boats in all, of different I sent Mir Muhammed Jālehbān to throw a bridge over the river b He accordingly went and marked out a

4 fortified

b to select a position for a bridge across the river, and to collect all the necessary materials for it

¹ The passage of Kanar, it will be recollected, is a kos or two below the junction of the Jumna and the Chambal.

^{[1,} e of the enemy] Lancer]

^{1 [}Ma'ruf Fermuli and Nasır Khan Lohani were the leaders of the Afghan confederates who supported Sultan Muhammed of Behar] commissaries to provide everything requisite for the bridge " Near the place pitched on, Ustad Ali Kuli brought a gun for the purpose of cannonading and having pitched upon a proper spot, began his fire Bāba Sultan and Derwish Sultan, with ten or fifteen men about evening prayers, crossed over in a bont without any object,c and returned back again without fighting, and having done nothing. I reprimanded them severely for having crossed Malik Kāsim Moghul and a few men passed over once or twice in a boat, and had very creditable affairs with small bodies of the enemy. Having plinted a swivel on an island, d at a place below where the bridge was constructing, a fire was commenced from it. Higher up than the bridge a breastwork was raised over which the matchlockmen fired with great execution . At length Malik Käsim with a few men, having defeated a party of the enemy led away by excess of confidence, pursued them with slaughter up to their camp. The enemy sallied out in great force with an elephant, attacked him, and threw his troops into confusion, driving them back into their boat, and before they could put off, the elephant came up and swamped the boat Malik Kasım perished in this affair For several days, while the bridge was constructing Ustad Alı Kulı played his gun remarkably well. The first day, he discharged it eight times, the second day, sixteen times, and for three or four days he continued firing in the same way The gun which he fired was that called Dig Ghazi 1 (or the victorious gun) It was the same which had been used in the war with Sanka the Pagan, whence it got this name Another gun, larger than this, had been planted, a I forthwith appointed active and careful overseers, to supervise the operation

b in the direction which he considered most suitable,

c carried away by misplaced ardour,

d Mustafa Rumi having transported to an island in the river some culvering mounted on gun carriages,

e The order of the passages from Baba Sultan to execution is reversed

 $^{^1}$ Dig is now always applied to a mortar. They seem, like our selves, to have taken their name for it from the kitchen. The Türki käsun significs, like $d\bar{t}g$, a kettle

A D 1528 but it burst at the first fire. The matchlock-men continued actively employed in shooting, and they struck down a number both of men and horses with their shot. Among others, they killed two of the royal slaves, and a number of their horses a

Bābur erosses the Ganges March 11 March 12

As soon as the bridge was nearly completed, on Wednesday the 19th of the last Jumāda, I moved and took post at the end of it b The Afghans, amazed at our attempt to throw a bridge over the Ganges, treated it with contempt of On Thursday, the bridge being completed, a few of the infantry and Lahōris crossed, and had a slight action with the enemy On Friday, part of my household troops, the right of the centre, the left of the centre, my best troops,d and foot musketeers, crossed over All the Afghans having armed themselves for battle, mounted, and, advancing with their elephants, attacked them. At one time they made an impression on the troops of the left, and drove them back, but the troops of the centre and of the right stood their ground, and finally drove from the field the enemy opposed to them Two persons, hurried on by their impetuosity, advanced to some distance from the main body of the troops to which they belonged One of them was dismounted and taken on the spot Both the other and his horse were wounded in several places His horse, in a feeble and tottering condition, escaped,o and dropped down when it had reached the middle of the party to which it belonged That day, seven or eight heads were brought in Many of the enemy were wounded by arrows or matchlocks The fight continued sharply till afternoon prayers whole night was employed in bringing back, across the bridge, such as had passed to the other side. If that same Saturday eve1 I had carried over the rest of my army, it is probable that most of the enemy would have fallen into our a both some workmen among the slaves, who had run away, and a both some workmen among the slaves, who had run away, and a few travellers with their horses

March 13

b I prepared to move the camp

The enemy, who believed that our undertaking was still far from completion, laughed at our offorts

d Omit my best troops,

c turned round,

^{1 [}Or rather Friday evening]

But it came into my head, that last year I had set out on my march from Sīkri, to attack Sanka, on New-Year's Day, which fell on a Tuesday, and had overthrown my enemy on a Saturday this year, we had commenced our march against these enemies on New-Year's Day, which fell upon a Wednesday, and that if we beat them on a Sunday, it would be a remarkable coincidence On that account I did not march my troops On Saturday the enemy did not March 14 come out to action, but stood afar off, drawn up in order of That day we conveyed over our artillery, and next morning the troops had orders to cross About the beat of the morning drum information reached us from the advanced guard that the enemy had gone off and fled I commanded Chin Tamur Sultan to push on before the army, in pursuit of the enemy, and I appointed Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng, Husam-ud-din Alı Khalifeh, Mulubb Alı Khalīfeh Koki Bāba Kashkeh, Dost Muhammed Bāba Kashkeh, Bākı Tāshkendı, and Walı Kızıl, to accompany Sultan, for the purpose of pressing upon and cutting off the enemy, and enjoined them to pay the most implicit obedience to his orders. I also crossed over about the time of early morning prayers 2 I directed the camels to be led over by a ford lower down, which had been surveyed 3 That day, being Sunday, I encamped within a kos of Bangermou 4 on the banks of a pool The detachment which had been sent on to harass the enemy, had little success a They had halted at Bangermou, and the same day,5 about noon-day prayers, set out again from that place b Next morning, March 16 I encamped by a tank that is in front of Bangermou, and, the same day, Tukhteh Būgha Sultan, a younger son of

March 15

The enemy retire

a had been remiss in their movements

b They were still at Bangermadu, whence they did not march till a little after noon-day prayers on that very day

¹ [The second portion of these double names probably denotes the parentage]

² Sunnet are the prayers repeated after the first sleep

^{3 [1.} e. discovered.]

Bangermou stands on the river of Belgram, south east from Kanauj [Bilgram is on the river Garrah, a tributary of the Ram ganga, north east of Kanaui]

[[]He means 'that very day' (Sunday)]

46.62

in material under the counter than, waited upon me On Saturday, the Little of the latter Jumble, I revised lookhous and have surveyed it, paced the riser tounts under amped. The same day I bathed in the riser Counts. I know not whether may water to into my ear, or whether it was the effect of the pir, but I become deaf in the right ear though it yas not be every painful.

March ~

Wrarp still at red portr elementally by two man work of arrived from thin Taingir Sultan ath listelles over the the thems have ruranged on the other ade of the Seed and that he would require to be ranforced. I do greeked to be a notance a thousand of the lest men from the center under the command of barat. On Saturday the 7th of Rajeb Lemanped two or three Lor done Only, at the pretion of the Courvand Same Hill that day Sheikh Baredt had kept his station, not far from thells on the other wife of the Same. He had went a letter to Sultan for the mirror of exercision, him! Sult in his in discovered his insincents, about no makes presses sent a person to call Isara heli to his assist mee, and be, in to in do preparations for passing the river. When Karacheh had journed Sultan they proved the river without delay. There were about lifts horse, with three or four elephants on the other side, who being unable to stand their ground, took to fight. Our prople brought down some of them and cut off their heads which they sent me Bikhub Sultan Terdi Beg. Kuch Beg. Balia Chilirch, and Bibli Shaghawel passed the river after those who had proved over first continued till evening prayers in pursuat of Sheikh Bayezid, who threw bluself into a jungle, and escaped. Chin Tumur Sultan having halted at might by a pool mounted again about

^{*} opposite to opening negotiations with him

^{1 [}Or 'a chill , according to P de C]

^{* [}The city of Oudh or Axeshva is situated on the right bank of the Gogra, a few miles below its junction with the Surju. It is a place of immeasurable antiquity as its extensive runs bear witness. It is the legendary site of Ivama's birthplace and as such may be regarded as the Mesca of the Hindus. Avodhva was the capital of the ancient kingdom of Koshala. It is his initial from the modern city of Lairabad.]

^{1 |} This is evidently another name for Kazak mentioned above |

midnight, and renewed his pursuit of the enemy. After March 29 marching forty kos lie came to a place where their families and baggage a had been but they were already in full flight The light force now divided itself into different bodies, Baki Shaghawel with one division following close upon the enemy, overtook their baggage and families, and brought in a few of the Afghans as prisoners

I halted some days in this station for the purpose of settling the affairs of Oudh and the neighbouring country, and for making the necessity arrangements. Seven or eight kos above Oudh on the banks of the river Saru, is the well known tract called the Hunting ground 1 I sent Mir Muhammed Jalchban to examine the fords of the rivers Gogra and Sara, which he did On Thursday, the 12th, I April 2 mounted to set off on a hunting party

The remaining transactions of this year are not to be found in any of the copies which I have nict with nor do the historians of Hindustan throw any light on them l'norion 1

LVENTS OF THE YEAR 0352

ON Friday, the 3rd of Muharrem Askeri,2 whom before wp 152s, marching against Chanderi, I had sent for to advise with on the affairs of Multan 4 having arrived. I received him in my private apartments

a aftendants

b I had often heard it said that the banks of the Saru, seven or eight kos above Oude were full of game

2 Mr Flphinstone's Türki copy here commences again, after a long interval [The Hijri year 935 begins on September 15 A D 1528]

² [Askari, Bābur's third son, was governor of the province of Multān and about twelvo years old.]

4 [Multan is the head quarters of a division and district in the Panjab, situated four miles from the present left bank of the Chenab As late as Timur's day (1398) the Ray I flowed parter c town, and

^{1 (}Lanc Poolo (in his Baber) states that after the defeat of the Afghan arms, Baber returned to Agra for the rams season' Flphin stone (History of India) observes that 'Baber seems to have com pelled the Afghan rebels to take refuge in the territories of the King of Bengal, and it was probably during this period that he reduced Southern Behar, but for some months after this Baber seems to have been in bad health, and to have indulged in a longer course of relaxa tion than often fell to his lot ']

Sept 10

Next morning Khwand-Amir,1 the lustorian, Moulana Shahāb the Enigmatist, and Mīr Ibrahīm, the performer on the hanan,2 who were intimate friends of a Yunis Ali, and had come from Heri a long time before, from a desire to be introduced to me, came, and were introduced

About afternoon prayers, on Sunday, the 5th of the month.

Sept 20 Bäbur visits Gwi intending to visit Gwaliar, which in books they write Galiar. I passed the Jumna, and entered the fort of Agra, and. after having taken leave of Fakher-Jehan Begum and Khadijeh-Sultan Begum, who were both to set out for Kābul in the course of two or three b days, I pursued my Muhammed Zemān Mirza, having asked leave, stayed behind in Agra I travelled four or five kos the same evening, and then I halted, and slept on the banks of the large tank We said our prayers next morning earlier than the stated time, and set out, and, having passed the noon of the day on the banks of the river Gambir,3 we left that place after noon-day prayers, and at Talkan I drank a

Sept 21

a who was a kinsman of

- b three or four
- C On the road, having become fatigued by constant battling against a raging wind, I swallowed, in order to revive my spirits, a medicine in the form of a powder prepared for me by Mulla Raf'a medicine which Mulla Rafaa had made for sustaining the spirits, and which I had carried along with me o It was very joined the Chenab ten miles lower down. It is a town of immense antiquity, and was formerly famous for its Temple of the Sun (Mulas than), the site of which is now occupied by Aurangzeb's mosque was a place of great importance from the earliest times owing to its strategic position, and legend erroneously connects it with being the capital of the Mallor stormed by Alexander the Great. It is now a flourishing trade centre 1

1 [Ghyās ud din Muhammed Khondamīr was the celebrated author of the Khulasat al alhbar (1498), and the Habib us siyar (1521), besides many other works. He was born in Herat about the year 1475, and left it in 1527 for India, accompanied by Shahab ud din, the punster, and Mirza Ibrahim, the musician After Babur's death Khondamir attached himself to Humayun, and died on that emperor's expedition against Bahadur Shah of Gujerat in 1535 near the tomb of Nızam ud din Aulia, outside Delhi Shahab ud din, the punster (Mu'ammat), was a good poet, and wrote a book of enigmas. He died in the same year as his friend Khondamir (1635)]

* Kānūns—the kānūn is a large, stringed musical instrument.

³ [The Gambhir river flows through the State of Jaipur and running nauseous and unpalatable Afternoon prayers were passed, when I alighted at a garden and palace which I had directed to be laid out, within a kos of Dhulpur, to the west This place, on which I had given orders for building a palace, and laving out a garden, lies on the extremity of the brow b of a hill The steep where the hill terminates, is composed of a solid red stone, fit for hewing I directed the hill to be cut down as low as the ground, and if a block of solid stone was found of sufficient size to admit of being cut into a house, that it should accordingly be excavated, and hewn into a house, if the stone had not sufficient depth for that purpose, that then they should hew down the rock into a level flat form, and excavate it into a tank stone of the hill was found not to be high enough, to admit of a house being excavated, out of a single block I therefore directed Ustad Shah Muhammed, my stone-cutter, to make an octagonal covered tank on the top of the solid rock, which had been hewn into a platform c The stonecutters were ordered to work incessantly To the north of the place in which I desired this tank to be hollowed out of the solid rock, there are a number of mango, jaman, and of other kinds of trees In the middle of these trees I had ordered a well to be dug, ten gaz by ten, and it was nearly completed The water of this well flows into the tank that has been mentioned On the west d of this well. Sultan Sikander had raised a mound, on which he had built houses Above the mound, the waters of the rainy season are collected, and a large tank has been formed 1 The tank is surrounded by a hill 6 To the east of the tank f I directed that they should hew, out of the solid rock, a platform and seats for resting I directed a mosque to be built to the west of it

Reaches Dhülpür

Works carrying on a pavilion b spur

c by forming a cistern cut out of one piece

d north west

e to the east of which there is a garden

f in this same direction

along the north boundary of Dhulpur joins the Jamna on the right bank below Agra]

¹ [This may be the Machkand tank, which is about two miles from Dhūlpūr]

Sept 22 and 23

Sept 24 Crosses the Chambal

I stayed all Tuesday and Wednesday to examine and give directions concerning these works On Thursday I again set out, and crossed the river Chambal, I spent the time of noon-day prayers on the banks of the river, and, between noon-day and afternoon prayers, again mounted and left the banks of the Chambal, and having passed the river Kawari between evening and bed-time prayers, I halted The river was much swelled by the rain, we made them swim our horses across, and we ourselves passed in a wherry Next morning, being Friday, the 10th of Muharrem, the Id-

Sept 25

Reaches Gwiliar, and surveys the place Sept 26

e-Aashureh. I set out again, and passed the noon at a village on the road About bed-time prayers I alighted at a Chārbāgh, a kos from Gwāliār, to the north, which I had last year ordered to be laid out Next morning, before a noon-day prayers, I mounted, and rode out to visit the rising grounds 2 to the north of Gwaliar, and having seen them and the chapels and religious places, b I entered Gwäliar by the Hatipul gate,3 which is close by Rajah Mänsing's palace, and proceeded to Raja Bikermajīt's palace, where Rahimdad had resided, and alighted there just as afternoon prayers were over The same night, on account of the pain in my car, and as it was moonshine,4 I took some opium. Next morning, the sickness that and I vomited a good deal In spite of my sickness, I went The palaces over all the palaces of Mansing and Bikermajit They of Mansing are singularly beautiful palaces, though built in different and Bikermaiīt

Sept 27

a after

b the oratory.

followed the effects of the opium was very oppressive,

¹ The Feast of the Tenth [The 'Ashura was a fast day (not a feast) observed on the 10th of the month of Muharram. It is the only day of the Muharram observed by Sunni Muslims and commemorates the creation of Adam and Eve, Heaven and Hell, and Life and Death.]

In Thornton's Gazetteer of India this rising ground is referred to as 'a conical hill to the north, which is surmounted by a remarkable building of stone ', doubtless a Hindu temple]

² [The Hāthiya Paur, one of the six gates of the north east entrance, was built by Mān Singh (1486-1516), and was part of his palace.

⁴ The inhabitants of India, and the Persians, believe moonshine to be cold. [Indians are very much afraid of moonstroke, and opium is supposed to counteract its evil effects ?

Though they have had all the ingenity of mentioned a Hindustan bestowed on them, yet they are but uncomfortable b places The palace of Bikermajit, the son of Mansing, is in the north side of the fort, in the middle of an open piece of ground The palace of the son does not equal that of the father There is one large dome, which, however, is very dark, though after being a while in it, you can contrive to see a little Below this large dome there is a small house, which receives no direct light from any quarter On the top of the large dome, Rahīmdād erected a small awning o when he took up his residence in Bikermajit's palace From Bikermajit's palace to that of his father is a secret passage, which is not at all visible from without, and even within the palace no entrance to it is seen, the light is admitted in several places. It is a very singular road Having visited these palaces, I mounted my horse again and went to the college founded by Rahimdad I also walked through the garden which he had formed, on the banks of the large tank, to the south of the fort, and arrived late at the Charbagh, where our people were encamped There were many flowers in this garden, and particularly very fine red hantrs 2 in great numbers The hantrs of this country resemble the peach flower The kanir of Gwahar is red, and of a beautiful colour. I took some red hantre from Gwaliar, and planted them in the gardens at Agra On the southern hilld is a large tank,3 in which the water that falls in the rainy season is collected. To the west of the tank is a lofty idol temple 4 Sultan Shamseddin.

I lol temple

43

Rahimd'id's

garden

college and a which are also situated underground

b airless

d On the south of the garden

c pavilion,

¹ [The palace of Vikramaditya (1516-26) is between the Man Singh (1486-1516) and Karan (1464-79) palaces and connected with them by narrow galleries. The roof is flat, and has an open pavilion on it which was built in 1516.]

^{* [}The oleander (Nerrum odorum)]

² [Possibly the Sun tank, which is the largest in the fort and adjoins the Sasbahu temple]

^{4 [}This may be the Teh Mandir (80 feet), the highest temple in the fort]

Altamsh built a grand mosque close upon it 1 The idol temple is very high, indeed, it is the highest building in the fort From the hill of Dhulpur, the fort of Gwahar and this idol temple are distinctly seen. They say that all the stones of the temple were dug out of the great tank In this little garden an excellent idlar (or grand open hall, supported on pillars) has been constructed Low and inelegant porticos have been erected at the garden-gate, according to the Hindustanı fashıon

Next morning, about noon-day prayers, I mounted, Sept 28 for the purpose of seeing such places about Gwaliar as I had not previously visited, and went to the palace called Bādalger,2 on the outside of Mansing's fort, after seeing which we entered by the Hatipul gate, and went to visit a place named Adwa 3 This Adwa is a valley that hes west of the Valley of fort Though it lies on the outside of the wall which is carned round the top of the hill, yet the mouth of the valley is closed up by two lofty ramparts, the one within The height of these works is nearly thirty or the other The inner rampart is the longest and highest forty gaz and is connected at both its extremities with the walls of the From the middle of this wall, but lower than it. another rampart has been begun, but is not a perfect defence It was made as a covered way to a water-run a In the middle of it they have made a wain,4 for the supply of water, a staircase of ten or fifteen steps conducts down to the water The road passes, from the greater rampart, along the one that has the wain within it Above its gate is the name of Sultan Shamseddin Altamsh, sculptured in a In the space comprised between these two ramparts but lower than them, another unfinished wall had been built which was intended to serve as a water channel

¹ [The Jyanti thora Temple, of which no trace survives, was destroyed by Sultan Shams ud din Altamsh in 1232, and this mosque may have been built of its ruins.]

² [This is probably the palace now known as Gujarni, which was built by Man Singh for his favourite wife. It is situated at the foot of the fort in the western half of the outwork called Badalgarh There are three other palaces in the fort beside those described by Bābur]

2 [This is the Urwah Valley, or outwork.]

A large well, with apartments round its sides

AD 1232-3 the stone at Its date is the year 630. Below the outer rampart, on the outside of the fort, is a large tank frequently dries up, and is not a perfect tank. The water is led off from it by conduits b. In the middle of this Adwa are two other large tanks, which the people of the fort extol above all other waters On three sides, the hill is a perpendicular rock c The colour of the stone is like that of Biana, though not so red, being of a paler colour They have hewn the solid rock of this Adwa, and sculptured out of it idols of larger and smaller size 2. On the south part of it is a large idol, which may be about twenty gaz's in These figures are perfectly naked, without even a rag to cover the parts of generation. Around the two large tanks which are within the Adwa, they have dug twenty or twenty-five wells,4 from which water is drawn for the purposes of irrigation, and they have planted numbers of trees and flowers, that are supplied from hence Adwa is far from being a mean place, on the contrary, it is externely pleasant. Its greatest fault consists in the idolfigures all about it I directed these idols to be destroyed On returning back from Adwa into the fort, I went to the a Above the gate, which leads from the larger rampart to the wall that encloses the win, is sculptured in stone the name of Sultan Shams ud din Altamsh

b It frequently gots low and dries up Its contents fall into the (covered) water channel

o the valley (Urwah) consists of perpendicular rocks

d They have hown the rocks, which rise up at the sides of the Adwa, out of the solid,

¹ [This is probably the Urwah Gate leading into the fort from the Urwah outwork. Bābur refers to it later as the Sultan pol Shams ud din Altamsh (1211-36) must have built this gate three years before his death (1233)]

² [The Rock Sculptures of Gwāhār, according to Sir A. Cunning ham, are unique in northern India, as well for their number as for their gigantic size. They are divided by that archaeologist into five groups, one of the most important of which is the Urwāhi series, situated on the south side of the Urwah (Adwa) Valley These soulp tures, according to the same authority, are of Jain origin, and date from about 1467, or sixty years before their mutilation by Bābur's orders.]

² [Fifty seven feet.]

4 [The wells in the Urwah quarter still supply the only good drinking water in the fort.]

Sultan-pūl, the gate of which had been shut up from the time of the pagans, and, about evening prayers, arrived in a garden which Rahīmdād had laid out, where I alighted and spent the night

Next day, being Tuesday the 14th, messengers arrived Bikermajit from Bikermajīt, the second son of Rāna Sanka, who, with agrees to surrender his mother Padmāwati, was in Rantambhor Before setting Rantamout to visit Gwāliār, a persona had come from a Hindu bhor Sept 29 named Asūk, who was high in Bikermajīt's confidence, with offers of submission and allegiance, expressing a hope that he would be allowed seventy laks1 as an annuity The bargain was concluded, and it was settled that, on delivering up the fort of Rantambhor, he should have pergannas assigned him equal to what he had asked After making this arrangement, I sent back his messengers When I went to survey Gwāliār, I made an appointment to meet his men in Gwahar They were several days later than the appointed time Asūk, the Hindu, had himself been with Padmiwati, b Bikermajit's mother, and had explained to the mother and son everything that had passed They approved of Asūk's proceedings, and agreed to make the proper submissions, and to rank themselves among my subjects When Rana Sanka defeated Sultan Mahmud and made him prisoner,2 the Sultan had on a splendid crown-cap 3 and golden girdle, which fell into the hands of the pagan, who, when he set Sultan Mahmud at liberty, retained them They were now with Bikermajit His elder brother Rattansen, who had succeeded his father as Rana, and who was now in possession of Chitur, had sent to desire his younger brother to deliver them up to him, which he refused to do By the persons who came from him to wait on me, he now sent o me this crown and golden girdle, and asked Biana in exchange for Rantambhor I diverted them from their demand of Biana, and Shamsabad was fixed on is the equivalent for Rantambhor The same day I bestowed

n emissaries

b who was a near relation of Padmāvati,

^c promised

¹ About £17,500

^{3 [}Jewelled fillet, or headband.]

^{· [1519]}

dresses of honour on his people, and dismissed them, after making an appointment for a meeting at Biāna in nine days

Pag in sculpture at Gwihār

I went from the garden to visit the idol temples of Gwähar Many of them are two and three stories high The different stories are very low, in the ancient fushion In the screen and lower parts of the building are the figures of idols sculptured out of the stone There are a number of idol chapels around, like the cells of a college In front is a large and lofty dome. Its apartments a resemble those of a college Above each apartment are very narrow domes cut out of the rock b In the lower apartments, they have hewn images out of the stone 1 After viewing the edifices, I went out by the west gate of Gwahar, and proceeding to the south of the fort, after examining the ground, reached the Charbagh which Rahimdad had laid out before the Hatipul gate, and there dismounted Rahimdad had prepared an entertainment for me at the Chärbägh IIc gave me an excellent dinner, and afterwards presented me with a large peshhesh, to the amount of four laks in money and goods From this Charbagh, I arrived late at the Charbagh where I had my quarters

Waterfall Sept 30 On Wednesday the 15th, I set out to visit a waterfall, which hes about six kos to the south-cast of Gwāhār—I had left my ground early in the morning, and reached the waterfall after noon-day prayers. The torrent, which is large enough to turn a null, rushes right over a perpendicular

a cells

b Some of these ideal temples are arranged like a college. The hall, which encloses the ideals, is surmounted by a large and left dome, and just as in a college, each of the cells that are attached to it has a cupola of carved stone.

^{&#}x27; As I had started rather late I did not reach my destination till well after noon

¹ [Sir A. Cunningham wrote a very interesting account of the antiquities of Gwāliar, to which I am indebted for the preceding notes. There are ten temples now extant in the fort, the most important of which are the larger Sasbabu (1093), the finest of all, and the Toli Mandir, the highest—the smaller Sasbabu, and the Chaturbhuj (876)—These are all of Hindu style except one (built about 1108) which is Jam i

rock of the height of a horse-tether 1 Lower down than this waterfall is a large tank. Farther up than the ciscade, the water comes rushing down over a solid rock. The stream runs on a bottom of solid rock, in various places tanks have been formed, which are supplied from hence " Along the banks of the stream, scattered about, there are fragments of solid rock proper for seats, the water, however, does not ilways flow. We sat down above the witerfall and took after which we ascended the rivulet to its า กาลลานิก source, and came back again, we then mounted a rising ground, where we remained some time, while the musicians played and the singers sang Such as had never seen the chony-tree, which the inhabitants of the country call tindu, had now an opportunity of seeing it Leaving that spot, we descended the hill, and mounting our horses between the time of evening and bed-time prayers, about midnight reached a place where we slept Nearly a watch of the day was past 2 before I reached the Charbagh and had alighted

On Friday the 17th, I visited Sukhjaneh the birthplace of Sukhjaneh Sıläheddin 3 Above the village, between the hill and valley,b is the lime and sitaphal 4 (or custard-apple) garden, which I walked through, and returned to the camp in the course of the first watch

On Sunday the 19th, before dawn, I set out from the Charbagh, and having passed the Kawan,5 and halted during the noontide, about noon-day prayers c we again mounted, and having crossed the Chambal at sunset, reached the Fort of Dhūlpūr between evening and bed-time prayers, I visited, by the light of a lantern, the bath built by Abul Fateh, and then rode to the place in which I had

Oct 1. Bäbur leaves Gwähar

Oct 1

Oct 2

Levisits Dhülpür

- a The water flows in a single channel, which runs along a bed formed out of the solid rock, and forms pools wherever it falls
 - b Situated in a high valley among the mountains
 - c had lunch, and after midday prayers

2 [About 6 a m]

⁴ [Anona squamosa]

The river Kohāri is a tributary of the Chambal, into which it flows just above its junction with the Jamna 1

¹ That is seven or eight gaz

² [Silhaddi, the Raja of Raisen and son in law of Rana Sanka, was a member of the Hmdu Confederacy that fought Babur at Kanwa] directed a new Charbagh to be laid out, above the water mound, where I halted Next morning I visited the works Oct 5 Revisits his which I find given orders for carrying on - Even the levels mprove of the edges of the covered tank, which I had directed to 1111 1114 be hollowed out of the rock, had not been completely taken b I ordered a number of stone cutters to be employed to cut down the tank to a certain depth, that, by filling it with water, they might be able to level its edges. When afternoon prayers were over, a small part of the tank had already been hollowed. I directed it to be filled with water, and, taking that as their level, to smooth the edges. On this occasion I directed a water house 1 to be hown out of the rock, and a small tank to be hown within it, also out of the solid rock This Monday I had a manun party. On Tuesday I remained in the same place. On the eye of Wednesday Oct to I broke my fast, and ate a little. Having mounted to go to Sikri, about noon a I alighted and lay down Oct 7 I felt evident symptoms of having caught cold in my car. That night it was very painful, and I was unable to sleep. Larly next Out & morning I again set out, and having, in the course of one watch, reached the garden which I had formed at Sikri, Visils Sikri I alighted The walls of the garden, and the buildings in the well, not having been completed to my satisfaction. I menaced and pumshed the overseers of the work. Mounting between afternoon and evening prayers, I left Sikri, and, after passing Madhakar, alighted and took some rest after which, setting out again, I reached Agra after the first watch, and went to the fort, where I waited on Khadijeh Sultan Begum, who, when Fakher-Jehan Begum? went away had stayed behind on account of various affairs and

Reaches Agra Oct 9

> b excavation a near the dam had not been completed · It was not till late in the afternoon that the bottom (of the tank) business. I then crossed the Jumna, and alighted at the was completely finished d midnight

o I do not know if I caught cold in my ear, but I can only attribute to this the pain that I suffered all night, which prevented me from f in the course of sleeping

garden of Hasht-Behisht

¹ Khänch ab

IThese ladies were both daughters of Abu Sa'id Mirza and paternal aunts of Bābur 1

On Saturday, the 3rd of the month of Safer, three of Oct 17 my paternal aunts, Begums of high rank, Gauhar-Shad Begum, Badī ul jamīl Begum, and Ak Begum,1 and of the Begums of inferior rank, Khan-zādeh Begum, the daughter of Sultan Masaud Mirza, another, who was the daughter of Sultan Bakht Begum, and mother by name Zemab Sultan Begum, the grand-daughter of Bikeh ! Chicham, having passed Tütch, on their way to my court, had halted on the extremity of the suburbs, close by the banks of the I went and waited on them between afternoon and evening prayers, and returned back in a boat

On Monday, the 5th of Safer, I sent the first envoy of Oct 19 Bikerm nit, and the one whom he had sent last, accompanied by Hawesi, the son of Diurch, a Hindu of Behreh, who Rantim had long been in my service, to receive the surrender of Rantambhor, to accept his promise of allegiance, and to complete the treaty according to all their own forms and usages This person was directed to go and make whatever observations he could, after which he was to return to me, with such information as he acquired b. If the young prince stood to his terms, I agreed with him, that by the blessing of God, I would make him Rana in his father's place, and establish him in Chitur

Sends to occupy

At this crisis, the treasures of Delhi and Agra that had Increases been collected by Iskander and Ibrahim being expended, and it being necessary to furnish equipments for the army, gunpowder for the service of the guns, and pay for the artillery and matchlock-men, on Thursday, the 8th of Safer, I gave orders, that in all departments, every man having an office, should bring a hundred and thirty instead of a hundred to the Diwan, to be applied to the A p. 1528 procuring and fitting out the proper arms and supplies

the taxes

ሩ a Mūsa,

b having made himself sure of everything

¹ [These ladies, as well as Bakht Begum, were also daughters of Abū Sa'id Muza 1

² [P de C reads Yanga (uncle's wife) There is an interesting note in Mrs Beveridge's edition of the Humāyūn nāmeh, p. 107, on the subject of this puzzling word. Chicham = my maternal aunt]

This appears to be an addition of 30 per cent, to the old taxes gar Jan Divan was the public treasury 1

Oct 24 Intends marching to Khora sun On Saturday the 10th, one Shah Kāsım, a runner of Sultan Muhammed Bakhshi, whom, on a former occasion, I had sent with letters, offering protection and security to the natives of Khorasān, was again dispatched with letters to the following effect—that, by the favour of God, I had completely triumphed over the rebels on the cast and west of Hindustān, as well as over the pagans. That next spring, God willing, I would make an effort, and return in person to Kābul b—I likewise sent a letter to Ahmed Afshār, and, on the margin, made a noting with my own hand, in which I sent for Ferīdūn Kabūzi. That same day about noon-day prayers, I began to take quick-silver.

Affairs of Kābul and Khorasān August 26

On Wednesday, the 21st, a Hindustani runner brought letters from Kämrän and Khwäjeh Dost Khäwend Khwäjeh Dost Khäwend had reached Käbul on the 10th of Zilhijeh, and had set out to meet Humaiun 3 At that time, a man sent by Kämrän reached the Khwājeh,o desiring him to remain,d that he might deliver to Kamran personally whatever orders he had brought, and to say, that after communicating such information as he possessed, he would be allowed to proceed on his journey On the 17th of Zilhijeh, Kāmrān arrived in Kābul, and, after having conferred with him, the Khwajeh on the 28th took his leave, and proceeded for the fort of Zafer These letters contained the pleasing intelligence, that prince Tahmāsp 4 having marched to oppose the Uzbeks, had taken Rīmsh the Uzbek in Damghan, and put him, with all his men, to the sword, that Obeidullah Khan,6 on hearing of the motions of the Kizilbāshes, had raised a Add to Herat b push forward Add at Hūpiān,

Sept 2 Sept 13

d come to hun,

 $^{^{1}}$ The $Kab\bar{u}z$ is a sort of guitar, on which Feridun was a celebrated performer

² Quick silver, in its liquid state, has been long used in India, for removing obstructions in the bowels

At this time Humāiūn was at the fort of Zafer, in Badakhshān, and Kāmrān in Ghazni.
The King of Persia

⁵ [Rīnish Bahādur Khān was the Governor of Asterābād for Obeidullah Khan]

^{• [}Obeidullah Khan was nephew of Shaibānī Khan.]

the siege of Heri, and retreated to Mery, from whence he had sent to invite the Sultans of Samarkand and the neighbouring countries to join him, and that the whole Sultans of Maweralnaher were, in consequence, repairing to that city to his assistance The same runner brought the farther news, that Humaiun had got a son, by the daughter of Yādgār Taghān 1, and that Kāmrān had married in Kābul, having taken to wife the daughter of his maternal cousin, a Sultan Ali Mirza

The same day I bestowed on Syed Dakni Shirāzi, the water finder,2 a dress of honour, made him a present, and appointed him to the charge of my jets d'eau and artificial water-works, b at the same time giving him instructions to complete certain of them in his most perfect style c

On Friday the 23rd, I was seized with so violent an Babur atillness,d that I was scarcely able to complete my Friday's tacked with prayers in the mosque About noon-day prayers, having Nov 6 gone into my library, I found myself so ill, that it was with difficulty 6 that I could finish my prayers Two days after, on Sunday, I had a fever and shivering On the Nov 8 night of Tuesday, the 27th of Zafer, I turned over in my Nov 10 mind the plan of translating into verse the tract in honour of the parents of the reverend Khwajeh Obeid 3 Placing my confidence in the soul f of the venerable Khwājeh,1 I indulged a hope, that perhaps his reverence might be induced to receive my poem favourably, and to remove my disease, s as he had done with the writer of the hasideh, who, when he presented his hastdeh had his offering

b Omit this clause.

d inflammation of the bowels.

h as was the case

c and directed him to use all his skill in bringing to a successful conclusion the work of making a well hewn out of the solid rock

e Add and after the lapse of some time f intercession

g that if he deigned to accept the homage of this poem, my recovery would be a visible sign of his satisfaction.

¹ [Bega Begum The son's name is given further on as Al Aman.]

 $^{^{*}}$ Jb $j\bar{u}$ —perhaps the term only means hydraulic engineer [This term is omitted in P de C's version.]

² [This is the Risalah i walidiyah of Khwaja 'Ubeidullah Ahrar, who had died in 1491 l

Here unfortunately, Mr Elphinstone's Türki copy finally ends

They had given him the name of Al aman Sheikh Abul Waid discovered the date of his birth, in the words Shah Saādetmand (the fortunate king) 1 Bian Sheikh had set out long after Beg Kineh He had left Humaiun below Kishem,2 at a place called Dushambeh, on Friday the 9th Oct 23 of Safer, and on Monday, the 10th of the first Rabi, he Nov 23 reached Agra, having made a very quick journey The same Bian Sheikh, on another occasion, had gone from the fort of Zafer to Kandahär in eleven days Bian Sheikh brought intelligence of the advance of the prince, and of the defeat of the Uzbeks The particulars were these Prince Tahmāsp³ had advanced out of Irāk with forty thousand men, disciplined after the Turkish fashion, with an artillery and body of musketeers, had marched on with great expedition, had arrived at Bostam and Damghan, had a taken Rinish the Uzbek, and put b the whole of his people to death, after which he rapidly pursued his march Kamber Alı Bī, the son of Kipek Bī, was also routed by the Kızılbāshes, and, accompanied by a few of his men, had taken refuge with Obeid Khan, who, not seeing any prospect of being able, by his own strength, to keep his ground near Heri, dispatched persons in great haste to call the Khans and Sultans of Balkh, Hissar, A D 1528 Samarkand, and Tāshkend, to come to his assistance, while he himself retired to Merv These princes collected their forces with great expedition From Tashkend, Sünjek Khan, the second o son of Bārak Sultan, from Samarkand and Miān-kāl,4 Kūchim Khan,5 Abūsaīd Sultan, a where he had

b Add him and c younger

¹ [This chronogram gives the date 934 (1527-8)]

² [Kishm is a town in Badakhshan, situated south west of Faizabad on a small affluent of the Kokcha river]

² Shah Ismāel had died in 1524, and was succeeded by his son Prince Tahmasp, then only ten years of age. At the time when this great battle was fought, he was only fifteen Though he was the reigning King of Persia, Babur continues still to call him the Shah zādeh, or Prince, from the force of habit, or from his having mounted the throne at so early an age

⁴ Mian kal is the country nearly in the middle between Samarkand and Bokhāra, on the Kohik,

⁵ [Küchım Khan, son of Abul Khair, had been elected supreme and Pulad Sultan, accompanied by the sons of Jan Beg Khan a 1, from Hissar, the sons of Hamzeh Sultan and Mahdi Sultan, from Balkh, Kitin Kara Sultan, all advanced without loss of time, and joined Obeid Khan in Merv, forming an army of a hundred and five thousand Their scouts brought them information, that Prince Tahmasp, having understood that Obeid Khan was encamped with a few troops in the vicinity of Heri. had at first pushed on with forty thousand men to fall upon them, but that, on learning the particulars of the armament and assembling of their troops, he had entrenched himself in the Auleng Zadegan,2 where he now lay On receiving this information, the Uzbeks, despising their enemy, came to a resolution that the whole of their Khans and Sultans should encamp at Meshhed, except a few Sultans, with twenty thousand men, who should be pushed on close to the Kızılbashes' camp, and should not permit them to show their heads out of their trenches That they should then direct their enchanters 3 to use their enchantments b, and that thus the enemy being shut up, and o reduced to the greatest difficulties, must fall into their hands. In pursuance of this resolution they marched from Merv The prince, on his part, leaving Meshhed, encountered them near Jam 4 and Khirgird, when the Uzbeks were defeated Many Sultans were taken prisoners and put to death. In one of the letters it was mentioned, that there was no certain intelligence of the escape of any Sultan except Küchim Khan, as no person khan of the Uzbegs in 1510 Suyūnjak, Pulād, and Abū Sa'id were his sons.—E B, p. 309, and Humîyūn nāmeh, p. 264]

a accompanied by Jani Beg Sultan and his sons

b 4dd when the sun had entered the sign of Scorpio

c Omit being shut up, and

^{1 [}Jani Beg, Shaibani Khan's cousin, was chief of Andejan]

² [This is probably meant for Radegan, which is a place marked on Sykes's map of Persia as fifty miles north west of Mashad in Khorasan]

² [Or, rather, according to P do C, 'to work enchantments with the Yadah, or rain producing stone']

I Jām (the modern Turbat i Sheikh i Jām) is a town situated in Khornsan on the Jām river between Mashad and Herat] who had been in the army was yet arrived. The Sultans who were in Hissar abandoned the place and retired, leaving in it Chalmeh, whose original name was Ismael, the son of Ibrahim Jini I wrote letters to Humaiun and Kamran to be dispatched a by the hands of the same Bin Sheikh who has been mentioned

On Friday the 14th, having got ready all the letters Nov 27 and dispatches, they were delivered to Binn Sheikh who took leave

On Saturday the 15th, I1 set out from Agra

Nov. 28

Copy of the Letter sent to Humanin

To Humaiūn, whom I remember with much longing to Babur's see him again health on Saturday, the first of the former Rabi, Bian Sheikh arrived in company with Beg Kineh, Nov 13 and the letters which he brought made me acquainted with all the transactions in your quarter b Thanks be to God, who has given you a child, he has given to you a child, and to me a comfort and an object of love May the Almighty always continue to grant to you and to me the enjoyment of such objects of our heart's desire! Amen, O Lord of the Two Worlds! You have called him Al aman may the Almighty prosper what you have You who are serted on a throne ought to know,c that people in general pronounce it, some Al aman (the protected), some Ilaman (protected by men3) And besides, that there are few names which are preceded by Al (the) May the Great Creator grant, that both in his name and in his constitution, he may be happy and fortunate, and may He bestow on me and on thee many years and many letter to Humaiin

a Add post haste

b on this side and on that [1. e. on both sides of the Hindu Kush]

c But what you have not considered, though you have written it with your own hand, is

¹ [Or rather, according to P de C, 'he' (i. e Bayān Sheikh)]
Above, it is said Monday the 10th of former Rabi (November 23), which is correct

² [P de C explains that al aman, an Arabic word, means protection and that alāman and īlāman are two Tūrki words signifying respec tively plunderer and I do not feel]

lerns, rendered happy by the fortune and fame of Alaman and Indeed, the Almighty, from his grace and bounty, hath accomplished our desires in a manner not to be paralleled in the revolution of time

Nov 24.

On Tuesday, the 11th of the month, having received some information that the men of Balkh had invited Kurbān, and introduced him into the city, I sent orders to my son Kāmrān and the Begs at Kābul to march and form a junction with vou,² when you might proceed to Hissār, Samarkand, or Merv,³ as might be deemed most advisable, hoping, that through the mercy of God, you might be enabled to disperse the enemy, occupy their countries and make your friends rejoice in the complete discomfiture of your foes. With God's favour, this is the season for you to expose yourself to danger and hardship, and to evert your prowess in arms. Fail not to evert yourself strenuously to meet every situation as it occurs for indolence and ease suit but ill with royalty

(Persian rerse)—Ambition admits not of inaction,
The world is his who exerts himself,
In wisdom's eye, every condition
May find repose, but royalty alone.

—If through the divine favour, you subdue and secure Balkh and Hissār, your men must have the charge of Hissār, while Kāmrān's remain in Balkh. If the grace of the Most High bestow Samarkand also upon us, you must take the reins of government in Samarkand, God willing, I shall make that country an imperial government of If Kāmrān thinks Balkh too small a government, let me know, and I will, by the divine grace, remove his objection, by adding something from the neighbouring

b In every thing the vigilance of the master may sometimes be relaxed save when he is a king

^a Be that as it may ' May God bless the name, and him who bears it ' May He grant to me and you long life, and crown Al aman with every kind of welfare for many generations '

c I shall make Hissār a crown domain

¹ A kern is a Türki period of thirty one years [= a generation]

² Humaiun was at this time in Badakhshan.

³ [P. de C has Herāt.]

^{· [}Hissar, according to P de C]

territories. You know that you always receive six parts, and Kämrän five, you must always attend to this rule, and unfailingly observe it. Remember too always to act handsomely by him? The great should exercise self-command b, and I do hope that you will always maintain a good understanding with him. Your brother, on his side, is a correct c and worthy young man, and he must be careful to maintain the proper respect and fidelity due to you.

I have some quarrels to settle with you^d. For two or three years past, none of your people has waited on me from you, and the messenger whom I sent to you did not come back to me for a twelvemonth. This, remember, is underliable?

In many of your letters you complain of separation from your friends. It is wrong for a prince to indulge in such a complaint, for there is a saying (Persian tree)—If you are fettered by your situation, submit to circumstances.

If you are independent, follow your own fancy 1

There is no greater bondage than that in which a king $_{\rm V,D}$ 1528 is placed, and it ill becomes him to complain of inevitable separation 5

In compliance with my wishes, you have indeed written me letters, but you certainly never read them over, for had you attempted to read them, you must have found it absolutely impossible, and would then undoubtedly have put them by h I contrived indeed to decipher and comprehend the meaning of your last letter, but with much

a remain on the best of terms with him

h should exercise magnanimity c sensible

d I have one remark to make to you express a wish to be alone, but it is wrong for a king to express such a wish,

g and the independence that results from retirement is incom

g and the independence that results from retirement is incompatible with royalty

h and, recognizing your own inability, would have tried to improve them

¹ [This is a quotation from the Bostān of Sa'di, chapter 1, line 44]

BABUR II

A B

difficulty It is excessively confused and crabbed a Who ever saw a muamma (a riddle or a charade) in prose? Your spelling is not bad, yet not quite correct. You have written iliafat with a toe (instead of a te), and kulang with a be (instead of a kāf). Your letter may indeed be read b, but in consequence of the far-fetched words you have employed, the meaning is by no means very intelligible. You certainly do not excel in letter-writing, and fail chiefly because you have too great a desire to show your acquirements of For the future, you should write unaffectedly, with clearness, using plain words, which would cost less trouble both to the writer and reader

You are now going to set out on an expedition 1 of great importance, you should therefore consult with the most prudent and experienced of the noblemen about you, and guide yourself by their advice

If you are desirous of gaining my approbation, you must not waste your time in private parties, but rather indulge in liberal conversation and frank intercourse with all about you de Twice every day, you must call your brothers and Begs to your presence, not leaving their attendance to their own discretion, and after consulting with them about any business that occurs, you must finally act as may be decided to be most advisable f

I have formerly told you that you should hve on the most confidential footing with Khwājch Kalān g, you may act in regard to him with the same unrestrained confidence that you have seen me do By the mercy of God, the business of the country around you may by and by become

- a Apart from the fact that your writing can only be deciphered with difficulty, your style is quite obscure
 - b Add if it is gone over several times,
- c Your remissness in writing is certainly due to your inexperience, and the absence of clarity in your style is the result of your affectation
- d If you wish to please me you should relinquish your taste for retirement, and the unsociableness that induces you to avoid society
 - e brother
 - f in accordance with the advice of those sincere friends
- g Khwāja Kalān has always lived with me on a footing of complete intimacy.

¹ To drive the Uzbeks out of Balkh, Hissar, &c.

less oppressive, and you may not require Kamran that case, your brother may leave some of his trusty men in Balkh, and himself repair to me

During the time that I resided in Kābul, I transacted much momentous business, and gained many important victories, on which account, considering the place as lucky. I have chosen it for an imperial domain b Neither of you must in any respect aim at the possession of it

You must attempt, by the utmost courtesy of manners, to gain the heart of Sultan Weis, and to have him about you, and to direct yourself by his judgement, as he is a prudent and experienced man

You must pay every attention to the discipline and efficient state of the army c

Bian Sheikh is acquainted with everything, and will be able to give you what verbal information you may require d

I once more repeat my earnest wishes for your health e Written on Thursday, the 13th of the first Rabi 1

I likewise sent Kāmrān and Khwājeh Kalān letters to the same effect, written with my own hand

On Wednesday the 19th, I convened the Mirzas, and Dec. 2 Sultans, and Turki and Hindi Begs, and having consulted Babur with them, finally settled that this year I should march keri to the somewhere or other at the head of my army f, that before eastern I set out, Asken should advance towards Purab (or the East Provinces), that, after the Amirs and Sultans beyond the Ganges had brought their troops and joined Asken, I might then march on any expedition that seemed to me sends Asprovinces

Nov 26

a demand less attention,

e Farewell and au revoir

¹ In the Persian translation of the Memoirs, this letter is given in the original Türki, without translation.

b The many victories and triumphs that were won while I was at Kābul have decided me to reserve it as a crown domain

Never neglect to keep your troops collected round you Biān Sheikh, to whom I have communicated many things by word of mouth, will inform you of them orally

f the army should move in some direction,

² Askerı was one of Bābur's sons. [Four of Bābur's sons survived him, viz Humāyūn, Kāmrān, Askarī, and Hindāl Askarī at this time was only twelve years old.]

Dec 5

to be best a Having written to communicate these plans. on Saturday the 22nd, I dispatched Ghiaseddin Korchi to Sultan Juneid Birlas, and the Amīrs of the Pūrab, requiring them to meet me in twenty-two days, I instructed him verbally to inform them, that I would send on to Asker the artillery, guns, and matchlocks, and all kinds of warlike arms and ammunition, to be ready before the troops could take the field d, and orders were given to all Amirs and Sultans on the farther side of the Ganges to join Askeri, and march wherever, under the favour of God, it might seem expedient. That they should consult my partisans in that quarter, whether there were any affairs there that required my presence, that if there were, immediately on the return of the officer who had gone to summon the chiefs to the appointed meeting, I would, God willing, mount without delay, and join the army But if the Bengalis were peaceable and quiet, and if there was no matter, in that quarter, of such importance as to demand my presence, that they should inform me by letter, o as, in that case, I would halt, and turn my force in some other direction? That my adherents and friends must also consult with Askeri, and, with the divine blessing, decide on the general course expedient to be followed in that quarter

Dec. 12

On Saturday the 29th of the first Rabīa, I presented Askeri with a dagger enriched with precious stones, a belt, and a complete royal dress of honour, gave him the standard, the horsetail, the kettle-drum, and a stud of Tipchāk horses, ten elephants, a string of camels, a string of mules, and a royal equipage and camp-furniture, commanding him withal to take his seat at the head of a hall of state I gave Mulla Dudu Atkeh a pair of buskins

a they should march in whatever direction seemed best

b Add of whom he was the chief, c sixteen d that Askarı had been sent on in advance, while the guns, wagons, matchlocks, and all the military equipage were being got ready,

e plainly,

frather than remain an idle spectator of events I would march my force elsewhere

g That having consulted my well wishers, they should welcome Askari, ornamented with rich buttons, and presented his other servants with thrice nine vests 1

On Sunday, the last day of the month, I went to Sultan Muhammed Bakhshi's house The streets were spread with rich stuffs, and he brought and offered me a sāchāh, or formal present b, the peshkesh, or tributary offering, which he presented, in money and effects, exceeded two laks 2 After dining and receiving this peshhesh, we retired into another apartment, where we sat down and indulged About the third watch I rose, crossed the ın a maajün river, and went to my private apartments

On Thursday, the 4th of the latter Rabīa, I directed Chikmāk Beg, by a writing under the royal hand and seal,c to measure the distance from Agra to Kābul, that at every nine kos he should raise a minar, or turret, twelve from Agra gaz in height, on the top of which he was to construct a paython 3, that, every ten kos,4 he should erect a yam, or post-house, which they call a dah-choki, for six horses, that he should fix a certain allowance as a provision A D 1528 for the post-house keepers, couriers, and grooms, and for feeding the horses, and orders were given, that wherever a post-house for horses was built near a hhalseh or imperial demesne, they should be furnished from thence with the stated allowances, that if it was situated in a perganna, the nobleman in charge should attend to the supply same day, Chikmāk Pādshāhi d left Agra The kos was fixed in conformity with the mtl, according to these verses

Dec 17 Orders post-house to be buil

to Kābul

Nov 13 Visits Sultan Mu-

hammed Rakhshi

Length of the kos, &

(Tūrki)-Four thousand paces are one mil,

Know that the men of Hindustan call it a Lurch (kos) This pace is a cubit and a half. Every cubit 5 is six hand breadths 6. Each hand breadth is six inches, e and, again, each inch Is the breadth of six barley corns. Know all this f a I bestowed on his priest, and his two tutors cloaks,

b He had spread out before me a carpet on which were arranged the presents which he offered me,

c accompanied by Shahi, the Controller's secretary,

e four (ailil), d and Shahi f Here is what is certain.

3 Char-dareh £500 ' [P de C has eighteen kos.]

¹ The presents of the Moghuls and Türks were made of thrace nine articles, the number being deemed fortunate

⁵ Kārī

⁶ Tūtām, a fist or hand breadth

The measuring tandb was to consist of forty gaz or paces, each measuring one and a half of the gaz or cubit that has been mentioned, and so equal to nine hand-breadths, and a hundred of these tandbs were to go to one hos

Grand feast Dec. 10

On Saturday the 6th, I had a feast in the garden a I sat in the northern part of it, in an octagonal pavilion that was recently erected, and covered with hhas grass 2 for coolness On my right, at the distance of five or six gaz. sat Bügha Sultan, Askerı, and the venerable Khwajeh's family, Khwajeh Abdal Shahid, Khwajeh Kalan, Khwajeh Husseini Khalifeh, and other comers from Samarkand. the dependants of the Khwajeh, readers of the Koran, and Mullas On my left, at an interval of five or six gaz,3 were seated Muhammed Zeman Mırza. Autenk b İtmisli Sultan, Sved Rafi, Sved Rümi, Sheikh Abul Fatch, Sheikh Jamāli, Sheikh Shahābeddīn Arab, and Syed Dakni The Kızılbaslı, Uzbek, and Hındu ambassadors were present at this feast. An awning was erected at the distance of seventy or eighty gaz 3 to the right, in which the Kızılbash ambassadors were placed, and Yunis Ali was selected from the Amirs to sit beside them At the same distance on the left, in like manner, the Uzbek ambassadors were stationed, and Abdallah was selected from the Amirs to sit beside them Before the dinner was served. all the Khans, Sultans, grandees, and Amīrs offered congratulatory presents 5 of red, and white, and black money, with cloth and other articles I ordered woollen

² Omit in the garden and insert after feast the passage below from The Kizilbāsh to beside them

b Tang

¹ The larger gaz, or pace, was nine hand breadths, the smaller, or cubit, six hand breadths

^{*} During the heats, particularly while the hot winds are blowing, it is customary in India to cover the open side doors and windows of apartments with a sweet smelling species of grass, which is kept moist with water. The air, passing through this, is much softened, and an agreeable coolness produced. [These door screens are made of the scented roots of a grass called LhasLhas (Andropogon muricata)]

^{* [}or kūrī (cubits), according to P de C] i e the Persian

Săchāk

^{* [1} e gold, silver, and copper money]

cloths a to be spread out before me, into which they threw the gold and silver money, offerings of coloured cloth and of white cloth, as well as purses 1 of money were piled up beside the gold and silver Before dining, while the presents were coming in, there were fights of furious camels and elephants, in an island 2 in front There were also some ram-fights, and afterwards matches of wrestlers When the dinner was placed, Khwajeh Abdal Shahid and Khwājeh Kalān were invested with muslin robes of very fine cotton, b with suitable dresses of honour Mulla Farrukh. Hāfiz, and those who were with them, received gowns of cloth On the ambassador of Küchım Khan,3 and the younger brother of Hassan Chalebi,4 were bestowed sirkamash robes of muslin, with rich buttons, and dresses of honour suited to their rank To the ambassadors of Abusaīd Sultan, and Miherban Khanum and her son Pulad Sultan, and to the ambassadors of Shah Hassan, were given vests with buttons, and robes of rich cloth A stone 5 of gold was weighed with the silver weights, and a stone of silver with the gold weights, and given to Dosta Khwajeh and the two great ambassadors, who were the servants of Kuchim Khan, and to the younger brother of Hassan Khan Chalebid The gold stone contains five hundred mishkāls, which is one sīr Kābul measure The silver measure is two hundred and fifty mishkals, which is half

b Uzbeg robes of substantial texture,

c cloaks ornamented with buttons and a cloth hood,

a a small woollen carpet

d to the two Khwājas, and the two great ambassadors, of whom one was the servant of Kūchim Khan, and the other the younger brother of Hasan Chalebi

¹ Badreh is a purse, containing about £60

² I am not quite sure of the meaning of arāl. In some instances it certainly means island In others it seems to mean plot or bank. The royal garden was probably close by the Jumna, in an island in which the fights were exhibited.

³ Küchim Khan has already been mentioned along with Abusaid Sultan and Püläd Sultan, as Uzbek chiefs of Samarkand. [Küchüm was chief of the Uzbegs and Abu Said and Püläd Khan were his sons.]

[[]He was ambassador of Tahmasp, King of Persia.]

^{* [}Tāsh]

a Kābul vir Khwājeh Mir Sultām, lus sons and Hāliz Tüshkendi, Mulla Larrukh and his followers,* the servants of the Khwajeh, and the other ambassadors, had each of them presents of silver and gold b. Yadgar Nasir had a hanger and belt. Mir Muhammed Jälchb in had deserved great rewards," for the skill with which he had constructed the bridge over the Ganges He and the otherd musketeers, Pahlwan 1 Hau Muhammed, and Pahlwan Bahlul, and Wali Parschi,2 were presented each with a dagger? Sved Dand Garmsin had a present in silver and gold servants of my daughter Massumeli, and of my son Hindal, received vests ornamented with buttons, and dresses of honour made of rich cloth. To the men who had come from Andejan, who, without a country, without a home, had rosmed with me in my wanderings in Sükh and Hushiar,3 and many lands, to all my veterans and tried men,f I gave vests and rich dresses of honour, with gold and silver clothes 8 and other articles of value. To the servants of Kurbin and Sheikhi, and the natives of Kahmerd, presents were in like minner, given. When the dinner was placed the Hindustani jugglers were brought in and performed their tricks, and the tumblers and ropedancers exhibited their feats. The Hindustini sleightof-hand men do several feats which I never saw performed by those of our countries. One of these is the following They take seven rings, one of which they suspend over their forehead, and two on their thighs h, the other four they place, two on two of their fingers, and the other two on two of their toes, and then whirl them all round with

Jugglers and tumblers

a who was at the head of b Add and a robe

* [The keeper of a cheetah or hunting leopard.]

c had already been suitably rewarded, d Omit other

^{* 4}dd and the same distinction was accorded to the two sons of Ust'id Alı Kulı

¹ Omit and many lands, to all my veterans and tried men,

⁵ Omit clothes, h knees,

^{1 [}Wrestler or champion.]

² Bābur s residence in Sükh and Hushiār was the most trving period of his life. It immediately preceded his finally abandoning Ferghāns, when he set out for Khorasān. These, therefore, were his most faithful followers.

a quick uninterrupted motion Another is this they A D 1528 place one of their hands on the ground, and then raise up their other hand and their two feet, which they spread out so as to represent the port of a peacock, all the while turning round, with a continued rapid motion, three rings placed on their hand and two feet The tumblers of our country fix two wooden poles 1 to their feet, and walk on these wooden supports, the Hindustani tumblers, clinging to a single wooden support, walk on it, and that without fastening it to their feet. In our countries, two tumblers lay hold of each other, and go on tumbling when thus linked together, whereas the Hindustani tumblers lay hold of each other to the number of three and four, and go on tumbling intertwined in a circle One of the most remarkable feats which they exhibit is when a tumbler, placing the lower part of a pole, of six or seven gaz in length, on his middle, holds it erect, while another tumbler mounts the pole, and plays his feats on the top of it In other cases, a young a tumbler climbs up, and stands on the head of an elder b one, the lower one walks fast about from side to side playing his feats, with the younger one all the while standing erect and firm on his head, and also exhibiting his tricks Many pateras, or dancing-girls, were also introduced, and danced evening prayers, a great quantity of gold, silver, and copper money was scattered, there was a precious hubbub and uproar c Between evening and bed-time prayers, I made five or six of the most distinguished of my guests d sit down near me, and I continued with them till the end of the first watch Next morning, in the forenoon, o I went to the Hasht-Behisht in a boat

On Monday, Askeri, who had begun his march, and left Dec 21. the town, took leave of me in my bath, and proceeded to the eastward

On Tuesday I set out to visit the tanks, garden, and palace, f Dec 22 small b big c thronging of people

d my most intimate companions

e in the course of the second watch,

f the works connected with the tank and well,

^{1 [1.} e. stilts.]

Rovisits Dhülpür which I had ordered to be made at Dhūlpūr I mounted at my garden-house at one gari of the second watch,¹ and five garis of the first watch² of the night were past, when I reached the garden of Dhūlpūr

On Thursday the 11th, the stone well, the cypresses, the twenty-six stones b and stone columns, and the water-

Dec 24

channels, which were all hewed on the hill from the solid rock, were finished. About the third watch of that same day, they began to draw water from the well. Presents were given to the stone-cutters, carpenters, and all the labourers, according to the usage of the artisans and labourers of Agra. By way of precaution, in order to remove any disagreeable taste that might be in the water, they were directed to turn the water-wheel of the well day and night incessantly for fifty of days, and let the water run off

Dec 25

On Friday, while there was still one gari of the first watch a remaining, I set off from Dhūlpūr, and the sun was not set when I had alighted, and passed the river d

Dec 20 Battle of Jam in Khorasan On Tuesday the 16th, a man who had been in the battle between the Kizilbāshes and Uzbeks, a servant of Dev Sultan, came and gave an account of the engagement He informed me, that the battle between the Uzbeks and Turkomāns was fought on the Roz-1-Ashūr, in the neighbour-

10th Mu harrem Sept 26 hood of Jām and Khirgird, and lasted from the first twilight till noon-day prayers. The Uzbeks were three hundred thousand in number, the Turkomāns, according to their own account, amounted to only forty or fifty thousand, but, from their array, had the appearance of amounting to a hundred thousand, while the Uzbeks made their own army amount to only one hundred and five thousand. The Kizilbāshes engaged, after having placed their guns, artillery, and musketeers in order, and fortified their position, according to the tactics of Rūm, they had two thousand artillery-men and six thousand matchlock-men.

7 Turkey

a Omit the cypresses, b gutters c fifted when I had crossed the river c wagons

¹ About half-past nme a.m.

About eight p m.

Between noon and three o'clock p m

⁴ Nearly half an hour before nine a m

⁵ [1. e. dawn.] * Zarb-zīn, perhaps swivels.

The Prince and Chükeh Sultan were stationed behind the guns, b with twenty thousand chosen men Amirs were placed beyond the guns, on the right and left wings. The Uzbeks, on the first charge, having broken and defeated the outposts and flankers, whom they drove in, and made a number of prisoners, advanced into the rear of the Kizilbash army, where they took the camels and plundered the baggage. The troops who had been stationed behind the artillery, now unloosing the chains of the guns, issued forth, when a desperate action ensued. The Uzbeks, Defeat of who were commanded by Küchim Khan,d were thrice broken, and three returned to the charge, but at length, by the divine favour, were totally routed, and nine Sultans. including 1 Obeidullah Khan and Abūsaid Sultan, left on the field," of which number Abūsaīd2 Sultan was the only one taken alive, the other eight being slain. The head of Obeidullah Khan could not be found, but his body was discovered Fifty thousand Uzbeks and twenty thousand Turkomāns fell in the action

the Uzbeks

The same day, Ghiaseddin Korchi, who had gone to Sultan Jaunpur, and engaged to return by a stated day, came back, having been absent sixteen days! Sultan Juneid and the report of officers who were with him had levied an army, and advanced to Kharid. 3 so that Ghiaseddin, being obliged to follow him thither, had been unable to return back at the time appointed Sultan Juneid had answered verbally, that,

Juneid's favourable Pūrab

a Khwaja

b Here, as elsewhere, the word wagons is substituted for guns

c those who were posted on the two wings, d Omit this clause

e remained in the hands of their enemies,

f who had gone to Jaunpur with orders to return in sixteen days. presented himself before me

¹ [In P de C's version Küchum Khan is added to the list, but Babur's informant was mistaken, for both Küchum Khan and Obai dullah Khan survived the battle, the former dying in 1530, and the latter in 1539 (Lane Poole's Muhammedan Dynastics)]

Abu Sa'id succeeded his father Kuchum Khan as Grand Khan of the Uzbegs in 1530, and reigned three years (T R, p 206)]

Kharid seems to have lain below Oudh, towards the mouth of the Gogra or Dewah. [It is a subdivision of the Ballia District, UP, on the right bank of the Gogra 1

thanks to the goodness of God, affairs in that quarter exhibited no symptoms that appeared to call for the presence of the Emperor 'Let a Mirza a come, and let orders be issued to the Sultans, Khans, and Amīrs of the neighbouring provinces, to attend the Mirza, and I have no doubt that everything will go on in a satisfactory manner, and successfully b' Though I had received this answer from Sultan Juneid, yet as Mulla Muhammed Mazhab, who, after the holy war against Sanka the Pagan, had been sent on an embassy to Bengal, was daily expected back, I waited till I could hear his account also of the state of things

A D 1529 Jan 1 Mulla Muham med's re port of Bengal On Friday the 10th, I had taken a maajūn, and was sitting with a few of my particular intumates in my private apartments, when Mulla Muhammed Mazhab arrived, and, on the evening of the same day, being Saturday eve, he came and waited upon me—I inquired minutely and in detail into all the affairs of that quarter, one after another, and learned that Bengal was in a state of perfect obedience and tranquillity an 2 Babur resolves to march to the west On Saturday, I called the Türki nobles and those of Hind into my private apartments, and held a consultation with them. It was observed, that the Bengahs had sent an ambassador, and were submissive and quiet, that it was, therefore, quite unnecessary for me to proceed to Bengal, that if I did not go to Bengal, there was no other place in that direction which was rich enough to satisfy the troops, that, towards the west, there were several places, which were both near at hand, and rich in wealth

($T\bar{u}rk$: verse)—The country is rich, the inhabitants pagans, the road short.

If that to the east is remote, this is close at hand.

Dispatches Ghiaseddin to the east ward At length, it was resolved that I should march to the west, as being the nearest I delayed d some days, in order to be perfectly at ease respecting the affairs to the eastward before I moved I therefore once more dispatched Ghuseddin Korchi, directing him to return to me in twenty days, and wrote and sent by him firmans to the Amirs of Parab

o Sunday,

d and delay

a the Mırza (Prince Askarī)

b everything will be easily arranged

(or the East), desiring all the Sultans, Khans, and Amīrs on A. D 1529 that side of a the river Ganges, to join Asken, and to march with him against the enemy I gave him special directions that, after delivering the firmans, he should collect all the news that he could relating to these parts, and return to me with speed by the appointed time

News reached me at this same period, by dispatches from Incursion Muhammed Gokultāsh that the Balūches 1 had again of the Ba made an incursion, and committed great devastation in several places In order to punish this insult, I directed Chin Taimur Sultan to proceed to assemble the Amīrs of Sirhind and Samaneh, and that neighbourhood,b such as Adıl Sultan, Sultan Muhammed Duldai, Khosrou Gokultāsh, Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng, Dılāwer Khan, Ahmed Yüsef, Shah Mansür Bırlas, Muhammedı Gokultāsh,º Abdal-azīz Mīr Akhūr (or master of horse), Syed Alı, Walı Kızılbāsh,d Kırācheh Halāhıl, Āshık Bekāwel, Sheikh Alı Kitteh, Kajūre Khan, and Hassan Alı Sıwadı, and orders were issued that these noblemen should join -Chin Taimur, with arms and provisions for six months' service, and proceed against the Balüches, that they should all assemble on his summons, march under his orders, and act in every respect in perfect conformity to his commands I appointed Abdal-Ghafur as tewachi 2 (or special messenger), to convey these firmans It was arranged that he should, in the first place, carry the firmans for Chin Taimur Sultan, and afterwards proceed to deliver the firmans to the other noblemen who have been mentioned, enjoining them all to repair, attended by their forces, to a beyond b from beyond Sirhind and Samana, c Omit Dilawer Khan, Ahmed Yüsef, Shah Mansur Birlas, Muham medı Gokultāsh.

d Kızıl. e Gujar f each according to his rank and dignity

¹ [This tribe inhabited the country from Bhakkar to Multan and Samāna. Chîn Timur was at this time governor of Mewat.—E B. р 495 1

² The tewāch: is an officer who corresponds very nearly to the Turkish chaous, or special messenger, but he was also often employed to act as a commissary for providing men or stores, as a commissioner in superintending important affairs, as an aide-de camp in carrying orders. &c.

such place as should be pointed out by Chin Taimur Sultan for their assembling, that Abdal-Ghafur should himself remain with the army, and report to me by letter if any of the officers betrayed indolence or want of real, in which case I would deprive the offender of his rank and station, and remove him from his government and perganna. Having written, and delivered these letters to Abdal-Ghafur, I dispatched him, giving him at the same time additional verbal instructions

Babur RIPEE Dhülpür

Jan 11

On Sunday eye,1 the 28th, at three watches and six garis, I passed the Jumna on my way to the Bagh e Nilufar (or Lotus Garden), which is in Dhulpur, it was near the end of the third watch of Sunday when we reached it Situations and pieces of ground were pitched upon, in the neighbourhood of the garden, on which it was arranged that several of the Amirs and courtiers were to build themselves palaces. and lay out gardens. On Thursday, the 3rd of the first Jumada, I pitched upon a place for a bath, on the south-east of the garden, and it was accordingly cleared for that I directed that, on the spot so cleared, they should build a bath on the best construction on an elevated platform, and, in one of its apartments, finish a reservoir ten by ten a

Hears of the loss of Behär

take the flold Jan 15

The same day I received letters from Kazı Jiñ and Ner-Sing Deorch, b which had been forwarded by Khalifeh from Agra, and which contained intelligence that Mahmud, the son of Resolves to Iskander, had taken Behär The moment I received this information I resolved to join the army c Next morning, being Friday, I mounted at six garis from the Nīlūfar garden and reached Agra at evening prayers I met by the way Muhammed Zemän Mırza, who was on his way for Dhülpür Chin Taimür Sultan too arrived the same day ın Agra

Jan 10

Next morning, being Saturday, I called the Amirs to n they should lay the foundations of the bath after which they were to erect the buildings thereon,

b Dec. c to set the army in motion

¹ Sunday morning, January 10, about half-past five

³ About twenty feet square 2 Near three p m

[.] About twenty four minutes past eight o'clock a m

a council, when it was resolved, that we should set out for the Purab on Thursday the 10th That same Saturday. letters and intelligence came from Kābul, by which I learned that Humaiun had collected the army of those provinces. and, accompanied by Sultan Weis, had set out with forty or fifty thousand men on an expedition against Samarkand, that Shah Kuli, the younger brother of Sultan Weis, had advanced and entered Hissar, that Tarsun Muhammed Sultan had proceeded from Termez 1 and taken Kabadian,2 and had afterwards sent to ask support, that Humaiun had sent Tülik Gokultash and Mir Kliurd, with a number of troops and a body of Moghuls, to the assistance of Tarsun Muhammed Sultan, and himself followed after them

On Thursday, the 10th of the first Jumada, after three gars,3 I set out for the Purab, and passing the Jumna in a boat a little above Jalesir, came to the Bagh-e-Zarefshan 4 I gave orders that the horse-tail standards, the kettle-drums, the stud, and the whole army, should halt, opposite to the garden on the other side of the river, and that such as came to perform their kornish 6 to the Emperor should cross in a boat

On Saturday, Ismāil Mīta, who was the ambassador of Introduc Bengal, brought his peshkesh, and paid his respects according to the usage of Hindustan For the purpose of making his obeisance, he took his stand a full arrow-shot off, and retired after he had offered his submissions a He was then arrayed in the usual dress of honour, which they call sir mawineh b7 (or hair-twist), and introduced In conformity with our custom, he next made his three genuflexions, and then advanced and delivered Nasret Shah's 8 letter. and, finally, retired, after presenting the offerings which he had brought a salutation

b Sir muineh

Nasret Shah was at this period King of Bengal.

Jan 21

Humātūn sets out against Sa markand

Gains Hissar and Kabādiān

Rābur crosses the Jumna.

tion of the Bengal ambassador Jan 23

¹ [Tirmiz is a town on the right bank of the Oxus, north east of Balkh.]

² [Kabādıān hes on the Kāfir Nāhan affluent of the Oxus, north east of Tirmiz.

³ About a quarter past seven a m. The gold shedding garden

^{• [1.} e. obeisance] 5 Tügh ² [Muyīnah, according to Stemgass, means 'a fur coat ']

Jan .5

On Monday, Khwājeh Abdal Hak having arrived, I crossed the river in a boat, went to lus tent, and waited on him 1

Jan 26 Babur sets out on his

Jan 28

expedit on

On Tuesday, Hassan Chalch waited on me

I had halted several days at the Char-bagh, for the purpose of collecting the army On Thursday, the 17th. after three gars in the morning,2 we commenced our march I embarked in a bost, and went to the village Anwar, which is seven kos from Agra,3 and there landed

Curre the Uzbek am bassadore their audience of Icave Jan 31

On Sunday, I gave the Uzbek ambassadors their audience To Amin Mirza, the envoy of Küchim Khan, I gave a dagger and belt, with an elegant kmile, a milel of brocade, and seventy thousand tange 4 as a present, to Mulla Taghai, the servant of Abusaid Sultan, and to the servants of Meherban Khanum, and of her son Palad Sultan, I gave vests richly ornamented with buttons, and dresses of honour of rich cloth, besides a present in money and goods, b suited to the situation of each Next morning, Khwajch Abdal Hak took leave, to go and live in Agra, and Kliwajeh Kalan, the grandson of

A D 1529

Teb 1

Khwajeh Yahya, who had come with the envoys from the Khan and Sultans of the Uzbeks, had his audience of leave, previous to setting out on his return to Samarkand

Sends presons

As a demonstration of joy on the birth of Humaiun's son, sents to his and on Kümrün's marriage, I sent Mirza Tabrīzi and Mirza Beg Taghai to these princes, with each ten thousand marriage-presents c They also carried a robe and a girdle, both of which I had myself worn By the hands of Mulla Behishti, I sent to Hindal an enamelled dagger and belt, an inkstand, set with jewels, a stool, inlaid with mother of pearl, a short gown, from my own wardrobe, with clasps d, and an alphabet of the Bäburi characters I also sent some

a equipping

b Omit and goods,

o ten thousand shahrukhis each as marriago presents.

d and a gurdle.

¹ The Khwajeh was a holy man, which accounts for Babur's visit

² Down the river 3 A quarter past seven a.m.

^{*} The lang [or tankah] is a small silver coin of the value of about a penny

() near wat cam the Biblional water. To Hat him Is at new the the the training and on, malportunited I had written a new ex mina to His listen. I likeni e sent to Handtland Islandiels Is at an one translation, and poems to Kimrin to the his Sof Mir a Pe, Ta, had I sent with transl to is and ariginal is in as I had course of after comm, to Hind and letters untten in the Bilianiel arreters On Tready, after having delivered the letters which I find Ic. ? written to the per insulation were four to Kalad and fiven them leave. That a conversation with Mulla Is som I still Shah Mahammed the stope-cutter Mirel Mir Chais Mir the stone-cutter Shah Bibs Beldie," and explained all my nishes regarding the buildings to be completed at Agra and Dhilpur, and having entristed the work to their care I gave them leave. It was near the end of the first watch? when I mounted to leave Anwar, and noon day prayers were over when I haited within one kos of Chindwar at a village named. Mapar

1 03 % 5 March

Leb 1

On Thursday eye I dismissed Abdal Malük Korchi, who was to accompany Hassan Chalchlais ambassador to the King (of Persia) and Chapfik who went along with the Uzbek unbassadors on a mission to the Khans and Sultans Four gars of the night were still left, when we marched hale i from Abipar I passed Chindwar about dawn and embarked in a boat. About bed time prayers I landed from the boot before Rabers, and joined the camp, which lay at Fatchpur At Fatchpur we halted one day On Jeb " Saturday with the first gleam of light I performed my ablutions and having mounted, we said our morning privers near Ribert in the Inday Mosque Moulana Mahmud Färäbi was the Imam At sunrise we embarked below the lofty eminence b at Ribert. For the purpose of getting my translations written in a peculiar mixed character

🛰 i Is en l'er in at t the Late La Read on

Teb 6

n in public

b big bend

^{1 [}The translation referred to is the Risulah e walidigah original poems were his Divin and a collection of mamaris known as Mubin 1

^{*} A boldar is a pioneer but in civil works, he is the well or tank digger 2 Near 9 a m

About an hour and a half [About 4 30 a m]

I this day made a set of parallel lines suited to the larklb measure for eleven verses at This day, the words of the men of God produced some compunction in my heart. Having drawn the boats to the shore opposite to Jhāken, one of be the pergannas of Rāberi, I passed that night in the vessel

The vessels having been ordered to proceed c thence before day-light, I was in the boat, and had finished morning prayers, when Sultān Muhammed Bakhshi arrived, bringing with him one Shamseddīn Muhammed, a servant of Khwājeh Kalān, who had come with letters. From the letters, and by the information collected from the messenger himself, we learned everything that had passed at Kābul. Mahdi Khwājeh also joined us in the boat. About noon-day prayers, I landed at an eminence in a garden on the other side of the river, over against Etāwa, bathed in the Jumna, and said my noon-day prayers. Having passed over from the place where I had prayed I came to the Etāwa side, and, under the shade of the trees of the same garden, and sitting on the top of the eminence which overhangs the river, we set some men to wrestle before us for amusement. The dinner which Mahdi Khwājeh had ordered was served.

Arrives at Etdwa.

² The same day I prepared a mistar of eleven lines for use in copy ing the translations I might wish to write in characters ornamented with anabesques.

b the chief town of d Omit a tan eminence

c we resumed our journey

[·] I moved towards Etāwa.

¹ [By 'set of parallel lines' is meant the mistar, a card on which threads are strung parallel to each other, and this, pressed against the sheet of paper to be written on, is the Oriental substitute for our ruled lines. The tarkīb khattı, which Erskine translates by 'mixed characters', is given the meaning of 'characters ornamented with ara besques' in P de C.'s version.]

² [The Gazetteer of Etawa gives Jhākan as a village in the head quarters Tahsīl of the Etāwa district, lying amongst the ravines on the left bank of the Jamna.]

Mahdi Khwājeh had held the government of Etāwa Ho was Bābur's son in law [According to Mrs Beveridge (Mumāyān nāmeh, p 18) he was married to Bābur's sister Khānzādah Begum Khwāja Khalifeh, according to some authorities, had intended to place this nobleman on the throne to the exclusion of all Bābur's sons, but his arrogance and presumption disgusted even his most ardent partisans, and influenced the Khalifeh to transfer his allegiance to Humāyūn—E B. p. 514]

Write to Hum ann

Hin lal, and

Kamtan

up here. About evening provers we crossed the river, and reached the camp about hed time prayers. I halted two or three days on this ground, both to collect our troops. and for the purpose of writing letters to be sent to Kabul a by Shamseddin Muhammed

On Wednesday, the 30th of the first Jum'ida, I marched 1-b 10 from Ptiwn and after proceeding eight Los halted at Müri and Adusch! Several letters for Kabul which I had not had time to write. I finished at this station. I wrote to Humaion. that if the meursions which had broken the tranquility of the country were not yet completely checked he should lumself move to punish the robbers and freebooters, who and been guilty of the depredations and take every means to prevent the peace of the country from being disturbed I added that I had made Kabul a Royal Covernment? that therefore none of my children should pre time to levy any money in it ! I likewise sent e instructions to Hindal to repur to the Court To Kamrin I wrote recommending him to cultivate politeness, and the duties suited to his rink as a prince detailed him that I had bestored on him the country of Multan and informed him that Kabul was to belong to the imperial domain. I likewise informed him that I had sent for my wife and family. As several circumstances relating to my affairs may be learnt from the letter which I wrote on this occasion to Khwajch Kulan. I subjoin a copy of it precisely as it was sent

'To Khwaich Kalan, health

'Shamseddin Muhammed reached me at I tawa and Baburs communicated his intelligence? My solicitude to visit letter to

blus ifeli halin

Crown domain

a to my people at Kabu b to male any claims to it repeated mis

d strive to maintain good relations with the royal Prince (King of Add about affairs in those parts (Kabul) Perria)

^{1 [}Müri may be the Muhüri, which is marked on the Gazetteer map of the Ftina district, U.P.—This place adjoins the village of Babarpur in the Aurana Taheil of the Itawa district, so called according to the Gazetteer because it was used by Bahur as a halting place. It has two sites which combined are known as Serai Babar pur, and may mark the position of Muri Adura 1

my western dominions is boundless, and great beyond The affairs of Hindustan have at length. however, been reduced into a certain degree of order, and I trust in Almighty God that the time is near at hand, when, through the grace of the Most High, everything will be completely settled in this country. As soon as matters are brought into that state, I shall, God willing, set out for your quarter, without losing a moment's time. How is it possible that the delights of those lands should ever be erased from the heart? Above all, how is it possible for one like me, who have made a vow of abstinence from wine. and of purity of life, to forget the delicious melons and granes of that pleasant region a? They very recently brought me a single musk-melon. While cutting it up I felt myself affected with a strong feeling of loneliness, and a sense of my exile from my native country, and I could not help shedding tears while I was cating it

' You take notice of the unsettled state of Kabul, I have considered the matter very attentively, and with the best of my judgement, and have made up my mind that in a country in which there are seven or eight chiefs, nothing regular or settled is to be looked for I have therefore sent for my sisters and the females of my family binto Hindustan,1 and having resolved on making Kābul, and all the neighbouring countries and districts, part of the imperial domain, I have written fully on the subjects to Humaiun and Kamran Let some man of judgement deliver to them the letters now sent. I have formerly written on the same subject to the Mirzas, as perhaps you may know is therefore now no obstacle nor impediment to the settling of the countrye, and if the defences of the castle are not strong, if the inhabitants of the kingdom are distressed, if there be no provisions in the granames, or if the treasury be empty, the fault must, in future, be laid on the governor of the country a which produce so much licit enjoyment?

b my wives

o Add and the development of its resources,

¹ They seem to have had different districts assigned them for their support.

'There are several matters necessary to be attended to, a list of which I shall subjoin Regarding some of them I had previously written you, so that you will be, in some degree. prepared for them. They are as follows b The castle must be put in a state of complete repair, the granaries must be stored, and provender laid up, the going and coming of ambassadors must be attended to c, the Grand Mosque must be repaired, and the expense provided for out of the tax levied on gardens and orchards d Again, the caravanserais, and baths, and the large portico of brick, built by Ustad Hassan Ali in the citadel, and the unfinished palace, must be properly repaired and completed, after consulting with Ustad Sultan Muhammed If Ustad Hassan All has already drawn a plan, let him complete it according to that plan If he has not, you must consult together, and fix upon some beautiful design, taking care that the court be on a level with the floor of the Hall of Audience Again, the buildings as you go to Little Kābul, near Bādash-Khāk,1 must be attended to,f and the water-mound of Ghazni must likewise be thoroughly repaired As for the garden of Hanawan, s it has but a scanty supply of water, a stream, large enough to turn a mill, must be purchased,h and led through the grounds Again, to the south-west of Khwajeh (Basteh), I formerly led the river of Tütün-dareh? by the foot of a rising ground, where I formed a plantation

a Such are, the treasury must be kept well supplied,

b Omit this clause

 $^{^{\}rm c}$ provision must be made for the expenses incidental to the visits of ambassadors ,

d a tax on property Add This impost should be legalized, and its receipts devoted to the object stated.

^e For the large portice of brick palace read and the unfinished palace of baked bricks, in course of construction, which was begun by Ustad Hasan Ali in the citadel, f Again, it is urgently necessary for you to attend to the reservoir of Little Kābul, which is connected with the stream of Butkhāk, at the point where the pass opens out in the direction of Little Kābul,

g promenade garden,

h obtained,

¹ Būtkhāk.

² Tūtūn dareh 18 a valley about eight kos north west of Hūpiān.

of trees a, and as the prospect from it was very fine, b I called it Nazergāh (The Prospect) You must there also plant some beautiful trees, form regular orchards, and all around the orchards sow beautiful and sweet-smelling flowers and shrubs, according to some good plan c

'Syed Kāsım has been appointed to accompany the artillery-men d

'You must remember too, to pay particular attention to Ustad Muhammed Hassan, the armourer *

'Immediately on receiving this letter, you will, without loss of time, attend my sisters, and the ladies of my family, as far as Nilāb, so that, whatever impediments there may be to their gleaving Kābul, they must, at all events, set out from it within a week after this arrives, for as a detachment has left Hindustān, and is waiting for them, any delay will expose it to difficulties, h and the country too will suffer

'In a letter which I wrote to Abdallah, I mentioned that I had much difficulty in reconciling myself to the desert of penitence, but that I had resolution enough to persevere,¹

(Türki verse)—I am distressed since I renounced wine,
I am confounded and unfit for business,—
Regret leads me to penitence, Penitence leads me to regret.

- 'I remember an anecdote of Banāi He was one day sitting by Mīr Ali Sher, and had said something witty Mīr Ali Sher, who had on a vest with rich buttons, said, "The wittiesm is excellent, I would give you my vest
- ^a On the top of a hillock, to the south west of Khwāja Bastali, I built a tank, to which I had led the waters of the Tūtum Darah, and round which I had planted trees

b Add and as it was opposite a frequented ford,

I am anxious that you should plant more beautiful trees there, and that you should lay out symmetrical grass plots bordered with pretty sweet-smelling flowers

d appointed to the auxiliary corps

o Add and the matchlock men f my wives,

s however averse they may be to h hardships in a difficult position,

1 Hero is a quatrain which expresses exactly the difficulties of my position.

1 Others repent and remain penitent, while I have repented, and regret having done so were it not for the buttons' Banai answered, "Why should the buttons lunder it? I fear the button-holes 1 are the impediment" The truth of the anecdote must rest with him that told it me Excuse me for deviating into these fooleries For God's sake, do not think amiss of me for them I wrote last year the tetrastich which I have quoted, and, indeed, last year, b my desire and longing for wine and social parties were beyond measure excessive. it even came to such a length, that I have found myself shedding tears from veration and disappoint-In the present year, praise be to God, these troubles are over, and I ascribe them chiefly to the occupation afforded to my mind by c a poetical translation,2 on which I have employed myself Let me advise you too, to adopt a life of abstinence Social parties and wine are pleasant, in company with our d jolly friends and old boon companions But with whom can you enjoy the social cup? With whom can you indulge in the pleasures of wine? If you have only Sher Ahmed, and Haider Kuli, for the companions of your gay hours and jovial goblet, you can surely find no great difficulty in consenting to the sacrifice I conclude with every good wish o Written on Thursday, Feb 11 the 1st of the latter Jumāda '3

I was much affected while writing these letters, f which I delivered to Shamseddin Muhammed, and having given him such further verbal instructions as seemed necessary, dispatched him on Friday eve

On Friday we advanced eight kos, and halted at Ju- Feb 12 mandna One of Kıtın Kara Sultan's 4 servants, who had

Complaints from Balkh

- a Add which hinder me
- b for the last two years
- c to the blessings which were vouchsafed to me by virtue of
- d derive all their charm from the company of
- e I bid you adieu with a wish for our speedy reunion
- f this letter, Add mixed with good counsel, which friendship prompted me to give.

¹ The Türki word signifies not only button holes, but meanness and impotency

² [A reference to the translation of the Risālahe Vālidiyah.]

It is singular that none of Babur's Türki letters are translated in the Persian. They give an amiable view of his character Kitin Kara Sultan was the Uzbek Chief of Balkh.

been sent to Kamāl-ed-din Kanāk, another of the Sultan's servants, then on an embassy at my court, had brought him letters, containing strong complaints of the conduct and proceedings of the Amīrs on the frontier, and remonstrating against the robberies and pillage that were committed Kanāk sent me the man who had come to him a I gave Kanāk leave to return home, and issued orders to the Amīrs on the frontier, that they should use every exertion to punish all such robbers or pillagers, and should conduct themselves towards the neighbouring powers with perfect good faith and amity. These firmāns I delivered to the man who had come from Kitīn Kara Sultan, and sent him back from that very stage.

л D 1529

One Shah Kuli had been sent by Hassan Chalebi, to give me the particulars of the battle ¹ I now sent him with letters to the king, in which I apologized for detaining ^b Hassan Chalebi On Friday the 2nd, he took leave

Геb 13

On Saturday too, we advanced eight kos, and halted at Gakūra and Hemāwali, pergannas of Kālpi

Feb 14

On Sunday the 4th, we marched nine kos, and halted at Darehpur,² a perganna of Kālpi I here had my head shaved for two months before I had never shaved my head I bathed in the river Sanker³

Feb 15

On Monday I marched fourteen kos, and halted at Chirgurh, which is also a perganna of Kālpi

Feb 16

Next morning, being Tuesday the 6th, a Hindustāni servant of Karācheh arrived, bringing firmāns from Māham, directed to Karācheh He had also received perwanels by written in my style, and in the manner I n Omit this sentence

 $^{^{\}rm b}$ in which I informed him that I accepted his excuse for delaying the departure of

c Kakura

¹ Between the Persians and Uzbeks, near Jam

 $^{^{\}circ}$ [There is a town named Darahpur marked on Rennell's map on the Sengar river in the Cawnpore district, U P]

^{* [}The Sengar is a river that flows through the Etawa and Cawn pore districts, and joins the Jamna below Kälpi.]

^{· [}Mähım was Bābur's favourite wife, the mother of Humāyun.]

⁵ Perioanehs are royal letters.

After advancing twelve kos from Korah, we halted at Kurich,1 one of the pergannas of Karrah 2 Advancing eight kos from Kurich, we reached Fatchpur Aswah, and after marching forward eight kos from Fatchpur, we cheanned at Scrai Mida As I was halting here, about bed-time prayers, Sultan Jalaleddin waited on me to offer me his duty. He brought along with him his two young sons

1 cb 27

Next morning, being Saturday the 17th, we marched eight kos, and halted at Dakdaki, a perganna of Karrali, on the banks of the Ganges

Joins his castern army I eb 28

March 1

On Sunday, Muhammed Sultan Mirza, and Kūsim Hussain Sultan, Bikhūb Sultan, and Tardikch, waited on me at this station; and, on Monday, at the same station Askeri also came and offered me his duty. All of them had come from the eastward of the Ganges I ordered that Asken should march down the opposite bank of the river, with the troops that had arrived on that side, and that, whenever my army halted, he should encamp opposite to it on the other bank

Sultan Malımüd's Buccess

While in this neighbourhood, intelligence reached us in rapid succession, that Sultan Mahmud had gathered round him a hundred thousand Afghans, that he had detached Sheikh Bayezīd and Bīban, with a large army, towards Sarwär, while he himself and Fatch Khan Sirwäni occupied the banks of the Ganges, and were moving upon thirty miles west north west of Fatchpur -Thornton's Gazetteer o India 1

1 [Kurriah, or Kunda Kanak, is a village in the Ghazipur Tahsil of the Fatchpur district, on the left bank of the Jamna, about eighteen miles south west of Fatehpur Aswah, or Haswah, is a village in the head quarters Tahsil of the same district, seven miles south east of Fatchpur It is an old town—now decayed—and capital of the porganiah Serai Mida may be Serai Munda, a village in the same Tahsil of the same district, about twelve miles south east of Fatchpur

-Gazetteer of Fatehpür]

* [Karra 18 a town of historic interest in the Allahabad district, U P It is situated on the south bank of the Ganges opposite Manikpur]

IThis was Jalal ud din Sharki, the son of Hosain Shah and the representative of the older kings who ruled Jaunpur before its con quest by Sikander Lodi He must not be confounded with Jalal ud din Lohani (ex king of Behar), another competitor for the Eastern (Gorakhpūr 1 Kingdom.]

March 2 March 3 and 4 Bābur 18 entertained n Karrah by Sultan Jalāleddin

Marching from Dakdaki, we advanced six kos, and encamped at Kusār within three or four kos of Karrah I went and stayed on board of a vessel. We halted two or three days at this station on account of a grand entertainment, which Sultan Jalāleddīn gave me On Friday I went to the palace of Sultan Jalāleddīn, within the Fort of Karrah, where he entertained me as his guest, he himself placing some of the dishes before me After dinner I invested him and his sons with a yakta of cloth of gold, a jameh, and a nimcheh, and, at his desire, gave his eldest son the title of Sultan Mahmūd

March 5

After leaving Karrah, I rode on about a kos, and halted on the banks of the river Ganges Shahrek had met me with letters from Māham, at the first station after I reached the Ganges I now sent him back with my answers Khwājeh Kalān, Khwājeh Yahya's grandson, had asked for a copy of the Memoirs which I had written I had formerly ordered a copy to be made, and now sent it by Shahrek

March 6

Next day we marched, and after advancing four kos, halted ² I embarked in a boat as usual, o and, as the camp did not move far, we arrived early Soon after I took a maajūn, still remaining on board de Khwājeh Abdal Shahīd was in Nūrbeg's house, we sent for him, we also sent and brought Mulla Mahmūd from Mulla Ali Khan's house After sitting some time we passed over to the other side, and set some wrestlers to wrestle. We directed Dost Yāsīn Khair to try his skill with the other wrestlers, without engaging Sādik the great wrestler. These directions were contrary to usage, as the custom is to a I made the journey by boat

b Omit jameh, c Omit as usual,

d Soon after my arrival I again embarked and took a ma'jūn

 $^{^1}$ The yakta is a vest without a liming , the jāmeh is a long gown , the nīmcheh, a vest that reaches only down to the middle.

² [P de C. has 'the next day being Saturday, we marched, and after advancing four kos halted at Koh', a village situated in the Sirathu Tahail of the Allahābād district, twenty four miles north west of Allahābād.—Gazetteer of the Allahābād district]

It. e. the champion.]

Sultan Mahmud's

army dis persed

wrestle with the strongest first. He wrestled extremely well with eight different persons

About afternoon prayers, Sultan Muhammed Bakhshi A p 1529 came in a hoat from the other side of the river brought accounts of the run of the affairs of Mahmud Khan, the son of Sultan Iskander whom the rebels had dignified with the title of Sultan Mahmud A scout who had gone out from our army had already, about noon-day prayers, brought us news of the breaking up of the rebels. Between noon and afternoon prayers a letter had armyed from Täjkhän Särangkhäni, which corresponded with the information of the spy Muhammed, on his arrival, now detailed the whole particulars It appeared that the rebels had come and laid siege to Chunar, and had even made a slight attack. but that. on getting the certain news of my approach, they were filled with consternation, broke up in confusion, and raised the siege, that the Afghans who had passed over to Benares, had also retired in great confusion, that two of their boats sank in the passage, and that several of their men were drowned in the river

> When Enchantments

Next morning also I a embarked in a boat half-way down, I saw Aisan Taimur Sultan, and Tukhteh Būgha Sultan, who had dismounted for the purpose of performing the hornish, and were still standing b I sent for the Sultans into the boat, Tukhteh Bugha Sultan performed some of his enchantments. A high wind having risen,c it began to rain. The violence of the wind induced me to cat a manjun. Although I had eaten

¹ [Mahmud Lodi was the younger son of Sikander Lodi, King of Delhi. The western Afghans had proclaimed him King of Delhi after the death of his brother Ibrahim (1526), and Rana Sanka acknow ledged his claims to the throne He supported the Rana with a con siderable force at the battle of Kanwa (1527), after which he fled to Chitor, where he remained some time He was invited to Panna in Bundelkhand by the Lodi chiefs assembled there, and was proclaimed King of Behar and Jaunpur in 1528 -E B, p 497]

a Next morning I set out and after a march of six kos, the army arrived at Serauli, one of the districts of Ping I then

b Omit this clause

c This produced a most refreshing temperature, and a maniful the day before, I ate one also this day on reaching the camp

March 8 March 9

Bibur's dauger Next day we halted in our camp

On Tuesday we marched. Over against Averd there was a large verdant island. Having crossed in a boat t I rode round it on horseback, and, coming back in one b watch, again embarked in the boat. While riding on the bank of the river, I came, without knowing it, on a steep precipice which had been hollowed out below by the current The moment I reached the bank it gave way, and began to tumble in I instantly threw myself by a leap on the part of it that was firm. My horse tumbled in a Had I remained on the horse, I must inevitably have fallen in along with it The same day I swam across the river Ganges I counted my strokes, and found that I for amusement crossed over with thirty-three strokes. I then took breath,d and swam back to the other side. I had crossed by swimming every river that I had met with, the river Ganges alone excepted. On reaching the place where the Ganges and Jumna unite, I rowed over in the boat to the Piag 2 side, and at one watch and four garis,3 we reached the camp

March 10

On Wednesday at noon, the army began to cross the Jumna We had four hundred and twenty boats

a I explored it, b the first

c While I was riding along the banks of the river I passed over a quagmire (quicksand), the existence of which I had not even suspected. My horse had no sooner placed his feet on this quick sand, which exhibited no fissure on its exterior surface, than he sank. I instantly gave a jump, and throw myself on the bank, while my horse too regained his footing

d without resting,

o Add at the hour of evening prayers, I had the boat drawn

¹ [This should be $\tilde{u}rd\tilde{u}$, or camp, according to P de C]

About half-past ten p m.

The two rivers unite at Piāg, properly Priāg, a famous place of pilgrimage with the Hindus. The fort of Allahābād is built at the conflux of the two rivers [Pryūg, which is the Hindu name for Allahābād, and signifies 'the place of sacrifice', has been regarded as a holy spot for countless centuries The fort contains Asoka's pillar dated third century B o, on which are also recorded the victories of Samudra Gupta in the fourth century A D]

On Friday, the 1st of Rajeb, I crossed the river

On Monday the 4th, I marched from the banks of the Jumna against Behar Having advanced five kos, we halted at Lawain I sailed down the river as I had been accustomed a The troops had continued passing till this day I now directed the guns and artillery b which had been landed at Adampur to be again embarked at Piag, and sent forward by water carriage Having reached our ground, we set the wrestlers a-wrestling Dost Yasin had an excellent wrestling match with Pahlevan Lahori 1 the Dost succeeded in throwing him, but by great exertions, and with much difficulty I bestowed complete dresses on both of them Somewhat farther on is the Tüs.2 a very swampy and muddy river We halted two days at this station, for the purpose of discovering a ford, and of constructing a road Towards night, we found a ford o March 16 by which the horses and camels could pass, but the loaded wagons could not cross on account of its broken stony bottom Orders were, however, given that exertion should be used, to transport the baggage carts across by that ford

On Thursday, having marched thence, I went in a boat March 18 as far as the point where the river Tus empties itself into the main river 3 At the point of junction I landed, rode up the Tūs, and returned about afternoon prayers to the camp, which, in the meantime, had crossed that river and taken its ground This day the army marched six kos

Next morning we halted on the same ground

n I went by boat c Add up the river from our camp

¹ [1. e the Lahore champion.]

Ganges two miles west of Ballia 1

b gun carriages

² [There are two rivers called Tous, viz. the southern (the Tūs referred to above) and the eastern. The former rises in the Kaimur range, Maihar State, C. I., flows through Rewah and the Allahabad district, and falls into the Ganges nineteen miles below its junction with the Jamna close to Punasa, where Babur probably crossed it The latter (Bābur's Tousin) rises west of Fyzābād and runs a course nearly parallel with the Gogra. It flows in a south east direction past Azımgarh, receives the Lesser Sarju near Man, and falls into the

March 12 Rābur crosses the Jumna March 15 Advances against Behār

and 17

March 19

It. e the Ganges.]

March 20

March 21 March 22 On Saturday we marched twelve kos, and reached Nilabā-Gang a, whence next morning we marched, and having advanced six kos, halted above Deh I From thence we went on seven kos, and reached Nānupūr At this station Bāki Khan b arrived with his sons from Chunār, and paid his obcisance

At this time a letter from Muhammed Bakhshi gave me certain information, that my wives and household had set out from Kähul

Visits Chunār March 24

On Wednesday I marched from that station, and visited the fort of Chunar, the camp halted after having advanced about one kos beyond it In the course of my march from Piag, some painful boils broke out on my body At this stage a Rümi administered to me a medicine which had lately been found out in Rum They boiled the dust of pepper in an earthen pot, and exposed the sores to the warm steam, and after the steam diminished. washed them with the warm water I did this for two astronomical hours At this station, a man said that in an island close on the edge of the camp, he had seen a lion and rhinoceros 2 Next morning we drew a ring round the ground, we also brought elephants to be in readiness, but no hon or rhinoceros was roused On the edge of the circle one wild buffalo was started This day the wind rose very high, and the wind and dust occasioned a great deal of annovance Having embarked in a boat, I returned by water to the camp, which had halted two kos higher up than Benäres In the jungle around Chunar, there are many elephants 3 We were just setting out from this station, with the intention of having the sport of elephant hunting, when Baki Khan o brought information, that

March 25

Arrives at Benäres

Mahmūd Khan occu pies the banks of the Son

n we again reached the banks of the Ganges at Nilab,

b Tāj Khan c Tāj Khan

Mahmud Khan was on the banks of the river Son 4 I

¹ [This should be simply 'a village ', according to P de C]

^{*} Neither hons nor rhinoceroses are ever heard of now at Benares The former might have been a tiger

No wild elephants are ever found now in that quarter, or nearer than the hills.

^{4 [}The Son, rising at Amarkantak, and flowing through the Bilāspür immediately convened the Amirs, and consulted them AD 1529 about attempting to fall upon the enemy by surprise, when it was finally settled, that we should advance by very long marches without a moment's loss of time Leaving that place, we marched nine kos and halted at the Balweh 1 passage I rom this station, on the eye of March 28 Monday, the 18th of the month, I sent off Taher to Agra He carried with him drafts for payment of the money which I had ordered to be given as presents to the guests who had come from Kabul The same day I went on board of a boat. I embarked before dawn, and having reached March 29 the place where the river Gumti,2 which is the river of Hibar Jaunpur, forms a junction with the Ganges, I went a short against way up it in the boat and then returned back. Though it is a narrow little river, yet it has no ford, so that troops are forced to pass it in boats, by rafts, and on horseback, or sometimes by swimming b. I visited and rode over the last year's encampment, from which our troops had advanced to Jaumpur . A favourable wind having spring up and blowing down the river, they hoisted the sail of a Bengali boat, and made her tow the large vessel, which went very quick. The army, after leaving Benares, had encumped, about a kos higher up da Nearly two garis of the day were still left when we reached the camp, having met with nothing to delay use, the boats that followed us with most expedition, came up about bed-time pravers

n Omit this sentence

b Omit and on horseback and read or by swimming their horses

Add at a distance of a kos below the junction of the Gamti (with the Ganges)

d My camp was pitched a Los above Benäres

C Omit this clause

district, Rewah state, and the Mirzapür and Shahabid districts, joins the Ganges ten miles above Dinapur It almost equals the Nerbudda in sanctity 1

^{1 [}This is probably the Balloon of Rennell's map, a town in the Benares district, UP, situated on the left bank of the Ganges.]

^{2 (}The Gumti rises twenty miles east of Pilibhit in the United Provinces, flows past Shah jehanpur, Lucknow, and Jaunpur, and joins the Ganges at Saidpur in the Ghazipur district]

³ Higher probably than the junction of the Ganges and Gumti,

At Chunar I had given orders, that whenever I travelled by land, Moghul Beg should measure the straight road with a measuring line, and that, as often as I embarked on a boat, Lutii Beg should measure along the bank of the river. The straight road was eleven kos, that along the river eighteen

March 30

Next day we remained at the same station

March 31 On Wednesday, too, I embarked on the river, and halted a kos below Ghazipur

April 1 Several Afglian' chiefs ten der their submission

On Thursday, while at the last-mentioned station, Mahmüd Khan Lohani came and waited on me The same day, letters came from Jalal Khan Behar Khan Behari, from Parid Khan, Nasir Khan, and Sher Khan Sur, as well as from Alaul Khan Sur, and from a number of the Afghan Amirs? This day, too, I received a letter from Abdal axiz Mir Akhūr, dated at Lahore, the 20th of the latter Jumada The day on which this letter was written, Karāchch's Hindustāmi servant, whom I had sent from the neighbourhood of Kālpi, had arrived Abdal nzīz's letter mentioned, that he and others had advanced, as they had been ordered, and on the 9th of the latter Iumāda had joined my household at Nilāb Abdal-azīz, after attending them as far as the Chenāb, had there separated from the rest, and gained Lahore before them,

March 2

Feb 19

from whence he had written the letter which I received On Friday the army resumed its march, while I embarked on the river as usual, and having landed opposite to Chūsch, at the encampment of the former year, where

April 2

1 [According to Erskine, Jalal Khan Behar Khan Behari was the grandson of Darya Khan, and the son of Behar Khan Lohani, who had assumed the title of Sultan Muhammed in 1523 Sher Khan Sur was at this time his chief supporter Nasir Khan was the Afghan Jagirdar of Charloin (F. R. p. 490).]

of Ghāzīpūr (EB, p 499)]

² [As Erskine observes in his History of Babur, p 500, 'this amounted to a breaking up of the Lohāni confederacy in Behār, leaving only Mahmūd Lodi and his adherents to be dealt with. In fact the feuds between the Lohāni and Lodi factions in the eastern provinces were fatal to the national history of the Afghana.']

² [Chausa is a village in the Buxar subdivision of the Shahābād district, UP, situated close to the point where the Karamnasa joins the Ganges four miles west of Buxar town. It was the scene of Humāyūn's crushing defeat by Sher Shah in 1539]

the sun had been celepsed, and a fast observed. I rode out and surveyed the place, and then went aboard again Muhammed Zeman Mirza followed me into the boat, and at his instigation I took a maryon. The army encamped on the banks of the Karmnasa. The Hindus rigorously word this river. The pious Hindus did not pass it, but embarked but a boat and crossed by the Ganges so as to avoid it. They hold, that if the water of this river touches any person, his religion is lost c and they assign an origin to its name corresponding to this opinion 1 embarked, and sailed a little way up the river and then returning again crossed over to the north side of the Ganges, and brought the boats close to the bank. Some of the troops amused us with different sports, and some of them wrestled Siki Muhsin challenged four or five people to wrestle with him One man he laid hold of and immediately threw, Shādmān being the second, threw Muhsin who was miserably ashamed and affronted. The professed wrestlers also came and wrestled

Next morning, being Saturday, I marched nearly at the April 3 first watch, for the purpose of sending on people to examine the ford over the Karmnasa I mounted, and rode for about a kos up the river towards the ford, but, as the distance was considerable, I again embarked as usual, and reached the camp in a boat. The army encamped about a kos beyond Chusch This day I again used the pepper remedy It was a little too warm, so that my limbs were covered with blood,d and I suffered much pain. A

Passes th

a having followed me by boat rejoined me

h went past its mouth

all the ments of a man s pious works are lost,

d with the result that I felt its influence all over my body.

¹ This must have been the eclipse of May 10, 1528 A fast is enjoined on the day of an eclipse

[[]The Karamnasa (destroyer of religious merit) rises in the Kaimur Hills, eighteen miles west of Rohtasgarh in Bengal, flows through the Mirzapur district, separates Shahabad from Benares, and joins the Ganges near Chausa Various stories are current to account for its bad repute, but the real cause of its ill fame is probably the fact that it was the boundary of the eastern Lingdom of Magadha, which is treated with contempt in Sanskrit literature because its inhabitants were non Arvans 1

April 4

little farther on was a swampy rivulct. We stayed next morning on the same ground, for the purpose of mending the road across it

On the eye of Monday, the Hindustani runner, who had brought Abdal azīz's letters, was sent back with the กมรหากา

April 5

On Monday morning I embarked in a boat, but the wind being unfavourable, it was necessary to track! it Last year the army had halted a long time at a station opposite to Bakserch? On arriving near it I crossed the river and went over the ground. Steps had been formed on the bank of the river for the purpose of landing, they might be more than forty and fewer than fifty. The two upper steps alone were left, all the others had been swept away by the river I embarked again and took a manjin, and having anchored the boat higher up than the camp, at an island, we made the wrestlers try their skill. At bed-time prayers we returned to the camp. Last year I passed the river Ganges by swimming,3 to view the very ground on which the army now encamped, many went over it on horses and a number on camels That day I ate opium

April 6.

Next morning, being Tuesday, Karim Berdi, Muhammed Alı Haider Kitābdār,4 and Bāba Sheikh were sent out with a force of about a hundred a chosen men, to procure intelligence of the enemy. While at this station, I directed the Bengal ambassador to write b about three definitive propositions which I offered him

April 7

On Wednesday, Yunis Ah, whom I had sent to Muhammed Zemān Mirza 5 to sound his dispositions regarding Behār, a two hundred

b to his master

¹ [i. e tow it with a rope]

* [Bunar, a town in the Shahābād district, Bengal, is situated on the right bank of the Ganges, about sixty two miles north east of Benares Sir Hector Munro gained a decisive victory here in 1764 over the allied forces of Mir Kasım and the Wazir of Oude 1

Babur mentions above, that he had passed the Ganges by swim ming for the first time Perhaps he means the Ganges alone, as distinguished from the joint stream of the Jumna and Ganges.

[It e. librarian P de C. has equerry (rikābdār)]

It will be recollected that Muhammed Zemān Mirza was the son returned, bringing back a shuffling answer A man belong- A D 1529 ing to the Sheikh-zadehs of Behar arrived with a letter, which contained information that the enemy had retreated and abandoned Behär

On Thursday, having written letters of protection, I sent April 8 them to the people of Behar by Terdi Muhammed so i of Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng, whom I ordered to set out, accompanied by some Türki and Hindu Amīrs, and by the bowmen, to the number of two thousand men made Khwajeh Murshid Irāki, Dīwān 1 of the Sarkār of Behär, I sent him along with Terdi Muhammed Next morning, Muhammed Zemān Mirza having consented to go, petitioned for several things through Sheikh Zein and Yunis Ali, and particularly requested a few troops to reinforce him Some troops were appointed to serve under him, and he took others into his service

On Saturday, the 1st of Shābān, we marched from this April 10 station, where we had remained encamped for three or four days, and the same day I rode out, and, after surveying Bhujpūr² and Bahia,3 rejoined the camp Muhammed Ali and the officers who had been sent out in search of intelligence, defeated a body of pagans by the road, and reached a place where Sultan Mahmud had been of Badia ez zemān Mırza, Kıng of Khorasān Bābur at this time wished to bestow on him the government of Behar, which he does not appear to have been eager to receive [He was Babur's son in law. having married his daughter Ma'sumeh Begum.—E B, p 525]

- 1 [1. e civil governor Under Babur's grandson Akbar, the Moghal Empire was divided into fifteen Sūbahs, each under a Sūbah dar or Viceroy, often a royal prince, who had supreme civil and military control Under him were the Divans, who were superin tendents of finance, and the Faugdars, or military commanders of districts Each Subah was divided into a certain number of Sarkars. and each Sarkar into Pergannahs (or Mahals), of our subdivisions into provinces, divisions, and districts These Sūbahs varied much For instance the Multan Subah contained only five Sarkars, and fifty three Mahals, whereas the Allahabad Subah comp sed ten Sarkars and 177 Mahals]
- 2 [Bhu]pur lies on the right bank of the Ganges in the Shahabad district, Bengal. It is twenty five miles west of Bilinya and five miles due east of Buxar]
- 3 [Bihiya is a village in the head quarters Tahsīl of the Shahābād district, Bengal. 1

Sultan Mahmūd retreats Sultan Mahmud was attended by about two thousand a men, but, on hearing of the approach of our advanced guard, was seized with consternation, killed two of his elephants, and went off with precipitation. One of his officers, whom he had sent out in advance, was met and attacked by about twenty of our troops, and being unable to maintain his ground, his people fled, several of them were dismounted and taken prisoners, one of them had his head cut off and one or two of their best men were taken and brought in alive

April II Muhammed Zemän Mirza gets Behär

Next morning we marched, and I went on board of a boat b At this stage I bestowed on Muhammed Zemān Mirza a full dress of honour from my own wardrobe, a dagger and belt, a charger, and the umbrella 2 He bent the knee, and did me homage for Behār, and having fixed the revenue payable into the private treasury from the Sarkar of Behār at one kror and twenty-five lals, I gave the charge of it to Murshid Irāki, as Dīwān

April 15

On Thursday, we marched from that station, and I embarked in a boat I made all the boats be ranged in regular order On my arrival, I directed the boats to set sail, and to form in order close to each other. More than half the breadth of the river was left unoccupied d. Although all the ships were not collected as some places were shallow and others deep, as in some places the current was rapid, while in others the water was still, we were unable to make the greater part of them keep their proper distances

¹ two hundred

b Add here It was at this station that Muhammed Zaman Mirza crossed the river. I was obliged to halt there for two or three days until he had accomplished the passage of the river, and started on his journey.

c On Tuesday, the fourth of the month, d All the boats that had been lying up had orders on my arrival to set sail, after being bound to each other by means of ropes so as to form a continuous line—It turned out that they occupied more than the width of the river

¹ Sarupā khāseh

The umbrella was a symbol only given to viceroys and persons of the highest rank.

¹ Khālseh

⁴ About £32,000

A crocodile 1 was discovered within the ring of the boits, a fish the size of a man's thigh, a leapt so high out of the water for fear of the crocodile, that it fell into a boat, where it was taken and brought to me On reaching our station, I gave names to the different ships The old great Băburi, which had been finished before the war with Rana Sanka, I called Asāish? This same year, before I joined the army, Araish Khan had built a vessel, and presented it to me as a peshkesh On going on board of her, I had directed a scaffolding 3 to be raised in her, and bestowed on the vessel the name of Araish 4 In the ship which Sultan Jalaleddin had given me as peshkesh, I had caused a large scaffolding to be raised, and I now directed another scaffolding to be erected on the top of that I called her the Gunjāish 5 Another small bark, used as a vessel of communication, b which was sent on every business and occasion, got the name of Farmaish a

Next morning, being Friday, I did not march All the preparations and arrangements for Muhammed Zemān Mirza's departure being completed, he separated from us, and encamped a kos or two off, for the purpose of proceeding on his expedition to Behār The same day, he came and had his audience of leave Two spies, who came from the Bengal army, informed me that the Bengalis, under the command of Makhdūm Alim, were separated into twenty-four divisions on the banks of the river Gandak,7 and were raising works of defence \(\lambda\) body of Afghans, under Sultan Mahmūd, who had wished to send away their families and baggage,c had not been suffered to do it, and

April 16 Babur prepares for a Omit the size of a man's thigh,

b a vessel with a rounded stern,

c to convey their wives and families across the river,

¹ [This is the gharial or Gavialis gangeticus]

² The Repose ³ [1 e. platform or raised poop]

^{&#}x27; [The Ornament.] ' The Capacious.

^{• [}The Commission.]

⁷ [This is the Gandak proper, which, rising in the mountains of Nepal, flows through the districts of Champaran and Saran, and joins the Ganges opposite Patna—It must not be confounded with the Lesser Gandak, which is a tributary of the Ghagra]

had been compelled to accompany the army Instantly on receiving this intelligence, as there was some probability of a general action, I dispatched orders to Muliammed Zemān Mirza, forbidding him to march, and sent forward Shah Iskander, with only three or four hundred men, to Behār

April 17 Demands a categorical answer from Bengal

On Saturday, a messenger from Dūdū,1 and her son Jalal Khan Behar Khan, arrived in my camp It appeared that the Bengalis had watched them with a jealous eye After having given me notice of their intentions, that I might expect their arrival, they had come to blows with the Bengalis, had effected their escape, crossed the river, and reached the territory of Behär, whence they were now on their way to tender me their allegiance The same day, I sent word to the ambassador of Bengal, Ismãel Mītah, that there was great delay on the part of his court, in answering the three articles which had formerly been given to him in writing, and which he had forwarded he must, therefore, dispatch a letter, requiring an immediate and categorical answer, that if his master had really peaceable and friendly intentions, he could find no difficulty in declaring so, and that without loss of time

Recovers Behär, April 14 On Sunday eve a messenger arrived from Terdi Muhammed Jeng-Jeng, by whom I learned, that on the morning of Wednesday, the 5th of Shābān, his advanced guard had arrived on one side of Behār,² whereupon the Shikdār (or Collector) had instantly fled by the opposite gate, and made his escape

April 16 Sends an ambassa dor with three articles to Bengal On Sunday I marched from that station, and halted in the perganna of Ari³ Here we received information, that the army of Kharīd⁴ was encamped at the junction of the

¹ [Dudu was the widow of Sultan Muhammed Shah Lohāni, the Afghan King of Behār (who died in 1528), and regent for her minor son, Jalāl ud din Lohāni, or, as he is generally styled, Jalāl Khan Behār Khan.—E B, p 497]

² [The town of Behar, now much decayed, lies thirty seven miles from Patna city in the Patna district of Behar]

2 [Arrah is the head quarters of the Shahābād district of Bengal It is famous for its defence by Wake and Boyle during the Mutiny]

Kharīd appears to have included the country on both sides of the Gogra, near Sikanderpūr, and thence on its left bank down to the Ganges and Sarū on the farther side of the river Sarū, A 1 1520 where they had collected a hundred or a hundred and fifty vessels. As I was at peace with Bengal, and had always been the first to enter into any understanding that had a tendency to confirm a friendly state of things. though they had not treated me well in placing themselves right in my route yet from a consideration of the terms on which I had long been with them," I resolved to send Mulla Muhammed Mazhab along with Ismael Mita the ambassador of Bengal and it was settled that the Mulla should have leave to return back to me, after making the same three proposals that I had formerly offered?

On Monday the imbassidor of Bengal cune to wait on April 19 me when I sent him notice that he had leave to return. It

I futhful to the rule I had always ob erred

Canges | [Kharid is a village which gives its name to the perganiah. and is situated in the Bansdih Tahsil of the Ballia Di trict I P. four miles east of Sikanderpür]

^{1 (}Much confusion has been caused by the various names given to this river. The principal branch rives in Kumaon, where it is named the Käli. At Katai Ghot it unites with the western Sarju, after which it goes by various names. Sarju Sarii Sarda or Chama I urther down it is joured by the eastern Scrip and adds Deoba to its

was at the same time intimated to him, that I would be guided entirely by my own pleasure in moving backwards or forwards, as seemed best, for the purpose of quelling the rebels wherever they were to be found, but that his master's dominions should sustain no injury or harm, either by land or water, that as one of the three articles was, that he should order the army of Kharid to leave the tract in which I was marching, and return to Kharid, I was willing to send some Türks to accompany them on their march, that I would give the Kharid troops a safe-conduct, and assurances of indemnity, and suffer them to go to their own homes " If he refused to leave the passage open, and neglected to listen to the remonstrances which I made, b that then, whatever evil fell on his head, he must regard as proceeding from his own act, and he would have himself only to blame for any unpleasant circumstance that occurred

April 21

On Wednesday I bestowed the usual dress of honour on Ismāel Mīta, the Bengal ambassador, and gave him presents and his audience of leave

April 22

On Thursday I sent Sheikh Jamāli to Dūdū, and her son Jalāl Khan, with letters of protection, and a gracious message. The same day a servant of Māham arrived, who had parted with my family at Dīpali, on the other side of Bāgh-e-Safā. He brought letters from them

April 24.

On Saturday, the ambassador of Irāk, Murād Korchi Kajār, had an audience

April 25

On Sunday, having delivered suitable presents to the care of Mulla Muhammed Mazhab, he took leave

April 26

On Monday, I sent Khalifeh and some other Amirs, to examine in what place the river could be passed

April 25 Visits Ari and Munic On Wednesday, I again sent Khalifeh to examine the ground between the two rivers ² I rode out to the south, nearly to An, for the purpose of examining the beds of $^{^{\}alpha}$ who would escort them there and deliver on my behalf reassuring letters to the people of Kharīd

b and did not desist from this absurd claim to bar our passage,

Omit at Dīpali,

¹ The Kajārs are the Türki tribe, to which the present Persian royal family belong

[[]i c the Ghagra and the Ganges]

water blick. While I was riding about among them, Shokh Guren brought me some fresh seeds of the water-like bear a perfect resemblance to fresh pistachios, and have a very pleasant taste. The flower which is the nilafar, the Hindustanis call lavel lakeri its seeds they call dudah As they informed me that the Son was near at hand, we rode to see it. In the course taken by the river Son below this, there are a number of trees, which they say he in Munit? The tomb of Sheikh Yahva, the father of Sheikh Sharaf Munica is there. As we had come so far and come so near I passed the Son, and going two or three kos down the river, surveyed Munir Having walked through its gardens, I perambulated the Mausoleum, and coming to the banks of the Son bathed in that river. Having said my noon-day prayers earlier than the stated time, I returned back to join the army a Some of our horses were knocked up in consequence of their high condition so that we were forced to procure others, and bleft some persons behind with instructions to bring together the horses that were worn out to take care of them, allow them time to rest, and bring them back at leisure d. Had we not given these orders we would have lost many horses. I had given orders, on leaving Munir, to count the paces of a horse from the banks of the river Son to the camp. They amounted to twentythree thousand one hundred, which is equal to forty-six thous and two hundred prees, amounting to cleven kos and n camp to while others were exhausted, so I to did and water them to without pressure

1 The Lotus [(Volumbaum specimenm) The ordinary Hindustan word for the flower is kanwal and for the seed Lancalgatta]

* The Munir, best known hes on a river that joins the Karminasa, in the upper part of its course. The Munir here spoken of was probably some village dependent on the other. [Munir is a town on the Son in the district of Ghānipūr, I. P.]

² [Sheikh Sharif ud din Ahiyā Munirī was a celebrated Sūfi saint of Behīr the contemporary of Nizām ud din Aulia. He was the author of Madan ul ma'anī and Mulatibāt i Ahiyā Munīrī. He died in 1380, and his tomb, which stands near the junction of the Son with the Ganges, is held in great veneration by Muhammedans.—Bealo's Biographical Dictionary]

The Los being 1 000 paces. If we take the pace of two feet and a half, this would make Babur s hos nearly a mile seven furlongs and thirty three yards.

a half From Munir to the river Son is about half a kos. so that the whole distance we travelled in returning was As in moving from place to place, in order to twelve kos see the country, we must have gone lifteen or sixteen kos. we could not in all have ridden much less than thirty kos this day About six garis of the first watch of the night1 were past, when we returned to the camp

April 29 Is joined by the Jaunpür

On the morning of the same Thursday, Sultan Juncid Birlas arrived with the troops from Jaunpar I showed him troops from marks of my great dissatisfaction, upbraided him with his delay, and did not salute him I, however, sent for Kazı Jîa, whom I embraced

Resolves to force a pas sage across Gogra

That same day I called the Amīrs, both Türki and Hindu, to a council, and took their opinion about passing the river. the Saru, or It was finally settled that Ustad Ali should plant his cannon, his feringi pieces 2 and swivels,3 on a rising ground between the Ganges and Sarū, and also keep up a hot fire with a number of matchlock-men from that post, that a little lower down than the junction of the two rivers, opposite to an island, where there were a number of vessels* collected, Mustafa, on the Behar side of the Ganges, should get all his artillery and ammunition in readiness, and commence a cannonade, a number of matchlock-men were also placed under his command, that Muhammed Zeman Mirza and others, who were appointed for the service, should take their ground behind Mustafa to support him, and that overseers and inspectors should be appointed to attend Ustad Alı Kulı and Mustafa, for the purpose of overlooking the pioneers and labourers employed in raising batteries, placing the guns, and planting the artillery, b as well as for superintending the men who were occupied in transporting the ammunition and warlike stores, and in other necessary works c, that Askeri, and the Sultans and a Add and an elephant belonging to the Bengalis

b (emplacements) for the reception of guns and culverins,

c and should also provide above all for a plentiful supply of ammin nition for the guns.

¹ Nearly half past eight p m

^{* [}P de C has pierrier (culverins)]

Khans named for the duty, should set out expeditiously, and pass the Saru at the Ghat of Hald, in order that, when the batteries were completed they might be in readiness to fall upon the enemy who might thus be attacked in different quarters at the same time? Sultan Juneid, and Kazi Jia, having informed me that there was a ford eight kos higher up 1 appointed Zard-rū to take one or two boatmen, and accompanied by Sultan Junoid's men and Mahmid Khan. and Kazi Jia's people h to proceed in search of the ford and to cross over if it was found passable. Our people had a report that the Bengulis intended to place a party at the ford of Haldi, for the purpose of guarding it received letters from the Shikdar of Iskanderpura and Mahmud Khan that they had collected about fifty vessels at the passage of Haldi, and had hired boatmen, but that vin 1529 the sailors had been struck with a panie upon hearing a report that the Bengalis were coming. As there was still a chanced of effecting a passage over the river Sara, without waiting for the people who had gone to look for the ford, on Saturday I called the Amirs to a council, and told them that from Iskanderpür Chatermük, as far as Oudh and

² For at the same time read on that side

h and those of Mahmud Khan and Kazi Iia

[&]quot; Mahmud Khan's Shikd'ir at Islanderpür,

d Seeing the urgenes

¹ The Ghat of Haldi seems to have been a passage over the Gogra. The ghat on a river is the landing place on the bank.

² [This ferry is shown on the map of Gorakhpür as situated in the south east corner of the district, connecting Ballia with Gorakhpür Haldi is a village in the Rasya Tahsīl of the Ballia district, on the right bank of the Ghügra, nine miles north west of Sikandarpür—Gazitteers of the Ballia and Gorakhpür districts]

Iskanderpür, the Secunderpour of Rennell, stands on the right bank of the Gogra, about twenty miles above its junction with the Ganges. [Sikandarpür is situated in the Bansdih Tahail of the Ballia district, UP, three miles south of the right bank of the Ghūgra, and twenty four miles north of Ballia town. It is a very old town, with ruins that extend as far as Kharīd, four miles to the east, and is said to get its name from Sultan Sikandar Lodi.]

Bahraj,1 the whole river Saru was full of fords, that my plan was as follows to divide my army into six bodies a, to make the chief force of it cross in boats at the Haldi passage, and advance upon the enemy, so as to draw them out of their entrenchments, and keep them occupied until Ustad Alı Kulı and Mustafa 2 could cross the river and take post with the guns, matchlocks, feringis, and artillery b, that I myself would pass the Ganges with Ustad Ali Kulic and remain on the alert, and in perfect readiness for action. that as soon as the great division of the army had effected their passage, and got near the enemy, I should commence an attack on my side, and cross over with my division3, that Muhammed Zeman Mirza, and those who were appointed to act with him on the Behär bank of the Ganges, were at the same time to enter into action, and to support Mustafa d Having made these arrangements, and divided the army to the north of the Ganges into four divisions, and placed it under the command of Askeri, I ordered it to advance to the ford of Haldi One of the divisions was under the immediate command of Askeri, and was composed of his servants, another was commanded by Sultan Jalaleddin Sharki, the third was composed of the Sultans of the Uzbeks, Kāsım Hussaın Sultan, Bıkhüb Sultan, Tang Itmish Sultan, Muhammed & Khan Lohani Ghazipuri,

a Omit this clause

b that while the rest of the army remained immobile, I should cause to be convoyed across the river in boats at the Haldi ferry, a large force which would advance straight against the enemy, that, while this movement was in course of execution, Ustad Ali Kuli and Mustafa should assist it by the fire of their cannon, matchlocks, culverins and swivel guns, and come into action.

c that for my part I would cross the Ganges after posting troops to support Ustad Alı Kulı,

a Mahmud

¹ [Barhaj is a town in the Deoria Tahsil of the Gorakhpur district, UP, situated on the left bank of the Ghugra near its confluence with the Rapti

² It will be recollected, that Ali Kuli was to cross the Gogra above its junction with the Ganges, while Mustafa was to cross the Ganges below its junction with the Gogra.

Bubur's division was to cross over under cover of Ali Kuli's fire, and Muhammed Zoman Mirza under that of Mustafa

Sükr Biha Kashkeh Kurbmish Uzbek Kurbin Chirklu. Hussan Khan, with the Darva-khanians 1. The fourth division was under the conduct of Müsa Sultan, and Sultan Inneid Birlas, who had with them the whole army from Jaunpur, to the number of twenty thousand men Proper officers were appointed to get the whole of these divisions mounted and in march that same night, being Sund is eve

On the morning of Sunday the army began to pass the May 2 Ganges 1 I embarked and crossed over about the first watch 2 The third watch was past when Zard ru, and those who had necompanied him to search for the ford, returned without having found it. They brought word, that by the way they had met the boats, and the detachment of the army which had been ordered up the river.

On Tuesday we marched from the place where we had May ! crossed the river, advanced towards the field of action. which is near the confluence of the two rivers, and encamped about a kos from it. I myself went and saw Ustad Ali Kuli employed in firing his feringis and artillery. That day Ustad Ali Kuli struck two vessels with shot from his feringi, and sank them? Having dragged on the great cannon towards the field of bittle, and appointed Mulla Gholam to forward the necessary preparations for planting it, and left him some yasawels, and officers to assist him, I embarked in a boat and went to an island opposite to the camp where I took a magun While I was under the influence of the manion, they brought the boat near the royal tents, and I passed the whole night aboard. This night, a singular occurrence happened. About the third watch of the night an alarm was given by the boat-people. I found that my

Singular occurrence.

c Add It was from this spot also that Mustafa shattered and sank two boats with shots from a swivel gun

^{1 [}According to P de C these were the chiefs who were specially appointed to superintend the banks and streams of the Ganges.]

They passed from the right to the left bank of the Ganges, pre paratory to crossing the Gogra

^{2 [}About 6 a m. A pahar or watch -three hours]

^{&#}x27; [L c Askari's force]

The yasawel is an officer who carries the com and sees them enforced. He has a staff of o servants had each of them laid hold of some piece of wood belonging to the ship, and were calling out, 'Strike him, strike him'. The vessel Farmāish, in which I slept, was close by the Asāish, on board of which was a tunkitar, who, as he waked from his sleep, saw a person that had laid hold of the ship Asāish, and was endeavouring to climb up her side. The tunkitar struck him with a stone on the head. The unknown person, while in the act of falling from above into the water, let fly a blow with his sword at the tunkitar, and wounded him a little. The man made his escape in the river. This had produced the alarm. The night that I left Munīr, one or two of my tunkitars had chased a number of Hindustānis who had come near my vessel, and took two of their swords and a dagger, which they brought in Almighty God preserved me

Let the sword of the world be brandished as it may, It cannot cut one vein without the permission of God.

The following morning, being Wednesday, I went aboard of the Gunjäish, and having approached the place where they were firing the artillery, I allotted to every one his particular duty. I dispatched about a thousand men, under the command of Aughän Berdi Moghul, with orders to ascend the river for two or three kos, and use every endeavour to cross it. While they were on the march, not far from Askeri's camp, they fell in with twenty or thirty Bengali vessels which had crossed the river and landed a number of infantry, with the intention of making a sudden attack on one of our divisions. Our men charged at full gallop, threw them into confusion, put them to flight, took some prisoners, whose heads they cut off, killed and wounded a number of others with their arrows, and seized a The Asaish in which I slept was anchored close to the Farmaish,

b The other immediately dived and, coming up again,

c cross the river two or three kos higher up

d While they were on the march, they fell in with a large force of Bengali infantry, who having crossed opposite to Askari's camp by the aid of thirty vessels, flattered themselves with the idea that they would find an occasion for displaying their valour

 $^{^{1}}$ A confidential servant. [P de C translates this 'night watchman']

seven or eight of the vessels The same day, the Bengalis landed from a number of vessels, near Muhammed Zemān Mirza's quarters,1 and made an attack on him He, on his part, received them with great firmness, put them to flight, and pursued them, the men of three vessels were drowned, and one vessel was taken and brought to me On this occasion, Baba Chihreh particularly exerted himself and signalized his bravery I ordered Muhammed Sultan Mirza Yakkeh Khwajeh, Yunis Ali, Aughan Berdi, and the body which had previously been appointed to pass the river to make use of the seven or eight ships which Aughan Berdi and his men had taken, to row them over a during the night while it was dark, and so cross the river

The same day, a messenger arrived from Askeri with Passage of information that his army had now all crossed the river, and that early next morning, being Thursday, they would be ready to fall upon the enemy, I immediately issued orders, that all the rest of our troops who had effected their passage, should co-operate with Askeri and fall upon the enemy, in conjunction with him About noon-day prayers, A p. 1529 a person came from Ustad with notice that the bullet was ready to be discharged,2 and that he waited for instructions I sent orders to discharge it, and to have another loaded before I came up

About afternoon prayers I embarked in a small Bengali boat, and proceeded to the place where the batteries had been erected, Ustad discharged a very large stone bullet once, and fired the feringis several times The Bengalis are famous for their skill in artillery On this occasion, we had a good opportunity of observing them They do not direct their fire against a particular point, but discharge at n tow them up stream

¹ On the Ganges, below its junction with the Gogra

the Sarū effected

² At this period the Asiatics were fond of artillery of huge size as the Turks still are. The operation of loading was performed very slowly [By bullet is meant cannon I saw a huge gun of this description at Bijapur, which I photographed with a native boy comfortably squatted inside the muzzle. It was 14 ft long with a bore at the muzzle of 2 ft 4 m. From an inscription which it bore, it appears to have been made for the Emperor Aurangzīb in 1685 by Muhammed Rumi.]

random. The same afternoon prayers, I ordered that some vessels should be rowed right up the river Sara, in front of the enemy. The persons appointed to row the boats, without any hesitation, though unsheltered rowed up about twenty vessels. Orders were given to Isan Tamair Sult in Takhteh Bügha Sult in Bäha Sultan, Araish Khan, and Sheikh Güren, to proceed to the spot where the vessels were and to guard them. I then left the place, and reached the camp in the first watch of the night.

Towards midnight, news came from the ships that had been collected higher up the river, that the detachment ordered on the service had advanced as directed, that while the ships which had been collected were moving according to orders, the Bengah ships had occupied a narrow pass in the river and engaged them?, that one of the boatmen had his leg broken by a shot, and that they found themselves unable to make their way

May 6 Defeat of the enemy

On Thursday morning, I received intelligence from the men in the batteries, that the slups which were higher up the river were all sailing down and that the enemy's whole cavalry had mounted and were now moving against our troops, who were advancing. I set out with the utmost expedition, and repaired to the vessels which had passed up by night - I dispatched a messenger full gallop to Muham med Sultan Mirza and the detachment which had been appointed to pass, with orders for them to cross without delay, and to join Askeri. I ordered Isan Taimur Sultan and Tukhteh Bügha Sultan who were protecting the vessels to lose no time in crossing. Baba Sultan had not vet reached the appointed place. On this occasion Isan Tamur Sultan embarked with about thirty or forty of his servants in a boat, they swam over their horses by the side of the boat and so effected a passage, another boat got neross after him. On seeing that the first party had landed a carried out the undertaking

b the Bengalis on discovering our manœuvre had come out to attack us.

c had all armsed

d Add by taking hold of their manes,

¹ On the Gogra, between Bibnr's position and Askeri's

i large hody of Bengali infantry marched down to attnot Seven or eight of Isan Taimur Sultan's men mounted their horses rode out to meet them and kent them occupied in starmishing drawing them on fowards Is a faimur till be was prepared. This give faimur sult in time to mount and make ready and in the mean time the second hart had also come neross. He now set upon the large body of infantry with thirty or thirty five horse and put them to flight in grand style distinguishing himself in several respects first by the vigour and elecity with which he crossed over before all the rest and next by advancing with a handful of men to charge a numerous body of foot which he threw into confusion and defeated Tullitch Bügha Sultan also passed the river and the Nessels now began to cross in uninterrupted succession. The Libors and Hindustinis also began to pass separately 2 some by swimming b and others on bundles of reads each Shifting for hunself

On observing what was going on the Bengali ships which lay opposite to the batteries down the rayer began to flee? Derwish Muhammed Särbün Dost Islick Aglin Nür Beg and numbers of our troops now passed opposite to the butteries. I disputched a messenger to the Sultans to desire them to keep together in a body such as lind crossed and that as the enemy's army drew near they should tolle post upon its flank, and skirmish with them. The Sultans accordingly formed such as had crossed into three or four divisions, and advanced towards the enemy. On their approach the enemy pushed forward their infantry to attack them and then moved from their position to follow and support their advance. Küki arrived with a detachment from Askeri's division on the one side and the Sultans advancing on the other direction, they both charged They fell furiously on the enemy whom they bore down taking a number of prisoners and, finally drave them from the field. Küki overtook one Basant Rao, a pagan of rank, and having unhorsed him cut off his head

a in their usual fashion and each from his own position, become supported on pieces of wood collection to flee down the river

Ten or fifteen of his people, who threw themselves upon it? were killed on the spot. Tukhteh Büghn Sultan signalized his valour by pushing on, and engaging the enemy hand to hand. Dost Ishek Agha also showed great intrepubly b. Moghul Abdal Wahab and has younger brother blewise distinguished themselves. Although Moghul could not swim, he yet contrived to get across in his corslet?

We own ships were still behind. I sent orders for them to come up. The Farmaish came first, and having gone on board of her, I crossed, and examined the position of the Bengalis, after which I embarked in the Gunzash, and made them pull up the river d. Mir Muliammed Jälchbin having informed me, that higher up, the river Sara afforded more favourable situations for passing, I gave orders for the troops to pass with all speed by the passages which he mentioned While Muhammed Sultan Mirza, and the other officers who had been ordered to cross, were effecting their passage, Yakkeh Khwajeh's vessel sank, and Yakkeh Kliwajch went to the meres of God. I bestowed his retainers and government on his younger brother, Kasim Khwāich

About noon day prayers while I was bathing the Sultans waited on me. I praised their conduct in high terms, and led them to indulge hopes from my favour and good opinion. Askeri, too came at the same time This was the first time that he had seen service, and it afforded a favourable omen. That night, as the camp equipage was not yet come over. I slept on a platform on the Gunjaigh !

Max 7

On Friday we halted at a village called Gundneh, in the government of Kharid, in the perganna of Nirhan 1 to the north of the Sarū a who tried to defend him.

b Omit this sentence

[·] Add by clinging to his horse's mane

d made inquiries about the upper reaches of the river

e performing my ablutions,
t idd which had been moored to an island

¹ The Nurhun of Rennell, situate below Islanderpur on the left bank of the Gogra III her about ten miles due east of Sikandarpur but on the opposite bank By Gundneh may be meant Godna (now

On Sunday, I dispatched Kūki with his party towards May 0 Hājipūr, for the purpose of procuring information Muhammed Maaruf, on whom I had conferred great favours when he had waited on me last year, and on whom I had bestowed the country of Säran,2 had conducted himself a v 1520 to my satisfaction on several occasions. He had twice engaged his father, and had defeated and taken him When Sultan Mahmud took Behar by stratagem, Biban and Sheikh Bayezid marched against him. He then saw nothing left for it but to join them About this time I had received several letters from him, and various confused reports a respecting him were current. As soon as Abkeri had passed at Haldi, he came at the head of his men, waited upon Askeri, and joined him in his operations against the Bengalis While I remained at this station he waited on me, and tendered his services

We now learned by successive messengers, that Biban and Biban and Sheikh Bavezid intended to cross the river Sarū At the same time an unexpected piece of news came from Sambal Ali Yüsef, who was in command there, had employed himself in reducing the country to order, and in introducing regularity into the government He and a person, who acted as his physician, both died on the same day I ordered Abdallah to proceed to Sambal, for the purpose of maintaining order and good government in that country, and on Friday, the 5th of Ramzan, he accordingly took leave, and May 11. set out for it

At the same time I received a letter from Chin Lamuir

2 wild rumours

Rewalzanj), which lies on the left bank of the Ghagra a little east of Chapra in the Saran district.]

Hampur stands opposite to Patna, on the Ganges. [Hampur is a town in Tirhut, Bengal, situated opposite to Patna at the confluence of the Gandak and Ganges, about fifteen miles from Dmapur.]

Sheikh Bayezid cross the Faran 13 a district in the Patna Division of Bengal, which forms a wedge between the Ganges and Gandak rivers, with the apex pointing towards Patna. Its vestern boundary marches with the United Provinces, and its head-quarters station is Chapia, opposite to which the Ghagra neets the Ganges. Saran is a very fertile, highly cultivated, and densely populated tract. Shah Muhammed was son of Maruf Fermulal

Sultan, informing me that several of the Amīrs who had been appointed to accompany my household from Kābul, would not be able to attend them a Muhammedi and some others had gone on a plundering expedition a hundred kos off along with the Sultan, and had inflicted a severe chastiscment on the Balūches—I sent notice through Abdallah to Chīn Taimūr Sultan, that Sultan Muhammed Duldāi, Muhammedi, and several Amīrs and officers in that quarter, had orders to join him in Agra, and remain there in readiness to march against the enemy in whatever direction they showed themselves

May 17.

On Monday the 8th, Jalāl Khan, the grandson of Deryā Khan, to meet whom I had sent Jamāli Khan, arrived with a number of his chief Amīrs, and waited on me. The same day Yahyā Lohāni, who had previously sent his younger brother to tender his services, having been reassured by a gracious letter which I wrote him, came and was introduced. As seven or eight thousand Lohāni Afghans had come in hopes of employment, to keep them in good humour, I set apart one kror¹ from the khālseh or imperial revenue of Behār, of which sum I gave fifty laks² to Mahmūd Khan Lohāni, the rest I granted to Jalāl Khan, who had orders to levy another kror for my service c Mulla Ghulām yasāwel was dispatched for the purpose of receiving this money. I bestowed the government of Jaunpūr on Muhammed Zemān Mirza.

Wednes day, May 19 The Ben galis accept terms of peace

On Thursday eve, one Ghulam Ali, a servant of Khalifch, who, before Ismael Mita returned to his court, had carried the three propositions, in company with Abul Fatch, a servant of the Prince of Mongir, returned along with Fatch, bringing letters from the Prince of Mongir, and a several Amirs would not be able to join him as they had been told off to escort my family from Kabul

b participating in my bounty,

c who consented himself to pay a kror as tribute

³ [Monghyr is the head quarters of a district in Behār situated on the south bank of the Ganges—It was once a place of considerable military importance, and was first captured by Muhammedans under Muhammed Bakhtiyār Khilp in 1198—At the time of Bābur's invasion it was held by a Prince of the Royal House of Bengal]

Hassan Khan Lashker the Wazīr, addressed to Khalīfeh They assented to the three propositions, took upon themselves to act for Nasret Shah,1 and proposed that a peace should be concluded. As this expedition had been undertaken for the purpose of punishing the rebellious Afghans. of whom many had gone off and disappeared, many had come in and entered into my service, while the few that still remained took shelter among the Bengalis, who had undertaken to answer for them, and as the rainy season too was now close at hand, I wrote in return, and sent my acceptance of the terms of peace, along with the articles " above mentioned

On Saturday Ismāel Jalwām, Alāul Khan Lohām, Aulia May 22 Khan Usterani, with five or six other Amirs, waited on mc. to tender their submission

The same day I presented Isan Tamur Sultan, and Tukhteh Bügha Sultan,2 with a sword and belt, a dagger for the b girdle, coats of mail, dresses of honour, and Tipchāk horses To Isān Taimūr Sultan, I gave thirty c laks 3 from the perganna of Nārnūl,4 and to Tukhteh Būgha Sultan, thirty laks from the perganna of Shamsābād, for which they knelt, and offered their duty 5

On Monday the 15th, having accomplished all my objects May 24. on the side of Bengal and Behar, I marched from our station on the banks of the Sarū and the vicinity of Gundneh, in order to check the hostilities of Bīban and Sheikh Bayezīd, who were still refractory 6 After marching two stages, the third, on Wednesday, brought us to the passage May 26.

Bābur sets out on his

⁶ [They were then, according to Erskine, probably in the Bahraich

District, U P 1

on the conditions

b with its

c thirty six

¹ Nasret Shah, it will be recollected, was King of Bengal.

² [These were sons of Sultan Ahmed Khan, the 'Younger Khan']

³ About £7,500

INamaul is the head quarters of a Tahail in the Patiala State, Panjab, situated on the banks of the Cholak Nadi, thirty seven miles from Rewari. It is a place of considerable antiquity, and later we hear of it in connexion with Sultan Altamsh. It claims to be the birthplace of Sher Shah, the tomb of whose grandfather, Ibrahim Khan, adorns the town It was one of the strongholds of the military adventurer George Thomas during his short-lived 5 Or rather did homage. government] of Chouparch Chatermak, at Sikanderpar That same day our people began to busy themselves in crossing 2 Intelligence arrived again and again, that the insurgents had passed the Sara and Gogra, and were marching towards Lakhnau Violent storm.

In order to check their progress, I appointed, out of my Türki and Hindustani officers, Sultan Jalaleddin Sharki. Alı Khan Fermüli, Tardikeli Nizam Khan, Salılı Karımıslı " Usbek, Kurban Chirkhi, Hussain Khan Darya-khani, who took leave on Thursday eve That same night after the terawth prayers,5 when about five gars of the second watch were past,0 the clouds of the rainy season broke, and there was suddenly such a tempest, and the wind rost so high, that most of the tents were blown down writing in the middle of my pavilion, and so suddenly did the storm come on, that I had not time to gather up my papers and the loose sheets that were written, before it blew down the pavilion, with the screen that surrounded it, b on my head The top of the pavilion was blown to pieces, but God preserved me I suffered no mjury The books and sheets of paper were drenched and wet, but were

a Bayatı Tulmıslı

h the tent with its antercom (porch)

¹ [Chaupāreh is the modern Chapra, the head quarters of the Sāran District in Bengal, situated near the left bank of the Ghāgra—In the eighteenth century it was a thriving commercial centre with British, French, Dutch, and Portuguese factories, but it has since declined owing to its having been deserted first by the Ganges and then by the Ghāgra—Chaturmūk is on the opposite bank of the river]

f The river Gogra.

^{* [}The Ghägra rises in Tibet, flows through Nepal, joins the Sarda at Mallanpür and the Sarju near Katai Ghat, passes Ayodhya and Azimgarh (where the Lesser Sarju takes off), and after traversing the Districts of Azimgarh, Ghāzipūr, and Ballia, falls into the Ganges on the left bank opposite Bahrāmghāt]

^{&#}x27; [This Jalal ad din Sharki, the ex king of Jaunpur, must not be confounded with Jalal Khan Behar Khan Lohani]

⁵ The terāwīh are certain prayers said late at night, during the Ramzān [Tarawīh (places of rest) are so called because the congregation sits down to rest at intervals during the service.]

That is after 11 o'clock at night. This storm marks the setting in of the rainy monsoon gathered again with much trouble, folded in woollen cloth,^a and placed under a bed,^b over which carpets were thrown The storm abated in two garis ¹ We contrived to get up the tāshek-khāneh ² tent, lighted a candle with much difficulty, kindled a fire,^c and did not sleep till morning, being busily employed all the while in drying the leaves and papers

On Thursday I crossed the river

On Friday I mounted and rode round Kharid and Sikanderpür The same day I received Abdallah and Bāki's letters, announcing the taking of Lakhnau ³

May 27.
May 28
Loss of Lakhnau

A D 1529 May 30

On Saturday I sent forward Kūki with his party, for May 29 the purpose of reinforcing Bāki

On Sunday I dispatched Sultan Juneid Birläs, Hassan Khalīfeli, Mulla Apāk's men, and the brother d of Mūmin Atkeli, with orders to proceed and join Bāki, and to use all then endeavours to forward the service till my arrival

The same day, about afternoon prayers, I bestowed a dress of honour from my own wardrobe, and a Tipchāk horse, on Shah Muhammed Maarūf, and dismissed him In the same manner as last year I had given Sāran as an assignment to him and Kundleh, for the purpose of supporting and paying the wages of the archers, I now gave Ismāel Jilwām an allowance of seventy-two e laks out of Sarwār, bestowed on him a dress of honour from my own wardrobe, and a Tipchāk horse, and dismissed him To Alāul Khan Lohām, and the body of men that accom-

a a bedcover of scarlet wool b on the throne,

c Transpose with much difficulty to follow hire, d brothers e sixty-two

¹ About three quarters of an hour

² The tūshel khāneh was the store room, in which-the clothes, carpets, &c, were kept ³ By the enemy

^{£18,000,} which may seem small, while £720,000, supposing the laks to be of rupees, would be too large.

In Elliot and Dowson's History of India (vol. 1, p 56, note 4) Sarwār is stated to be an abbreviation for Sarjūpār = the other side of the Sarjū (or Ghāgra) river, and hence may mean the country beyond the Ghāgra, the name by which Gorakhpūr is now known to the people about Benāres. Abul Fazl also mentions it as a synonym of the Sarjū or Ghāgra river]

panied him, I also gave assignments on Sarwar, and they took leave. It was settled, that each of them should always leave his son or younger brother b in Agra, to await my orders

It had been agreed with the Bengalis, that they should earry, by way of Tirmahām, to Ghūzipūr, the Gunjāish and Arāish, with two Bengali ships which I had selected from among those that had fallen into my hands in Bengul I ordered the Farmāish and the Asāish to sail up the Sarū along with the camp

May J1

Having accomplished all my views in Behär, and on the Sarü, on the Monday, after crossing at the passage of Choupārch Chatermūk, I marched up the Sarū towards Oudh, keeping close along the banks of the river. After a march of ten kos, we encamped on the banks of the Sarū, hard by a place called Kilīreh, dependent on Fatchpūr, in which there were extremely beautiful gardens, embellished by running streams and handsome edifices, we particularly admired the number of mango trees, and of richly coloured birds of various kinds. Having rested some days, I directed the army to march towards Ghāzipūr Ismāel Khan Jilwām, and Alāul Khan Lohām, asked leave to visit their native country, after which they promised to repair to Agra. I agreed to give them leave at the end of one month 1

A number 2 of our troops being overtaken by night, lost their way, and went to the great tank of Fatehpür Some men were dispatched to bring in such of the stragglers as were near at hand, while Küchek Khwājeh was sent to stay all night at the tank, and in the morning to bring back with him to the camp such troops as had halted there. We marched thence early in the morning, in the a to the body of men who accompanied Alawal Khan Lohani,

June 1

This fragment is from Mr Metcalfe's MS, folio 166, page 1

b one of his sons c Sarwar,

d I marched from the Chaupāra Chaturmūk passage

[&]quot; Kalpahrah f Those who had started early

Here my Persian manuscript closes. The two additional frag ments are given from Mr. Metcalfe's manuscript alone, and, unluckily, it is extremely incorrect. [The whole of the passage from 'in which there were' to 'one month' is omitted in P. de C's version.]

middle of the march I embarked in the Asiash and we were pulled up to the camp. By the way a son of Shah Muhammed Diwanch, who had been sent by Bake with letters for Khalifch at met us and gave an accurate state ment of the transactions at Lakhnau - It appears, that on Saturday the 13th of Ramzan the enemy had made May 22 in attack but could effect nothing. During the assault some lay b that had been collected being set on fire by the broworks turpentine and other combustables that were thrown on it? the inside of the fort became as hot as an oven and it was impossible to stand on the parapet, and conscauently the fort was taken Two or three days ifterwards on hearing of my return the enemy nurched towards Dalmau 2. This day also, we advanced ten kos and halted hard by a village named Jahsir in the perganna of Sikri, on the banks of the river Sara

On Wednesd iv 2 we continued in the same station to June 2 rest our eattle. Many came in with reports, that Sheikh Bayerid 1 and Bib in had crossed the Ganges, and intended to push on with their troops, and fall upon the territories of Jum (pur) and Chunar The Amirs were summoned and v council held. It was arranged that Muhammed Zemān Mirza, Sultan Juneid Birlas, who had got the government of Chun'ir and some other pergunas in exchange for launpür, Mahmūd Khan Lohām, Kazi hā and 1āj Khan Siringkham, should march, and prevent the enemy from reaching Chun'ir

Next morning being Thursday we marched early, left the river Sarū and having advanced eleven kos and passed Parseru, encumped on the banks of the river Parserud-

Reaches Parseru

- " For Khalifeli read and whom the Khalifeli had sent to us
- b 1dd and brushwood · Omit this clause
- d and having crossed the river Parsern, encamped on its banks

^{1 [}This was Nizam ud din Khwajah 'Ali Khalifah Babur 8 Prime Minister 1

² Dilmu, or Dalmow, on the Canges, south east of Barcilli [In the Par Barcilly District, U. P.]

This frigment is from Mr Metcalfe s MS, 166, p. 2
 One of the three I ermuli brothers, the other two being Mustafa and Ma ruf 1

After leaving the Saru or Gogra river, Bibur marches west, and

Here I assembled the Amīrs, and held a consultation, after which I appointed Isān Taimūr Sultan, Muhammed Sultan Mirza, Tukhteh Būgha Sultan, Kāsim Hussain Sultan, Bikhūb Sultan, Muzaffer Hussain Sultan, Kāsim Khwājeh, Jaafer Khwājeh, Khwājeh Zāhid, Khwājeh Jān Beg, with the servants of Askeri, and Kūchek Khwājeh, and from among the Amīrs of Hind, Ālim Khan Kālpi, Malikdād Karrāni, and Randi Sarwāni, to proceed towards Dalmau in pursuit of Bīban and Biyezīd, ordering them instantly to separate from the army, and to follow the enemy with all celerity. I purified myself in the Parserū I and those who were along with me took a number of fish by fixing lights to a piece of framework, which was then moved along the water ^a ²

June 1

On Friday we encamped on one of the branches of this Parserū. It was a very small stream. To obviate the inconvenience arising from the passing and repassing of the troops, we made a dam higher up, and constructed a place ten by ten, for the purpose of bathing, we passed the eve of the 27th at this same station.

June 5 Passes the Tousin June 5. Next morning we left this stream and encamped, after passing the river Tousin 2

On Sunday too, we encamped on the banks of the same

June 6 June 7 On Monday the 29th, we halted on the banks of the Tousin This night, although the weather was not quite favourable, a few persons got a sight of the moon, and bore testimony to the fact, in presence of the Kazi ⁴ This fixed the end of the month

As I was making my ablutions at night in the Parserű nver, a number of fish attracted by the light of the torches, having appeared on the surface of the water, I, and those who were with me, caught a great quantity of them with our hands comes on the Parseru, the Sarju of Arrowsmith, which seems to be chiefly formed by branches coming off from the Gogra below Murad gan;

¹ [This seems to be the Alim Khan Jalal Khan Jigat of Kalpi who deserted Babur just before the battle of Kanwa (1527)]

2 This mode of fishing is still practised in India

* The Tousin is the Eastern Tons [or Tus]

4 This being the month of Ramzan, the great least of the Mu

Next day, being Tuesday we set out after we had said time s the prayers of the Id 1 Having marched ten kos, we halted within one kos of Tack, on the banks of the Gumti Towards noon-day prayers, I took a manjun with Sheikh v p 1529 Zaın, Mulla Shahāb, Khwand-amīr

(Türki verse)-They dropped in by threes, and twos, and ones a

Derwish Muhammed, Yums Ah, and Abdallah were also there The wrestlers amused us with wrestling b

On Wednesday we continued to halt on the same ground About luncheon time I took a maajun Taj Khan who had gone to keep the Sharki Princes from Chunar, returned this day We had a wrestling match. The champion Oudh, who had arrived some time before, tried his skill with a Hindustam wrestler who was there, and threw lum I bestowed fifteen laks on Yahya Lohani in Sarū d by way of allowance, clothed him in a complete dress of honour, and gave him leave

June 9

Next morning we marched eleven kos, passed the river June 10 Gunti, and halted on the banks of the same river Here we learned, that the party of Sultans and Amirs who had been sent on the expedition, had reached Dalman that they had passed first the Ganges, and afterwards the Jumna, in pursuit of the enemy, that they had taken Alm Khan along with them, had followed the enemy for mani kos with great keenness, and having left the latter ner after three marches, had returned to Dalman " This

'Abut noon day prayers having taken a ma'jun, I sent the to my verse to Sheikh Zein, Mulla Shahab and Khwand amer urray them to join me

Tablam, Mulla Shahab and Khwand amir come to us by threes, t by tree, or one by one'

b ('In the afternoon

WH Starq, who had been dispatched to make Taj Khan tungi, (hanar the had not yet crossed the Ganges. I was grierously de norted, and immediately sent them orders to cross the river '4- ly is possible, to be careful not to lose touch with the

there were anxious to see the new moon of En nal

The Fire latival on the conclusion of the Face of the "Le le champion of Oudh]

Passes the Ganges day, most of our troops passed the Ganges by a ford Having sent the camp equipage and troops across, I ate a manfin lower down than the ford, on an island. We halted a on the spot where we passed the river, to give time to such as had not crossed to come over b. That same day Bāki Tāshkendi arrived with his troops, and was introduced.

Reaches Korah Advancing two marches from the Ganges we halted in the neighbourhood of Korah, d 1 on the banks of the river Rind 2 From Dalmau to Korah is twenty-one o kos

June 17

On Thursday we marched early from our ground, and halted before the perganna of Adampūr. We had previously sent one or two persons to Kālpi, to bring whatever boats might be there, for the purpose of following after the enemy. The evening we halted there a few boats arrived, and a ford over the river was discovered. The eamp being very dusty, and at some distance from the river. I slept on an island, where I remained for several days, day and night. For the purpose of gaining accurate information regarding the enemy, I dispatched Bāki Shaghāwel with a few troops across the river, to procure intelligence of the enemy.

June 19

Next day, about afternoon prayers Juma, a servant of Bāki, arrived with information, that he had routed one of Sheikh Bayerīd and Bīban's outposts, killed Mubārek Khan Jalwāni, an officer of some note, with a number of fugitives, to pass over the Jamna as well, to take Ali Khan along with them, and to use every endeavour to overtake the enemy. We reached Dalmau on the third day after leaving the river (Gümti)

a Add a day

b to give to as many soldiers as had lost their way time to re assemble and from Oudh, d After having encamped on the banks of the Ganges, we reached Korah

r twenty two

f opposite

8 boat-men

h Omit this name.

¹ [This is Korah Khūs, a town in the District of Fatchpūr, U P thirty six miles WNW of Fatchpūr town]

² [The Rind, or Arind, river rises in the Mainpuri District, flows through the Mainpuri, Etāwa, and Cawnpore Districts, passes Korah, and joins the Ganges on the left bank below Hamīrpur]

others and cut off some heads which he sent with one high prisoner. He a gave a circumstantial narrative of the particulars of this defeat and of all that had happened

The same night, being the eye of Sunday the 13th, the river Jumna rose so that we could not remain in the tent. which in the morning had been pitched on the island b. we were therefore obliged to remove to another island a bow shot off where I took up my quarters in another tent that was pitched

On Monday, Itlal Tashkendi arrived from the Sultans June 21 and Amirs who had gone on the expedition. Immediately on discovering some men of their left wing.c Biban and Sheikh Bayczid had fled from the perganna of Mahübeh 1 As the rains had set in, and as we had been for five or six months engaged in various expeditions in the field, so that the horses and cattle of the troops were worn out, I sent notice to the Sultans and Amirs who had been detached, to inform them that I should remain a few days in Agra and that vicinity to wait their arrival d. The same day about afternoon prayers I gave Bāki Shaghāwel and his party cleave to go home. To Mūsa Maaruf Fermuli? who had come and offered me his allegiance when the army was passing the Sarū on its return. I gave a perganna of thirty laks? out of Amerhar! for his support a complete on getting wind of their approach,

" the troops from Oudh

² On the morning of Saturday Shah Hosain Bakhshi came in, and b so that in the morning the whole island where I lay encamped was flooded.

d I instructed the Sultans and Begs who had advanced ahead of us, to halt where they were until they were joined by fresh light cavalry from Agra and its neighbourhood

¹ [Mahoba is the head quarters of a Tahsil in the Hamirpur District UP A town of considerable antiquity, it was the civil capital of the Chandels, Kalinjar being their great fortress. It stands on the banks of a lake (Madan Sugar), and there are several other island studded lakes in the vicinity, which form a highly picture-que scene Mahoba was captured by Prithyi Raja of Delhi in 1182, and in 1202 it fell to Kutb ud din Aibek]

^{[1} e Müsa son of Ma'rüf Fermült.]

^{4 [}Probably Amroha, a town in the Tahsil of the Moradabad District UP1

dress of honour from my own wardrobe, and a horse with its saddle, and dismissed him to Amerhar

Sets out for Agra

Having settled everything in this quarter, on Tuesday eve, after about one gar of the fourth watch was past.1 I set out post for Agra Next morning, after having ridden sixteen kos, I passed

June 22

Tune 23

the noon in a perganna dependent on Kälpi, called Balader. whence, after resting a our horses, we set out at evening This night we rode thirteen kos, and at the end of the third watch? halted at the tomb of Bhau h Khan Sarwāni, in Sougandpūr, one of the pergannas of Kālpi Having mounted early, by noon prayers, I had advanced seventeen kos, and at midnight reached the garden of

Arrayes at Agra

June 25

Hasht Behisht at Agra o Next morning, being Friday, Muhammed Bakhshi and some others came and paid me their respects,d after which I went into the castle and visited the Begums, my paternal aunts A native of Balkh had prepared some melon beds A few of the melons which had been preserved were now presented to me, and were very excellent o I had set a few vine-plants in the garden of Hasht Behisht, which I found had produced very fine grapes Sheikh Güren also sent me a basket of grapes, which were very excellent I was truly delighted with having produced such excellent melons and grapes in Hindustan 3

a feeding with barley b Bahadur

· Instead of this sentence substitute I started next day after saying the early morning prayers, and a march of sixteen kos brought me to Etawa, which I reached at midday, and where I found Mahdi Khwaia (his brother in law), who had come out to meet me I mounted again at the end of the first watch, and halted some time en route in order to sleep. After a march of sixteen los I halted again in the morning at Raberi Fatchpur I again set out about the time of midday prayers, and marched another sixteen kos at last, at the end of the second watch of the night, I alighted at the garden of the Hasht Bihisht at Agra

d Add About the time of midday prayers, I crossed the Jamina

to visit Abdul Haga

A Litchen gardener of Balkh, whom I had placed in Agra to sow melons, had raised some which he brought me I thought them excellent

¹ Half past three a m

² Three o'clock in the morning

Melons are now cultivated by the commonest gardeners all

It was Sunday at midnight when I met Maham a 1 I had June 27 joined the army on the 10th of the first Jumada It was Jan 21 an odd coincidence that she had also left Kābul the very same day

Thursday, the 1st of Zilkaadeh, was the day on which the July 8 peshkeshes or tributary offerings were made to Humāiūn and Mäham b in the great Hall of Audience, on a grand levee day The same day we dispatched a servant of Faghfür the Diwan, accompanied by a hundred or c a hundred and fifty hired porters, to bring melons, grapes, and other fruits from Kābul

On Saturday the 3rd, Hindu Beg, who had arrived with an A D 1529 escort from Kābul, whence he had been sent for immediately on the death of Alı Yüsef, arrived and was introduced

Husam-ed-din Khalifeh, having arrived from Alwar, also waited on me this day

Next morning, being Sunday, Abdallah, who had been sent July 11 to Tirmahānie in consequence of the death of Ali Yūsef, returned back

From the men who had come from Kābul, we learned that Conspiracy Sheikh Sharif Karabaghi, whether from the evil suggestions of Abdal-azīz, or from mere attachment to him, ascribing to us tyranny that never had been exercised, and offences never committed, had written certificates, to which he had compelled the Imamse to affix their names, and had sent copies of these certificates to different cities, in hopes of exciting commotions, that Abdal-azīz, too, had disobeyed several n It was on the eve of Sunday (Saturday night) at the third watch (midnight) that Maham arrived. b the offerings of Humayun and Maham were presented to me to Sambhal on the occasion of Ali Yūsuf's death. e who had been sent from Tırmahānı to Sambhal over Hindustan, and form part of the food of all ranks This valuable present seems to be due to Babur's activity of mind. Grapes, too, are found in most gardens of any consequence.

BABUR II

July 10

of Ahdal

c Omit a hundred or d who had come on escort duty from Kabul, and had been sent

g Add of Lahore f manifestoes

¹ A name of endearment, which Babur gave to his favourite wife, the mother of Humaiun [whom he married in 1506 Humayunnāmeh, p 258]

2717

orders which he had received, had been guilty of uttering several most unbecoming expressions, and of doing some most improper acts, on these accounts, on Sunday the 11th, I sent Kamber Ali Arghūn, to apprehend and bring to the presence Sheikh Sharīf, the Imāms of Lahore, and Abdal-

July 22.

On Thursday the 15th, Sultan Taimur arrived from Tajäwer 1 and waited on me The same day the champion Sädik and Oudhi 2 had a great wrestling match Sädik threw Oudhi with great case, which veved him extremely

July 26.

On Monday the 19th, having given Murad Korchi, the Kizilbash ambassador, a side-dagger, b clothed him in a suitable dress of honour, and made him a present of two hundred thousand tankens, I gave him leave to return

Disaffection of Ra himdad.

At this time, Sved Mahdic arrived from Gwaliar, and informed us of the revolt of Rahimdad Shah Muhammed. the seal-bearer, a servant of Khalifeh's, had been sent by him to Rahimdad with a letter of advice Shah Muham med went, and in a few days returned with Rahimdad's son, but he himself did not choose to come In order, however, to lull our suspicions asleep, Nur Beg came, and having preferred the same requests that Rahīmdād had formerly made, actually gained firmans conformable to his wishes d When the firmans were on the point of being dispatched,e one of Rahimdad's servants arrived, and gave us information that he had himself been sent for the purpose of effecting the escape of the son, and that the father had not the least intention of coming On getting this intelligence, I wished instantly to have proceeded against Gwaliar Khalifeh, however, requested that he might be permitted to address one other letter of advice to Rahimdad.

a the champion wrestler of Oudh,

b Add with a jewelled belt, c Meshedi

d With a view to dissipating all his suspicions, on the 5th of the month of Zil Hijjeh I dispatched Nür Beg to Gwaliar He returned after the lapse of some days, and acquainted me with the claims of Rahimdad.

Just as I was about to dispatch letters patent according all his demands,

¹ [Or rather Tajárah.]

as probably he would submit peaceably Shahāb-ed-dīn Khosrou was sent to carry this remonstrance

On Thursday, the 7th of the month, Mahdi Khwijeh 1 Aug 12 arrived from Etāwa On the day of the Id, I bestowed on Hindu Beg a complete dress from my own wardrobe, a sword and belt enriched with precious stones, and a Tipchāk horse To Hassan Ali, who was one of the most eminent among the Chaghatāi Turkomāns, I gave a sarupā (or complete dress of honour), a side-hanger adorned with jewels, and a perganna of seven laks 2

 $^{\rm a}$ who was known among the Turkomins under the name of Chagatāi

¹ [He was governor of Etāwa]

² About £1,750 The rate used for reducing Bibur's krors and laks to English money, may sometimes appear to reduce them too much, and yet it is probably near the truth

TRANSACTIONS OF THE YEAR 936

A D 1529 Sept 7 On Tuesday the 3rd n of Muharrem, Sheikh Muhammed Ghaus came out of Gwähär with Shahāb-ed-dīn Khosrou, as intercessor for Rahīmdād n As this man was a humble n and saintly personage, I forgave, on his account the offences of Rahīmdād, and sent Sheikh Güren and Nür Beg to receive the surrender of Gwähär 2 n 13th

b pious

¹ [He had captured Gwāliār with the connivance of this very Muhammed Ghaus in 1526]

^{2 [}In the Tarikh : Salatin : Afaghenah mention is made of Babur's journey to Lahore in the third year of his reign (i e 935 = 1529) At Sirhand he was met by the Raja of Kahlur (the old name for Bilaspur, one of the Simla Hill States), and presented by him with seven falcons and three mans of gold The occasion was taken to confirm him in his fief Babur was met in Lahore by his son Kamran, who gave a magnificent entertainment in his honour Babur re mained a year in the Panjab, during which Hindal came to see him Hindal returned to Kabul at the close of the cold season and received a parting gift from his father of two elephants and two horses, besides girdles and a jewelled dagger Babur left the Panjab on the fourth of Rajab (936 = 1530) On reaching Sirhind, on his return journey to Agra, a Qazi of Samana complained to him that Mohan Mundahir had attacked his estate, plundered his property, and killed his son By the Emperor's orders an expedition was organized against him The first attack under 'Alı Kulı Khan Hamadanı proved unsuccessful Another larger force was thereupon dispatched against the Mundahirs under the command of Tarsam Beg and Nauroz Bahadur, whose efforts were crowned with success, the rebels being defeated and their leader killed. After this expedition had been successfully accomplished Babur is stated to have spent two months hunting in the neighbourhood of Delhi, after which he returned to Agra -Elhot and Dawson's History of India, v 40-2]

CONCLUDING SUPPLEMENT

TO

BĀBUR'S MEMOIRS

From the first days of the year 936 of the Hijira, Bābur's Sept 7 Journal ceases, and no fragments have been found of any Whether he composed Memoirs, or wrote any later date journal of the remaining fifteen months of his life, is un certain. The state of his health, which was rapidly declining and much broken, probably diminished his usual activity The silence that prevails among historians, regarding the remaining events of his reign, may justify a belief that no Journal was written, or at least none published In the course of the year 936, Humāiūn, who appears to have been anxious to be near the seat of empire, probably from being aware of his father's declining health, suddenly left his government of Badakhshān, which he entrusted to the care of Sultan Weis, and set out for Hindustan by way of At Kābul, he had a conference with his brother, Kāmrān Mirza, who had just arrived from Kandahār,2 after which he proceeded towards Agra

Humanin leaves Ba dakhshān

He had scarcely left Badakhshān, when Saīd Khan of which is Kāshghar, who is said to have been invited by Sultan Weis and the other Amirs that were in the country, leaving Rashīd Khan in Yārkend, marched into Badaklishān Hındal Mırza,3 on hearing of his approach, threw himself into the fort of Zafer, in which he defended himself for three attacked by Said Khan

- 1 ['Humayun had resided for the greater part of nine years (1519-1528) in the distant government of Badakhshān'-E B. p 508]
- [In 1525, Babur had appointed his second son, Kamran then a child, to the nominal charge of Kābul and Kandahār - E B, p 427 1
- IHindal, Babur's youngest son, then over ten, though under orders for Agra, was prevailed upon by Humayun to take his place m Badakhshān —E B, p 510]

months with so much vigour, that Said Khan was compelled to raise the siege 1

Băbur s anxiety

In the meanwhile a report reached Babur, that Said Khan had gained possession of all Badakhshān unwelcome intelligence that daily arrived from that quarter preyed upon his mind, and helped to impair his declining He sent instructions to Khalifeh to set out in order to recover Badakhshan, but that nobleman, who was Bābur's prime minister, knowing probably that the orders were dictated by Humanin's mother, who had a great ascendancy over Babur, and who wished to remove from court a powerful enemy of her son, found means to excuse himself Similar orders were then sent to Humārūn, whose government Badakhshān was, but that prince also declined engaging in the expedition, under the pretence that his affection for his father would not permit Mırza Sulei him to remove so far from the presence Mırza Suleiman,2 man sent to the son-in-law of Sultan Weis, was then dispatched, with instructions to assume the government of the country,

Badakhshān

> Khan, complaining of his aggression Before reaching Kābul, Suleimān heard of Saīd's retreat, he, however, prosecuted his journey, and received charge of the country from Hindal, who set out for Hindustan, and the civil wars that followed the death of Babur enabled Suleman 3 to keep possession of Badakhshān, which was long held by his posterity Humaiun reached Agra neither sent for nor expected, but the affection of his father, and the influence of his

> and was at the same time furnished with letters for Saīd

Illness of Humaiûn

mother, procured him a good reception. His offence was forgotten, and, after remaining some time at court, he went to his government of Sambal When he had resided there

3 See Abulfazl in the Albernameh, the Tarikh e Khafi khan, Ferishta, &c.

^{1 |} Mirza Haidar, the author of the Tarikh : Rashidi, who was in command of Sultan Sa'id's advance guard, on arriving at Kila Zafar found that Hindal had entered it sixteen days before. - E B, p 510]

^{* (}Mirza Suleimān, now sixteen, was Bābur's cousm, being the son of Khan Mirza, a former governor of Badakhshan (died 1520), and grandson of Mahmud Sultan ('the Elder Khan') ?

about six months he fell dangerously ill. His father, whose favourite son he seems to have been, was deeply affected at this news, and gave directions for conveying him by water to Agra. He arrived there, but his life was despaired of When all hopes from medicine were over, and while several men of skill were talking to the emperor of the melanchols situation of his son, Abul Bakii a personage highly venerated for his knowledge and piets, remarked to Bibur, that in such a ease the Almighty had sometimes vouchsafed to receive the most valuable thing possessed by one friend, as in offering in exchange for the life of another. Babur excluming that of all things his life was dearest to Batur Huminin as Huminins was to him and that next to devote by the life of Hum'nun his own was what he most valued devoted his life to Heaven as a sperifice for his son a The noblemen around him entrested him to retract the rish you and, in place of his first offering to give the drawend taken at Agra and reckoned the most valuable on earth. that the ancient sages had said that it was the dearest of our worldly possessions alone that was to be offered to Heaven. But he persisted in his resolution, declaring that no stone of whatever value could be put in competition with his life. He three times will ed round the dying prince a solumnity similar to that used in samples and heave offerings a and retiring prayed cornectly to God. After some time he was heard to exclum "I have borne it was ! I have borne it away ! Musulman historians assure us that Humann almost immediately began to recover, and that in proportion as he recovered the health and strength of Bilmr visibly decayed. Bibur communicated his dying instructions to 10 -- 1 Khwaph Khalifeli Kamber Mi Beg Terdi Beg, and Hin la Bez, who vere then at Court, commending Hum'aun to their protection. With that unversing affection for his family a light he showed in all the careamst mees of his life, his Court.

he strongly besought Huminin to be kind and forgiving to his brothers. Hum'nun promised, and, what in such Intrigues at circumstances is rare, kept his promise. The request which he had made to his nobles was heard as the requests of dying princes generally are only as a signal for faction Khwajeh Khalifeh had conceived a strong dislike to Huminin, in consequence of some circumstances which are not explained, so that the court of the expiring conqueror became the scene of intrigue and eabal. Khalifch, as prime minister,1 possessed the chief authority among the Türki nobles He did not wish that the succession should be in the children of Babur, and had pitched on Mahdi Khwaich Bibur's son-m-law, as his successor Mahdi Khwajeh 2 was a brave, but extravigant, and wild young man, and had long been closely connected with Khalifeh When it was known that Khalifeh was in his interest, and intended to raise him to the throne, the principal men in the army lost no time in paying their court to Mahdi Khwajeh whose succession was regarded as secure and who began to affect the deportment of a sovereign prince. Liverything seemed to promise that he was to be the Emperor of Hindustan when suddenly he was ordered by Khalifeh to remain in his own house under a guard

Incedote of Malela Khwaich.

The cause of this sudden change has escaped the researches of Abulfazl and Khāfi Khan. It is explained however, by a well-informed historian, who relates the ancedote on the authority of his father 'It so happened says he, 'that Mir Khalifch had gone to see Mahdi Khwajch, whom he had found in his tent. Nobody was present but Khalifch Mahdi Khwaich, and my father Muhammed Mukim Khalifeh had searcely sat down an instant when Babur, who was at the list extremity, suddenly sent for him. When he left the tent. Malidi Khwajch accompinied him to the door to do him honour, and to take leave of him and stood in the middle of it, so that my fither who followed, but, out of respect, did not push by him, was immediately behind. The young man, who was rather flighty and harum-scarum, forgetting that my father was present, as soon as Khalifeh was fairly gone, muttered to himself, "God willing, I will soon flay off your hide, old boy!" and, turning round, at the same instant saw my He was quite confounded, but immediately seizing my father's ear, with a convulsive eagerness, twisted it round, and said hurriedly, "You, Tajik! The red tongue often gives the green head to the winds" father having taken his leave and left the tent, sought out Khalifeh, and remonstrated with him on his line of conduct. telling him, that in violation of his allegiance, he was taking away the sovereignty from Muhammed Humaiūn and his brothers, who were accomplished princes, to bestow it on the son of a stranger, and yet how did this favoured man behave? He then repeated what had passed just as it happened Khalifeh, on the spot, sent off an express for Humaiūn, and dispatched a body of yasāwels, or special messengers, to Mahdi Khwajeh to inform him that the kings orders were, that he should instantly retire to his own house The young man had now sat down to dinner. which was still before him. The uasawels communicated their message, and forced him away. Mir Khalifeh then issued a proclamation, prohibiting all persons from resorting to Mahdi Khwajeh's house, or waiting upon him, while Mahdi Khwajeh lumself received orders not to appear at Court '2

⁴ His title was Niz im ed din Ali Khalifeli

^{2 (}Mahdi Jahwaya was Babur a brother in Live. His only son in Live mas Muhammed Zamon Mirza the hu band of his daughter Ma sũmah Be_um !

Bābur,3 in the midst of these intrigues, with which he

¹ [Humāyūn had meanwhile recovered his health, and returned to his government of Sambhal.]

For the fragment of the anonymous history from whence this extract is made, and which contains the Memoirs of Hindustan, from Bābur s invasion of that country down to the beginning of Abber's reign, I am indebted to Captain William Miles of the Bombay establishment. The author calls his father Muhammed Mukim Heravai (of Herāt). [The writer referred to was Nizām ud din Ahmed Bahhshi, the author of the Tabaqāt i Akbari, who was at this time Divān i bintāt to Bābur, and afterwards rose to high office under Akbar.—E B, p. 516.]

² (At a council of ministers summoned to receive his dying injunctions, Babur formally declared Humayun, who had now

Death of Bibur Dec. 26, 1530 was probably unacquainted, expired at the Charbagh, near Agra, on the 6th of the first Jumāda, an 937, in the fiftieth year of his age, and thirty-eighth of his reign as a sovereign prince. His body, in conformity with a wish which he had expressed, was carried to Kābul, where it was interred in a hill that still bears his name. He had reigned five years over part of Hindustān. Humāum ascended the throne on the 9th of the same month without opposition, by the influence of Khalifeh

His wives

Though Bābur has given us such a minute account of the wives and families of his uncles and cousins, he has communicated but few particulars regarding his own. It appears that, when only five years of age, he was betrothed to his cousin Aisha Sultan Begum, the third daughter of Sultan Ahmed Mirza, the King of Samarkand, by Kūtak Begum. He married her after his first expedition to Samarkand, and had by her one daughter, who died young They seem to have quarrelled and Būbur says she was misled by her eldest sister Rabīa Sultan Begum, who induced returned to court, his successor, and commanded him to take his seat on the Imperial throne -E B, p. 516.]

1 I crishta and the anonymous historian place his death on Monday, the 5th of the first Jumāda Computing by solar years he died in the forty eighth year of his age, and thirty seventh of his reign

2 [Babur was at first buried in the Nürafshan Garden (now the Rambagh) on the left bank of the Jamna The remains were after wards taken to Kabul and interred there on a site chosen by himself, in a grave, which like that of his descendant, the Emperor Aurangzib, was open to the sky 'The tomb of Babur', says the writer in the I neuclopaedia Britannica, 'stands on a slope about a mile to the West of Kabul in a charming spot. The grave, marked by two erect slabs of white marble, is situated in a garden which was formerly enclosed by a white marble wall. A clear stream waters the flower From the hill that rises behind the tomb there is a noble prospect of his beloved city and the Chardeh Valley' According to a statement in Raverty's Notes p 67, it appears that the Emperor lahangir rebuilt the tomb in 1607 8. The adjoining mosque was creeted by Shah Jahan in 1646. The following Persian chronogram, inscribed on his tombstone which Raverty quotes, contains the date of Babur's death | Firdaus daim you Babur Badshah (Paradisa is for ever the abode of the Langeror Babur). It may be mentioned in this connexion that Babur's posthumous title was Firdans makam, or the Inhabitant of Paradise' 1 her to leave his house. Another of his wives was Zeineb Sult in Beginn, whom he married after the surrender of [A P Kābul She also was his cousin being the lifth daughter of Sult in Mahmud Mirza. King of Hissar, by Khanzadch Begun the grand-daughter of Mir Buzurg of Termiz He informs us that he married her at his mother's desire. that they did not agree and that in two or three years she died of the small pox. His third wife, Massamch Sultan Begum was likewise his cousin, being the sister of his first wife and the fifth daughter of Sultan Ahmed Mirza by Habibeh Sult in Begum. She say him at Herit, during his expedition to Khorasan and fell in love with him It was arranged that she should go to Kābul where he afterwards married her. She had one daughter Maasumeh of whom she died in childhed. Her daughter, Maasumeh, joined Bibur in Hindustan, but probably died before him He also during his campaign in Bajour married a daughter of Shah Mansur 1 the Mahk or chief of the Yusefzu Afghans She is said to have survived him and to have died in the reign of Akber Babur seems to have had no children by The names of his other wives, and of the ladies of his haram have not been preserved? He limself mentions the birth of a prince named Lärük, who probably died young

[4 ti 1507]

1501-5 1

v to 1..19

Au. 1520

His family

Bibur at the time of his death, had seven children alive four one and three daughters. The names of their mothers we not recorded 3. The eldest son Nasir-ed-din Muhammed Hum'uun succeeded him as Supreme Emperor in all his

The names of four other wives are known, viz. Maham Begum, Dild'ir Begum (Heart raysher), Gulrukh (Rosy cheeked), and Rugah (the Desired) According to Lane Poole, Maham, his favour ite wife, belonged to the family of Sultan Hosain of Herat]

3 Mrs Beveridge, in her scholarly edition of the Humangia numeh supplies this information. Maham was the mother of Humayun (1508-56) and Laruq (died young)

Gulrukh had two children that survived their father, viz Kamrin (died 1557) and 'Asl ari (1516-58), besides others that died young

Dildar's children were two sons, Hindal (1519-51), Alwar (died young), and three daughters, Culrang (Rose-coloured), Gulchirch (Rosy face), and Gulbidan (Rose body) The last named was the authoress of the Humanan nameh, or History of Humayan, referred to above 1 dominions Humāiūn, on his accession, gave to his second brother, Kāmrān Mirza, the Panjāb, in addition to the government of Kābul and Kandahār which he had formerly held, to Hindāl Mirza, who had just arrived from Badakhshān, he gave the country of Mewāt, and to Askeri he assigned the province of Sambal, which he had himself held. All these princes acted a conspicuous part in the confusions of the succeeding reign. Bābur's three daughters, Gulrang Begum, Gulchehreh Begum, and Gulbaden Begum, were all by one mother.

¹ (Bibî Mubîrikalı)

His charac-

Zahīr-ed-dīn Muhammed Bābur was undoubtedly one of the most illustrious men of his age, and one of the most eminent and accomplished princes that ever adorned an Asiatic throne He is represented as having been above the middle size, of great vigour of body, fond of all field and warlike sports, an excellent swordsman, and a skilful archer As a proof of his bodily strength, it is mentioned, that he used to leap from one pinnacle to another of the pinnated ramparts used in the East, in his double-soled boots, and that he even frequently took a man under each arm, and went leaping along the rampart from one of the pointed pinnacles to another Having been early trained to the conduct of business, and tutored in the school of adversity, the powers of his mind received their full development. He ascended the throne at the age of twelve, and before he had attained his twentieth year. the young prince had shared every variety of fortune, he had not only been the ruler of subject provinces, but had been in thraldom to his own ambitious nobles, and obliged to conceal every sentiment of his heart, he had been alternately hailed and obeyed as a conqueror and deliverer by rich and extensive kingdoms, and forced to lurk in the deserts and mountains of his own native kingdom as a houseless wanderer Down to the last dregs of life, we perceive in him the strong feelings of an affection for his early friends and early enjoyments, rarely seen among princes Perhaps the free manners of the Türki tribes had combined with the events of his early life, in cherishing these amuble feelings. He had betimes been taught, by the voice of events that could not he, that he was a man dependent on the kindness and fidelity of other men, and, in his dangers and escapes with his followers had learned that he was only one of an association, whose general safety and success depended on the result of their mutual exertions in a common cause The native benevolence and gaiety of his disposition seem ever to overflow on all around him, and he talks of his mothers, his grandmothers, and sisters with some garrulity indeed, but the garrulty of a good son and a good brother Of his companions in arms he always speaks with the frank gaicty of a soldier, and it is a relief to the reader, in the midst of the pompous coldness of Asiatic history, to find a king who can weep for days, and tell us that he wept, for the playmate of his boyhood Indeed, an uncommon portion of good nature and good humour runs through all his character, and even to political offences he will be found, in a remarkable degree, indulgent and forgiving

In the character of the founder of a new dynasty, in one of the richest and most powerful empires on earth, we may expect to find a union of the great qualities of a statesman and general, and Babur possessed the leading qualifications of both in a high degree But we are not, in that age, to look for any deep-laid or regular plans of civil polity even in the most accomplished princes Babur's superiority over the chiefs to whom he was opposed, arose principally from his active disposition and lively good sense Ambitious as he was and fond of conquest and of glory in all its shapes the enterprise in which he was for the season engaged, seems to have absorbed his whole soul, and all his faculties were exerted to bring it, whatever it was, to a fortunate issue. His elastic mind was not broken by discomfiture and few princes who have achieved such glorious conquests have suffered more numerous or more decisive defeats. His personal courage was conspicuous during his whole life, but it may be doubted whether, in spite of his final success, he was so much entitled to the character of a great captain as a server partisan and a bold adventurer. In the earlier part of his career his armies were very small. We call security tions were rather successful inroads that said companions.

But he showed a genius and a power of observation which, in other circumstances, would have raised him to the rank of the most accomplished commanders. As he had the sense to perceive the errors which he committed in his earlier years, so, with the superiority that belongs to a great mind, conscious of its powers, he always readily acknowledges them. His conduct, during the rebellion of the Moghuls at Kābul, and the alarm of his army in the war with Rāna Sanka, bears the indications of the most heroic magnanimity. The latter period of his life is one uninterrupted series of successes

But we are not to expect in Babur that perfect and refined character which belongs only to modern times and Christian countries We sometimes see him order what. according to the practice of modern war, and the maxims of a refined morality, we should consider as cruel executions We find him occasionally the slave of vices, which, even though they belonged to his age and country, it is not possible to regard in such a man without feelings of regret We are disappointed to find one possessed of so refined an understanding, and so polished a taste, degrading both, by an obtrusive and almost ridiculous display of his propensity to intoxication It may palliate, though it cannot excuse this offence, that it appears to have led him to no cruelty or harshness to his servants or those around him, that it made him neglect no business, and that it seems to have been produced solely by the ebullition of high spirits in his gay and social temper We turn from Babur, the slave of such vices, which probably hastened on a premature old age, and tended to bring him to an early grave, and view him with more complacency, encouraging, in his dominions, the useful arts and polite literature, by his countenance and his example. We delight to see him describe his success in rearing a new plant, in introducing a new fruit-tree, or in repairing a decayed aqueduct, with the same pride and complacency that he relates his most splendid victories No region of art or nature seems to have escaped the activity of his research cultivated the art of poetry from lus early years, and lus divan, or collection of Türki poems, is mentioned as giving him a high rank among the poets of his country Of this work I have not been able to learn that any copy exists 1 Many of the odes in it are referred to in his Memoirs, and quoted by the first couplet A few specimens of his Persian poetry are also given, which show much of that terseness and delicacy of allusion so much admired in the poets whom he imitated His Persian Masnevi, which he published by the name of Mubin,2 I have never met with, though Abulfazl speaks of it as having a great circulation, nor have I seen his versification of the tract of Khwajeh Ahrar,3 which has been already mentioned 4 He also wrote a work on Prosody 5 and some smaller productions, which he sometimes alludes to in He was skilful in the science of music, on his Memoirs which he wrote a treatise But his most remarkable work is, undoubtedly, the Memoirs of his own Life, composed by him in the Türki tongue The earlier part of them is written with great spirit, and the whole bears strong characteristics of an ingenious, active, and intelligent mind No history, perhaps, contains so lively a picture of the life and opinions of an eastern prince The geographical descriptions which he gives of his hereditary kingdom, and of the various countries which he subdued, have, what such descriptions seldom possess, not only

 1 [A facsimile of the manuscript of the ${\it Div\bar{a}n}$ was published by Sir Denison Ross in the J A S B , 1910]

² [Half of the Mubīn, a collection of masnavis, has been translated by Professor Berezine in his Chrestomathic Turque. Bābur also wrote a work on jurisprudence, which had a considerable vogue]

' [The Risālah e wālidīyah]

Abulfazl, in the introduction to the Albernameh, quotes a few of his Persian verses with approbation The following quatrain is not unhappy in the original

Though I am not related to Dervishes, Yet I am devoted to them heart and soul Say not that the state of a prince is remote from that of a Dervish, Though a king, I am the Dervish's slave

He also gives the following elegant matla—

I know that separation from thee were my death, Else might I tear myself from this city But, while my heart is encircled with the locks of my beloved, I forget the world and its cares.

⁵ [This is the work styled Mufassil] great accuracy, but the merit of uncommon distinctness. The Memoirs, however, will be found of unequal value, according to the periods of which they treat. Some years, particularly in the later period of his life, present little more than a dry chronicle of uninteresting events, probably written down as they occurred, and never rewritten, as the earlier period certainly have been. It probably was his intention to have connected the whole, and completed them in the same strain of happy narrative that runs through the first half of them, a design which it is to be regretted that he did not live to execute

A striking feature in Bābur's character is his unlikeness to other Asiatic princes. Instead of the stately, systematic artificial character that seems to belong to the throne in Asia, we find him natural, lively, affectionate, simple, retaining on the throne all the best feelings and affections of common life. Change a few circumstances arising from his religion and country, and in reading the transactions of his life, we might imagine that we had got among the adventurous knights of Froissart. This, as well as the simplicity of his language, he owed to his being a Türk. That style which wraps up a worthless meaning in a mist of words, and the ctiquette which annihilates the courtier in the presence of his prince, were still, fortunately for Bābur, foreign to the Tūrki race, among whom he was born and educated.

Upon the whole, if we review with impartiality the history of Asia, we shall find few princes who are entitled to rank higher than Bābur in genius and accomplishments. His grandson Akber may perhaps be placed above him for profound and benevolent policy. The crooked a tifice of Aurangzīb is not entitled to the same distinction. The merit of Chingiz Khan, and of Tamerlane, terminates in their splendid conquests, which far excelled the achievements of Bābur, but in activity of mind, in the gay equanimity and unbroken spirit with which he bore the extremes of good and bad fortune, in the possession of the manly and social virtues, so seldom the portion of princes, in his love of letters, and his success in the cultivation of them, we shall probably find no other Asiatic prince who can justly be placed beside him at a loss to know what to do. At the same time the horsemen, who at first were not able to find the garden gate made a breach in the wall, which was already dilapidated, and entered I saw that they were Kütluk Muhammed Barlas and Baba-1-Pargari, two of my most devoted servants, accompanied by ten to fifteen or twenty persons On approaching my presence they flung themselves from their horses, and bending the knee at a respectful distance, they fell at my feet and lavished on me every mark of respect Astounded at their appearance, it seemed to me that God had restored me to life I immediately exclaimed 'Seize Yūsuf, the Dārogha, and those wretched traitors that are in his company, and bring them to me bound hand and foot. I then added, addressing my rescuers Whence have we come? Who informed you of what had happened?' Kütluk Muhammed Barlas answered 'When I got separated from you in my hurried retreat from Aklisi, I reached Andejan just as the Khans were entering it. There in a dream I saw Khwaja Obeidullah, who said to me The Emperor Babur is now in a village named Kirman, make haste and bring him back with you, for the throne of sovereignty belongs to him by right. Overloyed at this dream, I related it to the Elder and Younger Khans, and said to them that I had five or six young fellows with me, and that, if they added a few soldiers, I would go in the Kirman direction to bring news They replied that it had occurred to them too that I ought to go in that direction. They then appointed ten persons to accompany me, and charged me to follow the route which we had agreed upon, to make careful enquiries, and above all to take every means to obtain sure news. While we were engaged in this conversation Baba-i-Pargari said that he also wished to join the party, and indeed, he did accompany me with two soldiers and his younger brother. Then we mounted our horses, and set out. It is three days to-day that we have been on the road and we thank God that we have met you. And now quickly to horse and take with you these prisoners, for it would not be wise to stay in this place, as Tambol knows that you have found an aslyum here. So let us start as soon as possible, and proceed to join the Khans' We thereupon mounted our horses without a moment's delay, and took the road to Andelan I had not eaten anything for two days Towards noon, having had the good luck to find a sheep, we dismounted, and settled ourselves comfortably to roast it Having satisfied my ravenous hunger, we started off again and, hurrying forward, we entered Andejan after accomplishing a five days' journey in two nights and a day I embraced the two Khans, my uncles, and related to them all that had happened to me since we parted I stayed four months with the Khans, during which time I gathered round me, to the number of two hundred, all my servants who had been scattered about in different places. It then occurred to me that it would be much better for me to leave Ferghana, no matter in what direction than to remain there like a vagabond

APPENDIX B

HINDAL'S ADOPTION

[The French translation has the following account of Hindal's adoption by the mother of Humayūn (Vol 11 p 86, following the words 'my officers and the soldiers')]

In order to understand what has been said above it is necessary to bear in mind that up to this time all the children that had been born of Humāyūn's mother, namely a son (who was younger than Humāyūn, but older than my other children) and three daughters, had died in infancy I ardently desired to see a brother or sister born to him Just about this time Dildār Agācha became pregnant, so I kept on saying, 'I wish to God that the child which is coming might be born to Humāyūn's mother' To this my mother replied, 'If Dildār Agācha bears a son, can I not take it and be responsible for it?' I said in my turn, 'Nothing could be better' As a rule womenfolk practise the following method of taking omens when they wish to ascertain if they are going to have a son or a daughter They take two bits of paper, on one of which they write the name of Ali or Hasan, and on the other that of Fātimah

They then put these in two balls of clay which are placed in a cup of water. The one which is first opened serves them as a means of foretelling the future. If it discloses the name of a boy, she will have a boy, and if a girl a girl So this method was employed by these ladies (Babur's womenfolk) and the birth of a male child was predicted On the receipt of this good news, I immediately wrote to acquaint my mother, some days later the prediction was God had given me a boy Three days after his birth, and before announcing it, the child was carried off willy-milly from its mother and brought to my palace, where it was taken care of When I had informed my mother about him, she, on learning that she had obtained the object of her prayers had bestowed on the young prince the name of Hindal, which was for us a name of good omen Under this arrangement, the child was to me at one and the same time a younger brother and a son

[N B—There is some confusion in this passage, as by 'my mother' is meant Humāyūn's mother (Māhim) and not that of Būbur—This gives colour to the idea that the note was partly written by Humā yūn]

APPENDIX C

A PLAIN ACCOUNT OF THE BATTLE OF KÄNWÄHA

RANA SANKA, on his part, advanced at the head of countless battalions, which reached a total of two lakks calculated in the Indian fashion, according to which a lakk is equivalent to a hundred thousand, and a hundred lakks equal a kror. The forces of his dominions, on a general estimate, could not have been less than ten krors. Of his hundred thousand horsemen only about a third had previously given him proofs of their fidelity. The greater number, which consisted of an undisciplined rabble, had never assisted him in any war, and had not even acknowledged him as their suzerain. On this occasion, however, they had made common cause with him and obeyed his orders. The troops that were directly under his command were disposed in the following sons of Sultan Ala ud din, Alı Khan Sheikh-zadeh-Fermüli, Nizām Khan of Biāna, Mūmin Atkeh, Rustam Turkoman, all officers of my household, and many other cluvalrous warriors According to my instructions Nizām ud din Alı Khalifah, carrying out the practice that is in vogue among the Western Turks, fastened the gun carriages together by means of chains to form an intrenchment (barrier) where the matchlock men and gunners, who were posted in the front line of the army, might take cover I directed Sultan Muhammed Bakhshi to stay close to me, so that he might be able to communicate my orders. as circumstances night suggest, to the adjutants and aides-de-camp for conveyance to the commanders soon as the arrangements for the disposition of the army had been completed, the commanders and grandees, each followed by his own adherents, proceeded to take up their respective positions Then I issued orders prohibiting anyone whomsoever from leaving his post, and warning every one, no matter how high placed a personage he might be, against engaging without formal instructions

More than three hours of the day had already passed (930 am) when the battle between the right and left wings (of the opposing armies) burst forth with such fury that the earth trembled and the whole world resounded (with the clang of arms) The enemy moving to our right made a desperate charge agamst Khusru Kokultāsh, Malık Kāsım, and Bāba Kachka I ımmediately ordered Chin Timur Sultan to proceed to their assistance attacked the assailants with supreme bravery and, driving them before him, threw their ranks into confusion, and routed the centre of the Hindu army So the reward for this victory was assigned to him without dispute According to my orders Mustafa Rumi had taken the voked artillery in front of our centre, and by the fire of his musketry and culverins had thrown the army of the enemy into such disorder that the hearts of our brave troops were filled with fresh courage, while the bodies of a large number of the enemy were rolled in the dust of humiliation, and scattered to the winds of destruction But at this juncture the main body of Rana Sanka's army

right wing to the left, and charged the infidels At this juncture the fight waxed so furious that our right and left wings swept away and drove back in confusion the enemy's right and left wings The enemy having resolved to sacrifice their lives dearly, made a desperate attack on our right and left wings and nearly reached the spot where I was stationed Thanks, however, to the strength of our position, the assailants were unable to withstand us, and were constrained to take to flight The greater part of them perished and went to hell, and the remainder, becoming a prey to confusion, were scattered about the plain like grains of sand Hasan Khan Mewāti, who had been hit by a matchlock ball, was brought down and killed Many persons of note among the infidels, such as Rawal Udai Singh, Manikchand Chauhan, Rai Chanderbhan, Dilbes Rai, Gangur, and Guren Singh, blocked with their corpses the road of destruction, while thousands of the baser sort were trampled under our horses' hoofs

[N B —I have thought it advisable to omit the portions of the 'Fragment' that deal with the events which preceded and followed the actual battle, as they do not differ materially from the account given in the Memoirs]

APPENDIX D

AN ACCOUNT OF HUMAYÜN'S ILLNESS AND OF BABUR'S SELF-DEVOTION

[This is an extract from Pavet de Courteille's 'Fragments', which he regards as the last words written by Bäbur]

A YEAR had already elapsed since Humāyūn had retired to Badakhshān, and wathdrawn himself from society At the end of this time he called me to mind, and having made over the government of Badakhshān to Suleimān Mirza, his father-in-law, he reached Kābul after a day's journey During the ceremonies of the Feast of Bairān, he met Kamrān Mirza at Kabul, who had arrived there from Kandahār The latter, much astonished at meeting him, asked him why he was on the move Humāyūn, who was hurrying to see me again, despatched Hindāl Mirza from Kābul to Badakhshān, and set off to interview me After an interval of a few days, he reached Agra, the imperial residence. I was engaged in talking of him to his mother, just as he arrived. His presence made our hearts expand like rosebuds, and our eyes shine like flaming torches. It was my daily custom to maintain an open table, but on this occasion I held a feast in his honour, and treated him in a most distinguished manner. We stayed together for some time living on terms of the closest intimacy. The truth is that his conversation had in inexpressible charm, and that he realized completely the type of the 'perfect man'.

At the time that Humavan left Badakhshan to visit me, Sultan Sa id Khan, who belonged to the family of the Khans of Käshgar, and was related to me, having left Rashid Khan at Yark and, advanced in the direction of Badaklishan, which he had a mad desire to possess, but, before his arrival Hindal Mirza had already entered Fort Zafar Sultan Sa id, after besieging him there for three months, returned without being able to recomplish anything soon as I was informed that the people of Kishgar had come to conquer Badakhshān, I gave orders to Khwāja Khalifeh to go there, and take such me isures as he thought the situation required He, however, was ill advised enough to decline the mission which I had offered him asked Humāyūn if he could bring himself to go there in He replied that he would of course obey an official order, but protested that he would never leave me willingly Suleiman Mirza was therefore sent to Badakhshan on the other hand, is what I wrote to Sultan Sa'id 'After all the favours that I have bestowed upon you, I was astonished to find you acting as you have done present I have recalled Hindal Mirza and have sent Suleiman Mirza to take his place. If regarding the rights of justice, you make over Badakhshan to this Prince, who is our son, all will be well, otherwise, I will not take notice of your offence as it concerns myself, but will leave the heritage to my heirs to deal with it as they may think best '

Suleiman Mirza had not reached Käbul before the enemy, abandoning the possession of Badaklishan, demanded quarter (peace) As soon as that Prince arrived there, Hindal Mirza gave up the place to him and left for India Muhammed Humayun took leave of me to proceed to Sambhal, which was the place assigned for his residence, and where he stayed for six months. It is probable that the climate and water of the place did not suit him, for fever attacked him, and continued for such a long time that I ended by making up my mind to speak to him about it I gave orders to have him conveyed by boat to Delhi and thence to Agra so that capable doctors might see him and prescribe a proper treatment for him He was accordingly made to travel by water for several days In spite of all the remedies that were administered to him, he got no better Then Mir Abul Kasım, who was a person of the highest esteem, represented to me that the only remedy that could be applied in the case of such maladies was to make a sacrifice to God of something of great value in order to obtain from Him the restoration of the patient's health Thereupon, having reflected that nothing in the world was dearer to me than Humāyūn except my own life, I determined to offer myself in the hope that God would accept my sacrifice Khwāja Khalīfah and other close friends of mine said to me, 'Humāyūn will recover his health, so how can you speak so unwisely? It will suffice if you offer to God the most precious thing you possess of worldly goods. Offer as alms that diamond which came into your possession after Ibrahim's defeat, and which you presented to Humayun' 'But', I replied, 'there is no treasure which can be compared to my son It would be better for me to offer myself as his ransom, for he is in a very critical condition, and the situation demands that I should come to the aid of his weakness at the expense of my own strength' I immediately entered the room where he was and went thrice round him, starting from his head, and saying 'I take upon myself all that you suffer' At the same instant I felt myself heavy and depressed, while he became cheery and well IIe got up in complete health, while I became weak and afflicted with malaise I summoned to my bedside the grandees of the Empire and the most influential nobles, and placing their hands in that of Humāyūn as a mark of investiture, I solemnly proclaimed him as my successor and the heir to my crown, and placed him on the throne, Khwāja Khalīfah, Kambar Ah Beg, Tardi Beg, Hindu Beg, and others of my dependants took part in these dehberations. All of them agreed to what had been done, and bound themselves by an oath to support him

APPENDIX E

BIOGRAPHIES OF ERSKINE AND LEYDEN

WILLIAM ERSKINE (1773-1852), the distinguished Orientalist, was born in Edinburgh on November 8, 1773 father, David Erskine, was a Writer to the Signet, and his grandfather, John Erskine (1605-1768), a well-known writer on Scottish law He was educated at the Royal School and the Edinburgh University, where he was apparently a fellow student of John Leydon, whom he met again in Calcutta He was also associated at the time with Thomas Brown, the metaphysician, and the poet Thomas Campbell He was apprenticed for seven years (1792-9) to James Dundas, Writer to the Signet, but, the work proving uncongenial, he left Edinburgh in 1799 to become factor to Mr Hay of Duns There he remained till 1803, but as the salar, was small, and his prospects poor, he threw up his appointment, and returned to Edinburgh with the intention of studying medicine A fortnight later Sir James Mackintosh, who had accepted the Recordership of Bombay. invited him to accompany him to India promising him the first appointment in his gift Mackintosh was attracted to lum by his taste for philosophical studies, and, in a letter to Dr Parr written in 1807, he speaks of him as one of the most amiable, ingenious and accurately informed men in the world' Erskine sailed from Ryde with Mackintosh in February 1804, reaching Bombay in May of the same year. There he attended a meeting convened by Maclanto h for the purpose of founding the Literary Society of Bomba, of which Erskine was the first secretary. Soon after his arrival he was appointed Clark to the Small Cause Court.

and later served for many years as one of the stipendary magistrates of Bombay Erskine must have begun his Persian studies early, for he states that he had translated a small portion of Babur's Memoirs before 1810-11 1820 he was appointed Master in Equity in the Recorder's Here he enjoyed the friendship and con-Court, Bombay fidence of Mountstuart Elphinstone, and was a member of the committee that drew up the Bombay Code of Regula-He did not, however, hold the office of Muster in Equity for long, as he was removed from it, and left India under a cloud in 1823 The Chief Justice, West, appears to have behaved harshly to Erskine, the honesty of whose intentions was never open to doubt, though he may have been neglectful of his duties, the result perhaps of sickness On his acturn from India Erskine at first settled in Edinburgh, where in 1826 he published the translation of Bābur's Memoirs, which had been completed and sent home ten years previously. He tells us in his preface that he had been working at this translation from the Persian version, while Leyden in Calcutta was engaged in translating the same work from the Türki original Leyden, however, died in 1811 before his translation was half flushed, leaving his papers to Erskine, who received the MS in 1813 By this time Erskine had completed his translation, and had just finished the work of comparing the two versions, when he received from Elplunstone his copy of the Türki original This compelled him to undertake the task of comparing his translation throughout with the Türki, of which he had only an imperfect knowledge Though Leyden was associated with Erskine as joint translator of the Memoirs, and the book was published for the benefit of Leyden's father, the chief credit of the performance belongs to Erskine Leyden translated only down to page 318 (Vol. I), and pages 79-91 (Vol II) of the Memoirs, and supplied practically no notes, Erskine, on the other hand, contributed a valuable preface and introduction, corrected Leyden's version, and He also supplied ti inslated the remainder of the work the notes, which Lord Jeffreys described as 'the most intelligent, learned, and least pedantic, notes we have ever seen attached to such a performance, and filled up the gaps in Babur's narrative with scholarly memoranda In 1827 Erskine went to Pau, and there he resided for two or three years He became Provost of St Andrews in 1836, and in 1839 he returned to Edinburgh went abroad in 1845, and lived in Bonn till 1848 of his later years were spent in Edinburgh, and during the last of these he became blind He died on May 28, 1852, and was buried in St John's Episcopal Church Erskine married in Madras Maitland, second daughter of Sir John Mackintosh, who died in 1861, and by whom he had fourteen children Four of his sons were in the Indian Civil Service, of whom the eldest, James (1821-93), became judge of the Bombay High Court, and the youngest, Henry (1832-93), rose to be Commissioner of Sinde his edition of Babur's Memoirs his chief work was the History of India under Babur and Humayan, which was edited by his son James, and published after his death in 1854, though it had been completed several years before This work is a valuable contribution to Indian history, and is marked throughout by good sense, accuracy, and impartiality

JOHN LEYDEN, MD (1775-1811), physician and poet, son of John Leyden and Isabella Scott, was born on September 8, 1775, at Denholm, Cavers, Roxburghslure He received some elementary schooling at Kirktown, and from 1790 to 1797 was a student of the Edinburgh University, where he greatly distinguished himself as a scholar During the vacations he studied Natural Science, Scandinavian and Modern Languages, Hebrew, Arabic, and Persian, while his professional pursuits included Theology, Philosophy, and Medicine Among his associates were Brougham, Sydney Smith, Jeffreys, Horne, and Thomas Brown From 1796 to 1798 he was tutor to the sons of Mr Campbell of Edinburgh, and accompanied them to St Andrews (1797-8), where he was licenced as a preacher He contributed poems to the Edinburgh Literary Magazine through Anderson, the editor of British Poets, and was one of the first to welcome the Pleasures of Hope, though subsequently he and Campbell had a ridiculous quarrel, which led to three days' illness on August 28 1811 In an eulogium delivered before the Literary Society of Bombay, William Eiskine claimed that Leyden in eight years had done almost as much for Asia as the combined scholarship of the West had done for Europe Scott embalmed his 'bright and brief' career in the Lord of the Isles (iv, 2) Cockburn, after referring to his unconscious egotism uncouth aspect, and uncompromising demeanour, declares 'there was no walk in life in which Leyden could not have shone' The 'Ettrick Shepherd' bewailed the loss of the poet's 'glowing measure', and Lockhart in his Life of Scott fully recognized his extraordinary abilities and attainments Sir Walter Scott contributed a memoir of as a scholar Leyden to the Edinburgh Annual Register in 1811 His 'Poetical Remains' with a memoir were edited by the Rev James Morton in 1819, and in 1858 his 'Poems and Ballads' with Scott's Memoir were published lated one or more of the Gospels into Pushtu, Belüchi, Maldivian, Macassai, and Bugis, and in 1821 his Malay Annals with introduction by Sir Stamford Raffles appeared (Dictionary of National Biography)

Adüsch, n 371 Adwa, Valley of, 11 339 Afghanistan, 1 vevi-vii, 217, 245 Afghans, 1 224, 238, 243, 266 n. defeated, 256, 270, n 56, tribes of, 258, 279, in 56, 88, 122, 132 Afridis, n 132-3 Afzal Khāb bīn, Syed, 1 285, 11 1, 3 Agra, n 150, 154, 188, 207, 243, 257, 357, Babur at, 191-2, 245 n , 246, 313 , revenue, 245 nAhengeran, 1 101, 162, 171 Ahi, 1. 320 Ahili, 1 321 Ahmed Beg, 1 95, 120, 121, 128, 130, 155 Ahmed Elchi Bügheh, 11 49 Ahmed Haji Beg, 1 35, 50, 62, 64, 200Ahmedi Perwanchi, ii 90, 160, 171, 181, 207, at Panipat, 186-7, discontent, 248 Ahmedi Yasawel, n 27 Ahmed Karäwel, 1 117 Ahmed Käsim, 1 140, 161, 203, 214, 271, 273 Ahmed Käsım Kohbur, 1 167. 182, 211, 11 114, in Käbul, 26, 31, 34 Ahmed Kazi, Sultan, 27 Ahmed Khan, 1 15, 135, 168, 286-7, birth 20, visits Mah mūd Khan and meets Bābur. 169, character, 171, death, 197 271 Mimed Mirza, Sultan, 1 evi, cviii, 10, 14, 18, 22, 24, 205, birth, 31, wars 286, 362 against Omer Sheikh, 10, 13, 26, 27, 33, defented by the Moghuls 14, makes peace with Bibur, 29 and Kasir Mirza, 29, death, 30, account of, 31 battles 32 wises and children, 33 143 and Samarkand, 1-82, 89 Ahmed Mirza Dughlet, i 172 Ahmed Shah, n 323, 327 Ahmed Tambol, at Asfers, 1-52 wounded 67, rewarded, 89, decerts, 89, rebels, 90, war with Bibur, 105, 111, de feated, 117, Mahmüd Khan aids, 120, peace with Babur, 124. Feizes Kamber Ali, 130. Ah Dost goes to, 132, war with Mahmud, 155, 164, 171, Bī bur sends to, 160, conspiracy against, 164, light with Babur, 177, u 114, calls in Sheibāni Khan, 1 183, 197, taken, 273, 11 318 Ahmed Terkhan, 1 140, 146, n 52 Ahmed Yüsef, 1 102, 282, n 26, 29, 81, 278, 298, 301, 365 Aibek, i 204, ii 273 Aikeri yar, 1 212 Aimāks, i 106, 206, 221, 243, 253, 284, n 1, 3, 121 Airzin, Dispersal of, 17 Aish, 1 111, 175 Aisha Sultan Begum, 1 34, 125, 143, n 426 Ai tughdi, i 283 Ajer, 1 204, 206, 271 Akār tūzi, i 33 Ak Begum, 1 34, 41, 46, 291, 294, 297°, n 345 Akerbādehpūr, 11. 162 Alhsi, 1 7, 04, 121, 181, n 114, death of Omer Sheikh at, 1 10, besieged, 29, given to Uzun Hassan, 30, Hassan Yākūb attempts, 42, Bābur visits, 54, 108, 121, 182, disputes over, 89, surrendered, 106, 108, Jehängir to have, 124, Tambol at, 171, 181, pro mised to Babur, 179, battle at, 185 Ak kūtal, 1 110. Ală ed din (Ālīm), ir 152-1, de feated, 164 , joins Bäbur, 168, 175, nt Kānvā, 297 Alā ed din Jehānsöz Ghūri, 1 210 Alah sai, L 212 Al aman, n 349 Ala tăgh, 1 lxvm, 278. Alā ud din Sawādi, 11 81, 87, 88 Alch Kürghän, n 41-2 Alexander (Sikander), 1-19, 76, 33 295 Alghūtū, n. 146 Ali Bu, Khwajch, r 131-148

Ali Chilirch, r 266 , n 49, 60

Alı Derwish, 1. 26, 29, 94, 111, 124 Alı Dost, 1 111, 124, tyranny of, 125, intrigues, 130, death, 132 Alı Dost Taghāi, Mir, 1 25, Marghinān given to, 30, aids Bābur, 42, at Andejān, 91, loyalty, 95, 103, battle, 111, 117 Alı Hamadanı, 1 231 Alı Jalair, 1 307 Alı Jan, Vulla, 11 122, 144, 157 Alı Khan, 11 97, 169-71 Alı Kitteh, u 365 Alı Masjid, ii 112, 132, 159 Alı Mazīd Beg Kuchīn 1 23, 94 Alı Meshadı, Sultan, 1 321 Alı, Mir, 1 141, 308, 11 97 Alı Mırza, Sultan, 1. 25, 34, 36, 38, 47, 100, 102, parentage, 46, 115, flies from Babur, 55, proclaimed king of Samarkand, 61,88, defeated,63, allied with Babur, 64, 66 defeats rupture Baiesanghar, 116, with the Terkhans, 127, de feats Khan Mirza, 129, yields Samarkand, 133, death, 134 Mirza, Sultan, Kāmrān's uncle, 11. 129 Alım Khan, sec Ala-ed din Alım Khan (son of Jalal), 11. 272, 275, 287, 321 Alım Khan Fermülı, 11. 250-1, 315, 408 Alım Khan Tehengeri, ii 264-5 Alıngar, 1. 229, 269, 11. 146 Alisheng, 1 229, 269, n 57, 146 Alı Sher Beg, Nawaı, ı. TTV1 n, 36, 70, 144, 299, 311, 317-18, 11 141 Alı, Syed, 1 107, 11 49 Alı Taghai, Sheikh, 1 71, 324 Almäligh, 1. 1 Almär, n. 4. Almātu, 1. 1 Alūn, 11 127 Alwar, 11 308-10 Amāni, 1 93 Amberkoh, 1 60 Amerhār, n. 415 Amu, 1. lx111, 203, 206 n , 209, и 66-7, 69, 70

Andejān 11 118, position, 12, 3,

5, given to Omer Sheikh, 11, sacked, 17, Bābur at, 26, given to Hassan Yākūb, 30, disputes over, 89, besieged and surrendered, 91, 92 declares for Bābur, 107, 11. 32, Tambol attempts, 113, Bābur at, 119, 120, given to Babur, 124, Babur attempts, 173, besieged, 182, Sheibāni takes, 207 Andekhūd, 1 205, 289, 308, 11 39 Anderab, 1. 208, 213, 223, 243, n 122 Anderābeh, 11 107 Animals, 1 281, of Ferghana, 6, of Hindustan, i. 244, ii 209, of Kābul, 246, Bajour, 11 84, aquatic, 223 Anwar, 11 320 Apāk, Mulla, u 250, 252, 266, 277, 322, 327, 409 Arabs, 1 224 Arāish Khan, u 175, 298, 323, 391, 402 Aras, River, 1 13 Aravallıs, 11 204 Armiān i. 119 Arrah (Ari), 11. 392 Artillery, 1 58 n, 114 n, 11 81 n, 187 n , 329 n , 401 n Asad Khwājehgi, 11 271, 298, 301, 316 Asafi, 1 316 Asfera, position, 1 5, besieged by Bābur, 52, given to Kamber Alı, 120, Bābur in, 199 Asfera Mts , ı. lxx Ashık Bekawel, 11 322, 365 Ashık Muhammed Arghün, 11. 42 Ashparis, i 105 Asken Mirza, ii 246, 333, sent to Pūrab, 355-6, 361, 378, at the Săru, 396, 398, 401, 404 428 Aspera, 1 130 Asterāb, ı. 284. Asterābād, 1. 45, 99, 290, 292, 301, 305, n 233, given to Mu zaffer Hussam, 1 61,69, battles at, 288, 290 Astrakhān, 1. 287 Astronomical Tables, 1 81 Atā ullah Mīr, 1. 315 Ater, 1 231, 11 58, 143 Atku and tikeh, 11 52 Atrūli, 11. 319

Aughans, see Afghans Auleng Nīshīn, 1 290 Ayūb Begchik, 1 95, 146, 166, 172, 174, 180, 205, 260, 284, 149, 71 n, 74 Azarbānjān, 1 l, cv, 47, 309, 11 65, 243

Bāba Chihreh, 11 60, 188, 260, Bāba Hassan Abdāl, 11 47, 50 Bāba Hussam, 1 87 Bāba Kāra, u 83 n. Bāba Kashkeh, 11 152, 252-3, 315, at Panipat, 186, Kānwā, 299, 300 Bāba Khākı, 11 39 Baba Khan, 1 33, 169, 198 Bāba Kulı Beg, 1 24, 73, 11 254 Bāba Jān, 11 101, 103, 129 Bāba Lūli, u 27 Bāba Mulla, 1 279, 11. 61 Bāba Peshāgheri, 1. 150, 202, 279, 11 26, 58, 61, 273 Bāba Seirāmi, i 190-5 Bāba Sheikh, n. 49, 115, 273-4 Bāba Sherzād, 1 173, 186, 11. 28 Bāba Sultan, 11. 32, 321, 329, 402. Bāba Wali, u 47 n. Bāba Yasāwel, u. 81, 111 Babur Mırza, 1 c-cui, 23, 294 n, 298, 302, 307, n. 10-11 Bābur, Zehīr ed dın Mühammed, descent, 1 lix, 16 n., accession, exi, 1, 26, parentage, 14, makes peace with Ahmed Mirza, 29 marries Aisha Sultan, 34, 125, and Maasmuch Sultan, 34, n. feats Hassan Yākūb, 42, ab stains from forbidden meats, 43, marries Zeineb Sultan, 47, takes Asfera, 52, takes Khojend, 53, attempts Ura tippa, 55, Begs join, 57, attempts Samarkand, 64, 66, conquest and loss of, 76-88, 92, 93, deserted by his Begs, 89, illness, 91, abandoned, agam attempts Samar kand, 95, joins Mahmud Khan, 95, takes Nasūkh, 96, in distress 101, Marghinan, 104, war with

Tambol, 105, 117, 171, first battle, 118, peace with Tam bol, 124, invited to Samar kand, 129, retakes Samar kand, 139, defeated by Shei bani Khan, 149, yields Sa markand, 157, joins Mahmud, 164, meets Ahmed Khan, 169, takes towns, 172, at tempts Andejan, 173, fight with Tambol, 177, flight from Akhsı, 188, plight, 199, 11 433, leaves Ferghana, 1 202, Khosrou submits to, 208, takes Kābul, 216, 251, 303, at invents new writing, 252, 315, plunders Kohat, 254, Dasht, 260, Kalāt, 277, defeats the Hazāras, 280, lumbago, 283, Sultan Hussain summons, 285, meets Badia-ez zemān, 11 6, visits Heri, 10, 14, and wine, 11-13, return to Kābul, 17, crushes rebellion there, 26-34, and Mukim, 44, 46, takes Kandahar, 52, sets out for Hind, 55, assumes style of Pādshāh, 59, Moghul revolt, u. 60, 62-4, attacks Hissar, 69, 72, Bokhāra, 72, Samar kand, 72, defeated, 73, 74, in distress, 76, return to Kābul, 77, takes Bajour, 82, Afghan story of, 86 n, crosses the Sind, 92, embassy to Ibrahim, u. 98, lifo at Kābul, 115, illness, 118, tour of Lamghan, 141-6, and music, 143, in. vasion of India, 148, 155, marches against Ibrahīm, 174, defeats him at Pānipat, 185, enters Agra, 192, discontent in the army, 248, forts taken, 265-7, attempt to kill, 268, marches against Rana Sanka, 275, 287, renounces wine, 280, 374, losses, 287, victory, 289-307, 436, Ghāzı, 307, reduces Mewat, 309, move ments, 310-345, increases the taxes, 345, directions Humaiūn, 351-5, grand feast, 358-9, takes the field, 367, Memoirs, 380, swimming, 382,

389 mar with Bengalis, 306- 1 101, will sumfree 123 410-42 death and burnel i 217 n n 126 wives and family, 126-8 character, 128 buildings at Baraloh, 3 Agra n 257, 335 at Dhülpür and Sil m. 311 362 at Kabul, children i 21 143 n 59, 86, 100, 262, 135

drinking parties described, incidents and guests at, ii 101, 103 104 117, 119, 127 131, 136, 138, 139, 141-143-1-161, 273

poems six Poems

Babun, 1 126 Biburi character i 252, 315 Bachghan, I 283 Badal lishān, r Ixiv. 1, 19-46-201, 203 212, 227, 270 11 2, 55, 62 64 69, 133 given to Humājūn 149, Sald Khan nttrels 421-2, 441 Badal behänst, 1–213 Bādām chashmeh, 1 226 252 n. 130, 155 Badch sir, il. 132 Badghis, i 301, ii 1-5, 17 Badia er zemān Mirza, Muham med, 293, 302-3, 309, 11 100 n sent against Khosrou i 56, 59, 60. Balkh given to 61, 69 and Sultan Hussain, 69-73, 205, 289, 290 flees to Khosrou Shah, 72. to Zulnun Arghun, 72, 99, neglecta Babur, 146 name, 219, at Khorasan, 271, succession, 324, war with Sheibim, ii 1, 39 Babur Babur joins, 6-8 character, parties, 8, 13, flight, 41, 65 Bady, 1 228, fr 59, 142 Bāgh-e wafā, 11 135, 156 Baghlan, 11 121 Bāhāghāi, i 243 n Bahār, 11 135 Bahia, n 389 Bahlol, 1 269, 284

Bahlülpür, it 163 Bahmani dynasty, ii 197 Bahraich, ii 245 n

Baiesanghar Mirza, 1 36, 290, parentage, 16 governor, 49 lang of Samarl and, 51, 57, 61, 88, escapes, 62, defeated by Sultan Ali, 61, attacked by Bibur, &c. Of desertions from, 66, 67, with Khosrou, 75, 96 100, murdered, 115, 210 account of 115

Burim Khan, n. 73, 71 Bajour, i 225 231, 244, ii 90, 115, 144-5, 213-18, 232 3

attacled, 79 taken, 82, 115. 192 Bala brother of Khosron Shah,

Bakialán, n. 161

Baki Cheghāmām, i 17 Sultan Masaud, 56, 57 per fide of, 99, 266 with Babur, 203 203, 207 213 216 259 275 277, ir 97 and Jehan gir i 201, and Kamber Ali, 207 followers plundered 214 Kohat, 231-5, discon nt tented 278, death, 280

Bal : Shaghawel, ii 171, 274, 332-3, 111-15 Baki Tashi endi, n=331, 409, 414

Bāki Terkhān, i- 37, 45, 131, 143,

Bal serch (Puxar), ii 388 Bilinat jogi, ii 161

Balkh, i lxv, 61, 69, 71, 205, 235, 256, 200-293, 301, ii 73, 155, 174 273, 319, 350 Khosrou be ieges, 1 97 Uzbels be siege ii 2, 8, 165 Balkh ab, H 3

Balüches, n. 98, 151, 365, 406 Balweh, n 395

Bām, 11 4

Bāmiān, 1 203, 223, 281, 11 1, 23 Banāi, Moulāna, i 65, 317, 323.

n 42, 74, 374-5 Banās, n 201

Bandeli Alf, 1 106, 148, 188 Bandir, ii 228, 321

Bands of Khorasan and Samar kand, 26, 49

Bangash, 1 24, 223, 224, 227, 242, 252, 255, 257, 282, 11 125 Bangermou, n 331

Bānī, 1 171

Bannu, 1 217-020, 255, 257

Banūr, 11 177 Barakoh, 1 3 Bārān, 1, 211, 228, 229, 230, 234, 247, 249 n, 270, 283, Bābur visits, ii 34, 126, 142 Barch, 1 254 Bārī, 11 205, 230, 317 Bārīk āb, 11 130, 136, 155 Barkalān, 11. 112 Barkistān, 1 241 n Basawer, 11 276 Bast, 1 290 Bayazid (Bajazet), 11 68 Shorkh, Tambol's Bayezīd, brother, 1. 181, 182, 11 318, invites Bābur, 182, seized, 184, released, 186 Bayozid, Sheikh, Mustafa Fer müli's brother, with Bābur, 11 251, 255, 271, hostility, 318, 320, 328, 332, 378, 405, 411, 415 Bāzār, 1 258. Bazārak, 1 222 Bāzāriān, 11. 139 Bedrau, 1. 228, 243, 11 142. Begchiks, 1 166 Behäder Khan, 11. 201 Behär, 11 244, 245 n, 388, 390, loss of, 11 366, 383, retaken, 389, 392 Behār Khan Lodi, 11 151, 247 Behāt, 11 96, 162, 203 Behlül Ayüb, 1 60, 205, 212 Behreh, i 252, 11 90, 92, 94, 95, 108, 148, 193, 211, 244, his tory of, 96, given to Hindu Beg, 102, abandoned, 117 Behzād, 1 321, 11 43 Behzādi, ii 138 Bekrām, 1 254, 11 111, 158-69 Bektüt, 1 275 Belüt tägh, 1 Ixvn Benäres, 11 224, 379, 381 Bendsālār, 1 121 Bengal, 11. 204, 225, 235 n., cus toms, 197-9, Bābur's rela tions with, 356, 364, 367, 388, 392-4, 410, war with, 396-406 Berekis, i 224 Besūd, 11 87 Betwa, 11 204. Bhīlsa, 11. 200, 327

Bhīra, 11 94 n , 148 Bhujpūr, 11 389 Bī, 1. 134 n Biāna, 11 205, 207, 243, 272, 275, 311, revenue, 245 n, holds out, 247, 253-5, stone of. taken, 264-5, Bābur reaches, 308, 313 Biankuli, 1 167 Bian Sheikh, il. 348-9, 351, 355 Biās, 11 203 Biāwān, 11 267 Bīban, u. 167, 176, 178, 252-3, 315, 328, 378, 405, 411, 415 Bibi Māh rūī, ii 27 Bijnager, 11, 199 Bikamchand, Raja, 11 245 n Bikamdeo, Raja, 11 245 n. Bikermajit, Raja, 1 81 , 11, 191, 245 n, 341, 345. Bikhrätä, i 121 Bikhūb Sultan, 11 332, 378, 412. Bīlah, 1 263 Bilker, 11 141 Bīmragīri, 11 162 Birain, 11 57 Birds, of Ferghana, i 2, 6, of Karshi, 86, of Kabul, 233, 247, 11 217, method of catch ıng, 1 242, 247, of Hındustān 244, n 116, 214 Bishkent, 1 155, 161, 164 Bishkhārān, i 124, 181 Bistām, 1 290 Bokhāra 1. lxx111, 33, 37, 38, 227, 11. 69, battles at, 1 36, 38, 116, given to Baiesanghar Mirza, 51, 116, attempt on, 66, description of, 84, the Terkhāns in, 128, Sheibāni takes, 131, 133, 199, Bābur takes, n. 72 Bost, 1 98 Budāun, 11 314 Bujkeh, n 168, 188, 260, 272, 274Bülan, 1 228, 11 142 Burāk, 1 166 Bürek, 1 261 Burhān ed dīn Alı, 1. 5, 27, 77 Burhānpūr, 11. 322. Busāwer, 11 313 But khāk, 11 130 būzeh (beer), 11 144, 163 n

Caravan routes, 1. Ivvn vnu
Central Provinces, revenue, 11.
Central Provinces, levende, il.
245 n
Chaghatai Khan, i lviii, 9, 15
Obashati the a 24 ff co
Ohal habaara a 202 as 10
Charlengian, 1 ava, 11 10
Chālāk, 1 214, 11 60
Chambal, 11 204, 230, 320
Chakhcherān, 1 303, 11 18 Chākhcherān, 1 303, 11 18 Chālāk, 1 214, 11 60 Chambal, 11 204, 230, 320 Chanderi, 11 205, 320, taken, 200, 325, account of, 322-3, 320, given to Ahmed Shah, 207
200 225 account of 222 2
200, 520, account of, 522-5,
320, given to Ahmed Shan,
0±1
Chandul, n 79, 83, 84 Chandwar, n 207, 256, 287, 313-Chandwan 1 907 950 997 212
14, 369
Chārshembeh, 1 73
Chāryak, u. 3
Chashmeh-e tirch, 11 122, 125
Ohammen-Circle, in 122, 120
Chāstūbeh, u 34
Chātū, 1 252
Cheghanian, 1 45, 96, 135, 199, 203
Cheghānserāi, 1 230-1, 232, 251 Chekmān, 1 45, 289
Chelman : 45 200
Clerian, 1 40, 200
Chenāb, 11 94, 96, 102, 163, 203
Chichiktū, 11 4, 8
Chihil dukhterān, 1. 112, 11 5, 10
Chīn, 1 220
China, see Khita
China, see Khitā Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127
Chineh Kurghaneh, 11. 127 Chingiz Khan, 1 l-liv, hv. 9, 16,
Chineh Kurghaneh, 11. 127 Chingiz Khan, 1 l-liv, hv. 9, 16,
Chineh Kurghāneh, 11. 127 Chingiz Khan, 1 l-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, 1 scin, Chineh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, i l-liv, lix, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7
Chineh Kurghäneli, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, i 1-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, ii 94, 96
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, i l-liv, hx, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, ii. 7 Chiniot, ii 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi. i. 273
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, i l-liv, hx, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, ii. 7 Chiniot, ii 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi. i. 273
Chineh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, i I-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chin Sūfi, i. 278 Chin Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Chineh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, i I-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chin Sūfi, i. 278 Chin Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, 1 l-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, 1 xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, 1. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, 1 I-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, 1 xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, n. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pāmpat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310,
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, i 1-liv, hx, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingz Khan, i l-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingz Khan, i l-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, 1 l-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, 1 xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, 1. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n. Chirās, 1 166 Chirkh, 1 237, 313
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, 1 l-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, 1 xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, 1. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n. Chirās, 1 166 Chirkh, 1 237, 313
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, 1 l-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, 1 xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, 1. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n. Chirās, 1 166 Chirkh, 1 237, 313
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, i 1-liv, hx, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n Chirās, i 166 Chirkh, i 237, 313 Chiter, n. 177 Chitūr, n. 209, 205, 327, 341
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, i I-liv, hx, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n. Chirās, i. 166 Chirkh, i. 237, 313 Chiter, n. 177 Chtūr, n. 200, 205, 327, 341 Chotiāli, i. 265
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingz Khan, i I-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n. Chirās, i. 166 Chirkh, i. 237, 313 Chiter, n. 177 Chitūr, n. 200, 205, 327, 341 Chotaāli, i. 265 Choughān, i. 23.
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingz Khan, i I-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n. Chirās, i 166 Chirkh, i 237, 313 Chiter, n. 177 Chitūr, n. 200, 205, 327, 341 Chotiāli, i. 265 Choughān, i. 23. Choupārah (Chapra), i. 224, 258.
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingz Khan, i I-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n. Chirās, i 166 Chirkh, i 237, 313 Chiter, n. 177 Chitūr, n. 200, 205, 327, 341 Chotiāli, i. 265 Choughān, i. 23. Choupārah (Chapra), i. 224, 258.
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingz Khan, i I-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n. Chirās, i 166 Chirkh, i 237, 313 Chiter, n. 177 Chitūr, n. 200, 205, 327, 341 Chotiāli, i. 265 Choughān, i. 23. Choupārah (Chapra), i. 224, 258.
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingz Khan, i I-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, n. 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n. Chirās, i 166 Chirkh, i 237, 313 Chiter, n. 177 Chitūr, n. 200, 205, 327, 341 Chotiāli, i. 265 Choughān, i. 23. Choupārah (Chapra), i. 224, 258.
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, i 1-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, ii 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n Chirās, i. 166 Chirkh, i. 237, 313 Chiter, n. 177 Chitūr, n. 200, 205, 327, 341 Chotiāli, i. 265 Choughān, i. 23. Choupāreh (Chapra), i. 224, 258, 259, n. 408, 410 Chunār, n. 379, 381, 384, 411 Chūseh, n. 386-7
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingz Khan, i I-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, ii 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n. Chirās, i. 166 Chirkh, i. 237, 313 Chiter, n. 177 Chitūr, n. 200, 205, 327, 341 Chotiāli, i. 265 Choughān, i. 23. Choupāreh (Chapra), i. 224, 258, 259, ii. 408, 410 Chunār, n. 379, 381, 384, 411 Chūseh, n. 386-7 Climate, difference in, i. 253
Chīneh Kurghāneh, n. 127 Chingiz Khan, i 1-liv, liv, 9, 16, 20, 165, institutes of, i xem, n. 7 Chiniot, ii 94, 96 Chīn Sūfi, i. 273 Chīn Taimūr Sultan, n. 32, 181, 252, 321, 331-2, 366, 405, at Pānipat, 185, defeats Afghans, 267, at Kānwā, 296, 300, 310, sent against Balūches, 365 Chipāran (Champāran), n. 245 n Chirās, i. 166 Chirkh, i. 237, 313 Chiter, n. 177 Chitūr, n. 200, 205, 327, 341 Chotiāli, i. 265 Choughān, i. 23. Choupāreh (Chapra), i. 224, 258, 259, n. 408, 410 Chunār, n. 379, 381, 384, 411 Chūseh, n. 386-7

Dābān, 1 171 Dabūl, 1 147 Dabūsi, 1 38, 131, 146 Dalmau, n. 411, 413, 414 Dămeneh, 11 142 Dāmenkoh, 1 303 Damghan, 1 290, 293 Dandān sluken, 11 1 Darch, n 213 Dareh-o Zang, 1 206 Darch Kuner, 1 251 Dareh Nür, 1 229, 231, 232, 251, 269 Darebpür, 11 376 Darūta, n 142 Darwäzch, 11 89 Darya Khan, 1 252, 11 97, 167, 247Dasht, 1 245, 252, 258, raid on, 258, 260 Dastar pech, 1 105 Debalpar, n 151-3, 174, 206, 244, 258, 307 Dehāneh, 1 210, 213, 272, 11 3 Deh ghulāmān, 11 134 Dehkat, 1 159, 162-3 Deh Tajikan, ii 142 Deh Yākūb, 1 217, 268, 11 129, 155 Dekhan, 11. 197 Delhi, n 150, 154, 188, 246, be sieged, 166, revenue, 244. Derbend e aheni, i 209 Dergham, River, 1. 77, 131 Dermenket, 11 266 Deveren, i. 217, 221, ii. 139 Dhūlpūr, 11 205, 243, 247, 254-6, 267, 335, 343, 362 Dibri, 1 228 Dılawer Khan, 11. 151-4, 165, 173, 365, joins Bābur, 167, 172, 178, at Kānwā, 298 Dilāzāks, 1 255, 279, 11 88, 108, 112, 129 Dilbars Sultan, L 294, 11 115 Dilmāu, 11 260 Dinkōt, 1. 224, 258, 11. 93 Dispersal of Airzin, 1 17 Diwaneh, 1 74. Dizak, 1 157 Doab, n. 167, 181, 250, 265, 308 Dost Ishek Agha, 11 190, 265, 297, 301, 311, 313, 403-4

Dost Khawend, Khwajeh, 11 58, 272, 346, at Kānwā, 207 Dost Muhammed, ii 331 Dost Nāsır, 1. 138, 173, 177, 178, 11 52, 79, 81, 100, 106-7. nt Akhsi, 1 186, 188-0, 11 114, at Kābul, 28, death, 113, account of, 113-15 Dost Sirpuli Piādeh, ii 29, 38 Doulet Kadam, 11 1, 145, 250 Doulet Khan Yüsef Khail, 11 96-7, Lahore given to, 98, and Babur 99, invites Babur, 151, breaks with, 152-4, 162, 165, submits, 169, death, 172 Doulet Serüi, 1 97 Doulet Sultan Khanum, 1 158, 169, 11, 129 Dour, 11 149 Dress of honour, ii 128 Drinking parties, see Babur Düghābeh, 1 235 Dūki, 1 239, 245, 261, 265 Dūn, 11 167-8, 173, 175 Durin, sec Deveren Durnamoh, u 141 Düshı, 1 208, 210 Düverin, sec Deveren Etāwa, 11. 247, 254-6, 268, 311, 314, 370, 419 Fatch Khan Sarwani, 11 260, 263, 378

Farket, 1 159 Farrukh Arghūn, 1. 277 Fārs, 1. ci, cii, 11, 243 Farük, birth, 11 262 Fatchpür, 11 410 Felūl, 1. 207 Feraghineh, 1 178 Forghana, 1 lxxviu, 199, 244, 320, description of, 1 1, revenues, 9, given to Omer Sheikh, 11, 14, 21, plundered by Isan bugha Khan, 17, promised to Ahmed Khan, 179, Babur leaves, 202, recovers, 11. 71 n. Ferishta, 1. 197–8 Fermül, 1 217, 223, 224, 241, 255, 261Fınākat, sce Shahrokhla.

Firozpūr, ii 311

Firoz Shah, ii 196-7 Fish, method of catching, 1 249, ii. 412, of Hindustan, 224 Flowers, of Ferghana, i 3, of Ghurbond, 1 234, of Bārān, 11 35, of Hindustan, 236, 395 Frogs, 11 224 Fruit, of Ferghana, 1 2, 7, of Bokhāra, 85, of Nasūkh, 96, of Kābul, 220, of Ghazni, 238, of Fermul, 241, of Alah sai, 243, of Hindustan, ii 225, 416 Fālāl, i 60 Gadāi Taghāi, 11 85, 101, 119, 123Gagiānis, 1 253, 254-5 Gakkers (Ghakkars), n 102, 151, 161 Gandak, 11 203, 391 Gandamak, n. 112, 136, 156 Ganges, 11 203, 272, 328-30, 385 Garm chashmeh, 11 132, 157 Garmsīr, 1 201, 11 150 Garzewan, 1 70, 206, 245 Gaura, 11 245 n. Gawār, 1 229 Gebrek, 1 225 Gerdez, 1 241, 252, 11 122-3, 125, 249 Ghagar, Ghagra River, see Gogra Ghajdowan, 1 309, ii 74 Gharjestan, i. 245, ii. 18 Ghava, 1 192 Ghazel, 1 144, 166 Ghāzi Khan, ii 97, 151-4, 160 n, 165, his army, 162, flight, 168-9, 171-4 Ghāzapūr, 11 224, 251, 410 Ghaznevi dynasty, 1 238 n Ghazni (Ghaznah), 1 110 n , 216, 217 n , 224, 267, 11. 58, 62, 113, description of, 1. 238, given to Jehängīr, 251, 268, il. 1, to Sīdīm Ali, 17, to Nāsır, 59, 78, to Khwājeh Kalān, 249 Ghiāsdāl, u 110 Ghiaseddin Korchi, 11 356, 363-4

Ghiljis, 11. 36

26

Ghūlām Shādı, 1 323, 11 12

Ghürbend, 1 211, 223, 234, 11 1,

Ghūr, 1 216, 234, 245, 303

Ghüri, i 210, ii 3, 273 Ghūri Birlās, i 133, n 49, 51 Gidger, ii 145 Gingüteh, n. 167 Gogra, 11 203, 211, 224, 393-4 Gokultāsh, 1. 44 n Gorakhpür, u 378 nGujers, 1 279, n. 102, 163 Gujerāt, u 196, 225, 261 Gük serāi, 1 40, 62, 63 Gulhehar, 1 249, 11 34, 127 Gulkīnah, sce Kulkīneh Gumal, 1. 261 Gumbazek, 11 L Gumti, 11 203, 332, 385 Gundega, u. 245 nGüren, Sheikh, 11 318, 416, 420, joins Babur, 250, sent on expeditions, 252-3, 266, 308, 322, 402, at Kānwā, 298 Gurh Katn, 1. 254, 11. 111 Gurzewān, 11. 4 Guzer, 11. 46 Gwahar, 11 191, 205, 243, 275, revenue, 245 n, holds out, 247, 254, 266, blockaded, 287, 429, Bābur visits, 336, 341-2, revolt at, 418, 420

Habibeh Sultan Begum, 1 35, u 16,45 Ha dervish, desert of, 1 6 Hāfiz Beg Duldāi, 1 14, 74, 128, 157, family, 22 Haider Alemdar, 11 98, 242 Haider Gokultāsh, 1 33, 106 n , at Kānbāi, 51, 116 Haider Kāsim, 1 148, 150 Haider Kuli, 1. 107, 11 180 Haider Mirza, 1. 19, 46, 60, 293 Hāji Khan, il. 165, 167 Hājipūr, u. 405 Hān tarkhān, see Astrakhan Haldı, 11 397 Hambātu, 11. 95 Hameh Mir, 11. 273-4, 298 Hamid Khan, 11 178-9, 267, 275 Hamzah Beg. 1 188, 11, 119, 131 Hamzeh Sultan, 1. 15, 35, 292, with Sultan Masaud, 57, joins Bābur, 57, 110, at Samarkand, 65, 138, at Sir-e pul, 148, defeats Khosrou, 273, death, n 71 n , sons, 350

Hangu, 1 255-6 Harru, 11 92, 160 n Harūr, 11 175 Hashnaghar, 1 216, 225, 11 88, 130, 133, 211, 218, 221 Hasht-yek, 1 161 Hassan Alı Jalair, 1 307, 316, 11 8 Hassan Khan Mewāti, 11. 247, 272, 274, 293, 305, 309-10 Hassan Nabirch, 1 67, 74, 128, n. 136 Hassan Yākūb Beg, 1 23, 302, assiste Babur, 27, 29 Andejan given to, 30, treachery of, 41 Hātı Gakker, 11 103, 105-8, 110 Hazāra, 1. 245 Hazāras, 1. 100, 201, 212, 217, 224, 238, 279, 303 Hazāras, Karlūki, ii 108, 110 Hazāras, Sultan Masaūdī, i 243, 11. 249, foray against, 252 Hazāras, Türkoman, 1 24, 280, и 23 Heri (Herāt), 1 3, 21, 35, 141, 271, 286, 290-1, 304, 313, 324, 66, 69, 76, 350, Babur visite, ii 10, 14, Sheibani takes, 42. Hılālı, 1 321 Hımalayas, ı. lx. Hind, Hindustan, 1, 216, 11, 147, roads to, 1 219, 223, exports, 219, animals, 244, 11 84, 116, Bābur resolves to invade, 1 252, 11 55-6, 90, water in, 1 260, 11 313, speech, 11 94, plants, 109, 225, invasion, 150, 155, state of, 150, Babur defeats Ibrahim at Pānipat. past conquests, 193, account of, 195, climate, 201, 242, irrigation in, 206-8, aspect, 207, animals, 209, birds, 214, aquatic animals, 223, fruits and plants, 225, seasons, 237, division of time, 238, measures, 240, people, 241-3, defects, 241, advan tages, 242, revenue, 244, titles in, 263, jugglers, 360, divisions under Akbar, 389 n

458 Hındal, ii 246, 368-9, 371, 420 n, 428, birth, 11 86, 100, 435, governor, 128, defends Zafer, 421-2, 441 Hındü Beg, 1 128, 11 85, 102, 104-5, 117, 123, 133, 178, 417, 419, 423, 443, at Panipat, 185, with Humaiun, 252, at Kānwā, 298, 301 Hındü küsh, 1 46, 209, 217, 222, 229, 247, 298, 11 93, 203 Hindus, 11 241, 387 Hirmand, 1 235 Hissar, 1 lxx, 35, 45, 135, 163, 199 202, 244, 251, 11 73, 75, 349, 351, held by Mahmud Birlas, 1 50, given to Sultan Masaud, 51, attacked Sultan Hussain, i. 58, 289, by Khosrou, 72, 97, 117, 206, by Sheibāni, 207, 273, 11. 184, by Bābur, n 69, 71-2, Bābur ın, 76, Humāiūn takes, 367 Hissar Firozeli, 11. 178-9, 244 n, 252, 267 Hissāris, 11 60 Hūh, n 125 Humāiūn, 1 xxx1, 24, 11 86, 108, 113, 138, 142, 159, 172, 245, 251-2, 273, 310, 369, 371, 417, 435, birth, il. 59, Badakhshān given to, 149 joins Babur, 156, command, 178, defeats Hamid Khan, 179, first use of the razor, 179, at Panipat, 185, 188, 191, sent against the rebels, 256, 260, 271, re called, 264, 272, at drinking parties, 273, at Kānwā, 298, 300, return to Kābul, 311-12, seizes treasure, 315, in Badaklishān, 346, son, 347, 349, 368, letter to, 351, war against Samarkand, 367, returns to India, 421-2, 440-1, illness, 423, 442, succession, 427-8, 443 Hunting, 11 38, 91, 142, 146, 159, 212Hupiān, 1 211 Hūshiār, 1 5, 199 Hussain Akber, 1 75, 259, 266, ո 49

Hussain Arghūn, 1 39, 128, 148

Hussain Dughlet, 1 57, 164, 172 Hussain Khan, 11 314-15, 399, 408 Hussain Khan Lohāni, ii 255, 287, 314 Hussain, Khwājeh, 1. 28, 128, 148, 188, 190, n 155, 168, 297-8, 302 Hussam Udi, 1 301, 322 Hussein Mirza, Sultan, 1 civv, 36, 46, 49, и 278, осен pies Khorasan, i evii, battle with Sultan Mahmud, 45, marches against Hissar, 55, makes peace, 60, war with Badiā ez zomān, 69, 73, Ma saud flies to, 97, attacks Bost, 98, sons rebel, 99, capture of Heri, 141, neglects Rabur, 146, 155, dominions, 201, 290, letters, 205, Khos rou with, 271, opposes Shei bani, 284, death, 286, ii 3, account of, i 286-323, suc cessors, 324 Ibn Hussam Mirza, 1 292, 294, 320, 11 5-6, 9, 45 Ibrahīm Begchik (Chāpuk), 1 21, 68, 182, 184, 186-8 Ibrahîm Hussam Mirza, 1 56, 293, defends Balkh, 98 Ibrahīm Jāni, 1 148, 150, 11 351 Ibrahīm Sāru, 1 51, 66, 94, 101, sent to Akhsi, 105-6, battle, 111, 117, 148, missed, 125, returns, 132, kalled, 150 Ibrahīm (Lodi), Sultan, 1 224, 11 150, 152, 323, embassy to, 98, defeats Ala ed din, 164, 167, Bābur marches against, 174, defeat and death, 183-8, his mother, 192, 268-71, son, 271 Ibrahim Terkhan, 1 57, 136, 137, 140, at Sir e pul, 148, 149 Id al fitr, 1. 67 n

Ijtihād, i. 314

Tlāmish, i 119

Hānchuk, i 212

Ilāk, 1. lxxxu, 202, 210

Hāk burkeh, 1 131

Ilān ütī, 1 157 Heheli Khan, see Ahmed Khan Inderi, 11 166 Iraj, 11 321 Irāk, 1. 47, 220, 248, 289 292, 305, 309 Irāk, Calamiti of, i ev-vi, 45, 48 Isakhail, 1 258, 259 Isān Doulet Begum 1, 15, 25, 42, 91, 143, marriage, 18, joins Babur, 160. death, 274 Isan Kulı Sultan, 1 294. 11 115 Isan Taimur Sultan, n 32, 402-3, 407, 412 Ishkamish, 1 60, 207, 272, 319. Iskander Bahlol, 11 97-8 Iskanderpür, 11. 397 Ismaēl Jilwāni, 11 151, 166-7, 176, 409-10 Ismāel Khan, 11 169, 172 Ismael Khertank, Khwajeh, 1 77 Ismael, Shah, 1 15, 292, 309, 313, 11. 32, 50, 76, 150, 267 n , war with Sheibāni, ii 65-8, rela tions with Bābur, 70-1, 72n, Istalif, 1 235, 249, 11. 126, 137, 140

Isterghach, 1 235, 275, 11 60, 140
Integral 1 165, 171, 11 181

Jaafer Khwājeh, n. 311, 314, 328, 412
Jagdālīk, i. 252, n. 56, 136
Jagrag tribe, i. 54, 105
Jājmāu, n. 260
Jalāleddīn [Sharki], n. 378-80, 391, 408
Jalāl Khan, n. 299, 386, 392, 394, 406
Jalāl Khan Jighet, n. 166-7, 272
Jalesar, n. 256 n., 320 n
Jām, i. 254, 319, n. 133, 350, 362
Jamshīd Sultan, n. 71
Jān Beg, n. 175, 184-5, 299, 412.

Jangelik, 1. 280, 283, 11 23

Jān Hassan, 1. 95, 172, 180 Jāni Beg Sultan, 1. 34, 148, 11

Janjūheh, n. 93, 102 n

Jan Kulı, 1 188-9, 11 49

69, 74, 350

Jān Wafā, 1. 137, 140, 11 66-7 Jats, 1 279, 11 102, 163 Jaunpur, 1 305, 11 196, 245 n, 251, 264, 271, 363, 385, 406 Jauzi Wali, 1 288 n Jazartes, see Sirr Jehängir Mırza, Bäbur's brother, 14, 30, 42, 129, 259, 276-7, 283, ii 7, 46, at Aklısı, 29, betrothed, 46, marriage, 47, 201, Andejan asked for, 89, with Tambol, 91, 105, 108, 111, 117, 124, Babur sends to, 160, Bābur, 183, relations with Bābur, 205, at Kābul, 214, Ghazni given to, 251, 252, defeats Afglians, 258, 267. loyalty, 266, defection, 284, 285, n 1, submits, n 3, death, 60 Jehāngīr Mırza, son of Taimur, 1 10, 80, 87, tomb, 85 Jehāngīr Turkomān, 1 271, 11 55 Jhāken, 11 370 Jhelum, 11. 162. Jılisır, 11. 256 Jizakh, i 157 n Jūd, Hill of, 11 93, 94 π , 95, 161 Jūds, 11 93, 102 Jugglers, 11 360 Jūi Shāhi, i. 253, n 112, 131, 133 Jumna, 11 180, 188, 203, 257-8, 315n,415Juneid Birlas, 1 51, 116, 305, 11 181, 356, 363, 396-9, 409, 411,

Kaba, 1 28, 129, 130, 172 Kabādiān, 1. 203, 11 367 Kābid, 1. 75

pur, 255, Jaunpür, 271

Kābul, 1 78 200, 210, 289, 11 77, 96, 113, 217, 219-20, 355, 357, 371-2, given to Omer-Sheikh, 1 10 Bābur advances on, 210, 213, taken, 216, 250, description of, 216, 11 121, revenue, 1. 243, 278, 11. 155, country divided, 1 250 Bābur's winter journey to, 11 17, rebellion in, 26, 61-4, Bābur's

at Pānipat, 184-5, 188, Dhūl

life in, 115, presents sent to, 174, 246, Khwajeh Kalan sent to, 249, affairs of, 346 Kacheh, i. 234 Kacheh kot, 11 92, 122, 160 Kachweh, 11 322. Kāen, 11. 5, 9. Kaferistān, i lxxxv. 225, 229, 230-2Kagar (Ghagar), 11 177 Kāhan, ii 113 Kahdastān, 11 43 Kāhil, 1 185 Kahlur, 11 175 Kahmerd, 1 47, 203, 206, 210, 214, 278, и 1, 3 Kahrāj, ii 85-6 Kākshāl, 1 212 Kalanjari, Raja, ii 245 n Kalān, Khwājeh, 1 68, 118, 240, 277, 11. 82-3, 88-9, 144-5, 156, 172, 178, 188, 233, 354, 368-9, at Pānipat, 185, dis content, 248-9, 257, letter to, 371, memoirs sent to, 380 Kālanūr, 11 152, 160 n , 168-9 Kalāt, 1 276-7, 293, 11 54-5, Bābur at, 11. 45. Kaldeh Kahär, 11 95, 105 Kalınjer, 11 103 Kālpi, n. 245 n, 247, 272, 321, 376, 414, 416 Kalügheh, 1 209 Kamari, 1 269 Kamber Alı, 1 cv1, 26, 45, 111, 115, n. 100, joins Bābur, 112, 117, leaves him, 120, 123, intrigues, 124, 130, 179, 184, seized by Tambol, 130, at Yār ailāk, 136, 137, at Sir e pul and after, 147, 148, 150, 157, conspires against Tambol, 164, with Babur, 173, 176, 179, 204, dismissed, 207 Kamber Alı, son of Kāsım, 1 185, 188-90, n 19, 28, 49, 51, 423 Kamber Bī, 1. 134, 270, 273, 11 349 Kāmeh, 1. 230, 232. Kāmrān, 11. 113, 129, 138, 172, 246, 271, 316, 351-2, 420 n, 421, 428, in Kābul, 346, marriage, 347, Multan given to, 371

Kamrūd, River, 1 57, 135 Kān, i. 136 Kanār, 11 320, 328 Kanauj, 11 245 n., 247, 254-6, 287, 314, 320, 324, 328 Kānbāi, 1 51, 65, 116 Kandahar, 1 72, 201, 219, 224, 293, 303, n 18, 40, 349, Babur before, 1 275, 11 46, takes, 52, given to Nasir, 53, besieged by Sheibani, 54, 78 58, 78, Bābur mvades, 78, 149 Kandār, 11 254-6 Kandbādām, 1 6, 96, 120, 183 Kānwā, 11 277, battle of, 289, 436 Kanwähin, n. 169 Karabāgh, 1. 212, 213, 267, 11 Karabankerik, 1. 228 Kara Birlās, i 128, 148, 153, 154 Karabūk, 1. 228 Kara būlāk, 1 67, 163 Karagūz Begum, 1. 15, 21, 33 Kara Kilpāks, i. lxxxii Karak-khāneh, 11. 91 Karakūbeh, 11 89 Karakūl, 1 86, 143, 146 Karanghu, n 146 -Kara Rabāt, 1. 304 , 11 41 Karatıgin, ı lxvın, lxx, 117, 135, 199 Karatū, 1 226, 11 112-13 Karbū, 1. 245 Kārbūgh, 1. 157 Karek, ii. 112 Karlūk, u. 122 Karmān, i 289, ii 123nKarmina, 1 86 Karmnāsa, 11 387 Karnān, 1 171, 192 Karnūd, 1. 216, 245 n. Karrah, 11 209, 245 n, 378, 380 Karreh Mānikpūr, 11. 272 Karshi, i. 61, 86, 143, 203, ii. 74. Karūk-sāi, 1 226, 228 Kāsān, 17, 181, Mahmūd Khan at, 29, Bābur at, 108, be sieged, 121 Kāshgar, 1 lx11, 1, 11 32, 118, 137, 321 n. Kashmīr, 1 lx1, 11 201 Kasīdeh, 1 144

Käsım Ajab, 1 95, 109, 121, 125 Kāsım Beg Kuchīn, 1 23, 144, 188, n 6-7, 18-19, 25, 38, 113, 121, aids Bābur, 1 27, 42, Ush given to, 30 prime ininister, 42, plunders the Jagrag, 54, and the Moghuls, 67, embassy, 93, loyalty, 94, sent on expedi tions, 105-6, 111, 137, in battle, 118, 148, 250, 282, 283, 11 3, 49, 51, dismissed, 1 125, joins Babur, 130, at Samar kand and after, 151, 152, 154, 157, 160, 163, and Jehangir, 284, and wine drinking, ii 13, advice, 54, 55, 60, son's marriage, 119 Kāsım Duldāi, Mīr, 1 66, 10ins Bābur, 67, loyalty, 95 Kāsını Gokultāsh, 1. 138, 274, 11 49, 58 Kāsım Hussain Sultan, 11. 7, 278, 298, 300, 314, 320, 378, 412 Kāsımı, 11 272, 274-6 Kāsım Ishik agha, 11 28, 92, 123 Kāsım Sambalı, 11 247, 252-3, 275Kāsım, Syed, 1. 52, 95, 130, 148, 181-2, 186, 211, 259, u 49, 100, 140 Kātlang, 11. 89 Kattehwaz, 1. 267-8, 11. 37-8 Kattor, 1 225 Kazāks, 1 20 Kazı Ilhtiyar, 1. 315-16, 11 43 Kazı Jia, ii 251, 255, 271, 396-7, 411 Kazı, Khwajeh, 1 42, 69 89, 125, 129, u 11, at Andejān, 91. Kazı Moulāna, Khwājeh, 1 27, 42, 69, 89, embassy to Ahmed Mırza, 28. sent agamst Ababeker, 30, at Asfera, 53, at Andejan, 91, hanged, 92, account of, 92. Kehrām, 1L 249 Kerānı, 1. 258 Kerimdād, 1. 150, 177, 11 60, 114 Kēsh, 1 lix, lxxiii, 2, 64, 85, 100, 133 Keshtüd, 1 136, 137 Khabārān, 1. 289 Khadijeh Begum, 1 291, 297,

324, n 10, 41-2, 319

Khairābād, 11 245 n., 315 Khākān, 1 175, 178 r Khalifeh, Nızam ed din Alı, 1 55, 11 60, 61, 100, 112, 119, 258, 288, 324, 366, 418 dismissed, 1 93, 125, in Kabul, ii 26, in battle, 71, at Panipat, 186, brother, 188, courage, 286, at Kānwā, 296, 301, and Hu mārūn, 422-5, 441-3 Khalil, 1 113, 114, 125, takes Ush, 129, joins Bābur, 146, killed, 150 Khalileh, 1 157 Khalishak, 11. 47-8 Khamalangan, 1 270 Khan Mirza, scc Weis Mirza Khanzādeh Begum (1) Bābur's sister, i 14, 157, ii. 70, (2) wife of Ahmed Mirza, i 35, (3) daughter of Mir Buzurg, 1 46, 47, 60, 204, 293 Kharabūk, 1 174, 178 Khardek, i 157 Kharid, u 363, 392, 394, 404 Khaslār, 1 161 Khawāk, 1. 222 Khawās, 1 14, 33 Kheiber, 1 223, 253, 289, 213, Bābur passes, n 132 Khesh, valley of, 1 280 Khilji dynasty, n. 197 Klumār, 1. 289 Khinjan, i 223 Khirgird, n 350, 362 Khirilchi, i 226, 242, ii 56, 135 Khirs khăneh, v. 139 Khita (N China), 1 82, 167, 219Khojend, 1 1, 183, position, 5, Ahmed Mirza seizes, 27, 33. surrenders to Bābur, 53, Bābur agam at, 92, 95, 101, 103, given to Kamber Ali, 120 Khojend, River of, 1. 124, 161, 166, 172 Khondamîr, 11. 334 Khorasān, i. lxvn, xcix-cvii, 210, 220, 236, 248, 271, 312, n 1, 65, 233, Mahmūd Muza driven from, 1 45, Bābur turns to, 199, roads to, 219,

223, 11 9, Sultan Hussain takes, 1 289, boundaries of, 290, Babur winters in, in 9, Ismael occupies, 69, 150.affairs of, 346, 319 Khosrou Gokultūsh, i 138, 178, 11 15, 49, 90, 152, 162, 178, 365, at Panipat, 186, at Kanwa, 298-300, 310 Khosrou Shah, 1 24, 40, 61, 135, n 17, 60, 63, 266 , Mahmud Mirza, 1 45, 48, 50. in Kunduz, 56, his one war like exploit, 59, Bādıa ez zemān flies to, 72, war with Sultan Masaud, 72, 96, Baie sanghar thes to, 75, takes Hissar, 97, besieges Balkh 97, murders Baicsanghar, 1 115, treatment of Babur, 135, 136, 146, 200, 202, Begs fly to, 150, dominions, 201, 209, Sultan Hussain sends to, 205-6, desertions from, 207, sub nuts to Babur, 207, return, 271, 303, death, 273 Khost, 1 243, 11 118, 122 Khozār, 1 86, 143, 209 n , 11 72, 73 Khūbān, 1 118 Khūbi, 11 95 Khūb Nigār Khanum, i 18, 158, 11 31, 33 Khuda berdi Taimürtash, i 11, Khuda berdi Tughchi, 1 95, 120, 150Khugiani, 1 242, 11 56 Khuram, 11 273 Khur ghātu, n 89 Khushāb, 1 289, 11 94, 96, 104-5, submits, 99 Khutlan, 1 lxviii, 45, 60, 97, 201, 206, 212, 231, 244, n 62, 72 Khwājeh Changāl, 1 60 Khwājeh Didār, 1. 74, 136, 137, 157 Khwājeh Imād, 1 203 Khwajeh Ismael, 1 245, 11 37-8 Khwājeh Kārzīn, 1 66, 134, 146 Khwajeh Khan-Said, 1 127, 221, 234 Khwajeh Khizer, ii 83, 89 Khwajeh Kitteh, i 176

Khwājeh reg i rawān, i 235 Khwājeh Riwāj, 1 271 , 11 60 Khwājoh Rustam, 11-156 Khwājeh Schyārān, 11 116, 141 Khwājoh zaid, i 210 Khwānd Amır (Khondamīr), 11 334 Khwārīzm 1 lavī, 241, 270, 273, 285, 290, 302, n 115 Kiaktū, ii 37 Kīb, n 110 Kila Bākı, 1 281 Kilch Kerām, 11 144 Kılıf, 1 206 Kipchāk, i 222 Kirghiz, i Ivvvii n Kirik arik, ii 131, 157 Kirki, i 206 Kirmān, 11 65 Kirmās, 11 123, 125 Kishem, il. 2, 349 Kitīn Kara Sultan, 11 273, 350, 375-6 Kitteh Beg, i 114, 172, 178, 181 252, 272, wounded, 275 Kivi, 1 258 Kizer khail, n 56 Kızıl sü, 1 207-8 Kızılbāshes, 11 67, 260-1 Kochi, n 167 Koel, 1 187, 11 243, 250, 287, 308, 318 Kohat, 1 239, 254-5, 279 Koh-e sefid, 1 227, 11. 213 Koh 1 Bāba, 1 235 n Koluk, Hill of, 1 73, 77, 79, 82 Koluk, River, 1 65, 77, 137, 149 Koh 1 nür, 11. 191-2, 423 Kokcheh, u 35 Kolugha, 1 45 Korah, 11 377, 414 Korbegi, i 280 Korchi, i 270 Kornish, i 170 Kotılah, 11. 311-12 Kotin, Hill of, 1 45 Küch Beg, 1 57, 117, 124, 130, 135 11 85, 100, 106, 130, 314, 322, 332, at Sire pul and after, 1 148, 152, 153, 154, deserts, 11 60, at Panipat, 186-7, at Biana, 264 Küchim Khan, 11 349, 350, 363, 368

Kuhneli Näni, 1 268 Kuhri, n. 312 Kūl Bayezīd, 1 214, 263, n 49, Kulbeh, 1. 73, 83, 84 Kūl Mahk, 1 38, 11 73 Kulı Chanāk, 1 110, 215, 282, л 45 Kulı Gokultăsh, 1 29, 177, 186, 188-90 . n 114, 128, 137 Kulkineh, 1 218 Kundezlik, 1 93 Kunduz, 1 46, 72, 201, 212, 251, 270, n 32, 62, 72, 121, Khosrou Shah at, 1 56, 115, 206, attacked, 60, 207, be sieged, 273, 289 Kunduzis, 11 60 Kuner, 1. 230-1, 11 58-9, 89, Kupek Kuli Baba, 1 262, 282, 11 49 Kūrah, 1 242 Kūra, Pass of, n. 142 Kurreh, u. 378 Kurkān, River of, 1. 288 Kurram, 11 123 n. Kurūk sā1, 11. 56, 136 Kūsh gumbez, 1 253, 269 157 Kūsh khāneh, 1. 72 Kūsh nāder, 1 222, 11 139 Kutās, 1. 165 n Kutb ed din, Khwājeh, ii 189 Kutb Khan, 11 247, 255, 287, 311, 314. Kūtıla, 11. 173 Kūtluk Kadem, 1 262, 11 49, 123, 145, 171, 181, 255, at Pānipat, 184-5, 188, at Kānwā, 299 301 Kūtluk Khwājeh Gokultāsh, 1 153, 154, n. 127-8 Kūtluk Nigār Khanum, Bābur's mother, 1 14, 15, 18, 34, 47, 51, 91, 110, 126, 143 escapes from Samarkand, 157, 158, ıll, 159, joins him, death, 274.

Lahore, n. 98, 152-3, 162, 165, 168, 206, 420 n , burnt, 151 , revenue, 244 n

Kysār, 11. 4.

Lakhsar, u 245 n Lakhsheh, 11 47 n Lamech, 1 229 Lamghān, 1 211, 213, 2 228, 11 32, 55, 141, 229 211, 213, 217 n, Lamghanat, 1 216, 223, 224, 225, 244, 249, 270, il 214-16, 221-2, 232-3Lander, 1 242 Langer Khan, u 94, 96, 104, 132, 134, 143 Langer Mir Ghias, u 17 Langer Taımür Beg, 11 25 Language, 1 xx1-viii, xliv n, li, lxxxiv-vi, 225 Lätkend, i 113 Lohüger, 1, 237, 313 Lucknow (Lakhnau), 11. 216, 245 n., 315, 324, 332, 408-9,

411 Maaber, 11. 60 Maajūn, 1. 13 n Maarūf Fermüli, n. 247, 256, 260, 328, 405 n.Maāsūmeh Sultan Begum, 1. 34, n. 16, 45, 54, 427 Machem, 1 123 Madhākūr, 11 275, 344 Mādu 1 113 Mahaban, 11 247 Maham, n. 86, 376, 380, 417, 427 nMahdı Khwajeh, n. 181, 260, 276, 311, 314, at Pāmpat, 184-6, 188, Etawa given to, 255-6, Biana given to, 265, 272, intrigue for throne, 424-5

Mahdı Sultan, 1. 34, 57, 292, joins Bābur, 57, 110, at Samarkand, 65, 138, at Sir e pul, 148, at Hissār, 273, death, ii 71 n, 299 n., sons, 299, 350

Mahmands, 11. 37, 60
Mahmüd Khan Lohanı, 11. 251, 255, 293, 398, 406, 411
Mahmüd Khan, Sultan, 1 cviii, 3, 5, 10, 15, 22, 25, 50, 89, wars against Omer-Sheikli, 10,

3, 5, 10, 15, 22, 25, 50, 89, wars against Omer-Sheikh, 10, 29, birth, 19, retires from Akhsi, 29, battle with Ahmed Mirza, 33, marries his daughter, 33, invades Samarkand, 51, 110 128, Babur Pers to Sultan Huxisia, 67, 69, visita, 53, 161, 167, aids and abandons Bebur, 94, 166, 146 john Khonron, 109. blunded, 160, 216 Mash! II 37 war with Cambol, 155 161, 171 ments Ahmed Khan. Masikha, 1-159-162, 163 170 death, i 197, 194 Mankli Firancii (175 Mahmūd Ledi, it 196, 378, 351. Ma ting, ii 52 351, 390 Maneralistice i Alvin, Ixxis Mahmüd Mirzs, Sultan, i est, 2, 5, 61, 76, 87, 11, 67, 70, 76, nylli, 10, 20-21-37, 201, 205 150, 347 297, ocupes Samarkand, 39, Mazenderan, ir. 68 88 death, 13, account of, Mazid, f. 22, 152, il. 42, 115 13 bittles, 45, 248-9, family. Measures and weights, farence, 16, 51, 115 Lm, 5 15 3, grz, 5; Mahmad Sultan, 1-119, 109, 273. nharı, ön Linewir. 11 72 ratis, n. 192 of Hindu 'an. Mahübeb, ii 415 210, 357-8 Makam, H. 89, 90 Medicine, II 384 Malabar, ii 194 a Medina, il. 216 Malikdad Karrini, ir 267, 298, Medini Rao, n. 200, 203, 323-6 315, 112 Meher Night Khanum 1 18, 34, 159, 274 n 31 r , 56, 64 Malık Kasım, ir. 186, 252-3, 254 315-320, 320, at Kanaā, 290, Mchterkulermani, r 261, 263, 265 300 Meidan, i. 252 Malot, n. 172 n Meidanse Rustam, n. 125 Mckka, ji 216 Malwa, r 81 , it 150, 197, 200, 205 Mers, i 15, 201, in 66-7, 200, Māma Khatūn, il 126 310 Meshad, i 293, 315, n 5, 43, Unmürn, ii 89 Mănasni, îi 309, 311-12 08, 261, 350 Mewar, it 199 n Mandaghan, ti 🔍 201, ı i 250, 428, Mowat, Mandish, il 80 Mandrawar, 1 229, 251, 11 32, revenue, 244 n , rebellion in, 217 ravaged 279, reduced, 58-0, 115 305 Mandū, see Malua Mănikpür, ii 209, 215 n Miin Doib, 1 00, 110, 119 n , 11 Mansabdārs, n. 198 211 Manucheher Khan, u 102, 104-5, Miin kal, 11 349 320 Miankar, i 113 Mil, i 229 Mardão, ir 90 n Marghinan, i 4, 5, 6, Alimed Mirza seizes, 130, Milteh Kandi, i. 231 27, Milnat, 11 167, 169 171-2 seizes. given to Dost Taghai, 30, Minār, ii 26-7 Miram Lägharı, ı. 91, 111, 112 surrendered to Babur, 103, Miram Nāsir, 1 138, 11 52 105, battle at, 105, people join Bābur, 172, rebel, 183 115 Mirin, Khwajeh Mir, i 150, Maruohak, n 4 ii 89, 105, 146, 170-1, 249, at Panipat, 186 Masaud Mirza, Sultan, n 11, 96 marriage, 1 34, 41, parentage, 46, 115, 294 . Mir Khäwend Shah (Mir Khond), Hissār given to, 51, opposes Sultan Hussain, 55, 130, besieges Samarkand, 64, retires, 65, 1 310 n Mirza Khan, see Weis Mirza Mistar, 11. 370 n

Mitch, 1 231

war with Khosrou, 72, 96,

Moghāk, River, 1 68, 69 Moghul Ghanchi, n 185, 299, 301-2 Noghulist în, r. Ivm, lyxxvii n.,9, 18, 168, 199, 244 Moghuls, i. xlv-vi, lv-vii, 14, 16, 110, 149, 183, 67, with Khosrou, 207, n 60, revolt, n 60 Money, Persian, 1 43, ancient, 96 n , of Kabul, 243 n , n 1 n , 93 n , Indian, 245 n , 274 n Monghits, 1 106 n Mongir, u 400 Moulána Abdol Rahman Jámi, i 300, 306, 312, 314, 316 Mubārek Shah, 1-270 - 11-2, 37 55 Muhammed Ah, 1 131, 175, 178, n. 61-2, 118, 119, 122, 129 Muhammed Ali Bakhshi, i 288, u. 52, 125, 269, 299, 357, 381, 416 at Pānipat, 184-5. Muhammed Ali Haider, il. 140, Muhammed Alı Jeng-Jeng, 11 108. 134 141, 168, 171, 178, 277, 308, 313, 320, 331, 365 389, at Bajour, 81, district, 110, 122, Milwat given to, 172, at Pānīpat, 184-6, Riberr given to, 255, at Kānwā, 299, 301 Muhammed Alı Mubashar, 1 95,

301
Muhammed Ali Mubashar, 1 95, 117, 174, 178, 187, 281-2.
Muhammed Amin, i 254, 323, 11 58
Muhammed Bākir Beg, 1. 29, treachery, 42, attempts

Bokhara, 60, deserts, 94, after Akhsi, 193
Muhammed Berendük Birläs, 1
56, 272, 302-3, descent, 298, in Khorasan, 324, ii 4-5, 7, 16, war with Sheibam, 39, plan of war, 40
Muhammed Dost Taghai, 1 52, 95 111, 125, 132, 184.

Muhammed Dughlet (Hissāri), 1. 57, 95, 110, 147, 164, 172, Muhammed Duldāi, 1. 131, 11, 3, 49, 120, 131, 178, 255, 315, at Pānipat, 185, Kanauj given to, 255, 287, 314, Muhammed Ghaus, Sheikh 11 266, 420 Muhammedi Gokultash, 1 15, 11 101, 169, 171, 185, 187, 252, 255, 365, at Kānwā, 298, 301,

307 Muhammed Hussain, 1 93, 99, 291-2

Muhammed Hussam Dughlet, 1 18, 55, 101, 128, 271, 11 26, 33 Muhammed Jālchbān, 11 127, 328, 333, 360, 404

Muhammed Khanekeh, 1 95, 121, 165, 169

Muhammed Korchi, i 270, ii 35, 55 Muhammed Kuli Kuchîn, i 62,

153, 154 Muhammed Mazhab, ir 175, 364,

393-4

Vuhammed Mazid Terkhān, 1
29, 38, 63, rupture with Sul tan Alı, 127, invites Bābur to Samarkand, 129, 131, flight, 135, at Sir e pul, 148, 150 Muhammed Mīr Yūsef, 11 43, 75,

Muhammed Mukīm, 1 200, 211, 214, 277, 11 40, 424, yields kābul, 1 215, 250, 303, and Bābur, 11 44, 46, 50, goes to Sheibāni, 54, daughter mar ried, 58 Muhammed Sälih, 1 65, 127, 320 Muhammed Särbän, Derwish, 11 120-1, 127-8, 131, 183, 185, 276, 281, at Kānwā, 297, at the Sāru, 403 Juhanmed Sherif, u. 118, 279.

Muhammed Sherif, 11 118, 279, 308

Muhammed Sultan Mirza, 11 168, 252, 255-6, 260, 272 276, 320, 378, 401-4, 412, at Pāmpat, 184-5, 188, at Kānwā, 299, 301, Kanauj given to, 314.

Muhammed Terkhān, Derwish, 1 20, 31, 36, 37, 38, rebels, 61, put to death, 63, 64, Chārbāgh, 83

Muhammed Wali Beg, 1 56, 71, 99, 306 Muhammed Zeitün, 11 247, 254-

5, 267, 275

tt h

BABUR II

Muhammed Zemān Mırza, 1. 293, 298, 309, 11 100, in India, 121, 246, 334, 366, 388, 411, Behar given to, 390-1, at the Sarū, 390, 398, 401, Jaunpūr given to, 406 Muhammedzais, ii 88 Muhibb Ali Khalifeh, ii 184. 186-7, 277, 297, 331 Muhibb Ali Korchi, 1 60, 72, 203, ii 17, 26, 49, 61, 100, 178 Muhtesib, 1 313 Mujtahid, 1 314 n Multān, 1 248, 263, 289, 11 333, 371 Mümm Atkoh, 11 123, 178, 260, 299, 301, 409 Munir, 11 395 Murad Beg Bayandur, 1 310. u 50 Murghāb, 1. 205, 280, 11 5, 8 Musical terms, 1 323 n., 334 n, 346 n. Mustafa Rūmi, 11 187, 278, 300, 329, 396, 398 Muzaffer Hussam Mirza, 1. 61, 69, 73, 291, 297, 303, succession, 324, u 4, meets Babur, 6-8, parties, 8, 10, character, 8, war with Sheibani, 11 4, 39 Myoghil, 1 6 Naghz, 1 217, 223, 255, 257 Nahir Khan, ii 272, 310, 312 Nangenhār, 1. 226, 251, 270, in 30, 57, 59, 143, 215 Narīn, 11 36 Nārnūl, u 407 Nāsīr Beg, 1 107, 176, 178 Nasīr Khan Lohāni, u 247, 256, 260, 271, 386 Nāsir Mirza, 1 14, 18, 241, 284, 294, 11 38, 52, with Ahmed Mirza, 1 29, with Bayezid, 183, at Kabul, 214, lands given to, 251, left at Küsh gumbez, 253, 269, takes and loses Badaklishān, 271-2, ii 35-6 defeats Uzbeks, ii 2, at Kandahār, 49, Kandahār given to, 53, besieged, 54, 58, Ghazni given to, 59, Kābul given to, 72, 77n, death, 78 n

Nasrat Shah, n 197, 367, 392-3, 407 Nasükh, 1 96 Nazar Bahāder, 1 97, 98, 309 Nemengān, 1 123 Niazai, i 258 Nijrau, i 220, 232, 242, 244, 283, iı 142, 217–18 Nılab, 1 224, 279, 294, 11 92, 108-9, 125, 160 Ningrahār, u 131 n Nirhan, li 404 Nirkh, i 252 Nizām Khan, 11 247, 253, 264-5, 299Nogaus, 1 106 Noukend, 1. 122, 181 Nowendāk, 1 135 Nūh, 11 27 Nükders, 1 201, 212, 217, 224, 303 Nūr, 1i 59, 213 Nür Beg, u 113, 155, 403, 418, 420 Nürgil, 1 230-1, 251, 11 58-9, 145 Nuyan Gokultash, 1 138, 152, 160-2Obeidullah Khan, u 72, 73 n., 74, victories, 260-1, de feated, 346, 349, 363 Obeidullah, Khwajeh, 1 11, 31, 38, 62 n., 63 n., 92, 11 347, family ill treated, 1 40, 44, Babur's dream of, 139 Oighür, 1 123 Oman, Sea of, n 203 Omer-Sheikh Mirza, 1 cvii-viii, 7, 46, reign, 9, death, 10, carly life, 10, appearance and opinions, 11, battles, 13, dominions, 14, children, 14, wives, 14, 21, Amirs and nobles, 21, 00 Omer Sheikh Mirza (the elder), 1 10, 286 Oudb, is 216, 245 n., 251, 271, 332 Pa1, 11 4 Pakhlı, 11 201

Pamghan, 1 236, 275 11 32

Pandeh, ii 4.

Pani Mālī, 11 88-9 Pāmpat, n 167, battle of, 182 Panjab, n 151, 154, 428 Panjab shakhneh, 11 122 Panjkora, 11. 84, 85, 88 Pāp, 1 94, 106, 181 Parāchis, 1 224 Parendi, 1 222 Parhāleh (Pharwāla), 103. 105-7, 115 Parserū, n. 411 Parsrūr, 11. 162, 168 Parwān, 1 222, 234, 11 126 Pashāis, 1. 224. Pawat, 1 265 n Payandeh Sultan Begum, 1 46. 293-4, 296, n 10, 16, 41 Pelhur, 11. 168 Penjhīr, 1. 211-12, 222, 233, 278, и 127 Persians, 11 76 See Ismael, Shah and Tahmasp Peshägher, 1 101, 158 Peshāwar (Pershāwer), 225. 254, n. 130, 211, 218 Peshgrām, 11. 85 Piag, 11. 382-3 Pich, 1. 232 Pīchghān, 1. 242 Pir Kuli Sīstāni, 11 185, 255, 298 Poems, 1. 116, 144-5, 262, 300, 315, 11. 119, 121, 157, 250, 253, 307, 316 318–19, 326, 348, 369, 413, 430-1 Priāg, see Piāg Ptolemy, 1 81 n Pulād Sultan, n. 121, 350, 368 Pūrāb, n. 324, 355-6, 364-5, 367 Purwān, 1 249

Rabāt, l. 172 n Rabāt-e-Alā balūk, 1 172. Rabāt-e-dodez, 1. 292 Rabāt-e-Khwājeh, 1 101 134 137 Rabat-e-Sarhang Urchini, L 113 114 Rabāt-e-Soghd, 1 116 Rabăt-e zourek 1. 176 Rabātiki-Urchīm (Suārasī) 1. 90,

110, 119, 121 Rāberi ii. 247. 255, 287, 314, 328, 7 369

Rāgh, r 271, r 35

Rahet, n 203 Rahīmdād, 11 266, 275, 336, 338, 342, revolt, 418-20 Rai Sing (Raisen), ii 327 Rājpūts, 11 150, 199 n Rāna Sanka, n. 150, 197, 199, 256, 274, 323, 341, takes Kandār, u 254, advance, 264, 272, 275, defeated, 289, 436, son surrenders, 341 Rantambhor, 11 200, 205, 245 n, 341, 345 Rashdān, 1. 5 Rāvi, n. 168, 203 Reg 1 rawān, il. 141 Reza, Imām, 11 66 Rubār, 1. 164. Rūdi, 1 265 Rūm (Turkey), 1. 219, 220, 11 182, 362 Rūpar, 11. 176 Ruparel, n. 312 n. Rustam Turkomān, 11 49, 89, 264, 299, 301

Sabuktegin, 1 238, 241 Sadder, i 307, 310 Saekhān, 11. 1 Sāf, 11 3 Safa, L 203 Saghānchi clan, 1. 214 Said Khan, Sultan, 1. 19, 20, 169, 11. 133, 137, 155, 321, 421-2, 441 Sāigal, 11 57 Sajāwend, 1. 237, 269 Sakan, 1. 172 Sālār, 11. 43 Salt Range, 11. 93 n Samāneh, n 177, 365 Samarkand, 1 lxxiii, 1, 2, 5, 14, 33, 221, 236, 244, 251, 11. 69, 349, 352, Omer-Sheikh and, 9, 10, occupied by Mahmüd Mırza, 39, attacked by Mahmūd Khan, 51, besieged, 64, 68, 73, taken by Babur, 76

description of, 76, gardens of,

79, manufactures, 83, aulenge,

83, kings of, 87, 88, Babur leaves, 92, albance against,

124, Ali Mirza in, 127, 129,

133, Sheibāni tales, 133 156,

199; Băbur re-takes, 139, 1

72 , J~~red, 1. 151

Sambal, II 215 n . 217, 287, 318-19, 105, 129, expedition against, 252 Săm nirel , i 161-161-166 San, H 3 Sanám, il 177 Sancherik, i 98 5nng, i 188 Sangdal I, II 92, 109 Sang e surāl h. 1-252, 261 Sanger Khan Janjüheli, li 98, 105, 141, 275 Sang Lakhsheh, ii 47 Sangrāz, i 131, 137 Sanjed, 1 212 Sanker, ii 370 Sanür, ii 177 Sapān, i 105, Sarabagh ii 273 Sarakha, it 41 n., 260 Saran, ii 107, 409 Sarangpür, 11 200, 327 Sardeh, i 210, 268, ii 37 Sarkāi, 11 41 Sarts, i 1, 159, 221 Sarū, ii 211, 221, 271, 332-3, 393 n, 396Sărun, il 245 n Sarwar, ii 378, 409-10 Satlej, il 167, 203, 244 n Sawad,1 221, 225, 231, 211 11 88, 118, 130, 133, 144, 213-15, 232 Sawālak Mts., 11 202, 201 Sawa Sang, 1 278 Sawāti, ii 91 Sayyıdî Kāra, 1-105-6, 111, 117, 147, 188 Seihūn, River, 1 1, 6, 7 Seirāb, 1 213 Soiram, i 14, 33 Sonahda, n 245 n Serāi, 1 273 Shaberghan, 1 98, 205, 289 Shādwār, 1 86, 101, 142 Shah Beg (Shujaa Arghūn), 1 72, 98, 99, 200, 303, ii 4, 18, 49-50, 99, 120 and Bābur, 44, 46, 50, 53, sends for Sheibāni 54, in Kandabār, takes Kahan, 113, war with Babur, 149, death, 150 n Shah Hussain, Mir, 11 127, 130 144, 168, 175, 181, 271, at Panipat, 184-5

Shah Begum, i 18, 19, 31, 95, 119, 168-159, 274, 4: 30-56, 64 Babur viente, i 167, 169, 11 11 Shah Hawan Arghūn ir 58,78 n. 81, 99, 104, 112-13, 119, 144-5, 317 Shah Kabul, 1-217, 218 Shah Kuchin, Mir, 1 68, 111, 125, 173, at Sire pul and after, 148, 152, at Kandahar, ii 49 Shah Mansür Birläs in 185, 187-8, 255, 272, 275, 297, 301, 365 Shahabad, jr 170-80 Shaher I safā, si 40 Shahr i sabz, i Ixxni, 86, 144 Shahrokhia, i 2, 5, 14, 33, given to Yunia Khan, 10, 14, Babur visits Malimüd Klian at, 53, ravaged 161, Sheibani takes, Shahrokh Mirza, i xcix, 10, 16 n, 87, 88 286, 302, 311, 11 96 Shakhdan, n 2 Shīl, n 52, 149 Shamsābād, 11 191, 323, 328 341 407 Shaydar, Hill of, i 69 Shehrsebz (Kesh), 1 64 Sheibāni Khan, Muhammed, i Ixxxii, cix-x, 5 15, 18, 20, 38, 293, 320, 322, n 34, and Babur's sister, 1 14, 11 70, rise of, 1 37, 38, 39, joined by Sultans, 66, appears before 75, Samarkand, ravages Shirāz, 95, takes Bokhāra, 131, 133, takes Samarkand, 133, loses it, 141, deleats Bābur, 147, besieges and takes Samarkand, 151-7, rav ages, 161-3, joins Tambol, 183, defeats the Khans, 197, dominions, 199, 201, takes Andejan, 207, slavs Wali, 213, revolt against, 270, Sultan Hussain opposes, 284, defeats Zülnün Arghün, 304, besieges Balkh, n 2, 8 war against Khorasan, 39, takes Herr 42-3, besieges Kandahār, 54, 58, 78, war with Persia, 65-8, death, 68

Sheikh ul Islām, i 27, 92, ii. 69 Shemeng, n 201 Sherkot, n. 97 Sherūkhān, 11 115 Slubertü, 1 223, 271, 11 1, 23, 36 Shimū khail, ii 56 Shırāz, 1. 17, 65, 66, 75, 95, 136 Shīrīm Taghāi, 1 26, 101, 259, 11 39,52, loyalty, 1 94, after Sir e pul, 150, 203, escorts Khosrou, 210, 213, wounded, 260, in battle, ii. 27, 49, advice, 55, treachery, 71n, 78 n, 115Shiwah, 11 58 Shnîz, 1 276 Siāh āb, 11. 159, 188 149, 152-3, 161-3, Siālkot, ii 168, 244. Sīdīm Alı Darbān, 1 60, 212-13, 11 17-18 Sihkäneh, ii 37 Sikān, i 223 Sikander, see Alexander Sikandera, ii 319 Sikri, n 205, 243, 276, 313, 317, 319, 344. Sind, River, 1 224, 235, 254-5, 258 263, n 91, 203, 211, crossed, 92, 109, 160 Sırāb, 1 222 Sir e pul, 1. lxxvi, 66, 11. 27, battle of, 146 Sır-e täk, 1. 135, 136 Sirhind, ii. 152, 167, 176, 206, 314, 365, 420 nrevenue, 244 n Sirohi, 11. 245 n Sirr, i. lxxvii, 199 Sırsäweh, 11. 180 Sırūd, 11. 203 Sīstān, 1 201, 290, 11 40 Sitāra, 11. 151 Sīvī (Sibi), 1 265, 289 Siwistān, ii 149 Sıyündük Turkomāns, 11. 22, 60 Soghd, 1. lxx1, lxx1v-v, 86, 142, 157 Somgir, n. 312 Son, 11. 204, 384, 395 Suārasī, see Rabātiki Urchini Suhān, 11 92, 108 Sükh, 1 5, 199 Sukhjäneh, n. 343

Sultanīah, 1. 241 Sultānim Begum, 1. 34, 294, 310, 11 115 Sultānpūr, 11. 130, 152-3, 156, 167, 172 Sūng Kurghān, 11 60 Sūr, 1 258 Surgery, 1 180 Surkhāb, 1 223, 246 Surlh rūd, 1. 228 Swābī, 11 91

Swät, 11. 83 n., 84 n. Syedpür, 11. 149

Tabrīz, 1 17, 221, 241 Tabulghū wood, 18 Tagau, 1 242 n Taghāi Beg, 1 111, 125, 11 52. Tahmasp, Shah, 11 267, 316, 346, 349, 362, 394. Taımūr Beg, ı. lıx, xcvın, 10, 11, 38, 76, 86, 159, 286, 309, 11 96, Babur's connexion with, 1 16n, builds the Gük seräi, 63, 78, tomb, 80, at Kesh, 85, in India, ii 196, 243 Taımūr Sultan, 1. 34, 35, 134, 148, 293, n. 43, 320 Tājiks, 1 159 n, 217 n, 224 Tāk, 1. 258 Takāneh, 1. 289 Takerābād, 11 67 Talıkān, 1. 59 n Tambol, see Ahmed Tambol. Tamgha, 11 281 Tang i Waghchan, ii 122 Tardikeh, 11 173, 310, 378, 408 Tarnek, 11. 55 Tarshīz, 1 288 n Tartar, lin-v Tāshkend, 1 lviii, lxxix, 5, 95, 158, n. 115, 349, its name, 19, given to Yunis Khan, 9, held by Omer-Sheikh, 14, 33, battle near, 33, Bābur goes to, 163, 167, Sheibāni takes, 199Tāsh Rabāt, 11. 10 Tatta, 11. 203 Tāzī, 1 276 Tehenger, 11. 264

Tengri Berdi Samanchi

131, 274.

309, n 19, 49, 51, 120,

Terdi Beg Khāksār, 11 139, 157, 180, 264, 313-14, 322, 332, 423, 443, at Panipat, 186-7, sent against Biāna, 264, at Kānwā, 297, retirement, 316 Terkhāns, 1 36n, rebellion of, 61, 127 Termez, 1. 45, 46, 47, 203, 206, 302, battle near, 56, 75 Ternau, 1. 68 Thal, 1. 257 n Tibah, 1 216, 276 Tijārah, 11 309-10 Tīka-Sakaratkū, battle of, 1 13 Td, 1 257 Tipchāk horses, i 36, 260 Togūzūlūm, 1 206 Trees, 1 243, 245, 11 225, 317 Tudeh, 11 312 Tughlakābād, 11 190 Tukhteh Būgha, 11 32, 331, 381, 402-4, 407, 412 Tūl, 1 222 Tūn, 11 5, 9 $T\bar{u}ras, 1 112 n, 11 80 n, 182 n,$ 323 nTūrī, 1. 242 Türkestän, 1 lv, lx, lx111, lxxx11, Türkestan, Hill of, 1 241 Türkə, ə xxəi-vəə, 2 Turko'āni Afghans, 1 211 Türkomāns, 1. lxvu, 17 n , 24 , ii. Turkomān Desert, 1 lxv1 Türks, 1 lv-v11, 2, 224, 243, 11 Türükshärs, 1 105 Tüs, 11 261, 383, 412 n Tütkäwel, 11. 27 Tütluk, 1 175

Ubā, 1. 97, 115, 203, 210 Ubeh, 1 303 Udapūr, 1i 150-1, 306 Ulghur, 1 39 n. Ukābem, 1. 218 Ulābātū, 11 37-8 Ulugh Beg Mirza, son of Abusaīd, 1 16, 32, 37, 205, 274, 276, 289, 293, 298, 11 27 Ulugh Beg Mirza, son of Shah rokh, 1 xcix, 17, 190, 11 78, 80-1, 87-8

Uluk-Nűr, 1 228 Ulūsh, 1. 52 Unjūtūbah, 1 114 Uratippa, 1 lxxx, 14, 22, 24, 95, 130-1, 158, Ahmed Mirza seizes, 27, 33, Babur attempts, 55, war near, 164. Urgut, i 69 Urukzais, 11 250 Ush, 1 3, 21, 113, given to Kāsım Kuchin, 30, Tambol driven from, 108, given to Ibrahīm Sāru, 112, Khalil takes, 129, Bābur at, 172, rebels, 183 178 Ushter sheher, 1 211, 11 1, 26 Ustad Alı Kulı, 11. 80, 81, 179, 278, 287, 323-4, 329, Panipat, 187, and gun casting, 262, 274, 319, at Kānwā, 302, at the Sarū, 396, 398-9, 401 Ustād Shah Muhammed, 11 59, 317, 335, 369, 373 Uzbeks, 1. 1xxxv111, 01x, 1, 134 n, 148, n 121 n, 150, defeated by Omer Sheikh, 113, by Shah Ismael, 15, massacre by, at Khojend, 33, kill Muhammed Dost, 132, massacre of, 140, Bābur moves against, il 1, defeated by the Persians, 67-9, 346, 350, 362, recovery, 70, 74-6, massacre at Karshi, 74, ambassadors, 368 Uzkend, 1 30, 129, Tambol at, 108, Baburraids, 113, given to Bābur, 124, Bābur takes, 172 Uzun Hassan, 1 cv-v1, 28, 47, 128, 156, 181. Akhsı given to, 30. aids Bābur, 42, perfidy of, 89, war with Bābur, 105, sur

Vijyanagar, ii 199 n Vim, see Ivim renders, 108

Wakhi, 1 kix
Wali, brother of Khosrou Shali, 1 49, 98, 135, 208, 209 271, joins Sultan Masaūd, 56, pur sues Badīa ez zemān, 60, sent against Samarkand, 64, against Hissār, 72, Khutlān
given to, 97, slain, 213

Walı Khāzın, 1 195, ii 1, 49, 80, 81, 107, 178, at Panipat, 184-5, 188 discontent, 248, at Kanwa, 298 Walı Kızıl, 11 162, 331, 365, at Pānipat, 186, Shikdār, 199 Warūkli, 1. 5. Wasmand, 1 139 Wazīrīs, n. 135 Weights, see Measures Weis Lagham, 1 25 101, 104, 11 348, carries off Nasir Mirza, i 29, attempts Bokhāra,66, joins Babur, 67, 94, sent to Akhsi, in battle, 111, 117, 105-6 122dısmıssed, 125 Weis Mirza, Sultan, ii 70, 136, parentage, 1 20, 46, 115, 128 n, 169, 208, 210, 259, 286, 294, rebellion, ii 26-34, goes to Badakshān, 56, 64, 69, death, 149 Well (Wain), description of, ii 258Writing, 1 252

Yadeh Bir, u 112, 157 Yadeh stone, 1 xci Yādgār Muhammed Mirza, i 141, 289, 295, 307-8, u. 75 Yaftel, u. 35 Yaghma, 1 169

Wulsa (walsa), n. 208 n.

Yárek Taghāi, i 122, 283, ii 25, 49, 52 Yar Hussain, 1 252, 255, 279 Yān, 1. 137 Yāsı kijet, battle of, i 24, 111 Yelghar, i 162 Yüighür tribo, 1 39 Yūljūk, 1 103 Yunis Ah, i 200, 307, ii 116, 119, 181, 250, 258, 271-2, 388-9, 401, at Pānipat, 185, 187-8, at Kānwā, 297, 301 Yunis Khan, 1 9, 13, 15, de scent, 16, history, 16, chil dren, 18, 34, 11 32 Yuret Khan, 1 68, 84, 131, 138 Yüsef Alı 11 64, 86 Yüsef Alı Gokultāsh, 1. 324, 11 13, 14 Yüsef Ayūb, i 205, 212, 284 Yüsef Beg, Syed, 1 73, 102, 132, 269, 308, ii 29, 279 Yūsefzais, i 255, 279 , ii 83, 86, 88, 118, 129 Zābul, Zābulistān, i 238, 125 nZafer, i 270, ii 273, 349, 421, 441 Zamīn, 1 65 Zamīn-dāwer, 1. 72, 98 n., 291, 200 n. 11 49, 51, reduced, L 24, 393

Zardek, L 93